"This bond that we are offering is the promise-to-pay of the Government of the United States," Mr. Lamont said. "Do you realize what this means? Some of you may have the idea that the Government is a thing apart from the people. Nothing of the kind! The Government is the people. When you are buying a U. S. bond, you are buying your own promise-to-pay and that of your neighbors. There are one hundred million people pledged to pay this bond which you are going to buy. There is no other nation so solvent, so prosperous, and so sure to pay its debts as the United States. Therefore, there can be no possible hesitation as to the soundness of the security.

"Just consider for a moment the tangible resources that are behind this loan. The property of the citizens of the United States is estimated at 225 billions of dollars. The income of the people of the United States is about 40 billions every year.

Allies Have Raised 40 Billions.

"When we compare these figures with those of the nations abroad, we ought to be ashamed of having to work so hard to raise this money for our Government. Why, the resources of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Russia combined hardly equal those of the United States, and the income of all these people nothing like equals our income. Yet those countries since the war began have raised $40,000,000,000 in the form of Government loans. They have done it in the midst of fighting, destruction, and death right at their doors. They have done it, as I say, with combined resources no more than ours. Our task should in comparison be a simple one, and it will be if everybody takes hold.

"Look at the character of our resources. The value of our farms is well over $50,000,000,000, of our factories $25,000,000,000, of our railroads $25,000,000,000, all rich, increasing, and productive. Our gold supply is over $3,000,000,000, more than a third of the entire gold supply of the world. And yet some people are hesitating to subscribe to this loan, wondering whether it is good or not.

D. W. Morrow at Sphinx Dinner.

Speaking at a dinner of the Sphinx Club at the Waldorf-Astoria last night, Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co. said that it was all-important that the number of subscribers to the second Liberty Loan be as large as possible.

"We should be interested," he told the advertising men, "not only in the total amount of money that is raised in this great City of New York for the Liberty Loan, but also in the number of subscribers from whom that money is raised.

"I have seen it estimated that in this Second Federal Reserve District about one person in every ten subscribed to the first Liberty Loan. Some cities did a great deal better than that. The City of Rochester, for instance, with an estimated population of about 250,000, produced subscribers in excess of 60,000, that is, one in every four persons—whether those persons were men, women, or children—entered a subscription for the Liberty Loan.

"If the City of New York could make a record something like that in this pending loan, it would be a fine answer to those abroad who may say that the people of this country are not interested in this war."

General Wood Gives Approval.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding Camp Funston, Kansas, issued a statement yesterday urging liberal subscription to the Liberty Loan.

"Our national safety and the ultimate safety of our institutions depend upon the successful conduct of the war," he said. "We must give and give liberally, all of us, to aid in this great struggle between democracy and autocracy. While the men of the fighting line meet the enemy face to face on the battlefield, those behind the line must meet the needs of the situation at home face to face and support in every possible way the efforts of the Government and the people to carry this great war through to a successful conclusion."

Members of the Hotel Association and the Society of Restaurateurs subscribed $1,000,000 to the loan in an hour. When the subscriptions lagged after reaching $725,000 J. Stevens Ullman, a leather manufacturer, who was a guest at the meeting, said he would subscribe $100,000 if the hotel men would bring the total to $900,000. The sum was made up quickly. Those who subscribed $100,000 were John McE. Bowman, the Society of Restaurateurs, and the Marseilles Hotel. Smaller sums were taken by Fred Sterry, Chairman of the Hotel Men's Liberty Loan Committee; George C. Boldt, Jr., and other hotel and restaurant men.

The high mark by the Women's Liberty Loan Committee yesterday was made by Mrs. H. R. Eldredge at the Ritz-Carlton, where John W. Kiser of Chicago bought a Liberty bond for $50,000. The rain did not help the work of the new little Liberty Loan "Bank" in Madison Square. Not many visitors made their way through the grass to buy bonds. Those that were sold were of small denominations, and at 5 P. M. only $350 worth had been sold. Monday, the opening day, had a record of $3,250.

William M. Barrett, President of the Adams Express Company, representing the large express companies, has set in motion the machinery which is calculated to bring forth subscriptions from about 40,000 employes.

James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, sent out an appeal yesterday to officers and members of the central bodies and local unions affiliated with the federation, asking their co-operation for the mobilization of organized wage-earners into an army of Liberty Loan subscribers.

The publicity department of the Liberty Loan Committee announced last night that Mrs. Vernon Castle had volunteered to fly in Central Park on Friday afternoon and drop about 10,000 pieces of Liberty Loan literature. The occasion of the flight will be the pageant and celebration in honor of the opening of the Catskill Aqueduct.

The speakers' bureau of the Liberty Loan Committee is in need of automobiles and chauffeurs, and calls upon patriotic citizens to help supply the demand. The cars will be used only from 8 to 11 P. M.

SLOVAKS BUY $125,000 OF THE LIBERTY BONDS

Pledge Lives of Sons and Resources to Government—Army Subscriptions Growing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Supreme Committee of the First Catholic Slovak Union of the United States of America, according to a message received today by Secretary McAdoo, has taken $50,000 more war bonds. This makes a total subscription of $125,000 for the organization and its auxiliary, $75,000 having been subscribed by them on the occasion of the first loan. Accompanying the message to the Secretary was a resolution declaring that the union realized "that the world war for democracy has only begun, that our brave boys must have food, clothing, and ammunition to win the war, that we, who are secure in our homes and unable to go to the front, should treasure the dollars less than the blood and lives of our boys, that the Slovak and every other lover of freedom should rally to the colors in this fateful hour to our beloved country," and pledged the lives of sons and resources to the Government.

Guy A. Emerson, Director of Publicity for the Liberty Loan in New York in a report made today said:

"Today's sale exceeds that of the total of the corresponding day of the first campaign despite the fact that the sale was a novelty."

The campaign to float the Liberty bonds took on an unprecedented activity today. Vice President Marshall announced his intention to go out on the financial stump and battle for the second issue. William J. Bryan telegraphed the Treasury Department that he would begin his circuit of bond talks tonight at Omaha.

Vice President Marshall issued a statement showing that one way of beating taxes is to purchase a bond and get part of them back from the Government.

"The policy of the Government is to pay a proportion of the cost of war by the sale of Liberty bonds. In this way you can pay gradually as you are able to make money. It is just as good for you to help your Government this way as by unlimited taxation and a little cheaper for you, because you have a safe and splendid investment.

"Don't let anybody else beat you to the altar of American liberty. While you are helping to pay the taxes seize this opportunity to get your money back. This is patriotism, common sense, and sound finance. You envy the rich. Adopt their methods for once by making good investments."

Secretary McAdoo telegraphed from Tacoma that the far West was displaying unparalleled interest. In talking with Secretary McAdoo, Governor Alexander of Idaho declared that his State would surely subscribe its allotment of $12,000,000. The State itself will subscribe $100,000 from its own treasury. Thirty Liberty Loan teams and their Captains had luncheon with Secretary McAdoo at Spokane and declared their intention of rolling up $5,000,000 for the city's total subscription. Large crowds and much enthusiasm were reported from the Secretary's Tacoma and Seattle meetings, held this afternoon and tonight.

It was announced from Chicago that Sarah Bernhardt had agreed to purchase a bond from James S. Forgan, the banker, on the stage of a theatre one night this week.

Lieut. Col. H. M. Lord, in charge of the Liberty Loan campaign among the soldiers, announced yesterday that army subscriptions were being received in large numbers. The totals reported, including last Saturday's subscriptions, showed $626,000, with many camps yet to be heard from. The National Guard Camp at Hattiesburg, Miss., leads the list with $116,400, and Camp Funston, the national army cantonment at Fort Riley, Kan., is second with $53,600. Only eight of the thirty-two camps and cantonments have reported.

$35,546,000 FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Providence Leads Boston for Day—Results Elsewhere.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Liberty Loan subscriptions of $1,516,000 reported yesterday from Providence were the largest received that day in a New England city, forcing Boston, with $1,461,000, into second place, according to an announcement at the loan headquarters here tonight. These figures are from an official daily tabulation of returns to the Federal Reserve Bank in this city.

The total of the returns covering transactions of the previous day throughout New England is made public each morning and this is the only total given out during the day. Today's reports of 797 of 1,073 banks in the district brought the New England total to $35,546,000.

The total by States was: Maine, $1,723,000; New Hampshire, $916,000; Vermont, $1,077,000; Rhode Island, $5,365,000; Connecticut, $5,230,000; Massachusetts, $21,233,000.

Canvassing for subscriptions in this city was widely extended today when seventy trade committees began work with 2,000 men in the field in a campaign to raise $112,000,000 among the industries in the territory.

The program for ex-President Taft's Liberty Loan speech-making tour in New England was changed today. Mr. Taft will speak at Hartford, Conn., Oct. 24; Portland, Me., Oct. 25, and Springfield on Oct. 26.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 9.—The International Shoe Company subscribed $500,000 to the Liberty Loan today. John Scullin, a steel manufacturer here, has subscribed for $100,000.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—Liberty bond sales in Cleveland tonight reached a total of $16,311,050. Sixty sales managers of local manufacturing concerns met to organize a systematic canvass of the industrial plants of the city. Three hundred employers have already started intensive sales campaigns.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—A vigorous campaign for subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan in Omaha was inaugurated today at a meeting of business men. Subscriptions totaling $7,753,550 were taken, including $3,000,000 from the banks

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9.—Directors of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad today authorized a subscription of $250,000 to the second Liberty Loan.

TREASURY OFFERS MORE CERTIFICATES

New $300,000,000 Issue, in Anticipation of Liberty Loan Receipts, Bears 4% Interest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Another issue of short-time certificates of indebtedness, $300,000,000 in volume, was announced today by the Treasury in anticipation of Second Liberty Loan receipts. The new offering will pay 4 per cent. interest, will mature Nov. 22, a week after the payment of the 18 per cent. installment on the Liberty Loan, and may be converted into Liberty bonds, at the option of the holders, if offered to Federal Reserve banks Nov. 15, a week before maturity.

Today's offering brings the total of the four issues put out in advance of the Second Liberty Loan receipts up to $1,550,000,000, or more than one-half of the minimum set by Secretary McAdoo for the bond issue. The present offering is the second to bear 4 per cent. interest, the last previous offering of $400,000,000 having been at the same interest rate. The highest rate offered before was 3½ per cent.

The certificates are free from all taxes, except estate and inheritance taxes and the surtax imposed by the Revenue bill recently enacted. Denominations of the certificates will be $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

The offering is at par. Subscriptions will be received by Federal Reserve banks up to 3 P. M., local time, Oct. 15. The certificates will bear interest from Oct. 18.

ASK HIGHER NEWS PRICES.

Dealers Would Make Sunday Papers 6 Cents a Copy.

Resolutions asking newspaper publishers to raise the price of Sunday newspapers from 5 cents to 6 cents and to reduce below 1½-cent a copy to dealers newspapers sold to the public at 2 cents each, were passed last night at a meeting of the National Association of Newsdealers and Tobacconists, held at Cooper Union. Protest was also launched against tobacco, cigar, and cigarette manufacturers who were charged with shifting the whole burden of taxation and increased cost of production upon the retail dealer.

The members pledged loyalty to the country in the war, and a vote of confidence in the fight for liberty and democracy was taken. Demand was made "of the various Legislatures, municipal, State, and Federal, to forthwith enact and enforce a strict Sunday observance law, as the habit of doing business seven days a week is making savages of those engaged in it."

NAVY BUILDS SHIPS COST $1,150,400,000

passed in size or speed by any in the world," said Mr. Daniels. The navy, he said, was enthusiastic over them; "everybody wants to be assigned to the destroyers."

Fore River Building Most.

It is said the Fore River Company will build more of the new destroyers than any other. The Fore River Company, Mr. Daniels explained, was the only one that had offered to build more vessels than were awarded to it. The builders were called in, and to each, except the Fore River, was given all the work it estimated that it could undertake. The rest of the order went to the Fore River Company.

All the plants to be constructed by the Navy Department will be temporary. Mr. Daniels said probably there would be no more destroyers built in ten years, and the shipbuilding companies, realizing this, were unwilling to build additions to their plants. For this reason it became necessary for the Navy Department to build the additional plants. What disposition will be made of them after the war is not yet decided; they may be sold to the plants to which they are attached.

MITCHEL TO RESUME SPEAKING SCHEDULE

SPEEDS FUSION MANAGERS

Orders Quicker Work in Completing Signature Petitions of His Associates on the Ticket.

Mayor Mitchel continued yesterday to have trouble with his voice, and made no speeches. He said he expected to be able to take the stump again tomorrow. The Mayor spent several hours in conference with his campaign managers at his headquarters in the Manhattan Hotel, and made plans for active work during the remainder of the campaign. The Mayor said he had given up hope that Judge John F. Hylan, his Tammany opponent, would answer the four questions concerning his connection with Hearst and Murphy that he had asked Mr. Hylan last week, but, nevertheless, he would continue to demand an answer.

"I have received no answer yet," said the Mayor, "and I don't believe he will answer. I don't think he has the nerve to answer them."

"Have you any knowledge as to who is preparing the speeches read by Judge Hylan?" the Mayor was asked.

"No, I have no knowledge," he replied.

"Do you think the Judge prepares them himself?"

"I do not. I don't think Judge Hylan is capable of preparing his own speeches."

The Mayor was next asked if he had received any word that Judge Hylan would not run on the same ticket with Representative Henry Bruckner, Democratic candidate for Borough President of the Bronx.

"I understood that he got his instructions between 10 and 2," replied the Mayor, referring to Judge Hylan's request to the reporters who first asked him the same question to "come back at 2 o'clock."

"Have you heard whether Mr. Murphy has been able to see Judge Hylan yet?"

"It depends in what sense you use the word 'see,'" returned the Mayor. "I don't believe there is any difficulty about their 'seeing' each other; they both have friends."

The Mayor yesterday ordered his managers to speed up the work of completing the signature petitions for nomination of his associates on the Fusion and the City Democracy tickets. He said that the filing of but 564 names on the Fusion ticket for the independent nomination of Controller Prendergast and Robert Adamson was "distinctly neglectful." The Mayor's own petition for independent nomination contained 2,844 names. The City Democracy filed but 126 names to its petitions, but the time for filing such petitions does not expire until Oct. 17.

The Fusion managers said yesterday that they had received information that a swing to Mayor Mitchel had set in among the Brooklyn Republican leaders and workers who have been inclined to favor William M. Bennett, the Republican nominee for Mayor. It was said that the Brooklyn men were now in the frame of mind that they did not want either candidate indorsed by the Kings County Republican Committee, and that when the committee meets next Tuesday no action will be taken favoring either candidate.

It was learned at the Board of Elections yesterday that in the entire city 1,657 Democratic voters wrote in the name of Mayor Mitchel on the Democratic ballots at the recent primary instead of placing a cross mark opposite the name of Judge Hylan. The number by boroughs was: Manhattan, 668; Kings, 380; Queens, 265; Bronx, 313, and Richmond, 31.

HYLAN KEEPS OUT OF FIGHT.

No Answer to Willcox's Demand for Proof of School Charge.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, was again kept incomunicado yesterday by his campaign managers. Attempts to ask Judge Hylan for an answer to the demand of President William G. Willcox of the Board of Education that the Judge submit proof of his frequently reiterated charge that Mayor Mitchel has turned the public schools over to the Rockefeller interests were futile.

"We have strict orders that the Judge must not be annoyed," was the invariable reply of those mounting guard at his personal headquarters, 50 East Forty-second Street. "He has instructed us to tell newspapermen that he cannot see them."

BENNETT'S DARE TO HYLAN.

Asks Him to Take Steps to Investigate Democratic Primary.

William M. Bennett, after obtaining an order from Supreme Court Justice Whitaker, under which his name will go on the ballot as that of the regular Republican nominee for Mayor, announced last night that he challenged Judge John F. Hylan, his Tammany opponent, to take steps toward having the Democratic ballots cast in the recent primary election inspected, as were the Republican.

"I am credibly informed that there were even greater frauds and irregularities committed in the Democratic primaries than there were in the Republican, in connection with the abortive attempt to count me out," said Mr. Bennett. "There is no doubt the Democratic ballots should be inspected, and I shall challenge the Democrats to have such an inspection made."

The only important fight that enlivened the Democratic primaries was between Thomas E. Rush, anti-Tammany candidate, and John V. McAvoy, who had Tammany's backing for a Supreme Court nomination. The result announced gave the nomination to Mr. McAvoy by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Bennett, when asked to elaborate on his statement by giving definite reasons for his suspicion that there had been Democratic as well as Republican primary frauds, said that he would have something to say on the subject later.

There was a meeting last night at Bennett headquarters in the Bartholdi Building, Twenty-third Street and Broadway, of the Bennett Campaign Committee, of which Frank D. Wilsey of the Bronx, late candidate for the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen on the Bennett ticket in the primaries, is Chairman. Campaign plans were discussed and steps taken toward raising a campaign fund for the candidate.

Mr. Bennett will speak today at a luncheon given by the Brooklyn Civic Club at the Hotel Brossert, in Brooklyn. The formal opening of the Bennett campaign will be at a mass meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of Music early next week.

Bar Association Indorses Justices.

The New York City Bar Association adopted the resolutions of its Judiciary Committee last night indorsing the nominations of Judges McLaughlin and Cardozo for the Court of Appeals; Samuel H. Ordway for Justice of the Supreme Court, and Justices O'Dwyer, Schmuck, and Strasbourger, and Benjamin W. B. Brown, Douglas Mathewson, ex-Adjt. Gen. Stotesbury, Joseph R. Truesdale, Leonard M. Wallstein, and Charles E. Manierre, for Justices of the City Court. The association also recommended to the Department of Justice the appointment of the senior District Judge of this circuit, Learned Hand, to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

SQUADRON A OFF FOR SPARTANBURG

Troopers of Famous New York Command Slip Away in the Morning.

Squadron A left New York yesterday for Spartanburg. It was a businesslike and unspectacular departure, the hour, 9:30 A. M., being too early for the appearance of thousands of men and women who might have been eager to give the men a send-off as they marched down Fifth Avenue to the ferry. Even so, the thoroughfare was fairly well dotted with spectators, who did their best to make the cavalry men feel that the city was with them in their journey "over there." Official tone was given to the occasion by the presence of Mayor Mitchel, who reviewed the troopers from the Union League Club.

The troopers themselves were glad to be off. New York had become a lonesome place, with all the other units concentrated in the South. Nothing was more welcome to the men than the order to break camp and move South. And when they found themselves actually starting on the first leg to France their eagerness for action manifested itself in every step they took in the march from the armory to the ferry landing.

Precisely at 9:30 A. M., led by Sousa's Band, the squadron swung out of the armory at Madison Avenue and Ninety-sixth Street, to be greeted by an outburst of cheers. All told there 535 men and officers, with Major William R. Wright in command. A good part of them were mounted, but many were on foot, their horses having been sent away on the previous day. Every man appeared to be in splendid physical condition.

As the squadron moved past the reviewing stand it was apparent that many of the old faces were no longer in its ranks. The most of the lawyers, bankers, and society lights who used to make Squadron A the pet unit of New York's 400 have graduated into commissions, and their places have since been taken by recruits from less conspicuous stations in life. Every one of the new men, however, appeared to be a first class soldier, competent, and eager for an opportunity to show his worth.

In the reviewing stand with Mayor Mitchel were Maj. Gen. Francis G. Roe, Brig. Gen. Oliver B. Bridgman, the squadron's old commander, Charles E. Hughes, and Maj. Gen. Daniel Appleton. They led the crowd in the cheering and applause, Mayor Mitchel giving frequent expression to his delight over the soldierly appearance of the men.

The line of march from the armory was through Ninety-sixth Street to Fifth Avenue and south on Fifth Avenue to Twenty-third Street, where the column turned west and marched to the ferry. At the ferry the men received their greatest ovation. Space had been reserved in front of the ferry house for the mothers, wives, sisters, and sweethearts of the men, and here they were gathered to the number of several hundred to give the men a parting tribute as they boarded the ferry boat. While the band played "Auld Lang Syne," the men snatched many a last kiss and embrace from some fond well wisher. They were showered with kits, candy, cigars, and cigarettes.

On arriving at Spartanburg Squadron A will lose its identity and become part of the One Hundred and Fifth Machine Gun Company.

The First Cavalry, which had been encamped on the Bliss estate in Brooklyn, also entrained for Spartanburg yesterday morning. The men broke camp at sunrise and had breakfast at 6:30. In less than half an hour all the cooking utensils had been loaded on vans and the men were ready to move. Their horses had already been shipped to Communipaw by ferry. At 9:15 the order came to move. Four abreast, and escorted by hundreds of citizens, the column marched down Second Avenue to Thirty-ninth Street and down Thirty-ninth Street to the ferry, where they boarded a boat for Communipaw.

HEDGES ASSAILS BENNETT.

Says Republican Nominee Was Not Always a "Regular" Party Man.

Job E. Hedges, in the absence of Mayor Mitchel, whose physician has ordered him to quit the stump for a few days, was the principal speaker at three fusion meetings last night. He urged all regular Republican voters to ignore the results of the primary and concentrate their votes on the "actual choice" of the party, Mayor Mitchel. His appeal was seconded by ex-United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham.

"In 1914," Mr. Hedges said, "Mr. Bennett went to the State Senate, elected on a Republican ticket, but once there he did not stay with his party. Now, suddenly, by virtue of the divine alchemy of a direct primary law, which is neither direct nor primary, he becomes the 'regular' Republican candidate for Mayor. Why, a direct primary never made anything except a nuisance. I ask all Republicans to stand by the fusion cndidate, and any one who fears that by doing so he may be deserting his party can take a chance on party regularity by voting as Mr. Wickersham and myself are going to vote."

Mr. Wickersham declared that if Mayor Mitchel were defeated there would be "joy in Germany and sorrow throughout the United States."

Among other speakers at the meetings which took place at Terrace Garden, 145 East Fifty-eighth Street, Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Avenue, and Progress Hall, at Avenue A and Third Street were the Fusion candidate for District Attorney, William L. Ransom; the candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, Robert Adamson, and Borough President Marcus M. Marks.

Labor Leaders Help Dowling.

Representatives of labor organizations having a membership of more than 100,000 in Manhattan have organized a committee of fifty to work for the election of Frank L. Dowling, Tammany candidate for President of the Borough of Manhattan. Notice of the action of the labor men was forwarded to Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the Dowling Business League, by Peter J. Brady, President of the Allied Printing Trades organizations of the city. The Dowling committee has opened an east side headquarters at Second Avenue and Ninth Street.

Burr Fusion Chairman.

The Campaign Committee of the Democratic Fusion Committee of 170 organized headquarters at 50 East Forty-second Street last night. The committee already has a membership of nearly 1,000. Former Corporation Counsel William P. Burr was elected Chairman.

HYLAN SAYS WEALTH CONTROLS CITY HALL

Tells Brooklyn Voters Big Business Interests Had a Hand in Primary Frauds.

CALLS FUSION INEFFICIENT

Predicts Next Year's Budget Will Go to $230,000,000, Thus Raising Taxes.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, took the recent primary frauds as his theme in a speech he made last night before the Retail Grocers' Association at its headquarters, 400 Bridge Street, Brooklyn. He said that the Grand Jury ought to go gunning for "the man higher up."

"We are in one of the most important municipal campaigns that has ever taken place in any municipality in the world," said Judge Hylan. "The contest is not one between the Republican and Democratic Parties. It is a contest of the people of all parties against the boldest and most daring combination of tax-eating, franchise grabbers, food-price jugglers, land sharks and city financial manipulators the people of this city have ever had to deal with.

"The proof of this is found in the personnel of the Fusion Committee of Two Hundred and Fifty. One hundred members of that committee are Directors in approximately 500 corporations with a total capital and resources of $9,000,000,000. These agents of great wealth have banded together with a few Old Guard bosses in the Republican Party for the purpose of continuing officials in charge of New York City whom they can control, and who will be absolutely subservient to their dictation. It was this little billionaire band the Republican bosses were trying to serve when they attempted to steal the primary election for John Purroy Mitchel.

"At the primary election the rank and file of the Republican Party of this city who stand for honest elections, triumphantly repudiated the dictation of the Committee of Two Hundred and Fifty and nominated another candidate. Then somebody sent out word to defy the law and name the committee's candidate by fraud. The returns were padded and falsified throughout the entire city. Who was the man higher up in this city-wide conspiracy? Who gave the order?

"The Mayor and Reynolds knew and the corporate interests knew that when these frauds became public the people would demand the opening of the ballot boxes. So in an endeavor to shake off the odium that would inevitably follow exposure, the Mayor rushed into court to make application for the opening of the boxes. When he made this application he knew full well that his opponent would make similar application the following day. The people were not fooled by this attempt to escape responsibility by getting to court before his opponent."

Judge Hylan then turned to the financial administration of the city and declared that the Mitchel administration had boosted the city debt to $1,490,200,000, and that the annual budget had increased by more than $18,000,000 above what it was in 1913, when Mayor Mitchel was elected. Judge Hylan predicted next year's budget would go to over $230,000,000, which would mean a large increase in tax rates.

"The city is being driven to the verge of bankruptcy," he continued. "The sinister influence of Wall Street is one of the dominating factors of the Mitchel-Prendergast administration. J. P. Morgan & Co., the Morgan bankers' syndicate, reaps tremendous profit from the policy of the present administration under Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast. In 1914, on the $100,000,000 loan their profits were in the neighborhood of $8,000,000.

"The people cannot tolerate another administration by this régime, which has turned over the control of the city to the Rockefeller and the Morgan interests of Wall Street. The record of Fusion inefficiency, dishonesty, and lawlessness is so voluminous that when we touch it concretely we have time only to mention a few specific instances."

Tonight Judge Hylan will be a guest at a dinner given by the Cleveland Democracy at the Hotel Astor. Sheriff Alfred E. Smith and Charles L. Craig, Judge Hylan's running mates, will speak at the dinner also. Tomorrow evening all three candidates are down for speeches at a meeting to be held in Cooper Union.

It was announced at Democratic fusion headquarters last night that all the local lodges of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in the city had adopted resolutions indorsing the candidacy of Judge Hylan, who himself is the holder of a membership card in the organization.

The General Committee of the Italian-American Democratic Union of Greater New York, at a meeting held last night at 372 Broome Street, adopted resolutions pledging the support of the organization to Judge Hylan and his running mate.

ANOTHER PRIMARY CONTEST

Honest Ballot Association Questions the McAvoy-Rush Count.

An examination of the ballots cast in the Democratic primary on Sept. 19 for the nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in the First District, which takes in Manhattan and the Bronx, was requested yesterday by the Honest Ballot Association. Henry De Forest Baldwin, representing the association, told Supreme Court Justice Whitaker that the proceedings were being brought in behalf of Thomas E. Rush, who was an independent candidate for the nomination against John J. McAvoy, the regular Tammany nominee.

It was said yesterday that Mr. Rush had not asked to have the ballots examined, but that the Honest Ballot Association had received information that there were irregularities in the count in several districts. Mr. Baldwin told the court that the investigation made by the association thus far had apparently disclosed a wide variance between the returns on primary day, which purported to give Mr. McAvoy the nomination over Mr. Rush and Daniel Denahy, also an independent candidate, and the actual vote cast.

The returns, as announced, gave Mr. McAvoy 30,568 votes; Rush, 17,448, and Denahy 1,578. Mr. Baldwin said that an apparent discrepancy of 1,000 votes had been found in one Assembly district in the Bronx, while in the same borough it appeared that 2,319 ballots had been protested and not counted, and that returns in some instances were jumbled.

Herbert Limberg, counsel for McAvoy, declared that he thought the contest an act of injustice against Rush himself.

To Call Canadian Conscripts Dec. 1.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 9.—Dec. 1 has been fixed as the date for calling the first increment of men to the colors under the Canadian selective conscription act.

UPTON'S DRAFT MEN NOW RUN THE CAMP

Guards Withdraw and Recruits Go on Sentry Duty Month After First Man's Arrival.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, YAPHANK, L. I., Oct. 9.—With the posting of sentries from the National Army and the withdrawal of National Guard units, the Seventy-seventh Division has become a self-contained organization today, one month after the arrival of its first recruits. In every company tonight details have been arranged for night guard duty, consisting of a Sergeant, three Corporals, and nine privates. These sentries are on duty two hours and off four hours. Although the guards are on the lookout for possible fires, the new sentry work is to accustom the men to night guard duty.

In a pouring rain 2,173 recruits arrived at camp this afternoon in three special trains. The last train, scheduled to reach the camp station at 1:30, did not arrive until 3. The reason for this delay was that exuberant recruits uncoupled the last three cars at Hicksville, and the forward part of the train was two miles away before the railroad men discovered the loss. The somewhat dismal arrival of the recruits was made more cheerful by the 304th Artillery Band, which was at the station to meet them.

At the camp hospital today the 2,194 recruits who reported yesterday were put through physical examinations in seven and a half hours. With the many examinations to which some recruits were subjected, this constitutes a world record, according to the physician in charge, Captain William J. Ruddy. It is safe to say that never before had any of these men been examined in one day by sixteen different specialists, as they were today.

The recruits ran a gauntlet of doctors on the lookout for disqualifying symptoms, and suspicious cases were held up for more searching examinations. Of the men examined 154 were recommended for discharge on account of physical disability. This is 7½ per cent. of the fourth increment, who were found physically unfit, the highest percentage yet encountered at Camp Upton. These men were mustered out of the service this afternoon, thereby saving the Government $200 in rations and pay which would have been due the men had they been retained another day at the camp.

Usual drills were conducted this morning, but, owing to the rain, the men were at liberty in the afternoon, with the exception of aspirants for non-commissioned offices, who attended non-com schools. Total subscriptions for the second Liberty Loan reached $95,150 today. The Liberty Loan campaign has not yet reached its height at the camp, due to the fact that authorization has not come from Washington for the men to allot a part of their pay for the purchase of bonds. For this reason, no effort has been made in some companies to solicit subscriptions.

Probably the most disconsolate officers in camp are in the 152d Depot Brigade, or the "Spare Parts Brigade" as this organization, which is made up of recruits with special training who are held in reserve, is called. As soon as regular units in the Seventy-seventh Division need men with special qualifications, they are requisitioned from the "Spare Parts Brigade."

An unusually heavy demand has been made for cooks, of which the Seventy-seventh Division is short, and as soon as infantry companies hear of a good cook in the Depot Brigade, immediately they begin to find fault with the one they already have. By hiding them behind doors when visitors are in the barracks, the Sixth Company of the Depot Brigade thus far has retained its two cooks, Giacomo Lazulo, who formerly tickled the palates at the Lambs Club and who is too stout to wear a uniform, and Theodore Pascajopola, who was chef in hotels at Atlantic City, Palm Beach, and other highly seasoned resorts.

MORE PRIMARY INDICTMENTS

Sixteen District Inspectors Accused of Irregularities.

Sixteen new indictments against Inspectors of Election were returned yesterday in connection with the alleged primary frauds. The indictments were based on evidence of irregularities in the First, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth Assembly Districts. Further evidence will be presented today.

Among the witnesses before the Grand Jury yesterday was Louis Davis, Chairman of the Third Election District of the Seventeenth Assembly District. After being given immunity, he was called upon to tell all he knew of the operations of two men, a political leader and his son, who were alleged to have interfered with the counting of the ballots in one of the uptown districts. According to Assistant District Attorney Olcott, there was enough evidence to show that the political leader sought to control the count in more than one Assembly district.

Of the men indicted on Monday three were arraigned in General Sessions yesterday and held by Judge Mulqueen in $2,500 bail each for pleading next week. They were Murray Mannes of 83 West Eleventh Street, Sam Rodman of 63 East 118th Street, Samuel Frankenstein of 15 East 118th Street.

REGISTRATION AGAIN FALLS OFF

istration in the Bronx was 11,565, as compared to 13,448 on Monday. Four years ago the second day total in the Bronx amounted to 20,340, and the total for the two first days that year was 43,235. Last year the second day total was 16,391 and for the two first days last year it was 32,218. This year the total for two days was only 25,013.

The Mitchel-Fusion campaign managers practically suspended campaign activity yesterday while they devoted all their efforts to arousing public interest in registration. The Fusion forces were particularly disappointed at the poor showing made on Monday night, when the registration was 20 per cent. lower than on the first day last year. Mayor Mitchel did not attempt to conceal his chagrin at the apparent lack of interest in the campaign on the part of voters.

"I want to call attention," said the Mayor, "to the absurdly light registration of the first day. If that is any index of public interest in this election, then those who fail to register deserve Mr. Murphy's corrupt government and Mr. Hearst's pro-Germanism. If the city hasn't had a lesson in the primaries, it can't learn from experience. The man who doesn't take the trouble to register is casting a vote for Murphy's corruption and Hearst's treachery.

"The fellow that fails to register is a kind of citizen who considers himself between elections highly virtuous and public-spirited and rails at bad government. His one chance to show his public spirit is at election time. Those men had better either register or shut up between elections."

REGISTER TODAY.

This is registration week. Today, Thursday, and Friday the polls will be open from 5:30 P. M. until 10:30 P. M. On Saturday the polls will be open from 7 A. M. until 10:30 P. M. If you do not register you cannot vote.

THAT SUBTLE° SOMETHING

Men's Clothes, in particular, seem to be endowed with this mystical quality, all the way from $15 up.

In reality, That Subtle Something in a suit or an overcoat is nothing more nor less than Hand-Tailoring.

Obviously, in machine-made clothes it is too subtle for words, and therefore you do not want it, for that which is too subtle to be described is too subtle to be enjoyed.

ONE NEGRO DIVISION FOR NATIONAL ARMY

It Will Comprise Men from All States and Be Commanded Chiefly by Colored Officers.

SHIFT IN SOUTHERN UNITS

80th, 31st, and 39th Divisions to be Filled Up with Drafted Men—Camp Quotas Changed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—General Tasker H. Bliss, Chief of Staff of the Army today ordered, with the approval of Secretary Baker, a big shift in the forces of the National Army in the cantonments in the South, Middle West and West, in order to fill the ranks of three National Guard divisions in the Southern States with white men to the authorized war strength. The National Guard divisions to be filled up are the Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-ninth, all composed of troops from the far Southern States.

The new plan adds a division to the National Army organization, making seventeen divisions in that force to supplement the seventeen National Guard divisions. One of the divisions will be made up of negroes, and probably will be designated as the Ninety-second Division, National Army. It will be mobilized as a division only when ordered to France for duty. The force will be the largest fighting unit of negro troops in the army, and the majority of its officers will come from the colored training camp at Des Moines, Iowa.

The division will take in nearly 30,000 of the 83,000 negroes registered under the draft law. There will be organized in addition, however, service units for work behind the lines. Orders were published today authorizing twenty-four of these, to be raised by voluntary transfer of drafted men or voluntary enlistment from civil life. It has been stated that 250,000 men must be sent abroad for this purpose.

"The selected men that are now being gathered into the sixteen national army cantonments will be used to form the first force of 500,000 men authorized in the act of Congress approved May 18, 1917, and to fill up the National Guard divisions to practically the maximum strength of the new organization.

The balance of the 687,000 selected men will be used to supplement the voluntary enlistments for the special and technical troops that are such an important part of the organization of a modern army. It is expected that the voluntary enlistments for the regular army will be enough to keep that branch of the nation's forces filled up to strength without transferring men to it from this first selection for the national army.

"The force of 500,000 men will be organized into sixteen white divisions and one colored division. One white division will be organized at each of the sixteen national army cantonments, and the units of the colored division will be organized at the various cantonments where the number of colored troops is sufficient to organize a divisional unit.

"Instead of concentrating all of the colored men in the few cantonments of the Southern States, the policy of the War Department will be to distribute them more or less evenly throughout all of the sixteen national army cantonments.

Following the announcement today by General Bliss, the Chief of Staff, regarding the disposition of colored troops, the following additional details of the distribution were furnished in a memorandum from Major General McCain, the Adjutant General, to Major Gen. Crowder, the Provost Marshal General:

The Secretary of War has directed that the colored quotas, when called to the colors, will be distributed as follows:

| | Approximately. |
| To Camp Devens—Its own colored quota | 600 |
| To Camp Upton—Its own colored quota, Porto Rico colored quota | 5,800 |
| To Camp Dix—Its own colored quota, Florida colored quota | 4,500 |
| To Camp Meade—Its own colored quota, Tennessee colored quota | 6,100 |
| To Camp Lee—Its own colored quota | 6,300 |
| To Camp Sherman—Its own colored quota, Oklahoma colored quota | 3,000 |
| To Camp Jackson—South Carolina colored quota | 5,900 |
| To Camp Gordon—Georgia colored quota | 9,000 |
| To Camp Pike—Arkansas colored quota, Louisiana colored quota | 9,600 |
| To Camp Custer—Its own colored quota | 600 |
| To Camp Grant—Its own colored quota, North Carolina colored quota | 7,200 |
| To Camp Taylor—Its own colored quota | 3,000 |
| To Camp Dodge—Its own colored quota, Alabama colored quota | 6,600 |
| To Camp Funston—Its own colored quota, Mississippi colored quota | 8,300 |
| To Camp Travis—Texas colored quota | 6,500 |
| To Camp Lewis—Its own colored quota | 400 |
| Total | 83,600 |

In the case of those cantonments where the colored quota of a State is to be sent in addition to the colored quota of the cantonment proper, camp commanders have been informed that the plans of the War Department for the transfers made necessary by filling up the National Guard divisions provide for taking out enough white men to make room for the additional colored men, and that instructions for these transfers are now being issued.

U-BOAT'S ESCAPE MAY INVOLVE SPAIN IN WAR

Madrid Government Expected to Demand German Submarine's Return for Internment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A serious international incident is involved in the escape of an interned German submarine from the Spanish port of Cadiz. Unless the German Government returns the vessel for interminent for the remainder of the war Spain will be placed in the position of having been insulted. In the opinon of those best qualified to judge of the matter, Spanish pride will be bound to assert itself unless the German Government makes amends for this gross disregard for international law and usage.

Should the escaped U-boat sink any national or merchant vessel the Spanish Government would be obliged to hold Germany to a strict accountability. As the matter stands, the chances of involving Spain in the world war are very great. As far as the Entente nations Japan, and the United States are concerned, offensive action by the escaped submarine would probably force a grave international crisis.

BEEFLESS DAY EFFECTIVE.

Hotels in New York and Throughout Country Keep Patriotic Rule.

Yesterday was the first national beefless Tuesday, and reports received by the Hotel Association show that in some parts of the country the day was meatless as well as beefless. The hotels of the city had their first beefless day last Tuesday, and yesterday some of them cut down their meat offerings and devoted more of their menus to chicken, duck, eggs, and sea food. No meatless day was attempted, however, because that would have required a complete change in the purchasing system and the revising of banquet menus.

The Society of Restaurateurs in some cases adopted the meatless day and cut not only beef but lamb, mutton, and pork from their bills of fare. On their menu cards this notice appeared yesterday at the head of the order list:

"Meat Conservation Day.—In the name of patriotism we discourage the ordering of beef, lamb, and pork on Tuesdays during the period of the war, and we respectfully request our guests to join with us in establishing this day as Meat Conservation Day."

From the returns that have reached his office John McE. Bowman, member of the Food Administration, said that the entire country had observed beefless Tuesday. Reports from San Francisco, the Middle West, and New England showed, he said, that meat had been entirely cut out because of patriotism in many places in these sections of the country.

MME. TURMEL ARRESTED.

Wife of Accused French Deputy Exchanged Swiss Bank Notes.

PARIS, October 9.—Mme. Turmel, wife of Louis Turmel, deputy for Cotes-du-Nord, was arrested today.

Louis Turmel has been under investigation recently by the French Chamber of Deputies because of a charge that he had been dealing with the enemy. Hints of a German bribe in connection with his case were answered by Turmel's statement that he had received a large amount of money for acting as legal adviser for Franco-Swiss firms.

SULTAN OF EGYPT IS REPORTED DEAD

London Hears of End of Hussein Kemal, Elevated by Great Britain in War's First Year.

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 10.—The Daily Telegraph says it learns that the Sultan of Egypt died at noon Tuesday.

Hussein Kemal was chosen by Great Britain in 1914 to succeed his uncle, Khedive Abbas Hilmi, as ruler of Egypt, simultaneously with the proclamation of a British protectorate. His father was Khedive from 1863 to 1879.

The British Acting High Commissioner in Egypt, in a letter notifying Hussein Kemal of his appointment, said there was ample evidence that Abbas Hilmi had thrown in his lot with enemies of Great Britain, with the result that "the rights over the Egyptian Executive exercised by the Sultan of Turkey and the late Khedive are forfeited."

$80,000,000 MORE TO ALLIES

Britain and France Each Get Another Advance of $40,000,000.

With this transaction, the total thus far loaned to the Allies is $2,613,400,000.

Mid-Month Specials

We call these records "specials" because they're too good to hold until the regular Columbia list of November records appears on the 20th. Any Columbia Dealer will be glad to play them for you.

Columbia Record A2355—75c

The test of a new song is, "Do the soldiers sing it?" And those thousands of boys out there in the training-camps—encouraged to sing, urged to sing—do certainly sing "Send me away with a smile." They bear down lustily on the old favorites, as they should, but none of the new ones is as often called for, or as readily given, as this splendid expression of what the American soldier of to-day is thinking and feeling. It's a hit. Hear it.

I've Got the Nicest Little Home in D-i-x-i-e Record A2356—75c
When they aren't singing it, they're spelling it. Listen to it once, and you'll say, "That's a GOOD quartette song." On the other side is "In San Domingo," by Samuel Ash.

Charles Harrison carries you back to old familiar scenes and loving faces in this song about the "dearest spot on earth." And George Wilson sings on the other side, "You Can Always Come Back to Me."

O, Sole Mio (O, Sun I Love) Columbia Record A2350—75c
Every one knows "O, Sole Mio"—one of the best of all Neapolitan folk songs. There's a riot of melody and color in it—and in the equally popular "Maria! Mari!" on the other side. Two splendid tenor selections, these.

Departure of the American Troops for France Record A2354—75c
And a royal send-off it is! Quartette harmony with lots of bells, whistles, drums—everything you'd naturally expect on such an occasion. On the other side is "Arrival of the American Troops in France"—a companion piece.

Levinsky behaves as though he were a twin brother of Cohen—of telephone fame. There's a gale of merriment in this monologue by Julian Rose.

CARNIVAL FOR WAR RELIEF.

Large Attendance Marks "French Night" Entertainment.

There was a large attendance at the French Night of the International Athletic Carnival, participated in by representatives of the countries at war, at the Hotel Majestic last night. The Chairman of the entertainment was M. Gaston Liebert, Consul General for France in New York.

Mme. Gabrielle Perrier, the French actress, read "La Marseillaise," and there was an address by M. Liebert, a Louis XVI. minuet by young women in costume, a one-act French comedy, and a Ballet des Pierrots by twenty-four students at the French Christian Union. The proceeds of the carnival, which will be continued throughout October, will be divided among British, Belgian, French, and Italian relief organizations, the Polish Victims' Relief Fund, King's College Hospital, Londono, and the Sun Tobacco Fund.

PARADE SHOWS HOW TO PREVENT FIRES

BE CAREFUL WITH MATCHES

Commissioner Adamson Issues Warnings Against Accumulation of Rubbish in Dark Corners.

Fire Prevention Day was celebrated yesterday morning by a parade arranged by Commissioner Adamson. It was a spectacular success, in spite of the fact that it was held in a drizzling rain. There were eighteen floats vividly portraying preventable fire causes. One was a gigantic cigarette, with a text stating that carelessness with cigarettes had cost $444,032 last year and urging smokers to be careful in throwing away lighted butts.

A float represented children playing with matches, and stated that this amusement for children had cost $103,330 last year. A placard on this float read:

"How fires affect the families. Every family of five pays $12.50 a year fire tax. Practice fire prevention. Save cash."

Washington Irving High School was represented in the parade by a float on which pretty girls rode. The text on each side of this read: "Education helps the city to prevent fires." A large sign carried by Hook and Ladder Truck 5 read:

"Three-quarters of our fires are caused by carelessness. Two thousand lives are lost each year and 6,000 persons are injured in fires. We spend $415 a minute for fire waste. Fire prevention would stop this needless drain on our resources."

In the parade were a number of fire engines, hose wagons, and hook and ladder trucks, some of them carrying the following injunctions: "Clean up rubbish," "Be careful with matches," "Overhaul your wires," "We can put out fires better today than ever, but it costs money. Why have fires to put out?"

Fire Commissioner Adamson said in a proclamation yesterday:

"We burn up $250,000,000 worth of property yearly in America.

"Nearly all of these fires are due to carelessness. Three-fourths of them start in your homes.

"It is the duty of every patriotic American to help stop this needless waste in time of war.

"Carelessness with matches, rubbish, heating and lighting fixtures, gasoline, naphtha, and other inflammable substances can be stopped if only we take the trouble to do it.

"Since fire prevention began in New York City five years ago an average reduction in the annual fire loss of $1,681,916 has been made in this city.

"During the ten years from 1904 to 1913 inclusive, the average annual fire loss in this city was $8,597,149, while the average annual loss for the last three years was $7,573,744, an average annual reduction of $1,023,405. As compared with the ten years mentioned, there was a reduction in the last three years of $112.63 in the average loss per fire and of 52 cents per capita.

"A very large share of the credit for fire prevention work belongs to the uniformed force. It has been the definite policy of the department during the present administration to unite the efforts of the uniformed force with those of the regular fire prevention staff.

"Lives lost as the result of fire in 1916 numbered 141. Almost without exception they were lost in fires started through carelessness. The largest number were lost in tenement houses—56. Of these eight were lost in what are known as 'new law' tenement houses, but in no single case was the fatality due to the construction or design of the building. In every instance the property loss was trifling and the fires were such as might occur anywhere. On the other hand, the losses of life in the 'old law' tenement houses were uniformly due to the construction of the buildings."

GRAND JURY PROMPT IN SUBWAY ACCIDENT

Ready to Make a Presentment on Bronx Collision Within Ten Hours.

TRIPPER DEVICE AT FAULT

Stops Train with No Warning to Another Following on the Same Track.

Within ten hours after a collision between two trains on the Jerome Avenue elevated extension of the subway in which thirty persons were injured, the Bronx County Grand Jury had considered the accident and was ready to hand to Supreme Court Justice Mitchell a presentment in which, it is said, the Interborough is criticised for not having its signaling system in order. District Attorney Martin decided to have the matter presented to the Grand Jury when he received word from Assistant District Attorney Seymour Mork that there were discrepancies in the testimony of the company's employes whom he had examined at the scene of the collision.

The accident happened at 8:30 o'clock in the morning about 100 feet north of the tunnel entrance at 157th Street. A northbound three-car train was stopped by a new trip signal and before the notice to stop was carried back down the tracks the train behind crashed into the rear of the stalled train. Both trains were fairly well filled, and the injured were cut by flying glass or bruised by being thrown from their seats. Of those injured two were taken to Lincoln Hospital. They were Fannie Howard, 28 years old, 2,229 Fifth Avenue, shock and contusions; and Harry Kogut, 43 years old, 282 East 103d Street, back and arms injured.

The first train, in charge of Motorman Anthony Schwab and Conductor Walter Hillman, had left the underground part of the line and was proceeding over the elevated structure. On this extension the company is installing a trip signal system. The stopping device is a trigger placed in the middle of the roadbed. It had been fastened down with wire and a block of wood. In some way this had become loosened, and when Schwab's train hit the trigger it came to an unexpected stop.

Following Schwab's train was a train in charge of Motorman Daniel Walsh. It came out of the cut at about fifteen miles an hour and Walsh saw the train ahead blocking the tracks too late. He applied the brakes, but his train hit the rear platform of the other with such force that both platforms were smashed. He said later that but for slippery rails he would have been able to stop in time.

Five doctors and several nurses from Lincoln Hospital attended the injured. Some were carried and others assisted to the 161st Street station, where their hurts were dressed. Northbound traffic was tied up about an hour and a half.

Assistant District Attorney Mork visited the scene of the accident, and after questioning the crews of both trains ordered them to the County Court House. Their stories were so different that District Attorney Martin decided to present the matter to the Grand Jury, and that body considered the case most of the day. By the time their presentment was ready Justice Mitchell had gone home, and it will be offered this morning. The Interborough and the Public Service Commission will investigate the accident.

Three Times as Many People Now Buying Franklin Cars

"AMERICANS," said a foreign critic, "know the price of everything and the value of nothing." That was before our entry into the War. Today it is a different story.

The past few months have developed a remarkable understanding of the National duty to curb needless waste and extravagance.

A typical illustration is the change in standards of judging and buying a motor car.

Only a short time back a car had to be everything but practical to attract the average motorist.

He wasn't interested in upkeep because his eye was on ponderous mechanism.

Gasoline didn't worry him because he was comparing wheel-bases.

Tire economy was not in his mind because he was judging freezing-mixtures for an unnecessary water-cooling system.

Today economy—both in gasoline and tires—is being forced on the attention of the motorist. By rising costs, by Government officials, by newspapers and magazines the problem is before the motorist daily.

What is he to do? He is looking for a way out —to cut his cost in half and maintain his mileage.

War Conditions Show the True Efficiency of the Franklin Car

He must get down to fact and figures. Know what the car he intends buying will actually do on a gallon of gasoline and a set of tires. Take into consideration the depreciation each year. And turn his back on pleasing phrases and tempting "claims."

There's less mystery than one thinks about this economy problem. A car has thrift or it hasn't. Something "in between" is like the proverbial "something just as good."

An unfailing gauge of the worth of any fine car today is the way it is selling today.

Now what are the sales facts about the Franklin?

The present and next building schedule of Franklin Cars will not catch up with orders on hand. Franklin Cars are being built at a rate of three times as many as a year ago and the public demand still continues to exceed production.

The Franklin Car was bound to become more popular each year, even in normal times. The War, forcing utility and economy before everything else, quickened this movement.

Today, as for fifteen years, the Franklin Car stands as the most practical, efficient and economical fine car in America.

Franklin Facts a Matter of Public Record

Just consider the significance of the National Efficiency Test of 179 Franklin Cars on July 13th, 1917. Over all sorts of roads, in weather partly fair and partly rainy, these cars recorded at 179 different points in the United States the remarkable average of 40.3 miles to the single gallon of gasoline.

This record shows what the Franklin does under standard efficiency test rules. The practical motorist might ask himself what any other make of car can do along the same lines. Such a comparative test offers a standard which owner operation can modify in the same respect against one car and another.

High gasoline mileage means economy all along the line. It takes no expert to know that if a car is overburdened with heavy weight and undergoing constant wear and tear the gasoline tank will tell it by low mileage.

Take tires. For five years Franklin owners have been reporting their individual tire mileage. The average for this five year period is 10,203 miles.

Now compare the annual depreciation of the average fine car with the Franklin. Look over the daily used-car advertisements and visit the places selling used-cars. It's a rare case when you find the Franklin. If you do—why is it quoted so high?

There is something here for every motorist to think about—and these are days when a motorist has to think if he wants to ride.

CHARGES SABOTAGE TO KEEP UP MILK

TABLETS PUT IN CANS

Two Drivers Who Were Arrested in the Bronx Said to Have Been Caught Ruining Their Contents.

Sabotage is now resorted to in an effort to keep cheaper milk from some city consumers, according to charges of John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Food and Markets. He made this observation yesterday after two milk drivers had been arrested in the Bronx on a charge of dropping tablets in milk cans that would spoil the contents.

The prisoners, who described themselves as Max Weissman, 20 years old, of 1,663 Madison Avenue, and Samuel Bergman, 34 years old, of 1,297 Hoe Avenue, were taken to the 162d Street Police Station and later arraigned in the Morrisania Court. They were held by Magistrate Brough in $300 bail each for examination tomorrow. Mr. Dillon notified District Attorney Swann and District Attorney Martin of the Bronx of the arrests.

According to the testimony brought out by Deputy Assistant District Attorney Fleiderblum, the men were arrested in front of the grocery store of K. Popofsky, at 1,465 Wilkins Avenue, the Bronx, after Weissman had placed white tablets in three cans of milk. Policeman Fitzpatrick of the Simpson Street Station, who made the arrests, said that while Weissman opened the cans and dropped the tablets in, Bergman acted as lookout. Weissman at first pleaded guilty, but on the advice of his counsel withdrew his plea.

A number of small grocers in the Bronx formed the Grocers' Milk Company, Inc., to purchase milk from the farmers direct, and distribute it without recourse to the regular dealers. Shortly after they had stopped purchasing from the dealers, Mr. Fleiderblum said, threats were made that, unless they purchased the milk from dealers, it would be made unfit for use. The matter was reported to the police, and a watch was kept upon deliveries. It is reported that when the first delivery was made two days ago less than half was delivered to the grocers for whom it was intended. The driver of the wagon reported that he had made the proper delivery to each retail grocer, leaving the milk can in front of his store.

A search is said to have resulted in the finding of the empty cans in vacant lots. After the second attempt to deliver the milk, customers protested. They said that the milk could not be used. As a result N. A. Van Son, general manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Milk Marketing Association, called upon Commissioner Dillon, and it was decided to have the police watch the milk deliveries.

Early yesterday morning Isidore J. Sitomer, a grocer of 1,331 Franklin Avenue, delivered three cans of milk in front of Popofsky's door. After he left, Policeman Fitzpatrick said, the two drivers, who are employed by different milk dealers, drove up, and one dropped tablets in the cans. The tablets found in Weissman's possession, as well as specimens of the milk, are being analyzed. They are said to be "junket tablets," used for souring milk.

The Grand Jury began yesterday its investigation to determine whether the Dairymen's League was guilty of a violation of the Donnelly Anti-Trust act when, at its convention early in September, it raised the price of milk.

1,000 LONGSHOREMEN RETURN TO WORK

Wage Dispute Will Be Settled by Adjustment Committee Tomorrow.

FEAR LABOR CONSCRIPTION

Union Men Again Deny German Influence and Assert Companies Do Not Keep Agreements with Them.

After a meeting in the headquarters of the International Longshoremen's Association yesterday at Eleventh Avenue and Twenty-third Street, the thousand strikers who quit work on Monday on the Clyde and Mallory piers voted to go back this morning without increase in pay. The dispute over wages is to be settled tomorrow at a conference of the Local Adjustment Committee in the rooms of the North Atlantic Steamship Conference, 17 Battery Place. The members of the committee are Captain W. B. Baker, U. S. A., Army Transport Service; Frederick Toppin, Assistant Manager of the International Mercantile Marine Company, and Franklin D. Mooney, President of the Porto Rico Steamship Company.

The longshoremen will be represented by Paul A. Vaccarelli, Vice President of the International Longshoremen's Association. The leaders of the men were against the strike, because they had been warned that, if Government work was interfered with and the departure of transports and supply ships delayed, it would lead to the conscription of labor for men up to 45 years.

The officials of the United States Shipping Board have expressed themselves in favor of such a measure to put an end to the disputes and delays over the question of wages and hours with the men employed on the piers, in the navy yard, and the crews of ships.

A conference was held yesterday in the offices of the Clyde Line at Pier 36 North River between representatives of the steamship line and of the International Longshoremen's Association to discuss the demand of the men and endeavor to end the strike. Two members of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, Michael J. Regan and F. J. Balin, were present, with H. H. Raymond, President of the Clyde and Mallory Lines and T. V. O'Connor, President of the longshoremen's organization. After four hours the conference adjourned without anything being accomplished. Mr. Raymond said the demands of the longshoremen were unreasonable.

D. R. Sasses, President of the Atlantic Coastwise District of the International Longshoremen's Association, said there was no truth that German agents had influenced the men to quit work on the Mallory and Clyde Line piers. The strike was ordered, he added, because the companies had not lived up to their agreement made in August.

The Clyde Line steamship Mohawk, which arrived on Sunday from Jacksonville and Charleston with a cargo of naval stores, left again yesterday afternoon with her freight intact because the company had booked 263 passengers who had no other means of getting to their destinations in the South. Mr. Raymond said the company was sending the Mohawk solely on account of the passengers. The cargo would remain in the holds and be brought back to New York in eight days.

The 400 longshoremen employed by the United Fruit Company on Piers 15 and 16 East River walked out yesterday morning just after the steamship Almirante had made fast with a big cargo of bananas. The men were getting 40 cents an hour, 60 cents overtime, and 80 cents for Sundays and holidays. They demanded an increase to 50 cents, 75 cents for overtime and $1 an hour for Sundays and holidays. After conferring with the officials of the company, Irving T. Cadmus, the general superintendent, told the strikers that the increase would be granted, and the men returned to work.

PEOPLE'S GAS DIVIDEND OFF.

Quarterly Payment Passed — Revenue for New Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Directors of the People's Gas, Light & Coke Company announced the passing of the quarterly dividend today. The action will come as a shock to a great many beneficiaries of estates and old time holders of the stock. For years People's Gas has been generally considered as sure of affording a good and sure dividend income.

With war conditions and advancing prices in oil and coal used by the company, the margin of earnings has grown smaller.

There is said to be no prospect now of a resumption of dividends within the next two years. The company will utilize its revenue in the construction of the new plant, work on which already has begun. This plant will cost $15,000,000 and is expected to be finished within two years.

TELLS WHY BOLO GAVE AID.

Senator Humbert Explains About Payments for Paris Journal.

PARIS, Monday, Oct. 8.—America's contribution to the investigation of the Bolo Pacha case, which is published for the first time today, fills literally half of the attenuated morning newspapers. Consequently, there is little room for editorial comment.

Senator Charles Humbert, in the Journal, referring to cablegrams from New York, points out that the payment of 1,000,000 francs on Jan. 31, 1916, was simply to enable him to pay back money he had paid the month before to the Lenoir family for their share in the Journal. It was agreed originally, the Senator said, that the balance of 4,500,000 francs was to be met by installments and it was not until he found himself called upon to provide money in lump sums that he accepted Bolo's assistance.

It also appears, the Senator adds, that Bolo used his contract with him to extract money from Germany, the first payment to Bolo being on March 13, six weeks after he signed the contract with Senator Humbert.

Leon Daudet, editor of L'Action Francaise, continued today to make his deposition before Captain Bouchardon in regard to his allegations against Louis J. Malvy, former Minister of the Interior. Witnesses were examined in the case of the Bonnet Rouge, one of the newspapers supposed to have been connected with the German propaganda. A commission has been sent to England to investigate the operations there of Bolo Pacha.

Six More G. V. Electric Trucks For Burns Brothers

YOU coal merchants may have concrete silo pockets, paved yards, and the latest type of cranes or belt conveyors, but do you deliver coal efficiently?

Burns Brothers have just placed an order with us for six 6-ton heavy duty G. V. Electric coal trucks. These all-steel giants will have power-operated bodies. Burns Brothers have operated gasoline trucks for over twelve years.

Ever since November 3, 1909, the 5-ton G. V. shown above has been plugging away and showing such day-in and day-out dependability, as well as low cost, that it could not be ignored. For the last three years it has hauled in friendly competition with great 6-ton, 7½-ton, and 10-ton gas trucks, and the 10-tonners have been the only ones to exceed this old G. V. in volume of annual tonnage moved.

These six new G. V.'s will save 18,000 gallons of gasoline or 3,600 bushels of oats and 150 tons of hay yearly. The Electrics already in New York do the work of 15,420 horses.

You Know Someone Who Has Gone

Every day you can see them going—cheerfully—weighed down with a noble responsibility, leaving their homes, their families, on their way to cantonments—later wherever ordered.

You are not going. You are here with your families, your friends, your future.

What Must You Do to Help?

Your country needs men, and the men are giving themselves—your husband, your son, your brother, your associate, your companion, the man who a few weeks ago you were in the habit of saying good morning to—he's gone.

Your government now needs money to feed, to clothe, to shelter, to nurse, and we hope to bring back these men.

You can help, you must help and you know you will help at once by investing some money you have or will save in a United States Government 4% Liberty Bond.

Liberty Bonds are sold in denominations of $50 and multiples thereof, under weekly payment plans that make it possible for anyone to buy them. Walk into any bank or trust company in the United States, whether you have a bank account or not. The officers of the bank will appreciate your visit and show you how to buy a Liberty Bond.

'FURS AND FRILLS' AT THE CASINO

A CHORUS THAT FIDDLES

The Production by Arthur Hammerstein with a Coat of Russian Sable.

FURS AND FRILLS, a musical comedy in two acts. Book and lyrics by Edward Clark; music by Silvio Hein. At the Casino Theatre.

| Guests | Ethel Sykes and Gladys Sykes |

Edward Clark's farce "Coat Tales," which opened the season a year ago and speedily disappeared round the corner, turned up again last night at the Casino with a new title and a musical setting by Silvio Hein. "Furs and Frills" is all about a cloak of Russian sable, alleged to be worth five thousand dollars "and upward," and, like the ring about which another musical piece was once written, it casts a shadow on the life of each of its various possessors.

An extravagant wife has bought it in Europe, and before she can explain it to her husband it is stolen and pawned for $50 by a youth who plays with the ponies. It is redeemed from pawn, pawned again for $10, and redeemed again. Eventually the simple-minded pawnbroker comes to realize its value, and appears in pursuit of it, with the Sheriff's deputy. By this time the shadows have deepened about the lives of almost the entire cast. Two otherwise happy couples verge upon the divorce court, to the measurable delight of the audience. And then the truth appears. It is a very simple truth, indeed, considering how much time and effort and ingenuity have been expended in making it appear compromising.

Mr. Clark has condensed his devious story into two scenes, and has interspersed a baker's dozen of songs. The sets which Arthur Hammerstein has provided are expensive and highly colored examples of the flat and decorative manner, much affected nowadays by people who reside on the stage. The costumes are in keeping.

Of the songs, the two which are most successful owe their appeal to the admirable acting and singing of Ernest Torrence, who plays a Scotch character part. They are "You Can't Take It with You When You Die," an exhortation against Caledonian thrift, and "Always Take Mother's Advice," a parody on the sentimental song of the antique variety stage. Incidentally, the part of this Scot is rather unusually well conceived as such parts go, blending rugged honesty and real liberality with canniness. That is to say, he is honest and canny until the spell of the sable coat is cast upon him, after which his lies are as fluent and futile as those of any other farcical character.

Ruby Norton and Ward De Wolf are the young and diminutive lovers, singing and dancing with considerable emphasis. Beatrice Allen and Frances Demarest are the wives who put up the main fight for the possession of the sable.

The chorus, like the heroine of an ardent song, is saddest when it sings. But it does not all sing. One part of it plays the violin—accompanying, or accompanied by, the orchestra, apparently to their mutual satisfaction.

Mr. Hein's music is doubtless innocent of false pretensions. It is catchy and spirited, and not without popular quality.

On the whole the show is novel and lively enough to amuse an audience once corralled. Whether it has the power of reaching out into lanes and highways and firmly grasping the populace, it a matter of prophecy into which it is not necessary to enter.

ARGENTINA WILL NOT BREAK WITH GERMANY

Foreign Minister Says Nation Will Remain Neutral as Long as Teutons Respect Her.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 9.—The Argentine Government is not prepared to follow the action of Uruguay in severing diplomatic relations with Germany, according to Foreign Minister Pueyrredon. Argentina has not pledged her neutrality, the Foreign Minister added, but is attempting to safeguard her own interests. Relations with Germany will be broken if sufficient cause arises, but as long as Germany recognizes the Argentine flag and respects the nation and the people there probably will be no break.

Much surprise has been occasioned in political circles here by the following statement said to have been made by the Foreign Minister of Uruguay, in urging the Uruguayan Congress to break off relations with Germany:

"Uruguay, as a small nation between two great ones, must seek a balance of force to resist the possible hegemony of Argentina, with which nation we still have questions which are not settled definitely. This balance consists in bringing closer together Brazil and the States of our connection with the great States of the present conflict so that it will make impossible an attack on Uruguayan sovereignty without an immediate reverberation throughout the American Continent."

The unsettled questions between Uruguay and Argentina concern the River Plate, Argentina asserts that the river belongs to her, while Uruguay insists that she owns half of it. The dispute involves the ownership of the important island of Martin Garcia, now held by Argentina.

CENTURY ADOPTS $3 PRICE.

Follows the Globe in Advancing Scale—"Miss 1917" Opens Oct. 29.

The second of the Dillingham-Ziegfeld revues, "Miss 1917," will have its first performance at the Century Theatre on the night of Monday, Oct. 29, and the management simultaneously announces the adoption of the $3 admission scale for the coming season. This price will prevail over the entire lower floor, but the balcony prices will not be changed.

The Century is the second theatre to announce an increase to $3 this season, the first having been the Globe, which will house the new Fred Stone production next week. Charles Dillingham, co-manager of the Century, is also the producer of the Stone show. The cost of the Century revue is such, it is announced, that the $3 scale is necessary to assure a reasonable profit. Orchestra seats for the opening performance will be sold at $5.

Rehearsals of the Century revue, which is the work of Guy Bolton, P. G. Wodehouse, Victor Herbert and Jerome Kern, are now going on night and day. The company includes Mrs. Vernon Castle, Fortola de Valencia, Bessie McCoy Davis, Flora Revalles, Margot Kelly, Ann Pennington, Cleo Mayfield, Marion Davies, Eloise Kilborn, Vera Maxwell, Lew Fields, Adolf Bolm, Cecil Lean, Van and Schenck, Brice and King, Harry Kelly, Savoy and Brennan, White and Haig, Nice and Weeks, Arthur Cunningham and Andrew Tombes. There will be a chorus of 150.

The Cocoanut Grove, on the Century roof, will be reopened soon after the opening of the main revue.

Ryan, Theodore N. Vail, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Crosby, and Elbert H. Gary.

This series of lecture lessons will be definite, so that every hearer will learn something he can use in his business.

OUR BEST CROP YEAR.

The principal grains this year will yield a billion bushels more than last year. The yield in bushels, however, is not an adequate representation of crop yield in any year, and never less so than this year. The wheat crop, for instance, is thought unsatisfactory by some because it is only 20,000,000 bushels above last year and 365,000,000 bushels less than the phenomenal crop of 1915. But the loss of bushels of wheat is made up in corn, which is a phenomenal crop. And there remains to be considered the quality of both crops. Last year's wheat was largely unmerchantable and inedible by man. This year's wheat is exceptionally fine. The department rates the two years, respectively, as 92 and 71 per cent. Consumers care most for bushels, but producers calculate by dollars as well as by bushels. The Government's price for wheat this year is $2.20. In dollars the farmer is better off than in the billion bushel year, when he was ruined by too much wheat. Corn values can be calculated from the application of the price of $1.75, against 82 cents last year, to the record yield of over three billion bushels. Oats are another record crop at 1,580,714,000 bushels, and the quality is 95 compared with 88 last year. The price is 62 cents against 44. Potatoes are also a record crop, and they are worth $1.22 against $1.12 last year.

It would be tedious to call the entire roll of farm products, but it is impossible not to mention cotton. The department merely gives the bales as 12,047,000 against 11,450,000, and the price 23 cents against 15. To get the full richness of cotton it is necessary to quote such a spokesman for the South as the Manufacturers Record, which calculates the worth of the various cotton products altogether at from $1,700,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. The Record puts the entire agricultural yield of the South at over six billions, a gain of $1,450,000,000. In 1900 the total agricultural yield for the entire country was five billions, or less than for the South alone this year. The total for the country this year was calculated earlier in the year at from $12,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000. To that unparalleled combination of quantity and price it now seems necessary to add about the sum asked for in the second Liberty Loan, making perhaps $18,000,000,000 of agricultural produce.

There are two reasons why this parade of wealth before the eyes of the hungry world is fit to be made. Our domestic abundance is 400,000,000 bushels short of the supply of wheat expected by the Allies from North America. Not one bushel, hardly one kernel of grain, should be wasted. The least we can do is to feed those fighting our cause, and thus far in our places. Who can say how many bushels we ought to supply in consideration of the millions of dead and wounded we have been spared? Still less ought we to stint our dollars when we consider that our wealth measures the need of our friends. The disclosure of these billions is useful as a sign where the Liberty Loan subscriptions ought especially to be looked for. Kansas national bank deposits are $46,000,000 above last year. That $46,000,000 is like money that was found. In a sense it may be said to belong to those foreign buyers whose hunger has driven up our prices for the benefit of our farmers, to the cost of our consumers. When money gets as far as a bank deposit it is idle to ask whether the depositors are prosperous or not.

The only question left regarding farmers' contributions to the Liberty Loan is whether they have a heart. Can it be they are so concerned in balancing their profits against the profits of others that their pocket nerve tells them that the country owes them something, instead of their owing anything to the country's cause? In the Spring they were so busy planting that they left to the cities the duty of floating the first Liberty Loan. This is the harvest time, but they must not be more preoccupied with their profits than with their duties. The country as a whole is asked for about one-eightieth of the common wealth, not as a sacrifice, but as an investment, returning a fair per cent., and an incalculable yield in values beyond estimate. What does the country think is the farmers' share of the opportunity? What do the farmers think is their share? The farmers long have had their eyes fixed upon the country; now the country's eyes are on the farmers sitting on their pile of wealth, and slow to take the price fixed by the Government as fair.

IS IT A REVELATION?

GEORGE GOTHIEN, the German Progressive, displayed extraordinary sense and frankness when he told the Central Committee of his party that Germany's enemies could not be crushed on land, that the U-boat campaign had failed to force England to her knees, and that there was no hope of obtaining an indemnity from America. But, significant as it is that such an important politician as GOTHIEN should recognize these facts and frankly utter them, the most significant part of his speech was not here. He told his party colleagues that "Germany's "allies were not inclined to continue "the war for Pan German plans of "conquest, but were striving for peace "by understanding and conciliation, "while the Pan German clamor for "annexations was finding a bad reception among them."

It is possible that if we had Herr GOTHIEN's exact language, instead of this summary, we should find it to be qualified. Perhaps it was the mere expression of his opinion. But on its face it is not an expression of opinion, but a statement of fact, and if it is that it is more—it is a revelation. If GOTHIEN was stating facts, many things become clear. It becomes clear that MICHAELIS's proposal for a "give-and-take" peace was extorted from him by Austrian insistence; and GOTHIEN's allusion not to Austria alone, but to "Germany's allies," shows that Turkey and Bulgaria are in the same frame of mind. It becomes clear that the devious and tangled steps which Germany has been taking in her peace moves have been the result of an effort to keep her impatient allies quiet while not in reality surrendering any of her ambitions or her determination to conquest. It becomes clear that the foggy benevolence of the replies to the Pope was the result of a compromise, in which the Austrian longing for peace was met with platitudes which did not too much offend the Pan Germans. It becomes clear that when Germany tickles the palate of the pacifists it is an Austrian palate which she really intends to tickle.

It is necessary, however, to view these utterances with reserve. The very use of such a phrase as "Germany's allies" excites the suspicion that Herr GOTHIEN is telling more than he knows. For a peace without annexations is not what Bulgaria wants; it is not what she entered the war for. Turkey, of course, would be glad to get out on any terms that would leave her her life; but Bulgaria is in no such case as Turkey.

COLUMBIA'S DELIVERANCE.

No man of feeling would deny to Professor BEARD the luxury and the pleasure of berating the Trustees of Columbia University, to which, in resigning from the teaching staff, he has just rendered the greatest service it was in his power to give. It will do these Columbia Trustees no harm to be described as "reactionary and visionless in politics." They certainly have no vision of the benefits to come from the overthrow of our institutions and the reorganization of society by the apostles of radicalism. Doubtless they are "narrow and mediaeval in religion," since having never enjoyed the advantages of a German university training, they have not embraced that blank materialism which so many American professors have imbibed from that source. But these Trustees know, as every man of sound sense and unclouded vision knows, that Columbia University is better for Professor BEARD's resignation.

Some years ago Professor BEARD published a book, in which he sought to show that the founders of this Republic and the authors of its Constitution were a ring of land speculators who bestowed upon the country a body of organic law drawn up chiefly in the interest of their own pockets. It was pointed out to him at the time, with due kindness but frankly, that his book was bad, that it was a book no professor should have written since it was grossly unscientific. It was not based upon candid and competent examination of facts, but it was written to establish a preconceived theory of his own, which he supported by statements unrelated to fact and quite unconvincing in their nature. It was a book that did Columbia much harm, just as the two professors who were recently dropped for seditious utterances did the university much harm. It was the fruit of that school of thought and teaching, again borrowed from Germany, which denies to man in his larger actions the capacity of noble striving and self-sacrifice for [illegible] that seeks always as the prompting motive either the animal desire to get more to eat or the hope of filling his pockets. If this sort of teaching were allowed to go on unchecked by public sentiment and the strong hands of university Trustees, we should presently find educated American youth applying the doctrine of economic determinism to everything from the Lord's Prayer to the binomial theorem.

It is not so to be. Trustees may be visionless in politics and mediaeval in religion, but they have the hard, common sense to know, as was said in another notable recent case of interference with academic freedom, that infallible wisdom does not perch upon the back of every chair occupied by a professor bearing the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and they know that if colleges and universities are not to become breeding grounds of radicalism and socialism, it must be recognized that academic freedom has two sides, that freedom to teach is correlative to the freedom to dispense with poisonous teaching. The Trustees of Columbia University have been very tolerant, very patient, and the university has suffered through the acts, the utterances, and the teachings of some of its professors who mistook the chairs they occupied for pulpits from which doctrines might freely be preached that are dangerous to the community and to the nation. A university is not solely responsible to the young gentlemen fresh from Berlin, Bonn, or Heidelberg whom it may engage as members of its corps of professors. The Trustees of Columbia and of all American universities know that they have a responsibility to the communities and to the country that give those seats of learning existence, to the numerous body of their alumni who are jealous of the standing and repute of their Alma Mater, that they are responsible to sane public opinion, which will hold them accountable for errors of indulgence to the teachers of false doctrines sheltering themselves behind the shibboleth of academic freedom.

SECURE YOUR RIGHT TO VOTE.

Light registration at the beginning is explainable; when the books are open six days the disposition to wait until the end of the week is too common. But delay is dangerous. Many of the tardy citizens may be called away from their homes before they have registered, others may be kept away from the booths at the last moment by illness. Under-registration this year means a Tammany victory. For the election of the Fusion candidates the full independent vote must be called out. Voters of this type move slowly, they lack the discipline of the strict partisans. Tammany will have its full vote, except that HILLQUIT may be able to entice some of that class of voters who would otherwise support Tammany to express their approval of his opposition to the American spirit.

The danger is that many good citizens who would vote for MITCHEL and in support of honest and progressive city government will make the mistake that so many of the Republicans made in the primary election. To all good citizens we urgently appeal not to miss the opportunity to register today. The polls will be open from 5:30 to 10:30 P. M. Unless you register you cannot vote. With a large registration, indicating the determination of every honest citizen to do his full duty Nov. 6, Mr. MITCHEL and his associates on the Fusion ticket will be reelected, Tammany will be bereft of its hope to regain control of the Board of Estimate, and BENNETT, failing in his purpose to help MURPHY, will retire to well-deserved obscurity. Register today.

NEW NAVAL TYPES.

The flush-deck destroyers now building for the United States Government constitute a new type of war vessel, the advent of which has often been predicted by naval experts. Besides having a speed hitherto thought unattainable in warships, they present a minimum of hitting surface to the enemy. It is unofficially reported that the British Navy now possesses two vessels of the size of battle cruisers, 800 feet long, with a speed of forty land miles an hour, which carry only two seventeen-inch guns, but have many topedo tubes. In his testimony as to the needs of modern navies before a Congressional committee some time ago, Admiral, then Captain, SIMS described a vessel planned by "a young officer named SCHOFIELD," and some of his remarks upon this then nonexistent marine type are recalled in The Army and Navy Journal.

A 20,000-ton boat with a protective deck and so flat that nothing could get under it, with only two towers, one forward and one aft, carrying no guns but having eight or ten torpedo tubes on each side, this new engine of destruction was to have a speed of at least 35 knots. No waste of side armor, because the vessel would have practically nothing to protect above the water line. Captain SIMS declared that if he were in command of a fleet and "one of those things" suddenly came down on him, he would feel impelled to turn the fleet over to the second in command and go below. Of course, Admiral SIMS would do nothing of the kind, he would stick to the command of his big dreadnoughts and do his best. But if such cruisers can be built, it seems obvious that they will revolutionize all naval warfare. There are reports that two of that type, or a similar one, have been built, though, of course, there is no accurate information extant of the recent development of the British Navy. The tale that the Germans have undersea boats 800 feet long, however, has been generally believed.

THE CHARACTERISTIC ODOR.

President WILLCOX of the Board of Education has taken the trouble to ask Judge HYLAN for the evidence of the charge made by him, by instruction from his prompters, that "our "public schools are today in control "of the Rockefeller interests." It is unkind to Judge HYLAN to ask him for the "evidence" of the preposterous statements which are furnished him by the Tammany Committee on Instruction. He is a docile pupil. If he has any ideas of his own, he refrains from communicating them to the public. Tammany discovered him. He is duly grateful. He repeats mechanically the lesson set him by Tammany masters.

They believe that they can win the election by setting "the poor" against "the rich," though many of them have become rich through politics, the Tammany occupation. They have invented and are propagating the falsehood that "the Rockefeller interests" are responsible for the Gary plan of a democratic, all-around public school education, using the public schools to the fullest extent and best purpose. It is a Brobdingnagian falsehood. By it they hope also to direct the public mind and memory from Tammany, unchanged and unchangeable, from the Red Light gleaming over it, from the scandals and the shames that drove it out of power. Does it expect to sneak back, sniffing with its virtuous nostrils the odor of Standard Oil?

There is a familiar smell, which New York has not forgotten, the characteristic Tammany perfume, the odor of corruption.

THE DARK DAYS OF '61.

Judge HYLAN declares that his father "fought to preserve the Union in the dark days of '61." Mr. MURPHY holds that to discuss Tammany's loyalty is not germane. AL SMITH's father, he says, was killed fighting for the Union in the dark days of '61, that is to say, twelve years before Mr. SMITH was born. Representative MASON, accused of hampering the Government in its war measures, indignantly denies it, and offers in proof the fact that in the dark days of '61 he joined the home guard and suffered great privations guarding the waterfront. BENEDICT PRIETH, publisher of the New Jersey Freie Zeitung, is arrested by the Federal authorities, and his plant seized, on charges of violating the Espionage act. Mr. PRIETH says the accusation is absurd, since in the dark days of '61 his paper stood by the Government so loyally that it was attacked by the draft rioters in the still darker days of '63.

The dark days of '61 seem likely to receive still more publicity as time goes on. Every man in the country whose loyalty is under suspicion is acting as press agent for the dark days of '61. Nobody whose loyalty goes without saying is uttering a word about those dark days. Gentlemen who feel that they have something to explain seem to have determined to give the dark days of '61 what is known in certain quarters as a "rush."

Before the country becomes wholly flooded with touching references to the dark days of '61, however, it may be well to interpose the remark that at this moment it does not matter a continental what a man did in the dark days of '61, or what his father, or his uncle, or his wife's relatives did in those days. It matters a great deal whether he is giving more than mere lip-loyalty to his country in 1917; whether, in 1917, he is talking about the wickedness of England, the desirability of peace, the freedom of the seas, the inadvisability of sending American troops abroad, the guile of Japan, or anything else that tends to sow doubt and confusion at home and encouragement in Germany. If he is doing those things, he is harming his country in 1917, whether or not he joined the home guard in the dark days of '61, whether his father was in the Union Army or hiding in Canada.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Emotion Can Still Be Excited. So calmly have we come to read in the daily dispatches of encounters on one or another of the firing lines that result in the killing of hundreds and the wounding of thousands that not a few people have been moved to instance our failure longer to react strongly to these happenings as convincing proof of war's brutalizing effect. As a matter of fact, such calmness proves nothing at all except what was already well known to every psychologist—that when any one stimulus long enough continues, the nerves adjust themselves to it as to any other normal condition, and the emotional equilibrium ceases to be disturbed.

Were this not the case, life would be difficult indeed, and not a few of its most beneficent activities, including those of the surgeon and the Judge, would become nearly or quite impossible. That we have not been made really callous by the war is shown plainly enough by the thrill of horror and the deep regret that every American of any sensitiveness at all—which is much the same as saying of any intelligence at all—felt yesterday on reading that one of our patrol boats in the Mediterranean had fired by mistake on an Italian submarine and killed two of her men, an officer and a sailor.

Viewed merely as a loss of life, this is a casualty list far too small to receive attention in any military report of these days, and of it only the surviving relatives of the victims would ever have heard. The killing, however, was not that of enemies by enemies, but that of friends by friends through a lamentable error, and this element of the unusual was enough to give to the episode an international importance that was instantly and very properly recognized by our Secretary of the Navy.

Exactly how the thing happened has not been revealed, but for some unknown reason the nationality of the submarine was not revealed to the approaching patrol boat, and the latter, not seeing the revelatory signals for which her men on watch presumably looked, assumed that the craft was German or Austrian and opened fire. Of responsibility there was apparently none, but of sincerest sorrow there will be much. Unfortunately the sorrow will not restore to life the two brave men who died so uselessly.

They Never Make a Distinction. No pacifist of any kind can ever talk or write about the war much more than a single sentence without revealing that he or she is possessed and obsessed by the strange belief that, because war is a bad thing, all who take part in it are on the same moral level and open to the same condemnation. This is the absurd fallacy which underlies all pacifism and vitiates every argument offered by the followers of that miserable cult. As logic the leap thus made from premise to conclusion is without the slightest warrant in either experience or fact, yet every pacifist is under some mysterious and inexorable compulsion to make it every time he discusses either war in general or this war in particular, and always the result is that sane critics are either angered or disgusted—or both.

Of course Senator LA FOLLETTE, in defending himself before his colleagues in his long speech just before adjournment, had to voice again this fundamental error, though, practiced orator that he is, he was able to do it by implication and not by direct assertion. He even succeeded in joining it neatly to his statement of the laudable aspiration that in the future no single man or small group of men may have the power to involve their own and other nations in war in order to serve their private interests or ambitions. To prevent that hereafter is, in brief, exactly what the Allies, and we with them, are fighting for, but, being a pacifist, the Senator could not refrain from adding the familiar misrepresentation of the existing state of affairs.

"The masses," he said, "will understand that it was the evil of a one-man power exercised in half a dozen nations through the malevolent influences of secret diplomacy that plunged the helpless peoples of Europe into the awful war that has been raging with increasing horror and fury ever since it began, and now threatens to engulf the world before it stops."

Between the "half a dozen nations" that took part in the earlier stages of the war, it will be observed, the Senator draws no line—between what Germany did and what was done by Russia, France, and Great Britain, by Belgium and Servia, he sees, or at least he admits, no difference, and "secret diplomacy" as it existed in all of them shared in the common guilt. War for conquest and war for defense are all one for him, and for unprovoked assault he has no sterner condemnation than for resistance to thieves and murderers!

Municipal Milkmen Proposed. Mayor MITCHEL's suggestion that the city not only establish plants for the pasteurization of the milk it uses, but also undertake, directly or indirectly, the distribution of the milk to our millions of consumers, will seem to all who hear it a proposal to undertake a large job, and one of a kind in which "municipal operation" has not made, as yet, many brilliant successes. There is no doubt, however, that what may be called the milk situation in New York is already a serious one, and a few more advances in price will make it little less than desperate for no small part of the urban population. And for desperate evils desperate remedies have always been held, if not quite justifiable, at least worthy of consideration.

Theoretically, there is nothing in the pasteurization and distribution of milk that city officials could not do intelligently and efficiently. It must be admitted, too, that such officials could not violate economic laws more glaringly than do the private companies in using several carts, horses, and men in serving a single block in which practically every resident wants and pays the same price for the same service. Sorry experience has shown, however, that municipal operation has extravagances and wastes peculiarly its own, in the present stage of human development—and politics—and that its savings are apt to be more than counterbalanced by its losses.

Possibly milk distribution is one of those "natural monopolies" of which so much has been said of late years, and that the way out of this particular situation lies in the recognition of that fact, if it be a fact. Regulation and not operation would then be the remedy fullest of immediate promise, particularly as the regulation of the milk trade has already gone far.

Mr. Kitchin Was Wrong.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Saturday's TIMES Representative Kitchin is reported to have said:

> No Government in the world (and I mean that) places an excess profits tax upon the salaries of its officials. The tax we imposed is a tax upon business; not upon Government. Governments are not business concerns, and are not producing dividends.

Has he not overlooked the action of Brasil's National Congress last year? If he will read The American Bar Association Journal for April, 1917, he will find their action described (Pages 188, 189) as follows:

> Decree 11,914 of Jan. 26, 1916, (Diario Official of 29th) imposes an income tax upon official salaries and wages of nearly all public officials, including the President and Vice-President of the Republic and the Senators and Deputies in the Congress. The rate of tax on the official salaries of the President and of Senators and Deputies is 20 per cent., and that on the salary of the Vice-President is 8 per cent.; while the rate ranges from 2 per cent. to 15 per cent. on the salaries and compensation and pensions of other classes of public officials and employes.

REPRISALS.

I had so hoped that England might be free
From studied baseness—that iniquity
Could not be written in her history!

But now the sullen murmur of the throng
Is heard above the soldiers' marching song
In clamor for reprisals—wrong on wrong!

Knightly are they, though helmed by leathern casque—
Shall she compel them to the hangman's masque?

Let England trust her valiant battle-line—
It shall thrust deep beyond the German Rhine.
Leave vengeance to the One who said "'Tis mine."

TRUSTEES AND TEACHERS.

A University Is Responsible for the Kind of Instruction Given.

The forcible severance of Professors Cattell's and Dana's connection with Columbia University has already produced the much-desired resignation of Professor Beard, and has caused considerable discussion. Doubtless there will be much more comment upon the action of the Trustees, who will be arraigned, attacked, and criticised, with various degrees of vehemence and feeling.

It is not my business to enter the lists on behalf of the Trustees. It is quite possible that my advocacy might not even be welcome, but I should like to see a little common sense brought to bear upon the situation. I have had two sons at Columbia, know some of the Trustees, and have intimate friends among the Faculty. I am therefore interested in Columbia, as well as in the principles which should govern Trustees in dealing with their responsibilities. Much nonsense is spoken and written on the subject, and we may take Professor Beard's letter to President Butler, which appeared in this morning's papers, as a fair sample.

First let me say that Professor Beard is one of a group of men at Columbia whose departure from that institution is welcomed by many, if not most, of its friends. There are quite a number of others. These men do incalculable harm in unsettling the faith and the principles of the young men in their charge. They seem, one and all, to think that truth is only found at the bottom of the radical well, so they sound the depths of radicalism. Anything old, anything that has been believed, whether it be religion, or politics, or history, they consider suspicious, if not untrue and stupid. Professor Beard evidently thinks that when he calls the Trustees "reactionary" he has called them as bad a name as the decencies permit. To be mediaeval in religion, indeed, to have any religion at all, is almost as bad. It argues at once that you are only partly educated. Because Galileo taught something which is now accepted as true, and was persecuted by the Church, therefore, religion is foolish and truth is only uttered by radicals, who are persecuted.

Patriotism is another antiquated notion from which "real thinkers" have rid themselves. It is silly, old-fashioned, illogical, a pernicious survival of the provincialism and ignorance of the past. That noble sentiment has been hammered into the developing minds of the youths at Columbia for years. At the time of the flag-burning incident of last Spring one very distinguished historian at Columbia warmly supported the flag burners, and uttered sentiments that made me believe that the Trustees must be sound asleep. He should have been instantly dismissed.

These men argue that a university, if anywhere in the world, should be a place where every kind of theory should be allowed free and unrestricted utterance, so that the young and inquiring mind may have the opportunity to hear and select from the mass of speculation and teaching whatever is sympathetic to its genius and nature. They contemplate with horror that the Trustees should determine what is truth and what should or should not be taught. They argue the question by the hour with those of their colleagues who feel instinctively that such a theory makes for license and not for true liberty, or freedom of speech, and who see and know that the outcome of such a theory is wholly pernicious. I have heard many such talks, and that is why I think that it might be useful to bring a little common sense to bear on the question.

The plain fact is that the Trustees are responsible for what is taught at Columbia, but they do not in any sense have to determine what is true and what is not true. I agree with Professor Beard and Professor Robinson and Professor Dewey, and all the other ultra-radicals and so-called free thinkers, that the Trustees are no more capable of settling what is and what is not truth than they are.

What the Trustees do have to determine to the best of their ability is what is moral and what is immoral; what is fitting and proper as pabulum for the young, and what is unfitting and improper; what is a decent standard of speech and teaching, and what is not. In other words, who is, and who is not, acting like a gentleman. They do not and should not decide between two theories of biology or politics, but they should decide that a man who teaches boys that the old-fashioned ideas of morality have no foundation in reason, and that he is, therefore, free to indulge his animal nature so far as he may without injurious physical reactions or consequences, is manifestly unfit for a university professor.

The distinction between these two standards is apparently too subtle for the professorial mind. If, they say, a man honestly believes in free love, he should be permitted to say so; otherwise you run counter to the fundamental idea of free speech, which is sheer nonsense.

At any given time there are generally accepted standards of morality, decency, and propriety of which the Columbia Trustees are perfectly good judges, and which they should not permit to be infracted. The fact that history teaches us that such standards change has nothing to do with the case. We are concerned with the best which our time has been able to evolve.

Professor Beard speaks of the status of the professor as lower than that of the manual laborer, which again is sheer nonsense, and he must know it. He can count on the fingers of one hand the professors who have been dismissed from institutions of prominence in this country in the last five years, for too free speech.

Of course, it is important that the professor should be allowed the utmost freedom in uttering his ideas of truth, and a great university is a place where that freedom should be untrammeled by the restrictions of Trustees; but to confuse that simple principle with the punishment of improper conduct, because that conduct takes the form of speech, is confusing the issue, and is unworthy of the logical thinking which professors talk so much about. I know of no case, nor does Professor Beard know of any case, where the Columbia Trustees have disciplined a man for freedom of speech; and there have been too few instances of disciplining men for improper conduct, where that impropriety took the form of speech.

The cut in insurance rates is a splendid testimonial to the work and devotion to duty of the officers and men of the United States Navy, and the business community appreciates it to the full. ## PATRIOTISM IN GAS.

Companies Tell of Aim to Produce Toluol for War Explosives.

The plea of the gas companies for permission to change the present candle power standard for measuring the quality of gas to the British thermal unit was again advocated yesterday at the hearing before the Public Service Commission by Dr. Charles H. Herty, former President of the New York Society of Chemists. The changing of the gas valuing method from the illumination standard to the heat standard was previously pressed because it would cheapen the manufacture of gas, and because the use of a cheaper oil would produce more toluol, which the Government needs in the making of explosives.

Dr. Herty said that he had talked with General Crozier, Chief of Ordnance, U. S. A., on Sunday, and that the General had told him it was necessary to get all of the toluol possible for use in the war, not only by the United States but by Great Britain.

"The General told me," continued the witness, "that if all the toluol of every one of the gas companies was available the total would be only 150,000,000 pounds for a year, or about half of the amount needed for operations based on 1,000,000 fighting men."

The witness, in reply to a question, admitted that the Government had arranged to insure the gas companies against all risks attached to a change in plant made necessary in getting out the greatest quantity of toluol.

William N. Dykman, counsel for the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, said:

"We are ready to take the toluol out of gas and deliver it to the Government. That will necessitate a change to the British thermal unit standard, and if this commission shall approve of it, leaving the price of gas where it is, we will make a contract with the Government and go ahead and furnish toluol."

In reply to a question by Commissioner Hervey, Mr. Dykman said he would not include in the offer any condition looking to a decrease in the price of gas, because the customer would lose nothing by the change and the Government would gain by it. He explained that the Government could not get the toluol until some time after the present hearings were concluded, and that it might be well to drop the hearings, permit the companies to change the standard, and go ahead with the work of getting out the toluol. He did not know that the change of standards would mean any extra profit for the companies.

Chairman Straus and Commissioner Hervey still maintained that the consumer should profit as well as the company by any cheapening of the manufacture of gas through a change of standards. Mr. Dykman said that his company was not earning 4 per cent. on its investment and that if the price of gas should be put into the question long litigation would face the commission. In the meantime the Government would suffer, he said.

Robert A. Carter, for the Consolidated Gas Company, indorsed the stand taken by Mr. Dykman, and said the Consolidated Company was now selling gas at 80 cents a thousand feet that was worth 95 cents.

"That is a rate matter," said Commissioner Hervey. "It is proper that the company and the consumer alike should be patriotic, but we might just as well discover who is to pay the cost, and whether any saving made by the company is to be shared with the consumer." The hearing was adjourned until Oct. 23.

FIGHT MOHANSIC SEWER.

Civic Bodies and Officials Object to School Project.

The first public hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee to decide what shall be done with the property acquired by the State for a hospital for the insane and a training school for boys at Yorktown, on Mohansic Lake, was held yesterday in the assembly room of the Merchant's Association. It has already been decided that a hospital on the site would pollute the waters of Mohansic Lake, a part of which flows into the Croton reservoir, and the question to be settled by the committee is what use the State shall now make of the land, and whether the seven buildings erected for the school shall be used for that purpose or whether they shall be disposed of for private uses.

A brief prepared by the Merchants' Association for submission to the Legislature said that the proposed institution would house a population of many thousands and discharge over 500,000 gallons of sewage daily. It was agreed that it would be foolish to go ahead with the proposed enterprise when the city had spent more than $4,000,000 to remove causes of pollution from the watershed.

At yesterday's hearing protests against having any public buildings on the site were made by Commissioner Williams of the Board of Water Supply and representatives of the Department of Health, the New York Academy of Medicine, the Real Estate Board, the Safety First Society, the Central Mercantile Association, the Citizens' Union, the Fifth Avenue Association, and many other civic bodies.

The joint committee consists of Senators Slater and Daly and Assemblymen Armstrong, Brush, and Everett. The committee will continue the hearings today and tomorrow, and later will meet at the Court House in White Plains.

RED CROSS TO AID CHINESE.

Appoints Roger Green to Take Charge in the Flooded Area.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Simultaneously with the Red Cross announcement today that it would render aid to the 400,000 persons made homeless by the flood at Tien-Tsin, the State Department made public a mail dispatch from the American Consulate at Chungking, in the Province of Szechuen, China, describing the terrific damage caused recently by the Yangtse River floods. The action of the Red Cross was based on the following message from American Minister Reinich, at Peking:

"A flood disaster in Tien-Tsin has rendered 400,000 persons destitute. The Chinese are actively relieving, but they cannot cope with the situation. The commanding officer of the American forces, at my suggestion, is prepared to assume control of relief work which might be undertaken by representatives of missionary and other organizations in conjunction with Americans. Can the American Red Cross render assistance with funds? Substantial results could be obtained with $200,000."

Responding to this appeal, the State Department was requested by the American Red Cross to forward a cable to Mr. Reinich offering assistance at Tien-Tsin and requesting the acceptance of Roger Green of the Rockefeller China Medical Board as Red Cross representative. The organization of an American committee of not more than nine members to aid him in control of Red Cross contributions is also advised.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS CONFER

Henderson Tells Them British Are for a Victorious Peace.

BORDEAUX, Sunday, Oct. 7, (Delayed.)—Addresses from American, Italian, and Russian Socialists were read at today's session of the national convention of the Socialist Party.

A long telegram was received from Arthur Henderson, the British Labor leader and former member of the War Council, who expressed the hope that an inter-allied Socialist conference would be held soon. The Internationale, he said, could not meet during the war.

Mr. Henderson affirmed the resolution of the British workers to continue the struggle until a victorious peace was achieved.

NEW CUT IN SEA INSURANCE.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 9.—The danger from submarines having decreased, insurance on Norwegian cargoes in the North Sea has been reduced from 8 to 7 per cent.

WANTS WAR BOARD IN EVERY INDUSTRY

TO HELP DEFENSE COUNCIL

New Arrangement to Stop Criticism of Federal Advisers Acting Also as Sellers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A general call on American business to form War Service Committees in every branch of industry to co-operate with the Government was made today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The committees will absorb the functions of the industries committees of the Council of National Defense, which will be abolished under a reorganization plan.

The War Service Committees will deal directly with the Defense Council's War Industries Board now negotiating Government war purchases. They will assist in apportioning Government orders, and will aid in determining priority matters. The Defense Council's Industries Committees in most instances are expected to be retained as the War Service Committees, and the only change will be that members no longer will be connected in any way with the Government.

The Defense Council's committee system has given cause for criticism in that committee members, acting as Government advisers in making purchases, were often themselves sellers. Under the new arrangement the War Service Committee members will be representing only industries.

"To assemble accurate information with respect to the facilities of industry, and the possibilities of expansion or readjustment of plants and equipment to meet Government requirements.

"To arrange for the gathering of figures as to costs of production in industry.

"To act with Priority Committee of the War Industries Board, which is establishing principles governing the distribution of materials in transportation and the order in which various products are to be produced and distributed.

"To meet with Government departments to discuss questions affecting industry raised by the war."

The Government's purchase of war supplies, it is declared, is withdrawing so much material and labor from established industry that many problems are arising which can be met only by serious study.

"The extent of the demand which the Government is making on the industrial resources of the country is indicated," the statement says, "by recent estimates that expenditures for the first year of the war, including loans to the Allies, will amount to $21,000,000,000 compared with estimates of the gross value of all business done in the United States in 1916, ranging from forty to eighty billions."

WILSON BACKS UP BRYAN.

Confirms Denial of La Follette's Lusitania Statement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—After conferring with President Wilson today Senator Pomerene, Chairman of the committee investigating Senator La Follette's utterances, indicated the President had confirmed Mr. Bryan's statement that he did not tell the President shortly before the Lusitania sailed that the ship had a munition cargo, nor ask the President to keep Americans from sailing.

"I learned nothing that would change Mr. Bryan's published denial," said the Senator.

All facts in the State Department's possession relating to the ship and her cargo will be placed before the Investigating Committee without reserve, Senator Pomerene was assured. Mr. Bryan has denied La Follette's statement. Senator Pomerene today wrote Mr. Bryan asking him to advise the committee regarding La Follette's assertions.

A telegram received today from the Minnesota Public Safety Commission, which forwarded the first petitions for Senator La Follette's expulsion, stated that three certified transcripts of the St. Paul speech as taken by three separate expert stenographers were being forwarded today to the committee. Senator La Follette also is expected to submit a transcript.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 9.—"Resign!" This is the demand made by the State Council of Defense and seventy-one County Councils of Defense in Wisconsin to Senator La Follette. It was voiced tonight in resolutions signed by 300 representatives of the organizations holding a convention here.

The resolutions say La Follette by his public utterances has encouraged opposition to the Government in its prosecution of the war, and has misrepresented the true sentiment of the vast majority of the people of Wisconsin toward the war. He is accused of "aiding and abetting the enemy, thereby prolonging this fearful struggle at the cost of additional lives and money."

In addition the resolutions ask the Senate, "in the event of his failure to resign, to preserve its own honor and that of Wisconsin by his expulsion by that honorable body."

TO STOP WELFARE LETTERS.

Red Cross Asked Not to Transmit These Inquiries to Germany.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Government has for military reasons requested the American Red Cross to abandon the plan undertaken some time ago, at the suggestion of the Government, to transmit inquiries to "welfare and whereabouts," emanating from residents of the United States to persons in the territories of the Central Powers or areas occupied by them.

Therefore no further letters of that character will be transmitted by the Bureau of Communication of the Red Cross, although it will be able to return to the senders as many as possible letters of inquiries thus far received.

The bureau will, however, endeavor to obtain information concerning the welfare of American prisoners of war or prisoners belonging to the allied nations in the hands of the Central Powers and members of the American expeditionary forces.

The bureau also will give information as to proper methods of forwarding money to prisoners of war, when permitted by the Government; will transmit letters to prisoners of war held in the Central Empires, and subject to such regulations as may be established by the War Department and military authorities in France, will endeavor to obtain information and answer inquiries concerning casualties suffered by American soldiers in Europe, and also concerning the conditions and whereabouts of the sick, the wounded, and missing.

GARFIELD APPOINTS AIDS.

Albert H. Wiggin Represents the Fuel Administration in New York.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Fuel Administration announced tonight the appointment of the following State Fuel Administrators:

F. A. MUNSEY BUYS STEWART BUILDING

$3,500,000 REPORTED PRICE

Owner Not Planning Skyscraper to Rival Tallest Building, but Structure Suitable to Site.

Frank A. Munsey purchased yesterday the famous old Stewart Building on the east side of Broadway, covering the block front between Chambers and Reade Streets, and facing City Hall Park, for a price reported to be between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000. It is the largest real estate transaction of the year, and the deal is of additional interest in that Mr. Munsey plans to improve the site with a tall office building which will be the new home of The New York Sun and The Evening Sun, of both of which he is the publisher and owns the controlling interest. The building will also house Munsey's Magazine and other Munsey publications.

"I am not contemplating the erection of any skyscraper to rival the tallest building in the city," Mr. Munsey said in his apartment at Sherry's last night. "When building conditions become more normal I intend to put up a fitting building to adorn property what I consider one of the best downtown business sites. This is not the time to do anything in a hurry."

The property acquired by Mr. Munsey is probably the largest available site for a fine office building in the lower part of the city. It occupies a plot fronting more than 151 feet on Broadway, about 226 feet on Chambers Street, opposite City Hall Park, and 225 feet on Reade Street, containing approximately 35,000 square feet, or 6,000 square feet more than the area covered by the Woolworth Building. The purchase was made from the heirs of the Judge Henry Hilton estate, of which the Central Trust Company and Edward D. Harris are the Trustees. The estate was obliged to buy in the property at foreclosure sale last May on a bid of $3,000,000. The foreclosure action was brought against Felix Isman to recover judgments of more than $3,800,000, of which $3,700,000 represented the mortgage taken back by the Hilton heirs after Felix Isman bought the property in 1906 for about $4,250,000, which up to that time was one of the most spectacular realty deals ever made on Manhattan Island.

Considered for New Court House.

At that time the property was one of the parcels under consideration for the new Court House site. Until the completion of the Municipal Building the Stewart Building, despite its age and the awkward arrangement of office rooms, was almost entirely occupied by various city departments. For the last two years the greater part has been untenanted, and it has not earned enough to pay taxes. The assessed value last year was $3,000,000, of which $2,900,000 was land value.

The Stewart Building and its site have been for more than a century full of historic interest. More than 100 years ago Washington Hall stood on the Reade Street corner. It was built by the Federalists as a rival to Tammany Hall, which later occupied the site of the old Sun Building at Park Row and Frankfort Street. Washington Hall was the scene of many important civic gatherings, and during the war of 1812 Lawrence, Bainbridge, Decatur, and other naval heroes were entertained there. The old hall burned on July 4, 1843. A. T. Stewart, who had opened his dry goods store a few years before on the opposite side of Broadway, was then in a small wooden building just below Washington Hall, near Chambers Street. He bought the Reade Street corner at auction in 1844 for $65,000, and about 1850 erected a large department store, the most palatial that had ever been seen in New York, and for years it was known as Stewart's marble store. When Mr. Stewart moved uptown to Ninth Street, the Stewart Building was altered for offices, and remains practically unchanged today.

Sold for $2,100,000 in 1881.

The late Judge Henry Hilton, who was Mr. Stewart's lawyer, purchased the Stewart Building from Mrs. A. T. Stewart in 1881 for $2,100,000. The late Mrs. Hetty Green lent the Hilton estate, about fifteen years ago, $2,000,000 on a first mortgage on the property at 6 per cent., and it was paid off prior to her death.

Long before fashion and trade made the vicinity of the present City Hall, which was completed in 1813, popular, the ground occupied by the Stewart Building was used a negro burial plot, and during the revolution one of the barracks for the British soldiers was on the site.

The property occupies half of the block. Adjoining on the east is the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, and the extreme easterly end is occupied by a printing and publishing building, facing the Hall of Records, from which it is separated by an alley cut through when the Hall of Records was erected.

The sale of the property to Mr. Munsey was closed through the brokerage office of the Charles F. Noyes Company. An interesting feature of the transaction involved the purchase in fee of a small parcel on Chambers Street, about 100 feet east of Broadway, fronting 23 feet from the estate of Martha H. Andrews. This was the only parcel that Mr. Stewart was unable to buy, and he was compelled to take it on a long leasehold, which was renewed by the late Judge Hilton, who made another renewal in 18[illegible]3 for twenty-one years at $11,000 a year. The plot has now been purchased outright by Mr. Munsey, the Andrews estate being represented by William A. White & Sons.

The New York Sun now occupies several floors of the former American Tract Society Building at Nassau and Spruce Streets, which were leased over two years ago when The Sun left its old building at Park Row and Frankfort Street. Mr. Munsey obtained control of The Sun and The Evening Sun on June 30, 1916. He formerly owned The New York Press, which was consolidated with The Sun.

Y. W. C. A. WAR WORK TO COST $4,000,000

START CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

More Hostess Houses to be Erected in Cantonments—Workers Go Abroad.

At an enthusiastic all-day meeting of the War Work Council of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association at the headquarters, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-second Street yesterday, the amount of its war work budget was raised from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000. It is planned to have the money in hand by the middle of December. Prominent women from all parts of the country representing different interests, not all of them members of the association, belong to the War Council and 250 were present at the meeting.

The increased budget became necessary from an increased demand made upon the women by the officers at the heads of training camps in this country and others abroad. Work in France and Russia is to be begun at once. Already preliminary workers have gone abroad, and more are to go soon. Of the budget $1,000,000 will be devoted to work in Russia and France. Eating places, cafeterias and tearooms will be opened for the working women of Russia, among whom there is great need. The Misses Clara Taylor and Marcia O. Dunham are now en route for Russia and the Misses Clarissa Spencer and Elizabeth Boies are already on the ground doing the preparatory work.

A demand has come to the council from three of their women workers in France asking for nineteen helpers, and these will be sent. Eating houses or canteens are to be opened for the working women of France, and fourteen of the workers who will go over will devote themselves to social work among the war nurses of the American hospitals. These overworked women need to have their condition ameliorated and given places where they can rest. There will be a central club in Paris, a big social centre organized on the lines of the Y. W. C. A. Nurses' Club at Forty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue, this city, and small branches at each of the base hospitals.

Hostess houses, where the relatives of the soldiers can be accommodated on visits to the cantonments in this country, will take $900,000 of the budget. There are six of these hostess houses already in working order, there are twenty-five under construction, and requests have been made for seven more. Originally put up for the families of the officers, they will now be used to accommodate the relatives of enlisted men. The council builds the hostess house always upon invitation of the officer in charge of the camp. In the camps nearest home a greater number are needed. There are three at Yaphank, two for the families of white soldiers and one for those of negroes.

Little cities have grown up around the camps in many places and emergency housing accommodation is to establish for girl employes in different lines of work, those making army uniforms among others, and $500,000 of the budget goes for this work. Increased secretarial work will take $525,000, for foreign-born women who will visit the men of their families in the camps $500,000 has been set aside. These women, many of them neither speaking or understanding English, will be given interpreters and the work of finding their friends facilitated. There will also be work among the families of the women to give them an understanding of American ideas, and a "Finding Bureau" will be opened to enable them to gain track of their families and friends who have lived in devastated parts of Europe.

Of other portions of the budget there will be $270,000 for headquarters and field work of the National Board; $100,000 for publicity, including the magazine of the Patriotic League; $100,000 for a Bureau of Social Morality Speakers for instruction of mothers and daughters; $200,000 for work in negro communities affected by the war, and $255,000 for general emergency work and miscellaneous needs.

To raise the $4,000,000, nine teams of twenty-two women each will leave this city today to begin the work of organization. They will hold sectional conferences in Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Chicago, and Atlanta, to be followed by State conferences. The motion to raise the budget for the war work yesterday was made by Mrs. Herbert Pratt of Glen Cove, Long Island, Chairman of the Finance Committee, of which Mrs. Henry P. Davison is Treasurer. Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, was one of the women present who took part in the discussion. Mrs. Baker, wife of the Secretary of War, was unable to come. A few of the women present were Mrs. Jonathan Bulkley, Mrs. Coleman du Pont, Miss Jean Greer, Mrs. Henry Marquand, Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan, and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Mrs. James S. Cushman, Chairman of the Executive Committee, presided and entertained the members of the council at luncheon in the cafeteria of the building. A gift of $100,000 from the Carnegie Corporation was announced.

Eleven men and two women left an Atlantic port recently to work in France with the American forces under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, which brings the number of Americans working overseas in this capacity up to 300.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—A touch of Winter brings a foretaste of what is in store the next few months. With the thermometer under 40 this morning there is no heat in the hotel. A porter brings a pitcher of hot water for shaving, but that is all. After a stone-cold bath it is necessary to go back to bed to get warm. As it is a meatless Tuesday, heat-giving foods are lacking to help induce reaction from the ice-water bath.

If conditions are somewhat trying in the most luxurious hotel, what must Winter bring to the poor? If comfortloving America could go through a few such mornings it would make Hoover's work easier. While America's being in the war makes starvation less imminent, America should constantly remember that the whole allied world is now living out of the same pot.

France being fed and kept warm is precisely as important militarily as the building of ships and planes and putting men in trenches, and just as much America's job. Remoteness from the battle line saves America much pain and suffering that here must be endured, but in the particular sacrifices she can make she should stop at nothing that will hearten and support the ally whose face is being ground by the war.

Exonerates Our Patrol.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Italian Government, according to statements made here today, is attaching no blame to the American patrol boat which fired on an Italian submarine because the latter failed to respond when signaled with the result that she was mistaken for an enemy U-boat. All Italian commanders have been informed of the signals they must make and answer, and the neglect of the commander of the submarine to respond to the American boat's signal is the cause, in the official Italian view of the accident.

HILLQUIT ON SEDITION.

Charges Breaking Up of Corner Meetings is Usurpation of Authority

Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, told 2,000 persons in Schuetzen Park, Astoria, last night that the usurpation of authority by city, State, and national officials in breaking up the alleged seditious meetings of the soapbox orators, "suppressing" newspapers, and "invading" homes of suspected aliens and pro-Germans had made the Constitution a "scrap of paper."

"My three opponents say they are the real patriots, and that they stand behind the President," he said. "I say I stand behind the Constitution, because the Constitution needs some one to stand behind it now. The breaking up of peaceful meetings, the invasion of homes, and the suppression of newspapers have reduced the Constitution to a mere 'scrap of paper.'"

The candidate criticised and ridiculed all of his opponents. He said that Bennett was a candidate with a party and no platform; Mitchel had a platform and no party, while Hylan had both party and platform, but was speechless. "I have party, platform, and I can talk," he added. He summed up the claims to patriotism made by his opponents and said that he himself was the true patriot because he had dedicated his best efforts to the betterment of the masses.

Frank A. Fieverman, Socialist candidate for Controller, and Edward Cassidy, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, also spoke.

COMMISSION FOR NEWARK.

Old Form of Government Discontinued by Vote of Three to One.

Supporters of the commission form of municipal government in Newark yesterday outvoted opponents three to one in a special referendum election. The city will dispose of its old form of government by Mayor and Common Council on Nov. 19, when the five Commissioners elected at a special election on Nov. 13 take office. The vote was 19,069 for the commission form of government and 6,053 against it.

It is contended by representatives of the Newark Board of Trade that at least $100,000 a year will be saved. More than 160 city officials will be retired.

In this field the Foundation and the General Education Board have pledged $1,000,000 each toward the development of a great centre of medical education in connection with the University of Chicago.

The Foundation has also established in co-operation with the authorities of Johns Hopkins University a School of Hygiene and Public Health, appropriating $267,000 to that end. The new institution opens this month, with Dr. William H. Welch as Director. It will provide instruction and research facilities in hygiene, sanitation, and preventive medicine for physicians, medical students, chemists, biologists, engineers, &c., and especially men who desire to fit themselves for a career in public health. There has been no such school in the United States.

The purpose of the China Medical Board is the development of scientific medicine and hygiene in China through medical schools, hospitals, and training schools for nurses. The year 1916 has shown signal progress in the building up of the board's medical schools in Peking and Shanghai with adequate personnel and equipment, in grants in aid to hospitals of various missionary organizations, the granting of fellowships to missionary physicians, and to Chinese physicians to give them the advantages of special study and in the translation into Chinese of medical books, including nursing textbooks.

JOHN M'BRIDE, LABOR LEADER, IS KILLED

Federal Mediator and ex-President of American Federation Struck by Runaway Horse.

GLOBE, Ariz., Oct. 9.—John McBride, Federal mediator and widely known labor leader, died here this afternoon from injuries received today when he was struck by a runaway horse. He was standing on a street corner when he was hit by the horse and knocked through a plateglass window. He received severe lacerations in the leg and suffered great loss of blood, an artery having been severed. He was 61 years old.

McBride, who was once President of the American Federation of Labor, accompanied the commission headed by Secretary Wilson from Phoenix to Globe. When the first strike of miners occurred last Spring at Jerome, McBride was named as conciliator and sent there. Following the settlement of that strike he was sent by Secretary Wilson to Utah and was brought from Utah to Globe to act as conciliator here.

He had been closely identified with every movement for the unification of mine workers of the United States which has occurred since 1875. He alone had survived the often hasty and unjust judgments of the miners, and possessed qualities which are not common among men who lead organized labor. A miner himself, with only the education which he had been able to gather through a varied experience, he possessed tact to an unusual degree.

He was born near a little mining village along the Ohio Canal not far from Massillon, Ohio, the son of a miner. John McBride went into the mines as a water carrier at the age of 8, and at 12 he was a full-fledged miner. His father was a delegate in the Tuscarawas Valley strike in 1872, representing one end of the valley, while John represented the other. He was elected President of the Miners' Protective Association in 1877, at the age of 23, and in 1882 he organized the Ohio Miners' Association. He was elected to the Ohio Legislature and served as Ohio Commissioner of Labor, and played a prominent part in the Hocking Valley coal strike in 1884.

McBride was elected President of the American Federation in 1894 and served one term, being the only person who had defeated Samuel Gompers.

"America's Mr. Britling has come at last."

The High Heart

By BASIL KING

The soul of patient America aroused at last to her high duty to the world and herself here finds an inspiring voice. This brilliant new novel by the author of "The Inner Shrine" is a story of New York and Newport against the background of the Great War. In addition to the love story, Mr. King has interpreted for all time America's attitude and responsibility to the great conflict.

POSTPONEMENT OF WORLD'S SERIES GAME MAY PUT M'CARTY BACK IN THE GIANTS' LINEUP.

20,000 FANS WOULD HANG WEATHER MAN

That Many Stand and Sit for Hours at the Polo Grounds, Only to be Disappointed.

RAIN PREVENTS THIRD GAME

Many Scalpers and Giants Rejoice When the World's Series Battle is Postponed.

The third of the world's series games between the Giants and the Chicago Sox, which was to have been played at the Polo Grounds yesterday, was postponed at 12:45 by the National Commission, when the umpires, after inspecting the playing field, reported that it would be impossible to hold the game. As this was the first peek that New York fans would have had at the annual baseball classic, thousands who had planned for weeks to take the day off were bitterly disappointed. The Weather Bureau had predicted that the day would be fair, although colder, and thereby showed that it is about as good at picking the weather as the Giants are at winning games.

The postponement was an inspiration to the ticket speculators. Throngs of scalpers gathered at the Polo Grounds just before 1 o'clock, buying up all the rain checks in sight. They were offering $1.50 for the $1 bleacher checks and $2.50 for the $2 lower grand stand tickets. Many of the spectators who had stood in line for hours to get at the ticket windows were from outside the city and they were glad to get rid of their rain checks at this price rather than wait over for the game today.

In spite of the fact that the Giants lost the two games in Chicago and that the White Sox were a ruling 3 to 1 favorite on the series now, there were nearly 20,000 persons at the grounds at 1 o'clock, when Official Announcer Harry Steffir came out with his big megaphone and proclaimed to the multitude that the game was off.

Several hundred fans stood in line in Eighth Avenue all night long in the cold and rain. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning there were more than 1,000 waiting for the ticket offices to open. A number of women had joined the men in the line at that hour. As the gates were to have opened at 9 o'clock, the elevated and subway trains began to unload thousands of persons in Harlem at 8:30.

Umpires Against Opening Gates.

The National Commission was up earlier than usual. That is, they got up early in the morning and peeked out of the windows and saw the rain, so they hurried the four umpires, Klem and Rigler of the National League and Evans and O'Loughlin of the American League, up to Coogan's Bluff to look over the field. The umpires found the ground wet and soggy and advised against opening the gates at 9 o'clock. Then they got in touch with the Weather Bureau and received the information that the storm might blow over. On the basis of this expert information the gates were opened at 9:45, and at this time the crowds had increased to such proportions that the police under Inspector Ryan had their hands full keeping the crowd in check.

In the early arrivals were many soldiers and sailors who had twenty-four hours' leave, just enough to see the first game, and as these men will have no chance to come again today, the speculators got after them immediately and made a big collection of rain checks. The rain has annulled all the efforts of the New York club officials to keep the popular priced tickets out of the hands of the speculators. The flood of rain checks makes it possible for the scalpers to get more of the bleacher and lower stand seats now than if there had been a mail-order sale. Many of the speculators had men and boys in line just as soon as they saw that the weather was bad.

The Giants were not sorry that the game was postponed. In fact, they seemed glad. Lew McCarty, McGraw's best catcher, who injured his right shoulder in Chicago on Sunday, had another day of rest, and some of the soreness has been massaged out of his throwing arm. McGraw has hopes that the shoulder will be sufficiently improved today for McCarty to get behind the bat again.

Giant Pitcher in Doubt.

While Sallee looks like the logical choice for slab duty, there seems to be a strong feeling among the New York players that Schupp will be back in form. As Schupp has been a home pitcher all season, it is believed that he can carry off a game if he gets the chance. McGraw still has Benton to try, and while he was a likely candidate yesterday it is not believed that McGraw will start him now. Sallee has had a three-day rest, and should be in just as good shape as he was in Chicago Saturday. The choice of pitcher will not be made, however, until the last minute, as Manager McGraw will not pick his man until he sees Sallee, Schupp, Benton, and Perritt warm up.

If it is dark and cloudy today and the game is played, it is a pretty sure guess that Manager Rowland will send in Reb Russell, his best left-hander, on account of the southpaw's great speed. Rowland can afford to gamble with his pitchers now that he has a two-game lead safely tucked away. If the Giants should pound Russell hard early in the game, it would give the White Sox a chance to trot out their great game procurer, Dave Danforth, who has pitched sensational ball all season as a relief moundman.

It is asserted that Danforth has been taught to throw the so-called "shine ball" by Cicotte, and that he has puzzled opposing clubs with the same kind of pitching that Cicotte uses. If it is a fair, clear day, Rowland will send Cicotte back at the Giants, for the players are all confident that the Giants will not be able to beat the little knuckle ball pitcher in the series.

They will play with even more confidence behind him than they did in Chicago, for Manager Rowland says that Cicotte is capable of pitching much better ball than he did when he beat the Giants in the opening game by the narrow score of 2 to 1.

When any one asked the Giants yesterday if they were disheartened over the shock they received in the first game, they just pointed back to the world's series of 1912 when the Boston Red Sox just nosed them out because of Snodgrass's muff. The Giants got away to even a worse start in 1912 than they did in this series, losing the opening game at the Polo Grounds to Joe Wood, while the second game in Boston resulted in a tie. The Giants lost three of the first five games in that series, and yet they showed great recuperative powers. They expect to be able to do the same thing in this series. And they have no Snodgrass to muff the ball in the final game.

Gift for Hank Gowdy.

Corporal Hank Gowdy, formerly catcher of the Boston Braves, and hero of the world's series of 1914, is here to see the series. Hank was the first member of the major leagues to enlist. Before the game today Hank will be called to the plate, and will be presented with a wrist watch, the gift of a few of his admirers.

The happiest player at the White Sox camp at the Ansonia is Happy Felsch, whose home run won the first game in Chicago. By this mighty blow Happy has come into many varieties of this world's goods. He has already received two Liberty bonds, a new suit of clothes, several dozen pairs of socks, some new shoes and neckties, and the latest token of esteem came yesterday from some admirer in the West. He received a block of stock in a new airplane concern. Happy has received dozens of letters praising him for his home run blow against the Giants.

Before today's game, Clark Griffith will send a number of ball players through the stands for contributions for his ball and bat fund for the soldiers in France.

The [illegible] has already badly

disarranged the schedule. While the weather forecast for today promises clear and warmer weather, some of the oldest weather sharps say they would not be surprised if there was more rain. The baseball people are relying on the Weather Bureau to fulfill its promises. There has not been a world's series postponement since the 1911 series between the Giants and the Athletics, when a cold rain held the series up for four or five days. This untimely little sprinkle may develop into the same kind of a tie-up in the present series. The games will be played today and tomorrow if such a thing is possible. The umpires will be at the Polo Grounds early this morning to inspect the ground before the gates are opened. They will make their report to the National Commission, which will decide the question as soon as possible.

White Sox Now 3 to 1 Favorites.

The Woodland Bards, the crowd of 250 Comiskey rooters who are here with the White Sox, made things lively everywhere they visited yesterday and last night. The Chicago fans are now betting 3 to 1 that the Sox will take the series, and there is plenty of White Sox money to say that they will win the first game played here. The Chicago rooters, however, want even money on this bet, while New York fans figure they should get odds, as all the advantage is now with the Sox.

The ticket agencies and speculators did not get as many of the reserved seat and box seat tickets as they expected, and the few which were on sale on Monday night and yesterday morning brought big prices. One of the agencies sold about twenty-five sets of tickets, three each, face value $18, for from $40 to $60 a set. One agency stated that they had been able to get a field box for one of their patrons, who paid $350 for it. The regular price for the box for the three games was $75. The fact that the names of the buyers were printed on all the reserved seat tickets has tended to keep down speculation.

Outside the Polo Grounds yesterday morning there were two arrests of men who were trying to sell their places in the line. They were charged with disorderly conduct. These two were David Smith and Morris Bloom, and the arrest was made by Detective Beadle. They were arraigned before Magistrate Frothingham in the Washington Heights Court and fined $2 each on the charge of disorderly conduct. According to the detective, the two approached a number of men in the line on Eighth Avenue and told them that for a certain sum they could get them better places.

12,000 TICKETS FOR SALE.

Fans Still Have Chance to See World's Series.

Excessive moisture sprinkled over New York yesterday not only prevented the first game of the world's series, but it stopped the unreserved seat sale almost in the middle and left 12,000 tickets to be sold this morning. When the gates were closed and the game called shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday 12,000 grandstand seats had been sold and 3,000 bleacher seats. The management of the Giants assert that there are 4,000 grandstand seats still to be sold for today's game and 8,000 bleacher seats. The grandstand seats cost $2 and the bleacher seats $1.

Fans who had nothing but a tightly clasped rain check to show for their long hours of dreary, wet, and cold waiting yesterday, must use the rain check today or when the first New York game is played. The rain check, unlike those issued during the season, will not be good for the second New York game.

The gates will not be opened today until 10 o'clock. Giant officials advanced the hour, since only 12,000 of the 27,000 unreserved seats already are sold and the congestion will not necessarily be so great. The game will start at 2 o'clock, as scheduled originally, and there will be a band concert and solos by local artists.

FANS LOSE SLEEP VAINLY.

Wait in Line All Night at Chicago for Game in New York.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—There were in this city baseball fans, as many, may be, as a thousand, who neither knew nor cared to know that the scene of the world championship baseball games had been transferred to New York. As a result of this indifference to a piece of news that was widely mentioned in the daily papers at the time, a line of baseball fans several blocks long drew up before the American League ball park during last night and when daylight broke was lounging on the sidewalk waiting for the sale of seats to open at 11 o'clock. All of the attachés of the ball park had gone to New York, and there was none left on the grounds to warn the weary waiters they had waited in vain.

This morning the line grew in length as 11 o'clock approached, and at that hour it was so long that a detail of police was sent out to inform the members that the game would be played in New York, and that there would not be any game anyway on account of rain.

CLEVELAND GAINS ON REDS.

Schneider's Wildness Helps Beat Cincinnati by 6 to 3.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—Cleveland took the fifth game of the Ohio series from Cincinnati here today, 6 to 3, making the series score now stand Cincinnati three games to two for Cleveland. Schneider's wildness coupled with errors at critical moments, was largely responsible for the Cleveland victory.

Morton, who started for Cleveland, was relieved by Coveleskie, who proved effective. The sixth game will be played in Cleveland tomorrow.

Welling Defeats Duffy.

Joe Welling, a Chicago lightweight, easily defeated Jimmy Duffy of the West Side last night in a ten-round bout, which was the principal attraction at the Pioneer S. C. Duffy, although showing plenty of fighting courage and sturdiness under fire, was completely outclassed by the Chicagoan. Duffy made the contest interesting with his willingness to mix matters at every opportunity.

MAKES NEW RECORD IN SIX-HEAT RACE

Bacelli Trots to Fame at Lexington—Helen Chimes Also Takes Long Contest.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 9.—Four interesting races were decided at the Grand Circuit meeting here today, the 2.08 trot, won by Bacelli, being the most hotly contested on the card. It took six heats for Bacelli to win, but in so doing the world's record for a six-heat race, made last week by Ima Jay in the Transylvania, was broken.

The 2:06 pace also took six hard heats before Helen Chimes was proclaimed the winner. The $5,000 Dinner Stakes and $2,000 Cumberland were easy for Miss Bertha Dillon and little Frank D., respectively.

Because of the cold weather a small crowd was in attendance and the weather also forced the postponement until tomorrow of the attempts of The Real Lady and Miss Harris M. against their records.

The 2:08 trot came first on the card. The Veteran Ross B. won the first two heats in 2:05¼ and 2:05½, and then Murphy won a heat with Peter Chenault. Bacelli, after being away back in the first two heats, stepped up into second place in the third round and was close behind Peter Chenault. Bacelli then won the final three heats without being fully extended, the six heats constituting a new world's record for a six-heat race.

The 2:06 pace was bitterly fought, Young Todd taking the opening heat from Barlight in 2:05¼. The second went to Helen Chimes, an outsider in the betting, in 2:04¾, while Peter Nash came along to win the third in still faster time, 2:04½. Young Todd then took the fourth and seemed a certain winner, but Helen Chimes beat him back in the fifth, Peter Nash this time finishing second. In the final heat, in which there were only Helen Chimes and Young Todd, the mare won easily in 2:14¾, Cox leaving it to a brush in the stretch.

A. B. Coxe won his second of the sweepstakes for wealthy breeders, trotted here annually, when Miss Bertha Dillon won the $5,000 Dinner Stakes. His two-year-old, Nella Dillon, won the Breeders' Stake, valued at $6,000, for two-year-olds last Saturday.

PIPING ROCK RACES.

Three Steeplechases to be Decided Over the Locust Valley Course.

The race meet of the Piping Rock Association, which opened on Saturday, will be concluded this afternoon with the running off of the second day's program at the Locust Valley course. As at the regular tracks, this amateur association will hold its meeting, rain or shine, and the promise of good sport is sure to attract a large crowd to the most picturesque racetrack in the country.

Ten of the most prominent owners of steeplechasers have made nominations for the Piping Rock Subscription Steeplechase, which will be held over the trying course of three miles. Each subscriber has named two horses, but the actual contestant must be named at least forty-five minutes before the time set for the race. As usual, Edward M. Weld's Weldship is asked to carry top weight, with the Greentree Stable's Cherry Malotte next on the list. There are two other steeplechases on the card, and three races on the flat, including one for two-year-olds that has received the entries of fifteen high-class youngsters.

MATCH RACE IS PUT OFF.

Track Unfit for Meeting of Omar Khayyam and Hourless.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 9.—At a conference this afternoon, in which the representatives of August Belmont, Wilfrid Viau, and the Laurel track took part, it was decided to postpone the special race between Omar Khayyam and Hourless until Thursday, Oct. 18. The conditions for the contest contained a clause that the race should be run on a fair day and fast track. This would be impossible on Thursday next, the original date set. It has been raining here all today, and the track was so muddy this afternoon that there is no chance of its drying out sufficiently to satisfy Trainer Hildreth, who insisted on a fast track.

At present both of these great three-year-olds are ready for the contest that will add at least $10,000 to the Red Cross Fund. Hourless has gained many friends by the manner in which he has galloped. His first real speed test here was last Friday, when he galloped a mile in 1:38 4-5, which is faster than any horse has traveled in any of the races held here this Fall. On Monday the Belmont candidate had his final prep, and though no effort was made to work him fast, he negotiated the mile and a quarter, the distance of the coming race, in 2:09 1-5. He went at an even pace throughout, covering the three-quarters in 1:15 and the mile in 1:42.

Since the arrival of Omar Khayyam reports have been circulated of his having gone back. The Viau champion proved this was not true when he delighted his admirers by galloping a mile and a quarter in 2:08 4-5 on Monday without turning a hair. Like Hourless, Omar traveled the first three-quarters in 1:15, but began to hit up the pace then. He turned the mile in 1:41, the mile and a furlong in 1:53 1-5, and finished with a lot in hand.

Sportsmen all over the country are taking great interest in the coming struggle, which, in case Omar Khayyam wins again, will effectually settle the question of three-year-old supremacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Viau have arrived in Maryland already. Mr. Belmont wired Colonel Matt Winn, the manager of Laurel Park, today that he and Mrs. Belmont would want a box, and that his son Raymond, now a Lieutenant in the new national army, and his wife would accompany them from New York. John Sanford arrived yesterday, and Richard T. Wilson, H. K. Knapp, Andrew Miller, A. K. Macomber, Joseph E. Widener, George D. Widener, Samuel D. Riddle, and every other man of prominence in Eastern racing who can get away from business is coming.

WILL RACE AT 1,000 YARDS.

Fleet Middle-Distance Men to Meet at Celtic Park Sunday.

Local athletic enthusiasts are promised an interesting 1,000 yards race as one of the closing events of the season, which will bring together Mike Devaney of the Millrose A. A., national half-mile champion; Eddie Frick, New York A. C., senior metropolitan title holder; Willie Gordon, also of the Winged Foot Club, and other capable middle-distance runners of the metropolitan district. The event will be run in conjunction with the annual track and field sports of the Irish Federation of the U. S. A., at Celtic Park, next Sunday. It was originally planned to have Johnny Overton, the Yale star, compete against the local talent, but Overton has been unable to secure a furlough.

In an all-around weight contest on the same day Pat McDonald and Matt McGrath, Olympic champions with the shot and weight, respectively, and Pat Ryan, champion and record holder with the sixteen-pound hammer, will be competitors.

HARVARD CREWS ON RIVER.

Five 'Varsity Eights Rowing Over Course Daily.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 9.—Five Harvard 'Varsity crews are rowing on the Charles daily, along with a similar number of freshman boats. Coach Bill Haines, whose contract as Coach Herrick's assistant ran out last Summer, has not been re-engaged for the season, but has consented to take charge until Fall rowing has been completed.

The Harvard Rowing Committee, of which Coach Herrick is head, is against 'Varsity competition this Fall and was none too favorably impressed with the idea of any organized undergraduate rowing. If the present interest continues a regatta will be held late this month.

The 'Varsity order at present is: Stroke, Hurd; 7, Cabot; 6, Batchelder; 5, Parkman; 4, Canfield; 3, Withington; 2, Mellen; bow, Hall; cox., Eustis.

Parkman is captain of the eight and rowed at the same position on his freshman crew two years ago. Withington and Mellen were members of the first freshman eight last year.

The freshman eight as it is now rowing follows: Stroke, Borland; 7, Wadsworth; 6, Denton; 5, Pond; 4, Sutton; 3, Davis; 2, Cutler; bow, Houghton; cox., McVey.

CHAMPION HORSE COMING.

Mrs. Combs Expects to Show Easter Cloud at National Exhibit.

There is a probability that New Yorkers will have a chance to see the champion saddle horse of the world at the National Horse Show, to be held at Madison Square Garden during the middle of next month. If Easter Cloud remains in good condition his owner, Mrs. Loula Long Combs, intends to send him here to win the honors of the five gaited saddle class, in which case his chief Eastern competitor will be Johnny Jones, owned by Myer H. Oppenheim of this city.

Easter Cloud is, by reason of his victory at the Louisville show, the most valuable saddle horse in America. After winning in the class for saddle horse stallions he won the $10,000 championship, defeating the eleven competitors which had been selected by the elimination process, only the four stallions, geldings and mares placed in the class competitions being eligible for the highest honors and the most valuable prize ever offered for saddle horse competition in the world, as far as can be ascertained. Mrs. Combs had two other saddle mares in the competition, Maurine Fisher and La France, they having been placed first and fourth in the division for mares in the preliminary classes, and it is said she has spent more money than any other exhibitor at horse shows in achieving this, the crowning achievement of her career in the horse show ring.

Mrs. Combs has been a frequent exhibitor at the Madison Square Garden shows, and drove several of her own horses in competition against Judge Moore at the last show there, in which she defeated that veteran at the game in some of the harness classes, driving then under her maiden name of Miss Loula Long. Mrs. Combs breaks and trains her own horses at her ranch just outside Kansas City, Mo., where she has a model breeding farm of several hundred acres under her immediate supervision, with a half-mile training track. She is equally at home in the saddle or handling the reins, in which respect she is unique, save for Miss Constance Vauclain of Philadelphia, an equally enthusiastic horsewoman.

SMALL PROFITS AT ST. LOUIS

Cardinals Get Less Than $100 Each for Beating Browns.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—The St. Louis National, winners of the St. Louis city series, will divide $2,361—less than $100 to a player. The St. Louis Americans will divide $1,574. The total receipts for the seven games played on five days were $7,367, of this $736 goes to the National Commission and $2,876 is divided among stockholders of the two clubs.

REGISTER TODAY.

This is registration week. Today, Thursday, and Friday the polls will be open from 5:30 P. M. until 10:30 P. M. On Saturday the polls will be open from 7 A. M. until 10:30 P. M. If you do not register you cannot vote.

PICKWICK IN FRONT IN LAUREL FEATURE

Rainy Weather and Sloppy Track Result in Many Upsets at Maryland Track.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 9.—The Carrollton Handicap for three-year-olds, which promised to be one of the best events of the present race meet, was deprived of considerable interest because of the condition of the track. Westy Hogan was asked to concede weight to fifteen others, but the speedy sprinter was withdrawn, together with so many others that only half a dozen went to the post. Favoritism was divided between A. K. Macomber's Stargazer and W. S. Kilmer's Tom McTaggart, but though the latter ran a good race he was unable to defeat J. E. Widener's Pickwick, which showed at his best on the sloppy track, and in the hands of Keogh won with a little to spare. Stargazer was unsuited by the going, and finished fourth.

There were more surprises during the afternoon. J. K. L. Ross provided one when his Rock Sand colt, Damrosch, with Butwell in the saddle, got home in front of Daddy's Choice and Hauberk in the Joffre Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. The last named was supposed to be at home in the mud and was well supported, but in the stretch drive Louder, who rode him, could not hold his own with Butwell and Keogh.

M. Rowan, who has been a shining light since racing began here, brought home the longest priced winner of the day when he landed T. Smith's Glory Belle in front of G. C. Walsh's Napoleon in the sixth race. There was a big field of selling platers for this event, and Rowan managed to keep Glory Belle out of trouble and won with a little to spare. Glory Belle paid better than 20 to 1.

The steeplechase resulted in another upset, J. W. Dayton's Otto Floto fencing cleanly and beating H. G. Bedwell's Welsh King in the final drive.

FOX TERRIER SHOW OCT. 23.

Postponed by Inability of British Judge to Reach Here.

At a meeting of the License Committee of the American Kennel Club the date for the show of the American Fox Terrier Club was postponed from yesterday to Tuesday, Oct. 23. Entries for the show, which closed Oct. 2, will stand as made, as under the A. K. C. rules the postponement of the show does not carry with it an extension for the time of closing the entries.

This unusual situation is due to the fact that J. J. Holgate, the British expert, who is to officiate as judge, had some difficulty in securing his passports, and so could not reach Hamilton, Mass., where the show is to be held on the estate of George Steadman Thomas, under the superintendence of Frank F. Dole, and for the benefit of the Red Cross.

CORNELL TEAM SELECTED.

Dr. Sharpe Already Has Picked Men for 'Varsity Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The Cornell football team opened the practice week with a long, hard workout in the nature of a dummy scrimmage this afternoon. The coaches spent a good deal of time working with individual players and giving the men the first of the series of new plays to be used in the early games.

As to the probable permanent makeup of the 'Varsity team, it was significant that not a change was made in the eleven which played Oberlin Saturday. Dr. Sharpe seems to have made up his mind as far as the first team is concerned. Rubenstein continued to hold down the right wing and it is obvious that Van Orman has more faith in his last year's scrub than in Harris, who played on the freshman team last Fall. Harris is heavier than Rubenstein, but the latter excels in aggressiveness. The whole team showed improvement.

FORDHAM ON SOGGY FIELD.

Eleven Feels Loss of Andy Dempsey, Who Talks of Enlisting.

Fordham's football players had their first opportunity to work with a slippery ball and to practice on a muddy field yesterday. Coach McCaffery gave a blackboard talk, in which he chalked out a number of new formations, and when the rain abated a bit ordered the two squads to take to the soggy field. A signal drill and a short scrimmage between the 'Varsity and scrub elevens were held. Brennan was given a trial at booting the "leaden" pigskin. McGreth, Fitzpatrick and Crowley did not get into the workout.

Manager Delehanty is endeavoring to secure several teams from the battleships for mid-week skirmishes. Last year the Fordhams had five of these naval engagements, and secured a lot of good practice. Fordham is liable to lose Andy Dempsey, the big back and punter. A rumor is about that Andy is thinking of confining his activities to one of Uncle Sam's fighting units.

GEORGETOWN COMING NORTH

Strong Eleven from the National Capital to Meet Springfield.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Georgetown's 'Varsity football eleven will make its only visit to New England this year on Columbus Day, Oct. 12, when it goes to Springfield, Mass., to meet the team of the Young Men's Christian Association Training College. Georgetown will have a strong eleven in the field, and try to equal its performance of a year ago when it defeated the strong Dartmouth team, 10 to 0, at the opening of the Haverhill Stadium.

V. M. I. TO PLAY WEST POINT.

Southern Boys Will Meet Olyphant's Crack Team on Saturday.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 9.—Having taken the canceled date of the University of Virginia, which has no intercollegiate athletics this year, the eleven of the Virginia Military Institute here will go to West Point on Saturday of this week to play the team of the United States Military Academy.

University of North Carolina, having canceled its game of Nov. 17, leaves this the only open date of the V. M. I. team for the season. The other games scheduled are: Oct. 20, Maryland State at Lexington; Oct. 27, Davidson College at Danville; Nov. 3, Roanoke College at Lexington; Nov. 10, A. and M. of North Carolina at Richmond; Nov. 29, (Thanksgiving Day,) Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Roanoke.

STEVENS IS WELL DRILLED.

Result of Haverford Game Proves Worth of Eleven.

From the result of Saturday's game, Stevens appears to have a well balanced football team. The Engineers' offensive, while not of a dazzling nature, demonstrated that the team had been well drilled. The men handled the ball with ease and security.

On the defensive the line, while weak at times, presented no invitation to attacks at any definite point. When a man did get through, however, the backs formed a dangerous trio and downed their man.

Coach McGall and his assistants are hard at work trying to develop a team that will land on top next Saturday when Stevens plays Wesleyan at Middletown.

N. Y. U. HAS NEW COACH.

F. P. Wall Takes Charge of Eleven and Holds Indoor Drill.

The football practice of the Violet team yesterday was the first since the game last Saturday. Owing to the weather the entire time was devoted to indoor work in the gymnasium. A long blackboard talk was followed by an equally long session of signal drill.

It was the first practice at which Coach Francis P. Wall was in charge. Mr. Wall, a member of the physical training department, has assumed the position of head coach following Coach Eustis's call into military service. He is a former Boston College player. Mr. Wall will carry out Coach Eustis's system, with no changes. Frank H. Cann, Director of Athletics, will assist Coach Wall, mostly in the capacity of trainer and physical adviser.

FORDHAM SCHOOL'S PLANS.

Football Eleven Has a Schedule of Six Games Arranged.

The football schedule for the Fordham Prep eleven was announced yesterday. A private school championship is provided by having games with Hamilton Institute, St. John's Prep, and Brooklyn Prep. Although only three veterans are available, a good team is expected to be turned out by Coach Siskind.

The schedule: Oct. 13, St. Paul's School at Garden City; Oct. 24, Cullum Hall at West Point; Nov. 3, Peekskill Military Academy at Peekskill; Nov. 10, St. John's Prep at Fordham; Nov. 17, Hamilton Institute at Fordham; Nov. 24, Brooklyn Prep at Fordham.

NEW PLAYS FOR INDIANS.

Coach Harris Developing Second String Men for Carlisle.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Oct. 9.—In framing the Carlisle Indian practice for the week Coach Harris put into execution this afternoon his plan for developing strong substitutes for all vital positions. The game against West Virginia on Saturday will require Carlisle to show the best she has.

Today's practice included forward passing, punting, and running ends down under punts. New plays were given the first string outfit. Lachquel may be switched to guard or tackle as required. Norris, whose sprained shoulder is nearly well, will be in Saturday's game. The Godfreys worked hard at defense drills today, and are making great headway at handling their men.

Coffey-Brennan Bout Off.

DUNDEE MASTERED BY IRISH FIGHTER

Cline Beats Italian Rival in Nine Out of Ten Rounds at Manhattan A. C.

Irish Patsy Cline, the clever Harlem boxer, surprised a crowded house of boxing fans at the Manhattan A. C. last night by easily outpointing the veteran Italian contender for lightweight championship honors, Johnny Dundee, in their ten-round bout. The Harlem boy outclassed the Italian lightweight in every department of the ring game, and particularly those phases of it in which Dundee was supposed to have been especially intelligent. Cline had a clear advantage in every round except the sixth, in which session Dundee worked hard enough to stem the tide.

Cline, at 137 pounds, was six and one-half pounds heavier than Dundee, and he made this weight handicap tell in all of his work. Starting with the first round, Cline, usually a clever boxer, discarded his ability in this direction and exchanged blows with the Italian. The crowd got its first surprise in the opening session when the Harlem lad beat Dundee in these exchanges, landing the cleaner and heavier blows. Every other round thereafter was similar, with Cline forcing the fighting unflinchingly and rushing Dundee off his feet.

Cline jabbed, hooked, and swung on Dundee until the latter in desperation employed his famous crouching style and attempted to come at Cline through his folded arms to work to the stomach at close quarters. But in this Dundee was surprised, for Cline met the Italian's rushes with right and left hand uppercuts, and when he was of the mind openly awaited Dundee so that he could slug with him.

The majority of Dundee's attempted blows went wide. Cline usually ducked or evaded Johnny's blind swings and made the Italian look decidedly awkward. Late in the fourth round Cline caught Dundee off balance with one of his hard righthand cracks to the jaw and sent the Italian spinning against the ropes, but Dundee returned to the milling with that eagerness which has earned him a wide reputation in the ring. His efforts, however, were discounted against the clever work of Cline.

This was the nearest thing to a knockdown that the bout produced, although in the eighth Dundee slipped to his knee when he lost his hold in a clinch. In the closing rounds Cline gave his opponent no quarter, but kept steadily after the Italian and left no room for doubt as to his superiority.

INVADERS VICTORS AT GOLF.

Glen Ridge Players Succeed in Tourney at Montclair.

Glen Ridge golfers visited the Montclair Golf Club yesterday and played in an all-day tournament with Montclair members, and curious enough, or rather to the consternation of the home defenders, the visitors carried off the greater share of the laurels. Fred Baldwin of Glen Ridge had the best thirty-six-hole net score, with 164, 10—154, and the thirty-six-hole best ball event was won by Clifford Taylor and John Tatterson, both from Glen Ridge.

During the eighteen-hole morning journey W. L. Cummings of Glen Ridge, with 109, 28—81, was tied for the best net, with G. F. Handel, also of Glen Ridge, who had 98, 17—81. H. D. Smith of Glen Ridge had the best gross, with 86, for the morning round. The best ball went to H. S. Thomas of Glen Ridge, paired with E. L. Allen of Montclair, who had 88, 22—66.

In the afternoon competition H. M. Reeves of Montclair tied with J. F. Capin of Glen Ridge for the best net at 76. J. B. Martin of Glen Ridge had the best gross, with 84. J. B. Horsford and Alexander Brown won the best ball affair, with 95, 24—71.

HOYT ENGINEERS' LEADER.

Siwanoy Golfer Wins Cup in Competition at Scarsdale.

While waiting for their own links to be completed at Glen Head, L. I., the Engineers of the city are enjoying the hospitality of several other golf clubs. It was Scarsdale which turned over its links yesterday, and the Engineers to the number of seventy competed in an all-day tournament. Frank Hoyt, the genial Siwanoy golfer, gained the supreme title of the Engineers by taking possession of the Quincy Cup, emblematical of the gross leadership. Hoyt had 80, 81—161 for the thirty-six holes, and since it was the third successive year he has scored for the cup he took the piece of silver out of competition.

In the other events C. Longenecker and E. W. Van Houten, with 183, 37—146, won the best ball; Captain E. S. Sawtelle led in the Red Cross handicap with 89, 18—71, and C. Longenecker had the best net for thirty-six holes with 182, 40—142. In the Class A division F. W. De Jahn won with 83, 9—74. Captain Sawtelle won in Class B with 89, 18—71, and J. W. Smith was the Class C leader with 105, 32—73.

WHITEHALL GOLFERS PLAY.

De Ronde Has Best Gross in Struggle at Knollwood.

Members of the Whitehall Club visited Knollwood yesterday and took part in a strenuous struggle of thirty-six holes. Phillip de Ronde, one of the best players in the district, turned in 167 for his gross efforts over thirty-six holes, which was the best of the day. H. T. Hawke had the best eighteen-hole gross round with 85. B. M. Fellows won the thirty-six-hole net prize with 155 and was closely followed by Andrew Baxter, Sr., who had 158. Oakley Wood and L. C. Bostwick each had 158.

In the kicker's handicap J. C. Quirk and L. M. Cowdray tied with 79 each. E. G. Scott, John Melady, L. C. Bostwick, and Andrew Baxter, Sr., tied at 75. The best ball affair found D. M. Fellows and T. C. Este in the lead with a net score of 70. The blind handicap with scores to count on the second, fifth and seventh holes was won by Jervase Green, who made the three hazardous holes in 12 strokes.

BOXING FOR AMATEURS.

New York Athletic Club to Stage Bouts for Four Classes Next Week.

The next amateur boxing tournament in the local district will be held at the New York Athletic Club's gymnasium on Oct. 18 and 20, when bouts in four classes will be put on. The classes are for 110, 120, 130, and 140 pound men, the latter division being for novices who have never won a first or second prize.

The prizes are to be solid gold watch and chain to winners, gold-filled watch and chain to runners-up, and gold miniature boxing glove scarfpins to the losers of the semi-final bouts in each class as souvenirs. Entries for the tournament close next Monday with Paul H. Pilgrim, New York A. C.

OFFICERS APPROVE O'RYAN'S CHANGES

PROMISES SERVICE ABROAD

General Pershing and British and French Missions Suggested the Step Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 9.—The general feeling among the officers of the Twenty-seventh Division today when they learned of the transfers made by the reorganization order was that Major Gen. O'Ryan's selections were made carefully and in the best interest of the service. There was not a single word of complaint; in fact, even the officers picked to remain here and train troops were contented, for a War Department telegram explaining the reorganization assured every officer and nearly every man "an opportunity for service in France."

The department's mention of "these divisions which have been designated to go to France at an early date" stirred the 30,000 soldiers of Camp Wadsworth to a high pitch of patriotic enthusiasm. The telegram follows:

"At the time war was declared the organization of our army was based on the idea of manoeuvre warfare, such as we would ordinarily have in this country. The French and British missions and General Pershing agree that a radically different organization is necessary for more efficient service in such trench warfare as in Europe at present. European war methods, influencing our organization, were not fully developed even up to the time we entered the war. The question of reorganizing the army was a serious one, and was not determined upon until it was shown to be absolutely necessary under the special conditions that now confront us.

Problems of Reorganization.

"Having decided to reorganize, the best methods of doing it became a serious problem. Inasmuch as it was realized that if the new divisions were to contain the trained officers and men of the old, a readjustment of the duties of many officers and some of the organizations would be necessary. The strength of the new divisions in officers and men does not differ materially from the old, but the number and kinds of organizations are different. For example, the old division had nine regiments of infantry, while the new has only four, but the new regiment has almost twice the strength of the old in officers and men. There are three machine-gun battalions and a trench mortar battery in the new division. These are new organizations which do not appear in the old.

"The National Guard divisions have varied in the composition of their units, no two being exactly the same; most have had an excess of infantry and a shortage of artillery. In the reorganization some of the regiments have been converted into other units—for example, infantry regiments into artillery regiments, infantry regiments into machine gun battalions; in some cases two regiments have been converted into one, while others are surplus and maintain their organizations virtually complete in officers, with a few enlisted men.

"It is regretted, of course, that it has been necessary to break up any of the National Guard regiments, but there was no other way if the officers and men belonging to them were to become a part of the new division. And if these divisions which have been designated to go to France at an early date are to be composed of trained officers and men, the necessity for breaking up some of the regiments to obtain them becomes apparent.

"As a result of the reorganization some of the officers, particularly in the higher grades, have become surplus, but there will be plenty of places for them. It is not the intention to demote or discharge any of them, but to give all commands or duties commensurate with their rank, in the division of which their former organizations were a part, so that when their divisions go to France they will go with them as a part of them. Until their divisions go to France they will be attached to organizations or assigned to appropriate duties by the War Department or division commanders. Neither is it the intention that non-commissioned officers will be demoted or reduced, but all will be given duties appropriate to their grades.

Army and Corps Troops.

"In the formation of any army a great many more troops are required than are incorporated in the divisions. These are known as army and corps troops. It is planned that the National Guard shall furnish its share of the army and corps troops. It is the intention to keep intact those regiments which are virtually complete in officers and have a skeleton of enlisted men filled out by recruits. The regiments will then be fitted for army and corps troops work.

"While regiments that are utilized for this purpose do not form a part of the divisional organizations, they will be assigned, when used as corps troops, to the corps of which their old division is a part.

"Regiments assigned to army troops naturally must be independent of other organizations, but they will have the advantage of keeping intact and maintaining and transmitting their names and traditions."

The regiments referred to, which will retain their present names, are the Seventy-first, Colonel William G. Bates; the Twelfth, Colonel Reginald L. Foster; the Fourteenth, Lieut. Col. J. R. Howlett; the First, Colonel James S. Boyer, and the Seventy-fourth. These regiments will retain an average of 200 men each and a varying number of officers.

"The subject of providing trained officers and men to replace losses at the front is a very important one," the War Department statement continues. "Our new scheme of organization provides a number of training battalions combined into depot brigades for the replacement of all losses. A certain number of officers will be required at these depots for training purposes. At first it is the intention to assign officers to these duties whose experience and ability fit them for the training of others, and later to send them to the front, their places in the training depot being taken by officers who have had service at the front. Many of the latter will be officers who have been invalided home and incapacitated for duty at the front, but whose services can be made good use of at the training depots.

For Training at Depots.

"It is desirable and may be found practical to send some of the officers who are to go to the depot brigades in the beginning to the front for a few weeks' observation and experience in order that they may be able to more efficiently supervise the training at the depots. All military men appreciate the necessity for having training units for replacing losses. As a matter of course the National Guard divisions must furnish officers and men for this purpose; but as indicated above, details to this duty will not be permanent. All will have an opportunity for service in France."

To fill up the ranks of the Seventy-first and the other regiments selected as replacement troops, drafted men from the Yaphank cantonment will be sent here. The first batch of 4,000 men picked already on their preliminary work at Camp Upton is reported as due to report here soon. All selected men to be assigned to the Twenty-seventh will come from Camps Upton and Dix, so that division at all times will be composed wholly of New Yorkers.

No reserve officers now on duty at Dix or Upton will accompany the men. The 250 reserve officers who are already here, and who were the "cream" of Plattsburg and Madison Barracks, will be appointed in their present rank to the replacement regiments.

Second Lieut. Matson, who was wounded at dawn yesterday in a liquor raid, today was notified of his promotion to First Lieutenant. His condition was reported as "decidedly favorable." Though he was mighty proud of his promotion, Matson's greatest delight was occasioned by a remark of his superior, Major T. Harry Shanton. "No matter how long the division fights or where, you'll always have the honor of having been the first man wounded in action," the Major told him at the hospital this afternoon.

Plans for the great Liberty Loan campaign at the camp were pushed today, and Captain H. O. Young, O. R. C., was appointed to take care of the publicity. A big parade through Spartanburg is one of the features scheduled. It is expected that Secretary McAdoo and other notables will address the soldiers.

PROVES INNOCENCE AT COST OF $50,000

NOT "CHRISTMAS KEOUGH"

Mistaken Identity Admitted by District Attorney's Office After Many Merchants Accused Him.

After spending more than $50,000 to prove that he was not the notorious swindler known to the police all over the country as "Christmas Keough," Alexander P. Macauley, a mining expert of Ontario, Canada, under indictment for forgery since last January, obtained a complete vindication yesterday when Assistant District Attorney Kilroe admitted that Macauley had been a victim of an "extraordinary case of mistaken identity." Mr. Kilroe made this admission to Judge McIntyre in General Sessions, who promptly dismissed the indictment against Macauley with an expression of regret that the defendant should have been caused so much needless humiliation.

Mr. Macauley was arrested in St. Louis on Dec. 22, 1916, after detectives had become convinced that he was the "Christmas Keough," who for several years had been swindling merchants in St. Louis, Chicago, and New York out of considerable sums of money by purchasing merchandise with checks forged on the Dominion Bank at Toronto. During the early stages of his career this particular swindler had signed the checks with the name of "Lawrence Keough." His practice was to put his checks into circulation, usually on the Saturday before Christmas, which would give him at least two or three days during the holiday rush in which to make his escape before his forgeries could be discovered.

Keough concealed his tracks after each exploit and then remained under cover until the following Christmas, when he resumed operations. Last year he came to New York on Dec. 23 and made a tour of a half dozen jewelry and clothing stores, in each of which he obtained goods with checks on the Canadian Bank. This time, however, he signed himself "G. H. Meighan" and pretended to be a mining engineer with offices in the Dominion Bank Building at Toronto, Canada.

Before his forgeries were discovered he disappeared.

Detectives who were put on his trail learned that similar checks had been passed in St. Louis on Dec. 22. The St. Louis police inspected the registers of the hotels in St. Louis, and as Mr. Macauley was the only person whom thye could find registered from Toronto they arrested him. He was stopping there at the time with his family. On being examined by the local police authorities Mr. Macauley proved to their satisfaction that he was not the man they were after. The detectives, however, insisted upon taking him to New York, where he was immediately identified by at least six clothing and jewelry merchants as being the man who had passed forged checks under the name of Meighan. His indictment followed soon after.

Retaining George Gordon Battle as his attorney, Mr. Macauley began a fight to clear his name. According to Mr. Battle, that fight cost him more than $50,000. It was apparent from the start that some one who looked very much like him, actually his double, was perpetrating the Christmas Keough swindles. Mr. Macauley employed detectives to run the swindler down. He had no success until April last, when he was informed that bad checks on the same Toronto bank had been passed on storekeepers in Chicago. These checks were signed by "J. H. Paget."

The Chicago storekeepers were brought to New York, and they all agreed that Macauley was not the man who had passed the checks. In the meanwhile District Attorney Swann had received many letters from persons of prominence in Canada, among them members of the Parliament, who vouched for Macauley's good character. Mr. Swann thereupon appointed Mr. Kilroe to make a thorough investigation into the case. As the result of his inquiry, which included the examination of more than fifty witnesses in New York, Chicago, and St. Louis, Mr. Kilroe arrived at the conclusion yesterday that Mr. Macauley was not the guilty man.

Mr. Kilroe's investigation showed that Macauley had arrived in St. Louis directly from Toronto on Dec. 23. This was the very day "Christmas Keough" passed his checks in New York. One complainant from Brook Bros., tailors, identified Mr. Macauley as the man who had purchased a suit of clothes there, size 43, in exchange for a forged check. Accompanied by Mr. Kilroe and Mr. Battle, Mr. Macauley visited the Brooks Bros. store and tried on a number of size 43 suits. Every one of them was far too large.

"The New York shopkeepers who so positively identified Mr. Macauley," said Mr. Kilroe yesterday, "were honestly mistaken. All that we can do is to tender our deep regret and our sincere sympathy to Mr. Macauley for the humiliation that this mistake has caused him."

GARY INQUIRY BEGINS.

Bronx Grand Jury Witness Says System Endangers Children's Health

The Bronx County Grand Jury yesterday began an inquiry into school conditions in the Bronx and particularly into the Gary school system which has been installed in a number of the Bronx schools. Max F. Wolff, Chairman of the Education Committee of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce and also head of the Legislative Committee of the Public School Neighborhood Association, was the only witness before the Grand Jury yesterday. He submitted records, the results of three years of investigation into school conditions in New York. The inquiry will be resumed next Tuesday.

Mr. Wolff charged that the Gary system is an obstacle to the Americanization of foreign-born children and that it endangers the health of the children because they have to walk up and down stairs many times a day. He declared that the breakdown of the educational system in the Bronx is complete, as shown by the fact that many manufacturers and industrial concerns in the northern part of the city have installed schools to teach their employes how to read, write, and spell.

"There are more part time students than there ever were before in the schools of the Bronx," said Mr. Wolff. "Last year there were 10,000 children attending part time classes, while there are 12,000 children in such classes today."

The Grand Jury is planning to inquire into the conditions surrounding the construction of the new building for the Evander Childs High School in the Bronx. It was said that this building should have been completed in September, 1916, but as it is not yet finished the city must house the students in six annexes, the expense of which would have been saved by the completion of the building on time.

Will of E. J. Wendell Disposes of $500,000 Estate.

The will of Evert Jansen Wendell, philanthropist and former Harvard athlete, who died in Paris on Aug. 28 last, was filed for probate yesterday and disposes of an estate estimated at more than $500,000. The testator made a number of public bequests and divided the residuary estate among the children of deceased brothers. Mr. Wendell gave $10,000 to Harvard University to be used in the furtherance of the study of dramatic literature, in which he was interested, and he also gave the university his collection of paintings and such of his books, theatre programs, and memorabilia as the authorities care to select.

Mr. Wendell gave $10,000 to the Children's Aid Society, in which he was active during his lifetime, and left to his friend, Robert N. Brace, Superintendent of the society, his jewelry and $1,000. He gave $5,000 to the Five Points' House of Industry. To the New Hampshire Historical Society he left a letter written before the Revolutionary War by the merchants in Boston to the merchants in Portsmouth "relative to the tax on tea."

The testator gave to his brother, Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard, the portrait of their mother painted by John S. Sargent and left him $5,000 to discharge a debt of their brother, Jacob, and $1,000 as the testator's share in the Wendell homestead. To Mrs. Frances C. E. Wendell, widow of his brother, Gordon Wendell, he gave $25,000 to discharge an indebtedness of their brother, Jacob, while Mrs. Marion Fendall Wendell, who lives at Sandridgebury, England, and is the widow of Jacob, received $25,000 in trust. Her two daughters, Philippa and Anna C. T. Wendell, who live with her, and her sons, Jacob and Reginald Wendell, now serving in France, share with their cousin, Frances Gordon Wendell of 128 East Thirty-fifth Street, the residuary estate.

Mr. Wendell gave $10,000 to his former employe, Joseph Meyer of 936 Hoe Avenue, the Bronx, and to Francis M. Verdi of 526 West 112th Street he gave $5,000.

DISCUSS AFTER-WAR TRADE.

Manufacturers Meet to Talk Co-operation with Government.

A movement to encourage further co-operation between the Government and business after the war, as well as during it, will be launched today before 700 representatives of the largest export manufacturing concerns in the country at the eighth annual convention of the American Manufacturers' Export Association at the Hotel Biltmore. E. M. Herr, President of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, President of the association will preside at the convention which will include a closed session this morning, and at the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, which is open to the public. The afternoon addresses will be made by William C. Downs, United States Commercial Attaché at Rio de Janeiro; H. C. Boyle, former Minister of Railways, New South Wales; M. A. Dudin of the General Electric Company and others.

At the dinner to be held tonight at the Biltmore Andre Tardieu, High Commissioner for the French Republic in the United States, will speak on "Co-operation Between the Allies." Other speakers will be Arthur W. Thompson, Vice President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, Captain R. Hall Kayvett, Fifteen Infantry Brigade, Australian Imperial Forces, and Leland D. Summers.

Sugar Refinery Closed.

More than 2,000 employees of the American Sugar Refining Company at the Kent Avenue factory in Williamsburg were thrown out of work yesterday when the plant was closed. The men were notified that the company had no raw sugar, and were advised to take other employment until such time as the company could get material which will probably be about the first of the year.

Officials of the company said it was customary to shut down some of the plants about this time each year, and that because of the need for repairs and alterations the Williamsburg plant was selected this year.

THINK of the United States Government as a business concern. It is engaged in the greatest undertaking in its history — the war. And, like any business concern, it requires money. It goes to the American public, just as other business concerns have gone, to ask for that money. The greatest difference is that in this case the American public has better security than any business concern could possibly offer—the word of the United States Government.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Securities Decline Further While Buyers Stand Aloof.

The security markets did nothing yesterday to relieve the depression which owners of stocks and bonds have felt for the last month and more. On the contrary, stocks, after a period of backing and filling in the morning and early afternoon, dipped rather sharply downward in the final hour, and left off with declines in the more active issues running from 1 to 3 points. In character the day's dealings supplied no new angle for either investors or speculators to look upon the future. Liquidation in railroad and industrial bonds continued, bringing new low records for the year, and save for a moderate rally in Liberty 3½s from 99.54 to 99.72, the bond market presented few features different from those which have long been affixed to the daily decline of standard issues.

It would not be amiss to say that numerous close students of security movements are devoting more attention to the movement of bonds than to stocks. The financial community has been undecided for a long time in regard to the value of capital in undertakings not connected with war operations. The Government has fixed upon 4 per cent. as the price it desires to pay for a year's use of the money it is borrowing from the people, but the rate of interest commanded by the new Liberty bonds does not impart any information to the corporate borrower in respect to what he will need to pay next month or the month after that for his capital. The creditors of corporations, bond and note holders are in the same situation as the borrower. They know that a vast amount of capital will be required by the allied Governments, including the United States, and that the greater the demand the higher will be the cost all around. The time will come, of course, when capital costs will grow relatively stable, as business becomes more thoroughly adjusted to war conditions, and it is for this development that the bond market is watched.

Stocks are conventionally supposed to be affected in strength or weakness by the day to day money market. Call money, which loaned freely at 4 per cent. yesterday, and has not been much higher for some time, is not dear enough to bear a really adverse influence on stocks, and yet stocks have continued to decline. Time funds continue steady from 5½ to 6 per cent. The money market of late has received secondary consideration in the Street, to the belief that liquidation of long stock is a leading factor in depressing securities, and many potential buyers of stocks who look upon many issues as "cheap" are holding back until they are persuaded that signs are discernible that liquidation is lessening.

The market paid no attention to news of a renewal of the British advance in Flanders, and only passing comment was heard on reports from Berlin that a fresh effort to get tentative peace terms before the nations was about to be made. As on other recent days, sentiment in the Street was bereft of formative influences, other than those contained in internal developments.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

War News and Cheap Money Are Chief Factors on the Exchange.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The war news and cheap money continue the chief factors on the Stock Exchange. The market today was generally firm, with a large business in British funds, home rails, and copper and Marconi shares the principal features. Rubber stocks were irregular, and foreign issues were inclined to dullness, but Cuban Ports were firm and dearer.

Money was in smaller supply, owing to increased applications for the new war bonds. Discount rates were steadier.

Prices Unchanged on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Prices on the Bourse today were unchanged.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Comparison of Prices.

In view of the decline which has occurred in stocks of late it is interesting to compare quotations with those prevailing when the Stock Exchange was closed in 1914. In general the level is much higher now than then, but some of the railroad issues are lower. The table gives yesterday's final quotations and the bid prices on Nov. 4, 1914, quoted by one of the most active dealers in the so-called "outlaw" market in New Street.

| American Smelting | 91½ | 47 |
| American Telephone and Tel. | 114½ | 110½ |
| Anaconda | 67¼ | 20 |
| Baltimore & Ohio | 58⅝ | 61½ |
| Chesapeake & Ohio | 53⅛ | 38 |
| C., M. & St. P. | 50⅝ | 77½ |
| Great Northern preferred | 101⅝ | 106½ |
| New York Central | 73⅛ | 74½ |
| Southern Pacific | 90¼ | 77½ |
| Southern Railway | 26⅝ | 13½ |
| Union Pacific | 126 | 107½ |
| U. S. Steel | 105⅛ | 41⅝ |
| Utah Copper | 85 | 40 |

Tobacco Products Dividend.

Tobacco Products halted its downward movement and regained a point of its previous day's loss yesterday on news that the Executive Committee had recommended that dividends be started on Nov. 15 at the rate of $1.50 a share quarterly. United Cigar Stores dropped 3 points to par, recovering slightly before the close. The latter issue failed to reflect in a favorable manner a reiteration of the rumor that the Cigar Stores Company was to figure shortly in a merger with two other corporations. It is a difficult time to arouse bullish interest in merger talk.

Troubled Traders.

Many a holder of stocks whose margins are large but whose paper losses are also large is troubled by the course of the market. Stories are going the rounds of individuals who have become tired of holding on and have sacrificed substantial amounts of capital by selling. Often in other market periods these bits of gossip have become frequent when prices were approaching their lowest levels. Naturally they increase in number as the price level drops lower. If one could correctly base deductions on past markets, the problem of the speculator with a big paper loss would be simplified. But that may not be done. Nervous traders who apply to their brokers for advice go away unsatisfied, for the broker has none to give. A good rally would help Wall Street vastly and such a development is hoped for prayerfully in the commission houses.

Government Lead Cheaper.

The lead market has moved in favor of the Government in its purchases for war needs and without the necessity of price fixing. When the Federal authorities began to buy lead some weeks ago, it was arranged that eight cents a pound should be paid for requirements estimated at about 8,000 tons a month. The open market quotation then was slightly above this figure. Yesterday the metal was quoted under eight cents, and it was said in the trade that the Government price would be adjusted to meet the decline. The recession in the open market quotation is said to be the product of the temporary slackening of buying by private consumers, similar to that which has been in evidence in the copper market since the price was fixed at 23½ cents a pound.

Estimates on Copper Consumption.

Unofficial estimates in the copper trade of the extent of Government consumption in the last three months of the year call for about 360,000,000 pounds of the metal, or 120,000,000 pounds a month. Of this it is thought the foreign Allies will take between 70,000,000 and 75,000,000 pounds a month. It is estimated further that the refinery production in the three months' period will be in the neighborhood of 450,000,000 pounds, which, if the total proves to be correct, will leave 90,000,000 pounds for private consumers. It is too early to say whether the surplus over war needs will be enough to go around, as many brass and copper mills are working on Government orders, and their supplies are reckoned in the estimate of Government purchases.

Weather in the Cotton Belt.

General J. Frost has taken a hand in the campaign for 30-cent cotton, and in two days has accomplished more, judging by the effect on the local market, than all the resolutions of growers' meetings, proclamations, and fulminations of the united South. However, his methods are not likely to appeal strongly to his allies. It is becoming increasingly clear each day that the cotton crop this year is going to be painfully short, and unless the Government takes a hand, the law of supply and demand is going to have its effect on war costs in this important staple of munitions as well as of clothing.

RAILROAD EXPENSES RISE.

Increased Operating Cost Cut Down Net Earnings in August.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A slight falling off in railroad earnings for the month of August is indicated by preliminary reports from 153 of the chief railroads of the country to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Thirty-three roads are yet to be heard from.

New revenues for August were, $94,713,175, as compared with $96,816,427 in August, 1916. Gross receipts, however, increased approximately $32,000,000, reaching a total of $292,103,643. The difference in net revenues was due wholly to increased operating expenses, which show a jump from $163,816,952 a year ago, to $197,390,478 last August.

Western roads showed decreased revenues of approximately $2,000,000, Eastern roads showed revenues of approximately the same as last year, while Southern roads increased their net revenues by $2,000,000.

$10,418,688 FOR ADDITIONS

President Harrison Refers to Increase of Business Due to Big Military Camps.

The report of the Southern Railway Company for the year ended June 30 last, just submitted to the stockholders, shows total revenues of $81,388,325, the greatest in the company's history, and net operating income of $24,331,453. This was equivalent to an earning of 5.97 per cent. upon the entire property investment in the company, which amounts to $407,688,152. The final surplus over all fixed charges amounted to $12,360,161, and enabled the company to spend during the year $10,418,688 on additions and betterments. This surplus was more than $3,000,000 greater than that for the previous year, which had ranked as the greatest in the company's history.

"It has been a record year," says President Fairfax Harrison in his report. "The volume of revenue, of expenses and of income, as well as the extent of improvements and betterments carried through, all reached new high levels, reflecting the good and the evil of the prosperity which has come to the South.

"The property has been well maintained; its physical condition was never better than at the close of the year. The roadway destroyed by storms and floods in July, 1916, was restored and the entire cost of reconstruction was charged to maintenance expenses for the year.

"Except as affected by varying crop, local and temporary conditions, which caused this year a loss of certain traffic, principally perishables, there was a substantial, steady, and uniform increase of every class of traffic handled by the company. Through the location of numerous military camps within the South, we have engaged, and for some time may be expected to continue to engage, increasingly, in the transportation of supplies for account of the Government.

"Of the 649 miles of main line between Washington, D. C., and Atlanta, Ga., 521 miles are now double track on improved alignment and grades, and the work is progressing on the remaining 128 miles. Despite disturbed labor conditions throughout the year and acute discussions of wages, the company has again had loyal and efficient service from its army of officers and employes."

At the annual meeting of stockholders, held yesterday in Richmond, Va., Augustus D. Juilliard and Jackson E. Reynolds, Vice President of the First National Bank of New York, were elected Directors to fill vacancies. Dr. Edwin A. Alderman of Charlottesville, Va.; Robert Jemison, Sr., of Birmingham, Ala.; Bishop John Carlisle Kilgo of Charlotte, N. C., and Charles Steele of New York were elected Directors for a term of three years to succeed themselves. There are now 9,563 stockholders in the Southern Railway.

STEEL MEN CONFER HERE.

Discuss General Situation at Judge Gary's Office.

Leading steel manufacturers of the country held a conference with Chairman E. H. Gary of the Steel Corporation at the latter's office yesterday. Judge Gary said afterward that a general discussion of the steel situation was had. Among the conferees were several members of the committee of the American Iron and Steel Institute which met with the War Industries Board before the prices for pig iron, plates, were fixed a fortnight ago.

The committee members are scheduled to go to Washington again for another meeting with the War Industries Board, which is expected to be held this afternoon. It is understood in the steel trade that additional steel prices will shortly be announced by President Wilson, and the conference, for this reason, is thought to be for the purpose of comparing data in respect to costs and selling quotations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Federal Trade Commission and War Industries Board held a long conference today to determine conversion costs as they relate to commodities manufactured of steel, iron, copper, and ores for which the President has announced stated prices.

The discussion involved prices which the War Industries Board shall pay for great quantities of materials such as steel and iron wire, and a thousand others, even down to nails, which are used in the Government's war program. It will probably require several days to reach any definite conclusions.

Westinghouse Air Brake Earnings.

Earnings of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, just reported, show a sharp falling off from those for the previous year, probably because of a diminution in the company's profits from its war munition business. The net profits reported were $6,388,463, against $9,396,103 in 1916, although this is still nearly $5,000,000 greater than the 1915 earnings. The company paid large dividends during the year just past, both in stock and cash, out of the surplus accumulated the previous year, and consequently showed a deficit for the year of $3,126,143, which reduced its surplus to $7,709,155.

THE COTTON MARKET

October at 27.75 Makes New High Record—General List Gains 5 to 33 Points.

Further reports of freezing weather in the Western cotton belt kept the local cotton market moving forward yesterday, although heavy realizing prevented the advance in prices from being as well sustained as on Monday. None the less, December contracts at one time passed the 27-cent mark, selling up to 27.10 and closing at 26.63. October made another new high record at 25.75, and closed at 27.33. The general list closed steady at net advances of from 5 to 33 points.

According to the official detailed weather reports, temperatures of 32 degrees or under occurred at about half the reporting stations in Arkansas and Oklahoma, with frost extending into Louisiana, Texas, and Mississippi. At a few points in Mississippi and Texas there was freezing weather, but the cold snap did not extend as far eastward as had been looked for, and the prospect was for rising temperatures. The news created a strong impression around the ring that estimates of the Western belt crop would have to be reduced, but it was felt that later advices would be necessary to determine the actual extent of the damage. The freezing temperatures reported were about the earliest on record for the Western belt, and their effect is expected to be the more unfavorable because of the lateness of the crop.

The market opened strong at an advance of 53 to 70 points on the showing of the early weather map and private advices of frost damage. Realizing was heavy from the start, and reactionary sentiment was encouraged early by a feeling that official weather reports might indicate that early advices had exaggerated the amount of frost damage. The forecasts for warmer weather were also a factor on the setback of about 45 to 50 points from the best before the end of the morning. Rallies followed the publication of the detailed weather reports, but the losses were not recovered, the demand being less active and urgent than previously, while the bulges seemed to be meeting some trade selling.

The market weakened again in consequence, closing a few points up from the lowest on covering. Exports for the day were 50,877 bales, making 961,054 so far this season. The more optimistic talk of peace prospects was probably a factor on the opening advance, while the disposition to even up outstanding commitments may possibly have been increased by the unsettling influence of the action taken with reference to speculation in cottonseed oil. Southern spot markets as officially reported were 10 to 62 points higher.

for lasting peace.

Sons, brothers, husbands are now preparing to give their lives for the cause which enlists the dollars of those who subscribe to the Liberty Loan.

That cause met with a wide and emphatic response in the First Loan. It has now become even clearer and dearer. To the lives now pledged is owing the unstinted support of those whose security and freedom they go to defend.

This Company therefore places its services at the disposal of purchasers of the new Liberty Bonds, in the conviction that the Second Liberty Loan demands with a new and greater urgency a ringing answer, an answer from everyone capable of saving, an answer worthy of and mightier than that given by millions of the people to the First Loan.

We shall be glad to attend to the details of your subscription, without charge or commission.

WHEAT.

The movement of wheat at interior points was slightly larger than it was a week ago, and apparently farmers are selling somewhat more freely. It was announced from Washington that wheat and wheat flour from Australia will be admitted into the United States free of duty. Australia has a very large surplus which has accumulated as a result of the difficulties in securing transportation, and apparently a serious move is contemplated to bring Australian wheat and flour to the United States, which is a much shorter trip than to Europe.

CORN.

Prices in the corn market experienced a sharp decline, closing with net losses of 1⅜ to 1½c. The trade at large seemed to place a bearish interpretation on Monday's Government report, as the figures were considerably in excess of expectations. Offers from the country were slightly larger, but there has been nothing to indicate any great desire on the part of farmers to sell, and the consuming trade is waiting anxiously for the new crop to move. In the local cash market old No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.05 and No. 2 mixed at $2.02, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market felt the influence of the decline in corn and prices lost ⅜ to ½c. The movement was again light, but there were predictions of larger country offerings in the near future. Exporters again added some support, and export sales were estimated at 400,000 bushels. The local cash market was easy; standard quoted at 66½c; No. 2 white, 66½c; No. 3 white, 66c; No. 4 white, 65 to 65½c; fancy clipped white, 67 to 69c; ordinary clipped white, 65¼ to 67c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was very feverish, closing heavy. Longs were inclined to liquidate, and the market felt the influence of the closing of the cottonseed oil market against speculative operations and rumors that the Government intends to take control of hog products. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 12,000; estimated for Wednesday, 18,000; Kansas City received 11,000 and Omaha 3,500.

COFFEE.

A slight early advance was followed by reactions in the market for coffee futures yesterday, and the close was irregular, net 3 points higher to 2 points lower. The business included further switching from December to July at 60@59 points. The more optimistic talk of peace prospects may have been partly responsible for some of the early buying. The market opened 1 point lower, but soon stiffened up, with active months selling about 5@6 points above Monday's closing figures. A moderate demand was reported for spot coffee in the local market, with quotations on the basis of 8⅝c for Rio 7s and 9⅝c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

COTTONSEED OIL.

Very drastic regulations were put into effect in the cottonseed oil market yesterday as a result of the recent conference between officials of the local Exchange and the food administration in Washington. No further speculative operations of any kind will be permitted, and while hedging against the cash article will be allowed in October, November, and December, all operations in the more distant months for the present at least will be confined to evening-up of old contracts. These rules are in the form of a compromise, as the food administration was disposed to close the market entirely. Members of the cotton oil trade are urged to see that no orders are taken which do not comply with the rules. If this is not done the Exchange threatens to close the market against all operations. Fluctuations are limited to 100 points on the near months daily and 50 points on the distant positions. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

In raw sugar there were no buyers and no sellers, and consequently business was practically at a standstill. Refined sugar was unchanged at 8.35@8.50c, it being difficult to buy sugar at any price, particularly for city delivery. There were rumors that one Brooklyn plant was about to shut down, and that others would follow as soon as present small raw supplies were exhausted. While there are Philippine sugars en route here, both afloat and by rail, the quantity is not large, and will only afford a temporary relief. The market continues in a very acute position. Spot prices follow: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5⅝c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 11,241 packages. The buyers took hold better and the market had a steady to firm tone, especially on the finest grades of fresh creamery. Secondary qualities were slow, but the entire range of values remains unchanged. Renovated slow, and there is a light demand at the moment for ladles. Packing stock cleaned up fairly well. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb. 44½@45½c; creamery, extras, (92 score,) 44½c; creamery firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 43@44c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 41½@42½c; thirds, 40½@41c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 46@46½c; extras, 45@45½c; firsts, 44@44½c; seconds, 43@43½c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 44c; good to prime, 42@43½c; common to fair, 39@41½c; renovated, extras, 43c; firsts, 42@42½c; lower grades, 39@41½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 40½@41c; ladles, current make, firsts, 39@39½c; seconds, 38½c; lower grades, 37@38c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 38½@39c; No. 2, 38c; lower grades, 36@37½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 14,127 cases. The market is very irregular. Most receivers report a little better trading, others continued dullness. On sales reported the range of values appears to be unchanged with outside quotations for grades above firsts still extreme. On good value stock ranging from firsts to seconds there is perhaps a little better movement and a little firmer market when good values are shown at the prices asked. Storage eggs are still very quiet and values somewhat nominal. Nearby white eggs of fancy quality are scarce and firm; mixed and lower grades still move slowly at a wide range of prices. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 45@46c; extra firsts, 42@44c; firsts, 39@41c; seconds, 37@38c; thirds and poorer, 32@36½c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 36@36½c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@35½c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry 33@34c; under grades, 30@32c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 37½@38c; firsts, storage and insurance paid, 36@37c; seconds, storage and insurance paid, 34@35½c; lower grades, storage and insurance paid, 32@34c; refrigerator, State white, 41@42c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 60@63c; ordinary to good, 48@58c; gathered whites, good to fine, 45@60c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 42@48c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 48@52c; gathered browns and mixed colors, 42@48c.

SEES NO DECLINE IN BUILDING COST

Elliott Smith Would Educate Public to Belief Material Prices Will Not Drop.

HARD TO OBTAIN LOANS

Investigation Planned to Determine Existing Demand for Various Classes of Structures.

At a meeting of the committee to determine the actual demand for building construction, which is working in conjunction with Borough President Marks' Committee on the Alleviation of Building Stagnation, held yesterday at the Building Material Exchange in the Woolworth Building, it was decided that the members of the sub-committee should begin at once an investigation into the existing demand for various classes of buildings.

Arthur K. Mack of The Record and Guide presided, the other members of the committee present being Henry Atterbury Smith, H. H. Murdock, Walter Smith, Roy Wingate, and John J. Radley. Mr. Mack made the suggestion, which was adopted, that a survey be made of the need for new construction in the following classes of buildings: Warehouses, elevator apartments, non-elevator apartments, offices, lofts, hotels, garages, and factories. A report on the results of this investigation will probably be made to the general committee at a meeting next Tuesday. The opinion of members of the sub-committee was that a detailed inquiry dealing with the respective classes of structures would reveal actual conditions.

Following the meeting of this committee the committee to consider the condition of supply and price of building materials met, former Senator E. R. Ackerman presiding. The discussion covered the range of building materials and supply, the concensus of opinion being that with the exception of steel, other materials were to be had in sufficient quantity, barring difficulties of railroad delays.

A. Alexander of 450 West End Avenue, an apartment house operator, said he believed the most serious situation confronting the building trades related to the inability to get loans to finance new operations. He also said there was not a scarcity of steel for structural purposes, but a delay in its fabrication, and pointed out that at the recent Business Men's War Convention at Atlantic City, James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, stated that the steel companies could meet all industrial demands for the commodity, provided they were given proper time in which to fill orders.

Elliott Smith, President of the Building Material Exchange, said one of the big difficulties at the present time was in getting the railroads to deliver material. He further asserted that the public should be educated to the belief that prices for materials would not be lower in the next year or two. Michael Cohen said there was enough structural stone available to build 1,000 buildings. The labor shortage was touched upon as one of the controlling factors in the situation, it being brought out, however, that the labor unions were willing to cooperate with the producers by giving temporary union cards to workers.

Referring to high labor costs, G. Osgood Andrews, special representative of the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America, with headquarters at Pittsburgh, stated that the increase paid by the glass manufacturers since 1914 for labor represented 87.8 per cent., for material 75.8 per cent. and for fuel 137.6 per cent. "The average advance in selling price by the manufacturers represents about 77 per cent.," Mr. Andrews said.

The Committee on Supply and Cost of Labor will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Building Material Exchange. The Committee on Building Laws is scheduled to meet tomorrow afternoon, and the Committee on Mortgage Loans will convene Friday afternoon, both meetings to be held at the exchange rooms.

BIG TRUST COMPANIES TO JOIN RESERVE BANKS

Three more big trust companies announced yesterday their determination to join the Federal Reserve system. They are the Bankers Trust, the Central Trust, and the New York Trust Company. Last week the Equitable and the Metropolitan trust companies announced their decision to apply for membership, and about ten days ago the Guaranty Trust Company sent in its application. The Broadway Trust became a member early in the establishment of the system.

The resources of the Bankers, the Central, and the New York Trust Companies aggregate about $650,000,000, and the combined deposits total $465,000,000. The Bankers, which is the second largest trust company in the United States, has a capital and surplus of $22,500,000 and total assets of $329,328,700. The resources of the Central are approximately $235,000,000, and its capital and surplus amount to $20,000,000. The New York Trust Company has a capital and surplus of $13,000,000, and resources of about $86,000,000.

"The Board of Directors of the Bankers Trust Company, at a special meeting called for the purpose, authorized the officers of the company to make application to the Federal Reserve Board for membership in the Federal Reserve system. This action was taken in view of the increasing necessity, due to the financial requirements of the war, for the complete mobilization of the banking reserves of the United States, and, further, because it was felt that the Bankers Trust Company as a member of the Federal Reserve system could extend a broader banking service."

"The trustees believe that it is their unmistakable patriotic duty to add all in their power to the banking strength of this Government represented by the Federal Reserve Bank and to participate in the many advantages that the system furnishes."

Mortimer N. Buckner, President of the New York Trust Company, said that his institution had applied for membership "with a view to co-operating in every way with the United States Government under present conditions."

It is expected that within a short time several of the other trust companies will join the Federal Reserve system.

BIG DROP IN SUEZ TRAFFIC.

But American Tonnage Using Canal Increases from 2,562 to 34,732.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The war has diminished heavily the traffic through the Suez Canal. A dispatch today from Consul General Skinner, at London, giving the latest report of canal tonnage states that where 4,802 vessels passed through Suez in 1914 only 2,736 passed in 1915, and 2,388 in 1916. The tonnage of freight going through in 1916 was 12,325,000, and in 1914 it was 19,409,000.

Great Britain's tonnage fell from 12,-910,000 to 9,788,000. United States tonnage rose from 2,562 in 1914 to 34,732 last year.

Germany before the war was the largest patron of the canal, next to Great Britain, her tonnage having been 2,-118,000. Germany did not send a pound of anything through last year, or the year before. The tonnage of the Netherlands has fallen off from 1,389,000 to 643,000. France and Spain are the only countries that appear to have maintained about the same trade through the canal in war times as prior to 1914.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Fair Waist and Dress Company has removed from 134 to 142 West Thirty-seventh Street to large quarters in the building at 1,372 to 1,378 Broadway, corner of Thirty-seventh Street. A. Gevirtz heads the business.

The annual awards in its observation reports contest have been announced by the National Jewelers' Board of Trade. Of the eighteen prize winners, nine are employed by firms in this city. The reports received during the year ended Sept. 1 totaled 1,902.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

In the last hour of trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange a selling movement of greater proportions than the board had seen in some days began, but unlike the previous movements it seemed to be directed principally against the steel stocks. The force of the drive against the steels unsettled the rest of the market, but in most cases it caused prices to go off only fractionally. The market had opened irregularly lower and easy, but quickly had firmed up and prices had moved above the opening level.

Suit Sales 20 Per Cent. More.

"There has been much talk recently," said a prominent suit manufacturer of this city yesterday, "about the popular-priced suit business being doomed. Those advancing this theory should see some of the letters I am getting from my trade inclosing reorders. Here is one of them. It says: 'Let me have whatever portion you can of the inclosed order right away, and send the rest as soon as possible. My suit sales have increased 20 per cent. over last year, and they are still going strong.' Does that look as though suits were on the greased slide to oblivion?"

Coarse Cottons Sell Better.

A pretty fair movement of coarse cottons in the gray was told of in this market yesterday, including quite liberal quantities of four-yard, 48-square sheetings at 12 cents. Four-yard 56-60 sheetings also sold, the price ranging from 13 to 13¼ cents, according to the seller. In several instances the higher price was obtained for branded goods. In the drills, business was done on 30-inch 3.25s at 15¼ cents for immediate delivery. Among the so-called specialties that moved well during the day were sateens for the clothing trade. These goods are said now to rank among the most attractive "buys" in the market.

Silk Market Improving.

Though it cannot yet be said that the local silk market is active, reports from mill agents in this city indicate a fair volume of trading so far this week. There seems to be on the one hand considerable demand for merchandise for Spring, while on the other sellers seem ultra-conservative where 1918 business is concerned. For earlier deliveries, however, there is not this hesitancy, and again this week there is said to have been here and there a little price shading for orders. Satins and taffetas in the darker shades are the most sought weaves for immediate requirement. Sales in the former range from $1.50 to $2.25 a yard; in the latter from $1. to $1.75 a yard.

Hard Coal Shipments Reduced.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that heavier anthracite shipments to the Great Lakes and a corresponding drop in the tonnage coming to tidewater is making it more difficult than ever for local retailers to protect their customers against the approach of cold weather. The fact that Summer trade was heavy is not reflected by any let-up in the demand from consumers, for those who ordinarily buy their coal in small quantities, as needed, are now clamoring to have their entire Winter's supply put in without delay. The recent order, requiring bituminous operators and middlemen to forward to Washington copies of their contracts and figures showing shipments thereon, is interpreted as meaning that the Government is planning to put and end to the present situation whereby coal cannot be purchased in the open market, save in rare instances, at the prices fixed by the President.

Rubber Prices Still Softening.

About the only feature of the crude rubber market here these days is the gradual softening of prices. Buying is practically at a standstill, despite the fact that this is normally an active period. Arrivals are liberal enough to take care of a considerably larger demand than is in sight at present, which is not adding anything to the firmness of prices. One reason advanced for the present quiet is that the large amounts of money being put into Liberty bonds, war taxes, &c., are discouraging advance buying of rubber, and that the big buyers are covered for the time being at least. Firsts latex could be bought here yesterday at 64@64½ cents for shipments ranging to March next, and the same was true of smoked sheets at a cent less. Up-river fine was quoted at 63 cents for spots, with up-river coarse and upper Caucho ball held at 45 and 40 cents, respectively.

Printcloth Sales Improve.

A notable improvement in printcloth buying marked yesterday's activities in the local market for gray goods. Large sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 9 cents for 1917 delivery, and practically all of the 60-52s in that width that were available for this year's shipment at 9⅝ cents were cleaned up. Business was also done on 38½-inch 64-60s at 10⅝ cents for delivery in November, December, and January, and some narrow goods of this construction sold at 7¼ cents. Most of the Southern mills are said to have withdrawn quotations on the wider 64-60s until the cotton market becomes more settled. Bids of 10¼ cents for January 38½-inch 64-56s were refused in certain quarters. All of the 39-inch 56-44s that could be had for this year at 8⅝ cents appear to have been sold. Some business was done on 39-inch 80 squares for prompt shipment at 14½ cents. These were closing prices on spot printcloths:

Education Notes.

Several vacancies in the art department of the high schools are open to men substitutes. Teachers desiring to qualify should write to the Board of Examiners, 500 Park Avenue, or communicate with Dr. James P. Haney, Director of Art in High Schools, at the same address. The conditions require that applicants be graduates of a four-year high school course and have had two years' experience in teaching in high schools or two years' training in a normal art school. In addition the candidates are required to pass an examination in drawing, which includes questions in sketching, designing, and methods of teaching.

A class for practical instruction in the various physical training activities required for playgrounds and evening recreation centres will start on Nov. 18, and will be held every Thursday from 8:30 to 9:30 P. M. at Public School 141, Brooklyn, on Lorimer and McKibbin Streets. The class will be in charge of Rose Zuckerman.

This is "thrift" week in the elementary schools of Greater New York. The prizes awarded by the American Society for Thrift to 156 pupils for writing essays on thrift are being presented with appropriate exercises in the various schools.

A new course in vocational guidance and the principles of vocational education for teachers and supervisors in all schools, child welfare workers, and co-ordinators was organized at the City College on Saturday. Registration may be made at the college before the next session, Oct. 20. The class meets in Room 304, main building.

The Anti-Gary League has challenged the accuracy of District Supt. Taylor's statement regarding the Gary school in the Bronx, and charges that he is an interested party whose figures should be taken with a great deal of caution.

The Board of Examiners announces that there is need for evening school teachers for 1917-18. Eligible lists will be open for replacement in the following: Evening high schools, academic subjects—Chemistry, C; elocution, English and physics, each for women; history and Spanish, for men and women. Vocational subjects—Automobile repairing, electric installation practice, forge work, machine shop practice, pattern making, plumbing, printing, sheet metal work, and sign painting, all for men; bookbinding, for men and women, and trade millinery, for women. Evening elementary schools—Cooking, for women; English to foreigners, and physical training, men and women.

The City College, division of vocational subjects and civic administration, offers two special courses of evening instruction in copy editing, proofreading, and typography.

WOMEN CAR CREWS MAY BE USED HERE

Services as Motormen and Conductors on Street Railways Advocated by Association.

NICKEL FARE DISCUSSED

Must Be Curtailment in Service or Revenue Increase to Meet Conditions, Says Electric Man.

Employment of women as conductors and motormen was advocated yesterday at the annual national convention of the American Electric Railway Association, held in the Engineering Societies Building, at which street railway men from all parts of the United States painted a dark future for their business unless more income could be obtained or expenses reduced. The employment of women was put forward as a means of increasing the labor supply.

Three means of obtaining more revenue were advanced: Increase of fares above the standard nickel, establishment of zone systems, and charging for transfers. The convention showed that street railway owners were conducting an active campaign to overcome the popular idea that a nickel was a fair charge for a ride on a street car.

F. W. Brooks, President of the Detroit United Railways, was the principal advocate of women motormen and conductors. In his paper, "Female Substitutes for Male Employes," he said that not only could women do the work on modern street cars, but that the experience of other countries had shown that with women operating the cars, there were fewer accidents.

"The question is asked as to the physical and mental work required of motormen and conductors," he said. "It is now almost the universal practice to equip cars with simplified apparatus. It is my opinion that women can perform the work of motormen and conductors satisfactorily. It is a current opinion that they may become excited and lost control of their vehicle when contending with congested traffic. It is my observation that under such conditions women are driving motor vehicles as successfully as men.

"In my opinion the same wage must be paid women for like service that is paid men. I take it that the problem before us is to increase the available supply of labor, and if women may be made as efficient as men, they should be given the same consideration."

Loss on Cheap Fares.

Joseph K. Choate, Chairman of the Committee to Secure Additional Revenue, said that electric car companies had lately been giving service which cost 6, 7, and 8 cents for 5 cents, and that there must be a curtailment in service or an increase in revenue. Points he made were that the problem is national; the situation imperils the existence of the industry; while relief must be had, it is much for the benefit of the communities as for the companies, as the interests are single; and the crisis is a test of the system of the regulation of public utilities.

Mr. Choate pointed out that the request of the street car companies of New York City for permission to make a charge for transfers was the only step open to them, since the subways must, under their charters, operate under a nickel charge, and for the street cars to charge more would drive their traffic to the already congested subways.

L. S. Storrs, President of the association, emphasized his belief in the need for higher fares, declaring that the future development of American cities depended greatly upon their street car facilities.

"The cost of performing street car service has increased until the income of practically none of our transportation agencies is sufficient to meet the needs of the public, needs which are constantly growing," he said. "Labor and materials have increased in cost from 50 to 250 per cent., while the income of the roads had not increased to meet it."

E. G. Connette, President of the United Gas and Electric Corporation, says that all the difficulties of the street car companies went back to the fixing of a nickel "as a fixed fare, to remain for all time, and cling about the electric railways and choke it."

Plea for the Zone System.

Edward Gruhl, assistant to the President of the North American Company, was in favor of an extension of the zone system, which, he said, was being done generally in Europe.

F. T. Wood, assistant to Frank Hedley, General Manager of the New York Railways, read a paper by Mr. Hedley on "Why a Charge for Transfers Is Justified." According to Mr. Hedley a charge for transfers in New York City would "tend to promote the welfare of the public as a whole, as it will decrease the number of cars, thereby reducing congestion in the streets."

A resolution was adopted pledging the support of the association to the second Liberty Loan.

CONTROL OF FOOD BY GOVERNMENT

a view to the development of regulations and constructive methods of control

Patriotic Co-operation Sought.

"It has been the desire of the Food Administration to secure the co-operation of all patriotic men in the various trades so as to eliminate speculation, hoarding, unreasonable profits, wasteful practices, &c., in the great distribution system of the country.

"The licensing provision in the Food bill is limited in operation to the channels of trade which lie between the farmer on the one hand and the retailer on the other, except as it extends to those few retailers who do an annual business of more than $100,000.

"The Food Administration has selected about twenty basic commodities and their products as forming the prime basis of life, and has limited its licensing control to these commodities, and also, in so far as practicable, eliminated the smallest units of business in these staples.

"It is the purpose of the Food Administration to effect conservation in the commercial use of these commodities, and to keep them flowing toward the consumer in direct lines through the channels of trade in as economical a manner as possible. The Administration does not wish to disturb the normal and necessary activities of business, and no business factor who is performing a useful function will be expected to surrender that function.

"The Administration is, however, charged with several duties.

"The producer must have a free outlet and a ready market.

"There must be no manipulation or speculation in foods.

"There must be no hoarding in foods.

"Unfair or unreasonable profits must be eliminated.

"Discriminatory and deceptive and wasteful practices which in any way restrict supply or distribution must be stopped.

"These are the provisions of the food law. The licensing system which was authorized by the law provides a more effective machinery for its enforcement. It must not be thought that these operations become illegal only upon the issue of licenses. They have been illegal since Aug. 10, when the law was passed, and numerous cases coming to the attention of the Food Administration have been corrected. The licensing has the effect of giving definition to the provisions of the bill and the practices which the trades should respectively follow in connection therewith.

"The proclamation will require all of those handling the commodities concerned to apply for licenses before Nov. 1, upon forms which will be supplied on application to the Food Administration.

"Applicants will receive licenses without cost, and the regulations governing those dealing with the commodities licensed will be issued in due course.

"After Nov. 1 no unlicensed persons will be permitted to trade in the commodities enumerated in the proclamation. Those who receive licenses will be required from time to time to make reports to the Food Administration on their activities in prescribed form. These reports will be carefully safeguarded so that private information given to the Government in confidence will not be divulged to competitors. Men experienced in the production and merchandizing of licensed commodities will aid in administering the law, and a legal department has been organized to facilitate its enforcement.

"While authority is vested in the Food Administration to suspend any license and to impose penalties for violation of the food law or special regulations, it is the purpose of the Food Administration to accomplish these ends of public service and war service, so far as possible, not by coercion, but by patriotic co-operation.

"It has been the expressed feeling of the whole of the many conferences held in Washington that the licensing system operating alike in every part of the country will, in fact, be a protection to the great majority of producers and distributers, as well as to the public, against the operations of those few who unpatriotically seek to exploit the necessaries of life.

"It has been generally recognized throughout the country that the enormous obligation imposed upon the American people to feed our soldiers at the front and the Allies creates a disturbing factor in trade which allows opportunity to a few to impose burdens upon the many, and that it is of vital national importance that such control should be exerted as will remedy, so far as may be, the economic disturbances incident to the war. The prime purpose of the Food Administration is to protect the patriot against the slacker in business."

In connection with the new campaign, announcement was made tonight that efficiency in the retail store field and economy in methods of food distribution would be discussed at a conference next Monday and Tuesday between the President and Executive Committee of the National Retail Grocers' Association and members of the Food Administration staff. The association, it was stated, represented national grocery interests which have signified willingness to co-operate in food conservation. Elimination of waste and surplus deliveries by retailers and proper distribution of this year's immense potato crop will be discussed.

Plans will be made to get in touch with retail organizations all over the country and request that they cultivate their local fields intensively. It will be proposed that retailers in the smaller towns have only morning deliveries, and that delivery men work in the afternoon as salesmen. In cities of from 5,000 to 20,000 population co-operative delivery will be advocated. The conference will advocate a vigorous propaganda on the utilization and storage of potatoes, and consumers all over the country will be urged to buy potatoes in as large quantities as they can store.

FOOD BOARD ORGANIZES.

Meets at Albany and Elects Charles H. Betts of Lyons Secretary.

ALBANY, Oct. 9.—The State Food Commission organized today and elected as its Secretary Charles H. Betts of Lyons, a newspaper publisher.

The three members of the commission, John Mitchell, Chairman, Jacob Gould Schurman, and Charles A. Wieting, had a long conference with Governor Whitman and discussed the work expected of the commission. It was decided to make a careful study of the food problem as to the cost of production, transportation, storage, and distribution. When these facts have been ascertained the commission will endeavor to stimulate food production and encourage expeditious transportation and economical distribution. If the commission finds that artificial devices are interposed to hoard products and control prices, it will then exercise all the powers vested in it to correct the evils.

The commission decided to co-operate with the Food Administration of the Federal Government, and it is expected that a conference will be held with Federal representatives.

Headquarters will be established at the Capitol and in addition a branch office will be opened at New York City.

35 PATROLMEN PROMOTED.

Woods Tells New Sergeants Only Ability Can Win Advancement.

Police Commissioner Woods yesterday promoted thirty-five patrolmen to the grade of sergeants. The Commissioner called the men to his office and said to them:

"Your promotion is due exclusively to your ability and skill. No one on the police force today can expect promotion by the payment of money as in the days of old. You men have passed an examination and have shown therein that you are justly entitled to advancement to the grade of sergeant. You need only be faithful to the trust imposed in you and there will then be nothing to fear."

The list from which the men were promoted sergeants expires tonight.

EVERY MAN

Every man owes it to himself—to his family—to his friends—to his country—to buy a Liberty Bond.

His debt demands that he buy now—not later—but NOW.

Food costs are high, but they will be much higher if the war is not ended soon.

Equipping 1,600,000 men has added to the cost of everything from milk to automobiles. Think what will happen if five million or more men need equipment.

A Liberty Bond bought now adds to the power of the men who have gone. Every man who waits helps to make it necessary to call more men.

Every man should do all in his power to make the present army an irresistible fighting machine that will win the war. Every man can if he will.

Can you look your wife—your children—your gentle mother and your dear old dad right in the eyes and say: "I have done my share"?

Every man who can't has failed to do what every man should.

BENTON MASTERS SOX AND GIANTS GET THIRD GAME

ROBERTSON ALSO A HERO

His Three-Bagger Opens Rally Which Produces Victory for New York by 2 to 0.

McGRAW'S MEN REVIVIFIED

John Calhoun Benton of North Carolina, with his left-handed curves performing tricky capers, hauled the Giants out of the cavern of adversity at the Polo Grounds yesterday, halting the triumphant march of the White Sox in the third game of the world's series, and planted McGraw's tottering club on the joyous end of a 2 to 0 victory. Warmed by a thundering reception from 33,777 loyal fans, the New York players shook off the lethargy which weighed them down in the first two games in Chicago, and in one swift, pungent batting rally hammered Rowland's mysterious pitching sensation, Eddie Cicotte, down to defeat.

Back on their native heath, the Giants found themselves and played sharp, snappy baseball. The sting of two defeats roused them from the snooze into which they had lapsed when the fighting Sox swept them away in the first two games. The old fight and drive of McGraw's men were evident yesterday in every move. They were on their toes, their heads were up, and they went at the White Sox as if they weren't a bit afraid of them.

Benton held Rowland's men to five scattered hits. In no one inning were they able to make more than one safe smash. Only two of the players with the red, white, and blue hosiery got as far as second base, and that was the deadline. As far as any of the Chicago players knew, third base was a howling wilderness. Cicotte no longer had the Giants scared. They swung at his famous knuckle ball with power and confidence. They knocked the shine from the cover. The flicker and the hop which were popularly supposed to envelop Cicotte's delivery with black magic were flattened against the right field fence by Davey Robertson.

It was Robertson who so efficiently backed up Benton's masterful pitching with his trusty club. David pried open the Giants' batting rally in the fourth inning when he smashed the ball to deep right field on a dizzy flight for three bases. When the ball left Davy's bat it traveled with all the deadly accuracy of the stone which whizzed from the sling of David of old when he won a decision over Goliath. Keyed up to fighting pitch by this boisterous bang by Robbie, Walter Holke came along with a two-base Texas Leaguer which pushed Robertson over the plate and brought back all of that slumbering aggressiveness which carries the Giants along to the front.

The sudden awakening of McGraw's men just at a time when their most optimistic admirers feared that the White Sox had them tumbling back to oblivion stirred the great crowd which jammed the Brush Stadium into a hilarious outburst of unrestrained enthusiasm. The captains of industry in the boxes, the Broadwayites, the visiting buyers from Iowa, and the plain ordinary New Yorkers who crowded the lower stand and bleachers all jumped to their feet, threw up their hats and yelled themselves hoarse at the Giants' triumph.

New York's waning confidence in this club of McGraw's has been restored, and they look for another victory today and a fight right up to the bitter end. The clubs will have to take another journey back to Chicago, where the fifth game will be played on Saturday, and if the title of the universe still hangs in the balance another game will be played at the Polo Grounds next Monday.

Benton's Control Unflinching.

Rube Benton has never pitched a better game in his long career. His control was marvelous, and it was hard to believe that the loose-jointed southpaw could ever be accused of being wild. He cut the corners with wide sweeping curves, and he served up a variety of tangents which had the Sox sluggers guessing at all times. Not once did he give a base on balls, and he fielded his position with perfect precision.

The only threats of trouble from the Chicago club came in the last two innings. Buck Weaver opened the eighth with a two-base hit in short left. Fletcher backed out into deep short to capture the ball, and Burns came racing in to meet it. Fletcher yelled for it and Burns halted. Fletcher's hands just touched the ball as it trickled to the soggy turf, and by that time Weaver was at second. Ray Schalk slapped a sizzling bounder at Benton, and Rube nabbed it with both hands and turned quickly about to find Weaver far off second on his way to third. Rube was as cool as an arctic breeze, and while the Giants' infielders were prancing about nervously, eager to get the ball and slap it on Bucko, Benton dared not trust

New Peril in Spring Feared by Chief of Swiss Army

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Oct. 10, (via London.)—General Wille, Chief of the Swiss Army, replying today to a demand by agriculturists of the Canton of Zurich to postpone mobilization of troops of the canton, refused on military grounds.

"Owing to the entrance of America into the war," he said, "possibilities of the war taking a new and perhaps last phase next Spring are greatly increased. Therefore the danger for us of being drawn into the conflict will be greater than ever. In consequence we must arm and prepare. This is the reason why Swiss troops are serving longer than predicted."

PROCLAIMS FOOD LICENSE SYSTEM

COVER PRIME COMMODITIES

Restrictions Will Be Extended Later, if Necessary—Text of Proclamation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Wilson issued a proclamation tonight setting forth the terms under which the Food Administration, after Nov. 1, would control the manufacture, storage, importation, and distribution of practically all of the essential foodstuffs. In it he gave warning that any person, firm, corporation, or association violating the regulations laid down would be subjected to the penalties provided for in the Food Control bill.

All of the great packing and wholesale concerns which have been accused of controlling the market in the food staples are included in the licensing system created by the proclamation. The President has power to extend the regulations.

Among those exempted from regulation are packers and distributors of beef, pork, and mutton whose gross sales do not exceed $100,000 a year, and the operators of poultry or egg packing plants whose sales do not exceed $50,000 a year. The Food Administratio, it is understood, does not believe that the operations of these classes would materially affect the general trade. Retailers doing a business of $100,000 or more a year are included in the licensing provisions.

The regulations do not affect farmers, gardeners, co-operative associations of gardeners, including livestock farmers, and other persons with respect to the products of any farm or other land owned or leased by them. These exemptions were made by Congress.

Food Administrator Hoover has started the organization of the machinery which will be used to enforce the rules, and will be prepared to take complete control on Nov. 1, by which time licenses must be obtained from the Food Administration.

President's Powers Sweeping.

Drastic powers are given to the President in the Food Control act. Under its provisions, if willful hoarding of essentials is discovered, he may confiscate the foods involved and have them disposed of by the courts. Such hoarding also is punishable by a fine of $5,000 or two years' imprisonment, or both. A comprehensive idea of the extent of the control exercised is given by this excerpt from Section 5 of the food law:

Whenever the President shall find that any storage charge, commission, profit, or practice of any license is unjust, or unreasonable, or discriminating and unfair, or wasteful, and shall order such licensee, within a reasonable time fixed in the order, to discontinue the same, unless such order, which shall recite the facts found, is revoked or suspended, such licensee shall, within the time prescribed in the order, discontinue such unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory, and unfair storage charge, commission, profit, or practice.

The President may in lieu of any such unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory, and unfair storage charge, commission, profit, or practice, find what is a just, reasonable, non-discriminatory, and fair storage charge, commission, profit, or practice, and in any proceeding brought in any court such order of the President shall be prima facie evidence.

The law further provides that any person or firm which does business without a license or after a license has been revoked shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of $5,000 or two years in prison, or both.

The method provided for the seizure of hoarded goods is condemnation in any District Court of the United States within the district where the goods are found. Conspiracy on the part of dealers to defeat the purposes of the food control law is made punishable by a fine of $10,000 or two years' imprisonment, or both.

Whereas, Under and by virtue of an act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide for the national security and defense by encouraging the production, conserving the supply, and controlling the distribution of food products and fuel," approved by the President on the 10th day of August, 1917, it is provided among other things as follows:

That, by reason of the existence of a state of war, it is essential to the national security and defense, for the successful prosecution of the war, and for the support and maintenance of the Army and Navy, to assure an adequate supply and equitable distribution, and to facilitate the movement of foods, feeds, fuel, including fuel oil and natural gas, and fertilizer and fertilizer ingredients, tools,

BERLIN BACKED SABOTAGE HERE, LANSING SHOWS

Destruction of Canadian Pacific Railroad and Munition Plants Proposed.

PLANNED DRIVE IN CONGRESS

"Embargo Conference" Shown to Have Been a German Agency—William Bayard Hale Explains.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—In further disclosures of German treachery and diplomatic duplicity made by Secretary Lansing today it is shown conclusively that the German Government was engaged in acts of war against this country, and was officially encouraging and directing sabotage here fifteen months before the United States entered the world conflict.

The Secretary of State gave out three messages exchanged either by cable or wireless between the Berlin Foreign Office and General Staff on the one hand and Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador in Washington, on the other. Count von Bernstorff is directly implicated by these messages in German official plans to injure the United States.

The first of the three messages is dated Jan. 3, 1916. The American Government entered the war on April 6, 1917. This message is in the form of directions to Count von Bernstorff from Dr. Zimmermann, who retired recently from the office of Minister for Foreign Affairs, to arrange to destroy the Canadian Pacific Railway. Germany was at war with Great Britain and her colonies, and the only concern of the United States in this particular phase of the matter would be that the German Ambassador in Washington was being used to further plots involving a nation with which the American Government was on friendly terms. But in the two subsequent messages, one dated Jan. 26, 1916, and the other Sept. 15, 1916, violations of the law of nations directed against the United States were ordered.

Involves Four Americans.

In the second and third telegrams the following American citizens are mentioned in the German effort to injure their country: Joseph MacGarrity of Philadelphia, John P. Keating of Chicago, Jeremiah O'Leary of New York, and "Dr. Hale."

MacGarrity, Keating, and O'Leary were to inform von Bernstorff, according to the telegram, "as to persons suitable for carrying on sabotage in the United States and Canada." "Dr. Hale" was mentioned in the third telegram as being connected with the Embargo Conference, which, the message said, was "just about to enter upon a vigorous campaign to secure a majority in both houses of Congress favorable to Germany." "Dr. Hale" was commended by von Bernstorff to his superiors in Berlin as a person who could give them information about the "earlier fruitful co-operation" of the Embargo Conference.

Secretary Lansing declined to say whether "Dr. Hale" was Dr. William Bayard Hale, an American writer and former clergyman, who knows the Kaiser and is reputed to be his friend, and who was in Berlin at the time the message was sent. Dr. William Bayard Hale had edited a book containing extracts from President Wilson's writings and addresses, which had received widespread publicity in the Presidential campaign of 1912. During the acute period of the Mexican troubles Dr. William Bayard Hale had been one of President Wilson's unofficial emissaries to Mexico.

The telegrams open up a wide field of investigation in regard to German plottings in the United States more than a year before this Government entered the war. Keating, MacGarrity, and O'Leary, to quote one message, were "indicated," (to the German Government,) by Sir Roger Casement, who was executed in England for treason. MacGarrity and Keating were "reliable," while O'Leary was "reliable, but not always discreet," according to the information furnished to von Bernstorff by "Representative of General Staff" to be given to "Military Attaché," who at that time, was Captain Franz von Papen. Von Papen and his naval associate in the German Embassy in Washington, Captain Boy-Ed, were dismissed by the United States Government and compelled to return to Germany before the break in relations which resulted in the departure of von Bernstorff.

"Embassy must in no circumstances be compromised," was one expression in the message sent to Captain von Papen by "Representative of General Staff" through von Bernstorff. The Embassy was not. Count von Bernstorff was suspected, but succeeded in covering up his tracks in his violation of neutrality and the hospitality of the country to which he was accredited. When he left the United States he was praised by many for the correct attitude he was supposed to have assumed and received much sympathy for the position in which he was placed. He was regarded, according to the showing made in some newspapers and by a considerable number of individuals, as a man who had been sincerely anxious to preserve friendly relations between the United States and Germany.

Bernstorff a Common Plotter.

Count von Bernstorff himself furthered this opinion by his seemingly frank utterances to persons with whom he discussed the war. The recent disclosures from the State Department in regard to his request to the Berlin Foreign Office to give him $50,000 to influence Congress, and the revelations made today of his implication in sabo-

Discovers Germans Plotted for South American War

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 10.—There is much concern among the people of Argentina over disclosures of German intrigues to bring about a conflict among Brazil, Argentina, and Uruguay.

The Argentine papers comment extensively on the disclosure that the German Legation at Buenos Aires paid for the publication of a booklet by the editors of a newspaper in this city predicting war between Brazil and Argentina.

Señor Carlos Rodrigues Larretta, the former Argentine Minister to France, declares in a published article today that a von Luxburg dispatch which has not yet been made public refers to German intrigues in Argentina and Southern Brazil. He says that the neutrality demonstration planned for next Friday is ill timed, as it must stamp Argentina as pro-German at a time when sister republics are breaking with the common foe.

TAKE LAST THREE IN SHIP BOMB PLOT

ALL ARE NOW IN CUSTODY

One Prisoner Says Bombs Had Been Put Aboard Lusitania Before Her Fatal Trip.

Detectives of the Police Headquarters Bomb Squad arrested three men last night who, Captain Tunney said, were the last of the most dangerous gang of plotters that operated for the German Government in this country. He said they were all who remained in this country of the men who made and distributed the bombs which sunk thirty ships carrying munitions to the Allies in 1915.

The men arrested were Eugene Reister, 38 years old, owner and manager of Germania Masonic Temple, 220 East Fifteenth Street, a native of Germany; Joseph Zepart, a printer, living at 3 and 5 Sylvan Place, and Walter Uhde, 1,912 Linden Street, Brooklyn, a German. They were all locked up on the charge of participating in a "conspiracy to destroy ships in the port of New York and en route to allied countries."

According to Reister and Uhde, they were told by Dr. Karl Schimmel, a lawyer at 51 Chambers Street, one of the gang, that when the Lusitania sailed she had on her nine T. N. T. bombs.

Captain Tunney said the arrests last night were the result of an investigation, his squad began in April, 1916, when Captain von Rintelen and his associates were arrested for plotting. The arrest then, Captain Tunney said, resulted from the investigation of several months following receipt of information that in the office of Schimmel in March, 1915, there was a meeting of Schimmel, von Rintelen, Otto Wolpert, and Captain Sternberg, at which $10,000 was subscribed to pay men to place bombs on allied ships. This conference was followed by a second at 949 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, which is the Labor Lyceum, attended by the same men and Reister, Zepart, and Uhde.

At the second meeting, the three men arrested last night received bombs and money with which to pay longshoremen and seamen for placing them on ships and in sugar barges. Captain Tunney said three lists of ships had been found, thirty in all, made out by Wolpert, and that almost every one of those ships was sunk by what was then considered a mysterious explosion.

Detectives who questioned them reported that Reister had said there was a conference of the plotters at the Labor Lyceum on the night before the Lusitania sailed. According to him Schimmel said: "I have the Lusitania well covered. When she sails she will carry nine cigars."

Captain Tunney said the bombs were made by Walter Scheele of Hoboken, who, after the arrest of von Rintelen and Hans Tauscher in 1916, fled to Mexico and later to Cuba.

When arrested last night Reister told the detectives that he had a souvenir in his locker at the Labor Lyceum. Captain Tunney sent two men over, and they found all the materials for making bombs, with the exception of T. N. T. The men also said they had an arsenal over in Tenafly, N. J. Detectives who went to the place designated found that T. N. T. which had been stored there had been removed and was then en its way into Pennsylvania. The men also said that on more than one occasion the T. N. T. bombs had been kept in the building at 51 Chambers Street, where the Justices of the Supreme Court have their chambers.

The records of the Fire Department show that in 1915, Schimmel, who lived in the Bronx, was refused a permit for the storage of high explosives in his house. Nevertheless, the men arrested last night said that Schimmel at one time had enough T. N. T. in his house "to blow up the Bronx."

Captain Tunney said that Zepart said he was not a German, but an American. When asked why he had helped to blow up allied ships, he said: "I did it to get a piece of change." According to Captain Tunney, the three men acted as intermediaries between the arch plotters, directed by Schimmel, and longshoremen and others, who actually place the bombs. Captain Von Rintelen, who is now in the Tombs, was a co-worker with Schimmel, who escaped from the detectives in 1916 and has not been heard of since.

Wolpert, also named by Captain Tunney, is now interned as an enemy alien and is also under $25,000 bail, on an indictment for plotting. Uhde was arrested at his home in Brooklyn. Reister and Zepart were arrested at the Germania Temple where Reister lives.

GERMANY WILL NOT GIVE UP ALSACE TO OBTAIN PEACE

NO SOIL TO BE YIELDED

BRITISH BACKING BLAMED

Foreign Secretary Going on Peace Mission to Capitals of Germany's Allies.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.—At the plenary sitting of the Reichstag yesterday, Dr. Georg Michaelis, the Imperial German Chancellor, asserted that peace was impossible as long as Germany's enemies demanded any German soil or endeavored to drive a wedge between the German people and their Emperor. Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann said that as far as he was able to view the world situation there was no impediment to peace, no question which could not be solved by negotiations, except the French demand for Alsace-Lorraine.

The speeches were delivered in the discussion of the resolution against propaganda in the army in favor of a "German peace."

Sees Allies' Spirit Unchanged.

"A comparatively short time has elapsed," said Dr. von Kühlmann, "since the foreign policy of the empire was discussed in detail in the Budget Committee. I need, therefore, make only a kind of epilogue to the statements already made by the Imperial Chancellor and myself. The efforts of the Holy See to bring about an exchange of views between the belligerents have, so far as we are informed, not yet resulted in any considerable step forward since the reply by the Central Powers. We cannot say whether our adversaries will make up their minds even to answer the Papal note.

"After the clear, sincere and peace-loving notes addressed to the Pope by us and our allies, the utterances made by influential Entente newspapers hardly hold out the prospect that the answer to the Papal note, if made at all by our enemies, will bring the world one step nearer the goal suggested by the Pope.

"Although the Foreign Minister of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, in a speech at Budapest, pointed out that the Central Powers were prepared in the sense indicated by the Papal note to collaborate not only in the termination of the present conflict, but in the reconstruction of a Europe nearly ruined, there are no signs of a 'new spirit' among our opponents, who are clinging to the time-worn formula of the annihilation of German militarism.

Answers "No" as to Alsace.

"The great question prolonging the struggle is not the future of Belgium, but that of Alsace-Lorraine. Great Britain, according to our information, has pledged herself to France that she will continue the fight for the conquest of Alsace-Lorraine both politically and with her armies so long as France desires to adhere to the program of regaining those provinces. This being the actual situation, I think it proper to give a clear and firm statement of our attitude, since, curiously enough, there still seems to be a misconception in this respect among our enemies, and even among our neutral friends.

"There is but one answer to the question, 'Can Germany 'n any form make concessions with regard to Alsace-Lorraine!' That answer is 'No.' So long as one German hand can hold a gun the integrity of the territory handed down to us as a glorious inheritance by our forefathers can never be the object of negotiations or concessions.

Calls French Policy Clumsy.

"When it seemed expedient to France to accept the formula 'without annexations' the French resorted to the transparent trick of bashfully covering up with the word 'disannexation' what is in reality a barefaced and forceful conquest. The trick is really too clumsy to be worthy of repute. Now, except for France's demand for Alsace-Lorraine, there is absolutely no impediment to peace, no question which could not be solved by negotiations or a settlement in such a way as to render superfluous the further sacrifice of blood.

"Our enemies heretofore have been careful not to reveal their real war aims. What they have told the world is a maximum program, which can only be realized after the complete military defeat of the Central Powers.

"The German Government has never answered this program because we believe in dealing with real sober facts. Our answer to our opponents' assertions that they cannot obtain a clear conception of our intentions is our reply to the Pope, and the parliamentary discussions in connection with this. They leave no doubt in the minds of any one who wishes to understand the essential principles of our peace program."

Dr. von Kühlmann is proceeding at an early date on a visit to Vienna, Budapest, Sofia, and Constantinople. It is said that his mission has important political and peace significance.

Can't Yield Soil, Says Michaelis.

"We would get along much better," said the Chancellor, "if those who combat the peace resolution of July 19 and assert that its supporters want a separate peace would be more just toward this resolution. We must work out in their positive sense, and forcefully, the aims comprised in this resolution. We must be clear in our minds as to what we desire and must emphasize what was said in th resolution.

CREWS ON 5 GERMAN WARSHIPS MUTINIED IN A WIDESPREAD PLOT FOR PEACE; SOCIALISTS ACCUSED IN THE REICHSTAG

Sixteen British Ships Sunk by U-Boats Last Week; Shipyards Launched More Tonnage in Same Time

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Fourteen British merchant vessels over 1,600 tons were sunk by mine or submarine in the last week, according to the official statement of the British Admiralty tonight.

Two vessels under 1,600 tons and three fishing vessels were sunk.

The arrivals during the week were 2,519, and the sailings 2,632. Five British vessels were unsuccessfully attacked, including three previously.

British shipyards last week launched more tonnage than the Germans sank. This indicates the speeding up which has taken place in the last few months.

The record of the previous week's sinkings was eleven vessels over 1,600 tons and two under that figure, the total of thirteen being the lowest since the U-boat war was proclaimed.

Drafting for Submarine Service May Have Caused German Fleet Mutiny

Dangerous Duty Shorn of Attraction That Made It Popular at Outset—Morale Further Affected by War Weariness—Fleet May Be Sent to Battle to Cure It.

By ARTHUR POLLEN,
Foremost British Writer on Naval Affairs.

The two significant facts about the mutiny of the German fleet are, first, that the mutiny is in the fleet and not in the army, and next, that it took place six weeks ago. It was something less than six weeks ago that there occurred the turn in the tide of the submarine war. One is immediately faced with the question, What is the connection, if any, between the mutiny and the decline in the submarine successes?

To answer this question we have to go back to the Spring of 1915. When the submarine war against trading ships was first proclaimed the under-water service in the German Navy was made extremely popular, first, by the promise of success and the prospect of honors and decorations to those who distinguished themselves; secondly, by a very high rate of pay offered to those who volunteered for the service; thirdly, by the promise of prize money for every ship sunk.

From February, 1915, until September of the same year, there was no lack of volunteers. But in August and September the measures taken by the British Admiralty began to be effective and the losses in German submarines were very formidable. Just how many boats were sunk has never been published. But it was a very high proportion, probably exceeding 50 per cent. of those at the disposal of the Marineamt in this period, and the fact of these losses could not be concealed from the German personnel. The result was that volunteering fell off and it became necessary to draft men from the high seas fleet at Kiel into the submarine service.

From October, 1915, until the month of March, 1916, German submarine activities were very much restricted. The two crises that had arisen with America over the Lusitania and the Arabic were in themselves sufficient to make not von Tirpitz, but the German Government hesitate to go to extremes. But by March, 1916, a great many of the new program boats were ready and von Tirpitz was agitating to get to work on a ruthless campaign, and, in a famous phrase, to damn the consequences. So well did he, Reventlow, and the Pan Germans work their agitation that when this campaign was forbidden by the higher command and Tirpitz dismissed, there was a violent reaction of public opinion and von Capelle was ordered to carry out the very campaign for insistence on which von Tirpitz had been dismissed.

This campaign, as everybody remembers, ended after President Wilson's note over the Sussex case. A great number of boats were engaged, and here again there had been considerable losses, and the discontent in the German Navy with the commandeering system grew to still greater proportions. It is this discontent that largely explains the very exaggerated claims to victory made by the German Emperor and the Chancellor in the Reichstag after the German flight from the field of the Jutland battle. Vital as it was to keep up the spirits of the German people, crucial as was the importance of getting a new credit through the Reichstag without discussion, the third object, the maintenance of discipline and high morale in the German fleet was one that could not be neglected.

It was undoubtedly an object with the German Admiralty to re-establish the credit of the submarine, not only with the German public, but with the German Navy, and it is this that very largely explains why in June, July, and August the main submarine campaign was carried on in the Mediterranean, and not in northern waters, for in the Mediterranean the anti-submarine provision was necessarily far less efficient than nearer home. The success of the U-boats in southern waters made the opening of the Autumn campaign in northern waters easier, but secret reports from Germany have always conveyed the impression that sooner or later the personnel of the German Navy would recoil from the task set to the underwater fleet, not, of course, on account of its inhumanity to its victims, but because the toll of the Germans in lives would become insupportable. The surprising thing, therefore, about this Kiel mutiny, is not that it occured in the first week of September, but that it was not until September that the thing happened.

The unpopularity of the submarine campaign is, of course, by no means the only cause of the mutiny. It is sufficient to say that there is no aggregation of men of the working classes of Germany today that is not bitterly opposed to the continuation of the war. But in the munitions factories and at the front the men are kept under stern discipline, and, what is far more important, are worked to the limit of their capacity day after day.

Sailors Idlest Class in Germany.

With the bluejackets and marines the case is different. The ships that lie in the Kiel Canal for safety are normally denuded of their crews, who are kept in barracks at Wilhelmshaven or Kiel. They are in all probability the idlest class in Germany. This would be bad enough with men sharing the discontent of their class. But it must be remembered that Kiel has been the beginning of the war been the most disaffected of all German towns. In the last eighteen months two serious outbreaks of rioting have taken place, followed by savage sentences on the ringleaders and selected participants. It is a bad atmosphere for men who can add a professional grievance to the loathing for the whole war which all the German proletariat now feel.

The most interesting problem to the student of naval warfare is, however, not the sociological crisis that the blockade and the general military failure must produce in Germany, but the precise value of our anti-submarine campaign in thwarting the progress of the U-boat. In common with other observers I have supposed that the turning point in the campaign, which occurred about the second week in September, was due, not to any falling off in the intensity of the German attack but to the improved methods with which that attack was being met by the British and the American Navy. But clearly if the decline arises from the inability of the German Admiralty to maintain their attack at its former efficiency owing to the mutinous conditions it has engendered in the German fleet, then the conclusions we have drawn as to the character and success of the convoy and other systems on which we have relied may have to be revised.

This is not, of course, to say that these reorganized methods are not effective. It is only to say that the alteration in the results is not due solely to them. From one point of view, this mutiny, if, as I suppose, is very largely due to the unpopularity of the submarine service, is extraordinarily gratifying, for it is a kind of deferred dividend on the immense work which the British Navy carried on for so long almost single-handed against the German pirates.

It would, I think, be a mistake to build on this mutiny any hope of an immediate German naval collapse. Indeed an entirely opposite result is far more probable. When it comes to the assertion of discipline and the maintenance of military morale the German higher command has very little to learn; and we are far more likely to see some bitter intensification of naval activity than any cessation of activity as a consequence of the difficulties which have arisen.

The question has often been asked, Will the German high seas fleet ever come out again to fight? And the answer has commonly been given that it will not do so till public opinion drives it out. It has been supposed, that is to say, that just as Cervera was forced to give battle to Sampson and Schley, and Villeneuve to Nelson, and Rodjestvenski to Togo, so Scheer and von Hipper might be compelled once more to try conclusions with the British fleet. A desire of the German people for naval action might compel action.

But we must not forget that public opinion cuts both ways, and if the German higher command sees a state of mind growing up in the German Navy which is dangerous it is quite capable of the desperate resolution of sending the fleet out to battle, if only to cure it of its megrims. Take it for all in all, the situation is replete with the acutest kind of interest.

BLAMED BY CHANCELLOR

Members Held Guilty of Aiding Agitation in the Fleet.

MARINES REFUSE TO FIRE

Troops Seize Deserters When They Go Ashore at Wilhelmshaven.

KAISER WAS FOR SEVERITY

But Chancellor Softened Penalty—Disaffection Also Reported in the Army.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A dispatch to the Central News from Copenhagen says that the mutiny in the German Navy, the first news of which became public here last night, took the form of a revolutionary outbreak on warships at Wilhelmshaven. This uprising is said to have had all the elements of a widespread and organized revolt and to have been suppressed only with the greatest difficulty. It took place about six weeks ago.

Several mutinous outbreaks are also reported to have occurred among soldiers at the front. These, the dispatch says, were not of such a grave character as those in the navy.

Revolt on Four Battleships.

An Amsterdam dispatch says that the crews of four battleships at Wilhelmshaven revolted. One of these battleships was the Westfalen, whose Captain was thrown overboard and drowned.

A Hague dispatch to The Daily Mail says that according to reports there the mutinous battleships also included the Prinz Regent, Luitpold, and the Kaiser.

The crews landed. Marines refused to fire on them, whereupon soldiers surrounded the sailors, who surrendered.

A mutiny is also reported to have occurred on the German warship Nürnberg, which was at sea. The men seized the officers and proceeded in the direction of Norway, with the intention of being interned. The Nürnberg was overtaken by destroyers and forced to surrender.

One of the reasons for the mutiny was bad and inadequate food.

Emperor William went to Wilhelmshaven and ordered that one out of every seven mutineers be shot. Chancellor Michaelis protested, with the result that only three were shot. Heavy sentences wer imposed on the others.

The Emperor's visit to Wilhelmshaven, in company with Chancellor Michaelis, was made after the mutiny had been suppressed. The Chancellor's objection to the Emperor's order that one mutineer in every seven be shot was on the ground that he could not assume such responsibility befort the Reichstag.

Says Guns Were Thrown Overboard.

An Associated Press dispatch from Berne says that a naturalized American citizen of German birth, who fled to Switzerland from a German seaport to escape military service, as the Germans refused to recognize the legality of his naturalization, asserts that the sailor organizations on many ships dismounted guns and threw them overboard, assaulted officers and refused to obey orders. The mutineers, he said, were quickly checked and a majority of them were shot.

Though the movement was entirely suppressed, it was asserted, the dissatisfaction in the navy had been in nowise subdued. The American said that he had visited many seaports and conversed with the sailors, and that he was aware of the mutinous spirit of the men before the rumors of disaffection began to spread. He added that the movement was not limited to the navy, but that it flourished in certain regiments, in which mutinies had occurred.

Unrest Spread from Russia.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—In announcing to the Reichstag yesterday that a plot has been discovered in the German navy to paralyze the fleet Vice Admiral von Capelle, the Minister of Marine, is quoted in a Berlin dispatch as saying:

"It is unfortunately a sad fact that the Russian revolution turned the heads of some persons in our navy and introduced revolutionary ideas among them. Their insensate plan was to recruit representatives on all the ships, to cause the crews to refuse to obey orders, to paralyze the fleet, and to force peace upon the country.

"It is proved that the principal agitator conferred in this building with the Independent Socialist faction in the Reichstag, explained his plans to Deputies Dittman, Haase, and Vogtherr, and obtained their approval.

"I cannot make a statement here on the subsequent events which occurred in the navy. The few persons who forgot their honor and their duty suffered the penalty which they deserved. I can only say that the rumors which are in circulation are immeasurably exaggerated. The combative force of the navy was not threatened for a single moment, and things will remain so."

In a speech in the Reichstag regarding the plot discovered in the navy, Wilhelm

Dittmann, Socialist member, said the punishments inflicted for the mutiny at Wilhelmshaven amounted collectively to 200 years penal servitude, and that several of the men had been condemned to death.

Suggest Treason by Socialists.

A Centrist member, Herr Trimborn, said that if the three Deputies named by Admiral von Capelle had transgressed the law it would be a question of high treason.

Herr Kretch, Conservative, said if the three men were guilty their Parliamentary immunity must be rescinded, and that they must be prosecuted.

Herr Ebert, a Socialist leader, said the Government ought to have considered the effect of such grave charges on domestic and foreign politics. The material that Admiral von Capelle had produced, he added, did not justify his charge against the independent Socialists, and the Chancellor had set one party outside the pale at a moment when a difficult situation necessitated the utmost unity.

"We regard it as our duty to fight with all our strength a Government which indulges in such a policy," Herr Ebert concluded.

Gustav Stresemann, National Liberal, urged the necessity of the fullest investigation of the charges against Deputies Hasse, Vogtherr, and Dittman, which, he said, had aroused great suspicion as to the action of the independent Socialists.

Members Reply to Charges.

Herr Haase, leader of the Socialist minority in the Reichstag, replying to Admiral von Capelle, said:

"It is true that the sailor of whom Admiral von Capelle spoke had a talk with me in the party conference room, but it is incorrect to say that he proposed such a plan to me. The sailor in question voiced his strong discontent and anger. The sailors had become eager subscribers to independent periodicals and evinced a desire for intellectual culture while on land. I pointed out to him that this was permissible, but warned him to be careful and proceed cautiously."

Deputy Vogtherr said that he had also spoken with the sailor referred to, and had repeatedly discussed with him the conditions on his ship and in the navy. Sailors and deputies were entitled to do this, according to Deputy Vogtherr, who declared it was incorrect to say that the mutiny had originated with them.

Deputy Dittman said that sailors and marines had also visited him, but there was no talk of such a plan mentioned by Admiral von Capelle.

The scenes in the Reichstag were of a most disorderly character, the shouts from the other deputies being heard loud above the furious interruptions of the Socialists.

Michaelis Denies Ban on Socialists.

Herr Neumann, having contended that the fact that the Public Prosecutor had taken no steps to suspend the accused Deputies proved Admiral von Capelle's statement unjustified, Chancellor Michaelis rose and said:

"I know the regrettable fact that crimes have been committed by some of our sailors and that they are in possession of cards showing that they have bound themselves to recognize the principles of the independent Socialists, and that with these cards agitation is being conducted on a large scale aboard German warships."

Repudiating the statement that the Chancellor had said the Independent Socialists stood outside the pale, Dr. Michaelis challenged the House to say whether any one had heard him assert that the Socialist Party should be outlawed.

At this juncture there was a great uproar among the Socialists. The Chancellor argued that there was a great difference between saying the army and navy must be protected from agitation tending toward insubordination and declaring that the Socialist Party must be placed under a special law.

"The punishment must be heavy," said the Chancellor, "because it is a question of military discipline. The resistance must be broken down. That is all that has happened, and we regret it from the bottom of our hearts. The guilty parties were ill-advised and acted in a way incompatible with fidelity and obedience."

Herr Haase again protested against the failure to call Independent Socialists as witnesses, but Chancellor Michaelis interrupted, saying that this had nothing to do with the Ministry but with the court-martial.

Mutineers Told of Conference.

Admiral von Capelle, again rising, denied that he had accused the Independent Socialists of hatching plans and influencing sailors, and he added that he possessed documentary evidence of everything he had said.

Then, amid a great tumult of applause and protests from the right and left of the house respectively, von Capelle said that the guilty parties had confessed to having gone to a sort of party conference, which included Deputies Vogtherr, Dittman, and Haase, at which the plan was discussed, and they had been told that they were committing a punishable act and that therefore it would be advisable to exercise the utmost caution. These Deputies had also declared that they would support the plan by every possible way by means of pamphlets and printed matter.

Alleges Proof Against Socialists.

Chancellor Michaelis said the punishment inflicted on the men at Wilhelmshaven was not unjust, papers found on them indicating they had bound themselves to recognize the principles of the independent Socialists and proving that that party had carried on an extensive agitation in the fleet.

The Chancellor is reported to have added that the independent Socialists belonged to a party in which he could place no confidence, as they were endangering the State. The punishments meted out to the men, he said, had to be severe, as everything was at stake in a critical moment.

SEE WEAKENING IN MORALE.

Germany's Fighting Force Fast Declining, Observers Say.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Few dispatches since the war began have created more interest at the Navy Department than today's report from Amsterdam telling of a revolt in the German Navy.

Officers unhesitatingly declared that the story was one of the most encouraging signs of the year for the Allies and probably one of the most ominous from the German view. They pointed out that, while the allied powers have noted repeatedly recently in their official statements that the morale of the German troops was declining, the observers have believed that the end would come in food and labor riots or perhaps in a political revolt. There has been nothing to suggest that the iron discipline of the German military system had lost its hold over the fighting millions in the slightest degree.

The declining morale on the western front noted, it was said, has shown itself in the feeble character of counter-attacks as compared to the all but irresistible drive a year ago. Assault after assault has dashed itself to pieces before the French and British trenches.

The revolt in the navy, these officers said, was a more serious matter for Germany. The sailors generally have not been subjected to the battering of the guns day after day, month after month. They insisted that if there was discontent among the sailors with their condition it must be even greater in the army.

As one possible explanation of the navy revolt, they pointed out that ever since submarine warfare was started by the Germans, the British have adopted the consistent policy of suppressing information as to the fate of the submarines sent to the bottom by their patrols. The policy was adopted as a deliberate method of breaking down the morale of the submarine crews.

Crews for the U-boats are understood to be drafted from the High Seas Fleet as needed. The big ships are practically idle. They have done little since the North Sea fight but steam out to target practice behind mine-protected zones. For the men of the ships there has been little but the deadly routine of this business, varied only by calls for duty and probable death on the submarines.

BERLINERS SHIVER TO CONSERVE COAL

Lighting of Fires Before Oct. 15 Is Prohibited by Official Order.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 9, (via London, Oct. 10.)—The coal distribution authorities some days ago, when the weather was sunny and warm, decreed that before Oct. 15 no fires should be lighted anywhere in private or public, even in Government buildings. On Saturday the weather began to grow extremely chilly, and has continued so ever since. Men have been compelled to bring out their Winter overcoats, and women are decorating themselves with furs. Rain adds to the general discomfort.

The suburb of Schoeneberg asked the coal authorities to withdraw the order, but so far this has not been done. The weather prophets are certain that the sun will soon shine again as brightly as the season permits.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The German State railways are faced with a great shortage of fuel, and drastic limitation of traffic has begun, according to reports reaching here.

The railroads propose to levy heavy excess fares on express trains, so as to discourage all except unavoidable business journeys. A large number of fast trains have been eliminated from the Winter timetables. The Württemberg railways will charge heavy excess fares for traffic on Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

AIRMAN AT PRINCETON HAD POISON IN ROOM

Private Livingood Under Arrest and Authorities Hint of Plot Against Aviators.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—An investigation, resulting from chance remarks dropped by one of the students in the aviation camp at Princeton, N. J., led to the discovery of two pounds of cyanide of patassium in the room in Patton Hall, Princeton, occupied by Samuel O. Livingwood, a private in the Aviation Corps.

Immediately upon the discovery of the poison, of which the quantity was sufficient to kill far more persons than dine at the hall, Livingood and another private were arrested by the provost guard. Upon receipt of orders from the military authorities, Commandant Rodman Gilder, in charge of the aviation school, took the prisoners under guard to Governor's Island.

Livingood was detained and held for court-martial early next week. The other man was brought back to Princeton and reinstated. The military authorities suspect the existence of a plot to poison students at aviation camps in every part of the country. The origin of the plot and the names of those who conceived it are unknown, so far as can be learned.

Livingood is 24 years old. His home is given as Zanesville, Ohio, and his occupation in his enlistment papers is described as that of steward.

In the aviation student body at Princeton there are enrolled about 600 men. Practically the entire number eat in the dining hall at the same time. In addition, about 600 college students eat in the same hall.

REPORT LUXBURG ARRESTED

Ex-Minister Said to be Bound for a Detention Camp.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 10.—Count Von Luxburg, the German Minister who recently received his passports from the Argentine Government, has been arrested in the southern port of Buenos Aires Province, according to the highest authority.

The Count is now being taken to the island of Martin Garcia, where he will be kept in the German detention camp under military guard until an opportunity is found to send him out of the country.

BERLIN BACKED SABOTAGE HERE

tage plots in this country, place him in the position of having been an ordinary intriguer, willing to violate all the proprieties of the diplomatic office he held and criminally destroy property interests, probably involving the loss of human life.

One phrase in the telegram addressed to Count von Bernstorff "for Military Attaché" and signed "Representative of General Staff" has excited the interest of officials. "Railway embankments and bridges must not be touched." Count von Bernstorff was informed in the instructions to arrange with MacGarrity, Keating, and O'Leary to carry out sabotage "on every kind of factory for supplying munitions of war." Taken in connection with the context of the message, officials construe this to mean that the activities of the men working with Bernstorff and Papen were to be confined to wrecking railway trains and injuring their tracks.

O'Leary now edits Bull, a publication to which the use of the mails was recently denied by the Post Office Department for seditious utterances.

According to what was said today in the office of Senator Paul O. Husting of Wisconsin, who, in a speech in the Senate, exposed the pro-German activities of the Embargo Conference, John P. Keating of Chicago, one of the three men commended to the German Government by Sir Roger Casement, was identified with the Embargo Conference. Senator Husting accused the conference of being responsible for paying for the deluge of telegrams sent to Senators and Representatives calling for an embargo on munitions. It was apparent that these telegrams emanated from a common source.

Mention is made in one of the telegrams to von Bernstorff of Captain Boehm of the German Army, who was then in the United States. Boehm was to give von Bernstorff information as to plans for the destruction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was arrested on the Dutch steamship Zealandia at Falmouth, England, while on his way from Spain to Holland traveling under cover of an American passport, and is now a prisoner in England. Boehm was indiscreet. He told too much to members of the American Truth Society, according to a report in the possession of this Government, and this fact has special significance now in the light of the statement in one of the telegrams from Berlin that O'Leary, the President of that organization, was "reliable but not always discreet."

It is said that Boehm made a trip into Canada disguised as a laborer, but could not resist the temptation to travel in a parlor car drawing room. The diversity between his attire and his luxurious method of traveling attracted attention, and he narrowly escaped arrest. Boehm's explanation was that he was a Prussian officer, and that Prussian officers always traveled first class.

Source of Documents Secret.

The State Department continues to preserve silence as to where it obtained German official secret correspondence, such as the telegrams sent to the Berlin Foreign Office by Count von Luxburg, the German Chargé d'Affaires in Buenos Aires, through the Swedish Legation in that capital; the request of Count von Bernstorff for funds to "influence" the United States Congress, the implication of Count von Bernstorff in the Bolo Pacha intrigue to subsidize French and American newspapers in behalf of Germany, and the three messages made public today.

All Secretary Lansing was willing to say on the subject today was that the last three messages had not been sent from Berlin under cover of the United States diplomatic code. This remark was inferred to mean that communication between von Bernstorff and his Government was maintained through the medium of some neutral diplomatic establishment whose code dispatches were permitted by the British authorities to go to their destinations in the supposition that they related to the business of the Government to which or by which they were sent.

The Three Messages.

Secretary Lansing's statement was made known in this form:

"The Secretary of State publishes the following two telegrams from the German Foreign Office to Count von Bernstorff in January, 1916:

Jan. 3. (Secret.) General Staff desires energetic action in regard to proposed destruction of Canadian Pacific Railway at several points with a view to complete and protracted interruption of traffic. Captain Boehm, who is known on your side and is shortly returning, has been given instructions. Inform the military attaché and provide the necessary funds.

(Signed,) ZIMMERMAN.

Jan. 26. For Military Attaché. You can obtain particulars as to persons suitable for carrying on sabotage in the United States and Canada from the following persons: 1. Joseph MacGarrity, Philadelphia, Penn.; 2. John P. Keating, Michigan Avenue, Chicago; 3, Jeremiah O'Leary, 16 Park Row, New York.

One and two are absolutely reliable and discreet. No. 3 is reliable but not always discreet. These persons were indicated by Sir Roger Casement. In the United States sabotage can be carried out on every kind of factory for supplying munitions of war. Railway embankments and bridges must not be touched. Embassy must in no circumstances be compromised. Similar precautions must be taken in regard to Irish pro-German propaganda.

REPRESENTATIVE OF GENERAL STAFF.

Sept. 15. With reference to report A. N. two hundred and sixty-six of May tenth, nineteen sixteen. The embargo conferee in regard to whose earlier fruitful co-operation Dr. Hale can give information, is just about to enter upon a vigorous campaign to secure a majority in both houses of Congress favorable to Germany, and request further support. There is no possibility of our being compromised. Request telegraphic reply.

DID NOT AUTHORIZE USE OF NAME, HALE ASSERTS

Denies Activity in Embargo Conference—O'Leary Declares He Is Persecuted.

Dr. William Bayard Hale, once President Wilson's personal Commissioner to Mexico, denied last night that he had supplied to the German Government information as to the campaign of the American Embargo Conference, as was intimated in the cablegram of Ambassador von Bernstorff to his foreign office. Dr. Hale said that the use of his name by the organization as Chairman of the National Board was without authorzation, and that he had it stopped as soon as he discovered that his name was being used.

The letterhead on which the name of Dr. Hale appears contains also the names of Dr. Charles F. Aked, an Englishman by birth, who has said that his name was used wthout authorization. It also contained the name of Frank S. Monnett, former Attorney General of Ohio, who was indicted for his activities in connection with the Pro-German Labor National Peace Council. The fourth name was that of Colonel Jasper Tucker Darling of Chicago, a civil war veteran, who has declared that he was a victim of pro-German conspirators.

As to who were the real backers of the Embargo Conference, Dr. Hale said he could shed no light, but from correspondence he showed to a reporter it was to be gleaned, as had been stated before, that the moving spirit of the organization was Will R. MacDonald, a former newspaper man, who acted as Secretary and signed all the letters which were written to Dr. Hale.

It was charged by the Democratic National Committee, in the campaign last year, that the Embargo Conference was financed by German money. At that time Mr. MacDonald issued a general denial.

Disowns O'Leary.

Dr. Hale emphasized that if Count von Bernstorff had a financial or personal interest in the Embargo Conference he knew nothing of it. Incidentally, Dr. Hale took occasion to disown Jeremiah O'Leary and also to say that, while he worked for William Randolph Hearst, he had never met him.

When the von Bernstorff messages were read to Dr. Hale he dictated this statement:

"Yes, I know something of the American Embargo Conference. Early in the year 1915, more than two years before the United States entered the war, I was surprised by a visit of a gentleman from Chicago, (I do not remember his name,) who had seen an article or two of mine deprecating war. He asked me to make a speech in Chicago before an assembly of ladies and gentlemen who hoped to preserve peace, and who, as I remember, he thought would form an organization to promote public opinion against the further shipment of arms and ammunition from America.

"I expressed some sympathy with the idea, but declined to go to Chicago to speak. A few months later I was astonished to find my name printed on the stationery of 'the American Embargo Conference' as 'Chairman of the National Board.'

"Consulting my letter files, I find that on Dec. 7, 1915, I wrote to the Executive Secretary of this organization, expressing surprise that they had used my name and asking them to withdraw it from their stationery. Some correspondence followed, as I gleaned from a hurried review of my letter files, but the executive officers of the conference apologized for the unwarranted use of my name and withdrew it from their stationery. On my part I expressed sympathy with their movement so far as I was acquainted with it, but declined to associate myself with the organization.

"I never saw Count Bernstorff and had never communicated with him, either directly or indirectly, until May 31, when, upon leaving for Europe, I called at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and spent probably two minutes and a half in receiving from him a perfunctory standardized letter such as is given to all newspaper correspondents. If he used my name as a reference for the embargo conference it must have been purely upon the unauthorized letterhead. Furthermore, nobody in Berlin ever mentioned this obscure organization to me."

Last night Dr. Hale asked that the following be added to his former statement:

"I have never in my life met Mr. William Randolph Hearst personally nor communicated with him. I am a humble member of the staff of The New York American.

"This Mr. O'Leary is a gentleman whom I never had had the pleasure of meeting in my life; my most vivid recollection of him is that, a year or two ago, he denounced me on a public platform as an English spy because I had spoken a word in favor of the Declaration of London, a document of which apparently he was ignorant."

Hale Article as Propaganda.

Dr. Hale consented to allow a reporter to go through the files of his correspondence relating to the American Embargo Conference. This showed that the pro-German propagandists had made use of articles written by Dr. Hale to the extent of distributing 50,000 copies of a pamphlet entitled "Thou Shalt Not Kill," an argument against the United States getting into the war, written over two years ago.

In a letter written from the Chicago headquarters of the Embargo Conference on Nov. 1, 1915, MacDonald wrote to Dr. Hale as one of the "sincere friends" of the movement. In this letter MacDonald said, in part:

"As you know, the active work of the conference was started at the beginning of August, and we wish to inform you that in the three months following the headquarters here in Chicago has sent out 400,000 of the pledge postal cards that call for the signatures of voters who are willing to support our demand for an embargo.

"More than one hundred thousand of these cards have been returned to our headquarters with the signatures of voters. This means that we have received here, and have on file, fully five hundred thousand pledges. We would call attention to the fact that these signatures are far more than the signatures to petitions, for we have never failed to impress upon the men circulating the cards the fact that it was absolutely necessary for them to point out to the voters that their signatures were not wanted unless their sincere pledge went with the signed name."

Feared Secret Service Men.

MacDonald also told in the letter how the German press was furthering the embargo propaganda. In a letter under date of Nov. 10 MacDonald said in part:

"From the beginning we have worked to keep our organization in such shape that there could be no chance to charge that we were pushing a pro-German propaganda. We have insisted that every meeting held by us must follow a distinctly patriotic program. We have had the veterans of the G. A. R. on the platform at every meeting, and our main speaker at our big meetings has been Colonel Darling, who is identified at the head of this letterhead. We admit that we have appealed to the German-Americans for support, but we have made the same appeal to Americans of all nationalities and we count Americans of most nationalities in our ranks.

"We are almost confident that all of this agitation and this run of sensational news regarding the plots and plotters is inspired stuff written to cripple us and the other organizations, and this thought has given birth to the fear that the stories and possible attempts at investigations may have led you to feel that you did not care to be connected with this movement. We will be very sorry to learn that this is the case, for from the first we have looked upon you as one of the strongest men helping us in the attempt to bring about an embargo."

Dr. Hale then called attention to a letter he wrote to MacDonald refusing to be an officer of the organization. His letter said in part:

"Permit me to say that I have never for an instant had the slightest idea that you had employed my name otherwise than as a compliment to me, and in the full belief that its employment was agreeable to me. As a matter of fact, I never received the letter, a copy of which you inclosed, dated Aug. 3, 1915, proposing naming me as Chairman of the National Board of the Conference and asking me to reply within a week. * * *

"Please, therefore, understand that I absolve you entirely and absolutely from any fault or error. But I am confronted with the question whether I should allow the use of my name in an enterprise of which I have only the most general idea. I am put on your letterheads as 'Chairman of the National Board.' So far as I am aware, no 'National Board' exists; at least, I have never heard the names of any members of it. I have not the slightest doubt in the world that all you are doing is praiseworthy and indeed splendid; with what I understand to be your purpose, I am in the most hearty sympathy. But you know how numerous and how vicious are the enemies of those of us who are endeavoring to free the country from implication in the dreadful crime or responsibility for bloodshed in Europe; and you know, as well as I know, that if the attacks of these enemies of our country should turn upon you, those whose names are on your stationery would be summoned before some inquisitorial body where I, for instance, would have to admit that I knew nothing of the 'National Board' of which I was 'Chairman' and that, as a matter of fact, I knew nothing whatever of the actual operations of the American Embargo Conference.

"With the best wishes in the world for your enterprise, I am obliged to conclude that I ought to be responsible only for what I am doing myself. I am the more concerned on this point in that a new year is about to begin, a year which I fancy may be a very important one, and in which I am most anxious to maintain absolute independence of every organization and every influence that could by any possibility be supposed to affect any act or word of mine. I must, therefore, I think, ask you if you will not be so good as to relieve me of the appointment which you were so kind and complimentary as to make."

The American Embargo Conference was merged into the American Independence Conference in October, 1916, at a meeting in Chicago. Several New York men, among them Mr. O'Leary, John D. Moore, National Secretary of the Friends of Irish Freedom; Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, Robert E. Ford, editor of The Irish World; Victor F. Ridder, R. Pagenstecher, MacDonald, and others attended.

MacDonald remained active in the work of the Independence Conference. The real reason for the alteration of the work of the pro-Germans was explained yesterday by a New York man who attended. He said that the backers of the anti-embargo fight decided that the greatest good to the cause could be effected by the defeat of President Wilson. Therefore, they organized the larger conference to conduct a national campaign for Hughes.

Joseph Frey of 71 Washington Square, who attended the Chicago meeting, said last night that the head of the Embargo Conference was Carl Schmidt of Detroit. Mr. Frey said that he was among those who contributed to the support of the Embargo Conference "as did other gentlemen interested in the cause."

John D. Moore said that he was a member of the Independence Conference, but not of the Embargo Conference. Mr. Moore's purpose was to aid in the work of working for the defeat of President Wilson.

Mr. Ridder was asked last night what he knew about the workings of the Embargo Conference. He said he could not say whether he was a member until he had consulted papers which were in his office.

O'Leary Vehement in Denial.

Mr. O'Leary, who is President of the "American Truth Society," issued a statement yesterday denying that he had had anything to do with the pro-German sabotage in the United States. He said of the documents made public in Washington yesterday:

"The Zimmermann message if genuine is a complete surprise to me. The only thing I can say about it is a matter about which I could possibly know nothing. What Zimmerman might say to his military representative I could not in any way control, but I am the controller of my own conduct, and as such I can positively say that I have had nothing to do with sabotage, nor have I ever been approached by any German agent on that subject.

"It is an outrage for the State Department to publish documents reflecting on an American citizen without any proof that they have been connected with the subject matter. I have been active in fighting the British propaganda with my voice, pen, and energies because I have been convinced that reason is a far more effective weapon than dynamite.

"My work has been in the open. I have been connected with no secret intrigues. Every newspaper in the country is familiar with my work, and Mr. Lansing knows this as well as they do."

O'Leary Accuses Wilson.

Mr. O'Leary last night made public this telegram, which he sent to Secretary Lansing:

Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

Sir: Malicious and mendacious are the hideous suggestions you are striving to create in the public mind in publishing the alleged Zimmermann note. Whether it was forged by British agents or whether it is genuine, you must know the document has no standing in any court. Since it is no proof it establishes nothing. Although I have been continually hounded by Government sleuths; although my telephone has been tapped; my mail opened; my home and office ransacked for papers; although every constitutional right of privacy has been destroyed by a Government that is fighting for democracy and the freedom of small nations; although the Department of Justice can now trade my liberty for that of German enemies who should be interned by offering them freedom for false evidence against me, I challenge you, Sir, to produce one scrap of evidence to prove I have ever been connected with the subject matter of the Zimmermann note.

The fight I have made has been legitimate, it has been in the open, and my weapons have been reason instead of dynamite. My crimes have been that I have persistently fought the British propaganda you have encouraged and protected. I have tried to preserve the neutrality of my country as a means of keeping it out of war, and in a war to protect the rights of small nations and for democracy I have striven, as every self-respecting man of Irish blood should strive, to secure recognition of Ireland's claim to absolute independence.

For these crimes I have been misrepresented by the press and persecuted by Woodrow Wilson and his Administration. It is my opinion that you could win this war far more effectively by demanding the freedom of Ireland rather than by persecuting and defaming the men who are willing to make every sacrifice to compel this Government to be honest about its war aims.

JEREMIAH A. O'LEARY.

During the Presidential campaign O'Leary sent to President Wilson at Shadow Lawn a letter in which he said that the Wilson policies were pro-British and anti-American. In reply, the President sent Mr. O'Leary this message:

"Your letter received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

Captain Hans Boehm, referred to in the telegrams made public at Washington, was reported in cable dispatches from London last January as having been taken off the Dutch steamer Zeelandia at Falmouth, bound from Spain for Holland. Boehm, who was traveling under an American passport, issued in the name of Jelka Le Roy Thrasher of Georgia, at first maintained that he was Thrasher, but later, when confronted with a British Admiralty intelligence officer, who addressed him as "Captain Boehm," he admitted his identity.

Boehm told the British authorities that he went to the United States, where he was employed by the German Secret Service. He was placed in an internment camp, where, it is supposed, he is now.

HALE ACCUSED IN 1916.

Providence Journal Said Then He Was in Bernstorff's Pay.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 10.—On Feb. 3, 1916, The Providence Journal printed a statement which said in part:

"An organization known as the American Embargo Conference, planned and brought into existence by Count von Bernstorff at Washington, and financed directly from the office of Dr. Heinrich Albert, the fiscal agent of the Berlin Government at New York City, has taken up the work of the so-called Labor's National Peace Council, and through certain individuals is now using every effort to bring to its aid United States Senators and other members of Congress in order to bring about a cessation of the export of war materials to Europe. This organization, which already has branches in St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, is headed by William Bayard Hale, who calls himself Chairman of the National Board, and who is directly in the monthly pay of Ambassador Bernstorff and Dr. Albert.

"Every movement in the progress of this Embargo Conference work has been placed before Count von Bernstorff. The German Ambassador, furthermore, is in constant communication with members of his Washington lobby, who are seeking to swing certain members of the Senate and the House into line."

The Journal on the same day printed an article including Dr. Hale's circular which called on the American people to stop the traffic in munitions at once.

NAVAL STORES OUTPUT OFF.

German Intrigue to Cause a Labor Shortage Is Suspected.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Shortage of labor due to the exodus of thousands of negroes from Southern States to the North, together with unfavorable weather conditions in the early Spring, has resulted in a 15 per cent. decrease in this year's crop of naval stores—turpentine, pitch, tar, and resin—according to the statements made in a committee report adopted today at the annual meeting of the National Paint, Oil, and Varnish Association.

The United States is now the sole source of supply in these stores for the allied navies and merchant marine.

The association adopted a resolution urging a standardization of naval stores and the eliminaton of adulteration by Federal legislation. W. H. Crawford of Cincinnati, Chairman of the Committee on Naval Stores, said:

"We believe that the German propaganda that induced the negroes to leave the South was directed against the indispensable naval stores as well as against cotton."

GERMANY WILL NOT GIVE UP ALSACE

"The German nation will stand together as one man unshakable, and persevere in the fight until its fight and the rights of our Allies to existence and development are assured. In its unity the German Empire is invincible.

"We must continue to persevere until the German Empire, on the continent and overseas, establishes its position. Further, we must strive to see that the armed alliance of our enemies does not grow into an economic offensive alliance.

"We can in this sense achieve a peace which guarantees the peasant the reward of his land; which gives the worker merited recompense; which creates a market for industries and supplies the foundation for social progress; which gives our ships the possibility on a free voyage of entering ports and taking on coal all over the world. A peace of the widest economic and cultural development, a real peace. This peace we can attain within these limits.

"As long as our enemies confront us with demands which appear unacceptable to every single German, as long as our opponents wish to interfere with our frontier posts, as long as they demand that we shall yield a piece of German soil, as long as they pursue the idea of driving a wedge between the German people and its Emperor, so long shall we with folded arms refuse the hand of peace.

"We can wait. Time is working for us. Until our enemies perceive that they must reduce their claims, so long must the cannon speak and the U-boats do their work. Our peace will yet come."

GERMAN SOLDIERS WANT PEACE

Herr Dove, Back from the Front, Thus Reports to Reichstag.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—An uncensored report of Monday's debate in the Reichstag has been received here. It shows that Heinrich Dove, Radical Socialist, who has returned from the front, reported to the members of the Reichstag that the soldiers everywhere had expressed the desire that the war speedily be ended.

Socialist speakers produced a whole series of instructions from the higher military authorities concerning the "enlightenment campaign," which were in direct variance to the principle of no politics in the army, which, Lieut. Gen. von Stein, Prussian War Minister, said, governed the campaign. It was asserted by the Socialists that the War Minister was unable to controvert this testimony.

The Socialists also called attention to the fact that the general order for "enlightenment against peace" was issued immediately after the adoption of the Reichstag peace resolution July 19, showing that the campaign was directed against the Reichstag majority. They brought out the fact that a conference was called by the War Ministry in the middle of August to discuss preventive measures against strikes, and that the strike movement of the Radical Socialists against the war and food and labor conditions was still a menace. Members of the conference, it was stated, advocated the suspension of the right of assembly under certain circumstances and the putting of the leaders of the workmen into the army in order to cope with strikes.

Philipp Scheidemann, leader of the majority Socialists, did not participate in the debate. It is reported that he was in Copenhagen on business, which it is considered must have been important to keep him out of the Reichstag in such an emergency.

By the President:
ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State.

After Canned Peas Extortioners.

The Food Administration announced tonight that steps were being taken to reduce the price of canned peas and beans. A statement issued said:

"According to reports made to the Food Administration, the canning industry has responded nobly to the demands for food conservation. The 1917 output of canned peas has reached the enormous total of nearly 10,000,000 cases of two dozen tins each, as compared with the previous record of approximately 9,000,000 in 1915 and about 6,500,000 in 1916.

"Most of these peas were sold by canners before the declaration of war, to be delivered this Fall after canning, and at prices to the wholesale trade ranging from 90 cents to $1 per dozen for the cheapest grade, to $1.20 for those of the medium size and price. There is, accordingly, no excuse for the extortionate prices being asked in some markets.

"Canners who are taking advantage of army purchases to deliver short to the trade in an unwarranted manner are being investigated. Jobbers and the large retailers have agreed to handle canned beans on a reasonable margin over actual cost, and the efforts of the Food Administration are now being directed toward insuring a reasonable price to the consumer."

CITY REGISTRATION BEGINS TO PICK UP

MANHATTAN TAKES A JUMP

Political Leaders Alarmed Over Falling Off—Look for Gains on Saturday.

Registration in all the boroughs of the city showed a big increase yesterday over the figures for the two previous days this year. The total registration in the entire city yesterday was 104,876, a gain of 22,808 over Tuesday's figures. This is close to the third day of last year when 108,291 registered. It is still far behind the third day figures of 1913, the last Mayoralty year, when 158,688 registered.

The total registration in all boroughs for the three days this year is 248,148. In 1913 the first three days showed a total of 501,244, while last year the total for the same period was 356,545.

Manhattan took a jump of 7,400 over Tuesday. The total for yesterday was 34,890, and the total for the three days this year was 108,472. These figures are still far behind the registration of both 1913 and 1916. In the former year the three-day total for Manhattan was 200,667, and for the three days last year it was 140,940.

The total registration in the Bronx yesterday was 15,069, and the total for the three days this year was 40,072. Four years ago the three days' total amounted to 62,985, and in 1913 it amounted to 47,167, so that the falling off this year in that borough as compared to the three days last year is only 7,090.

The total for Brooklyn yesterday was 38,477, which is 1,137 behind the third day last year. For the three days this year the total Brooklyn registration was 104,820. In 1913 the three day total for that borough was 179,380, and for the three days in 1916, a Presidential year, it was 151,297.

Queens made the best showing yesterday. Its registration was 10,148, as compared to 12,432 on the third day of 1913 and 10,108 for the third day last year. The total number of registrations in Queens so far this year amounts to 25,305. In 1913 the three-day total for the borough was 46,141, and for the three days last year it amounted to 30,306.

Political leaders became alarmed yesterday over the heavy falling off in the registration this year. The Fusion forces frankly declared that unless conditions improved redoubled efforts would be made to get the independent voter to the polls before the last day of registration, Saturday, expired.

Tammany leaders declared that their heavy registration would come at the end of the week, when the workers would have all day Saturday to go to the polls. Several explanations have been offered to explain the apparent apathy of the voters. The falling off during the first two days was laid to the stormy weather.

The tendency to delay because there are six days of registration, the change in polling places, and the departure of many voters with the troops were also given as possible reasons.

Following are the registration figures by boroughs for the third day of 1913, 1916, and this year:

| Boroughs. | 1913. | 1916. | 1917. |
| Manhattan | 88,690 | 41,374 | 38,890 |
| Bronx | 19,750 | 14,949 | 15,069 |

| Queens | 12,432 | 10,108 | 10,148 |
| Richmond | 4,105 | 2,246 | 2,302 |
| Total | 158,688 | 108,291 | 104,876 |

FLANDERS VICTORS HOLD MOST GAINS

French Troops Gain More Ground Toward Houthulst Forest.

MORE PRISONERS CAPTURED

British Yield a Little at One Point to Obtain Better Holding Position.

HEAVY WEATHER CONTINUES

Rain and Mud Make Further Pressing of Operations Almost Impossible.

By The Associated Press.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 10.—The British and French armies, which yesterday made such a spectacular assault over the Flanders bog lands against the German defenses east and north of Ypres, were digging themselves in today along a line that represents an important gain. But the never-ending reaches of almost bottomless mud had during the past twenty-four hours robbed Field Marshal Haig's men of some of the laurels which they had won in such a remarkable manner.

Over much of the front involved the small bodies of hardy pioneers, who floundered forward through merciless morasses to the most forward positions that were reached, had been forced to fall back and rejoin their comrades on the main line of the advance. In some places this was due in part to German counterattacks, but for the main part the terrible condition of the ground was responsible.

Even today these rain-drenched, mud-caked, weary men were still reaching out for more ground. Late reports told of bodies of infantry that were far beyond the line which could be claimed as definitely held. What they may achieve only another day can tell.

The French line today was still nestled firmly almost at the edge of the great Houthulst Forest, and the poilus had even improved their line somewhat during the night.

On their immediate right the British also were established in positions some 2,000 yards in advance of their jumping off place of yesterday. They had surged forward to a line about 1,000 yards east of the Poelcapelle-Houthoulst highway and had maintained themselves in the face of several vigorous enemy counterattacks.

From the region of Poelcapelle southward the British were establishing themselves along a line somewhat in front of the most advanced posts reached yesterday. The vile condition of the ground rather than the opposition of the Germans made it unfeasible for these pioneer troops to attempt to remain in the farthest posts reached.

Several enemy counterattacks along the Ypres-Staden railway and south of Houthulst Forest were quickly repulsed by artillery and machine-gun fire.

It rained hard again this morning, and the Allies were digging themselves in over a wilderness of pasty mud and water such as only Flanders can produce.

Sharp fighting still continued today around Polderhoek Château, in the zone of a small separate attack by the British south of the main offensive, but the operation in this sector had accomplished all that had been planned for it, and the situation at the château gave no cause for uneasiness.

Trapped in Shell Hole "Nests."

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FLANDERS, Oct. 10.—The new system of front-line defenses inaugurated by the Germans, who, instead of utilizing line trenches, organized nests of shell holes, proved a regular trap in the battle just ended. The German troops who occupied the craters without other shelter, when they found during the fighting that their officers were not with them, and not having immediate oversight, deserted as easily as the French approached. The German officers meanwhile were sheltered in concrete "pill boxes" further to the rear.

The correspondent spoke today with general prisoners, officers and men, all of whom seemed to be in a terrible condition of fatigue. The officers declared that their companies were reduced to a strength of only forty men, some of whom were mere boys of eighteen. The men said they were well provided with food while on the front lines, but that in the interior of the country the privations were great.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Official reports from the British and French headquarters indicate a comparative absence of important operations today.

The night report of the French War Office reads:

In Belgium there was no infantry action. Our troops were engaged in organizing the newly gained positions. The number of prisoners taken since yesterday morning exceeds 400.

The day report of the French War Office says of operations in this sector:

In Belgium we made a further progress east of Draelbank, occupying Papegoet Farm and taking 40 prisoners. On our new front the enemy undertook only patrol operations.

The night report of the British War Office is as follows:

In the course of the day hostile attacks against our new positions in the neighborhood of the Ypres-Staden Railway led to local fighting, but without effecting any material change in the situation.

No further attacks have been made by the enemy, and our troops on the battle front have been actively engaged in organizing the positions captured yesterday, in spite of the great difficulties arising from the state of the ground. The artillery activity continued on both sides.

The number of prisoners taken yesterday thus far reported is 2,083, including twenty-nine officers. This number includes 400 taken by the French. We also captured a few field guns and a number of machine guns and trench mortars.

The day report of the British War Office reads:

The enemy delivered several counterattacks yesterday evening in the neighborhood of the Ypres-Staden Railway. All these were repulsed, but south of the railway, on a front of about 2,000 yards, our advanced troops were forced back a short distance. Other counterattacks made by the enemy northeast of Broodseinde during yesterday's fighting were repulsed with loss.

A heavy rain is again falling today.

Lines Holding, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Oct. 10, (via London.)—The German battle lines on the Flanders front from Poelcapelle to the south of Gheluvelt are held firmly by their defenders, says today's Army Headquarters report. Repeated hostile attacks upon this front of approximately eight miles broke down with the heaviest losses, it is stated.

Eleven British divisions were engaged in yesterday's battle in Flanders in addition to the French troops which attacked, the Staff announces.

South of Houthulst Wood yesterday the Allies captured about 1,500 meters of territory, the statement says, until their success was limited by a German counterattack.

The statement reads:

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: Yesterday on the Flanders battlefield the French troops again went into battle by the side of eleven British divisions. The tremendous exertion of power on the part of the allied forces exhausted itself before the steadfastness of our Flanders warriors.

Attacks which were delivered in the morning after the strongest drumfire were the introduction of a battle along the almost 20-kilometer front on the crater field between Bixschoote and Gheluvelt. This was fought until far into the night, accompanied by the most violent and continuous artillery activity. Our enemies repeatedly threw fresh forces into the battle, which often, and at some points as many as six times, assaulted our lines.

South of Houthulst Wood the enemy captured about 1,500 meters of ground near Draelbank, Mangelare, and Veldhork and at the Poelcapelle Railway station, until a counterattack by our reserves struck him and limited his initial successes. From Poelcapelle to south of Gheluvelt our brave troops have their battle lines firmly in hand.

GREAT DEEDS DONE AGAINST OBSTACLES

British Troops Showed Their Power in Stroke Amid Rain and Mud.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS HEADQUARTERS ON THE BRITISH FRONT, Tuesday, Oct. 9.—Another battle has been fought and another successful advance has been made by the British troops today, with the French, in a great assault on their left.

The French gained about 1,200 yards of ground in two strides, captured hundreds of prisoners, many machine guns, and two field guns and killed large numbers of the enemy in this attack and in the bombardments which preceded it.

The allied troops are within a few hundred yards of that forest of which Marlborough spoke when he said, "Whoever holds Houltuist Forest, holds Flanders," and have gone forward about 1,500 yards in depth along a line beyond Poelcapelle, across the Ypres-Cheluvelt road.

The enemy again suffered great losses. Two new divisions which had just been brought into line, the 227th, straight from Rheims, getting into line at 3 o'clock this morning, while the 195th arrived from Russia, have received a fearful baptism of fire, and at least three other divisions have been hard hit and have given many prisoners from their raids into British hands.

Last night's attack might have seemed hopeless in the morning except to the men, who had weighed all the chances and had all the evidence in their hands. Evidence, I mean, of the measure of the enemy's strength and spirit, and took the responsibility of saying "Go" to the start of this new battle.

Through Darkness and Rain.

'It was a black and dreadful night. The wind howled and raged across Flanders with long sinister wailings as it gathered speed and raced over the fields. The heavy stormclouds, hiding the moon and stars, broke and a deluge came down, drenching the British soldiers who marched along the roads and tracks, making ponds about them where they stood. It was cold with the coldness cutting the men with the sharp sword of the wind and there was no glimmer of light in the darkness.

To those who know the craterland of battlefields and with light kit or no kit have gone stumbling through it, picking their way between shell holes in the daylight, taking hours to travel a mile or two, it might have seemed impossible that great bodies of troops could go forward in an assault all over such a country and with success in such conditions. That they did so is one more proof that the British troops have in them the heroic spirit which is above the normal laws of life, and that whatever the conditions may be they will face them and grapple with them, and if the spirit and flesh of man can do it, overcome the impossible itself.

This battle seems to me as wonderful as anything the British have done since the Highlanders and the naval division captured Beaumont Hamel in the mud and fog. It was more wonderful even than that, because on a greater scale and in more foul weather.

This morning to live here among men who lay out last night before the attack which followed the first gleams of dawn today, and who staggered and stumbled up to take part in the attack. These men I met had come back wounded. Only in the worst days of the Somme have I seen such figures. They were plastered from head to foot in wet mud, their hands and faces being covered with clay like the hands and faces of dead men.

They had tied bits of sacking round their legs and this was stuck on them with clots of mud. Their belts and tunics were covered with thick wet slime. They were soaked to the skin and their hair was stiff with clay.

They looked to me like men who had been buried alive and had been dug out again. And when I spoke to them I found that some of them had been buried alive and unburied while they still had life. They told me this simply as if it were the normal thing.

Others, without being flung down by a shell burst or buried in a crater, fell up to their waists in shell holes and up to their armpits and sank in water and mud.

A little group of men whom I knew had to make their way up to join in their unit's attack in the dawn. It was at dusk that this handful of men set out on the way up to the battle line, and it was only a few miles they had to go, but it took them eleven hours to go that distance, and they did not get to the journey's end until half an hour before they had to attack.

The wind blew against them, slapping their faces with their wet caps so that their flesh stung as at the slash of whips. It buffeted them against each other and clutched at their rifles, and tried to wrench their packs off their backs. The rain poured down upon them in fierce gusts until they were only dry where their belts crossed, and their boots were filled with water. It was pitch dark at the beginning of the night, and afterward there was only the light of the stars. They could not see a yard before them, but only the dark figure of the man ahead. Often that figure ahead fell suddenly with a shout. It had fallen into a deep shell hole and disappeared.

Somehow they got on, and that is the wonder of it. They got on to the line of attack half an hour before the guns were to start their drumfire, and they joined thousands of other men who had been lying out in shell holes all night, and were numbed with cold and waist-high in water.

Not all of them got there. The German guns had been busy most of the night, and big shells were coming. Over thirty men were killed or wounded with one shell, and others were hit and fell into water pools and lay there till stretcherbearers came to search for them.

My friends had traveled eleven hours and had had no food all that time. "I would have given my left arm for a drop of hot drink," said one of them. "I yas 'fair perished' with the cold."

They went over to the attack, these troops who were cold and hungry and exhausted after a dreadful night, and they gained their objective and routed the enemy and sent back many prisoners.

There were a number of German blockhouses in front of them beyond Abraham Heights and Gravenstafel. On their left there was a blockhouse called Peter Pan, though no little Mother Wendy would tell stories to her boys there.

German Troops Heavily Massed.

Beyond that little house of death were Wolf Copse and Wolf Farm, from which the fire of German machine guns came swishing in streams of bullets. There was no yard of ground without a shell-hole, they were linked together like the holes in honeycomb, and German troops were very thick because of their new methods of defense—very dense in the support lines, though the front line was more lightly held, the men being scattered about in these craters.

Large numbers were killed and wounded when the British barrage stormed over them, but numbers crouching in the old craters were left alive, and as the barrage passed they rose and came streaming over in small batches with their hands high. They came to meet the British, hoping for mercy.

Many prisoners were made before the first objective was reached, and after that by harder fighting some of the men in the shell holes, wet like the British and cold like them, decided to keep fighting and fired rifles as the British struggled forward. Not all the prisoners who were taken came down behind the British lines. The enemy was barraging the ground heavily, and many of their own men were killed and some of the British stretcher bearers as they came down with the wounded.

Up in the leafless and shattered trees on the battle field were Germans with machine guns and German riflemen, who sniped the British as they passed. Many of these were shot up in trees and came crashing down.

Up on the left of the attack, where the British linked up with the French, Germans were taken prisoners in great numbers, officers as well as men. The hostile bombardment was not so heavy as on the right, so that the casualties seem to have been light there.

In spite of the frightful ground, all the objectives were taken, so that the allied line was drawn close to Houthulst Forest.

FRENCH ADVANCE SURPRISED THE FOE

One German Division Caught as It Was Being Relieved—Was Heavily Punished.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE YSER, Tuesday, Oct. 9.—The French Army which, under General Anthoine, has been co-operating with the British armies on its right throughout the battle of Flanders advanced today along with them, pushing forward on a front of rather more than a mile and occupying during the morning more than half of the ground between its existing lines and the forest of Houthulst.

It will be remembered that at the end of July Anthoine's army held the Yser Canal from about Noordschote southward to near Boisinghe, and on July 31 attacked on the southern half of this line the part above the inundations, that is to say, as the left wing of the allied offensive. This attack, which was completely successful, brought the French right forward nearly three miles to a point north of Langemarck and east of Wyden Dreut, and a supplementary attack on Aug. 16 advanced the left to Driegrachten and a slight ridge overlooking the streams called Martje Vaert and Jeansbeek.

Today's program was again to swing forward the French right in touch with the British, so semi-circling Houthulst forest, which, in the course of the last three years, has become a formidable fortress of the enemy. The French guns have greatly reduced the value of this low-lying woodland and the artillery preparation for today's attack had been such that the German command had already withdrawn the heavier guns, hitherto secreted there, but in this flat land any sort of cover is important, and the bare stumps of the former forest would in any case remain a dangerous nest of machine guns and network of hidden defences.

In the face of such an obstacle, about two miles by three miles in extent, Anthoine's mastery of the new science of gunnery is an asset of the first value, and well has it been employed. Leaving their positions at 5:30 A. M., when the world was still buried in fog and gloom, the French troops of assault, preceded by an effective barrage, cleaned out without much difficulty the few remaining centres of German resistance along the east bank of the Jeansbeek and the Broenbeek, and within exactly two hours, with very small losses, had reached their first objectives. These extended from Draelbank to southeast of Mangelaere.

The attack seems to have come as a surprise to the enemy, who could not mistake the fierceness of the artillery preparation, but perhaps thought the Allies would not dare to attempt an actual assault in such unfavorable weather. However this may be, the French were fortunate enough to catch one enemy division just as it was being relieved by another, which, as is known from data obtained from prisoners, had just been brought from the Russian front. New to the sector, these men were in no condition to meet the dire onslaught of the French. By 9 o'clock 300 prisoners, including three officers, had been taken, with two cannon and four machine guns. Three-quarters of an hour later the French right centre was in front of the scattered ruins that were once the small hamlet of Mangelaere. The first stage of the enterprise was a prompt and nearly costless success.

Just before 11 A. M. the second leap forward was made. The weather had now cleared a little, and cheered by some weak rays of sunshine and a feeling of what was already accomplished, the men strode forward with all the spirit for which the French infantry are famous.

So complete had been the bombardment that they found Mangelaere and Veldhoek villages smashed to pieces. At the same time as these brickheaps were occupied several blockhouses and half a dozen farm buildings were reduced.

In the stormy weather of these two days air work has been exceptionally difficult and perilous, but the French aviators carried out as far as it was humanly possible and with the utmost gallantry their essential tasks.

KERENSKY CABINET ASSUMES CONTROL

Coalition Ministers to Work for Early Peace in Agreement with the Allies.

PLANS A POWERFUL ARMY

Also to Bring Order to Country by Fighting Anarchy—Premier and Three Ministers Go to Front.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10.—The new Coalition Government has assumed control of Russia, replacing the Council of Five organized a month ago. Announcement is made that it intends to carry out an active foreign policy with "the purpose of making peace in agreement with our Allies as soon as possible." Meanwhile the Government will take steps to bring the army to its highest fighting power and to restore economic and social tranquillity to the country.

Premier, A. F. KERENSKY.
Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. I. TERESTCHENKO.
Minister of Interior, M. NIKITIN.
Minister of Agriculture, M. AVSKENTIEFF.
Minister of Labor, M. GVOZDEFF.
Minister of Supplies, M. PROKOPOVITCH.
Minister of Finance, M. BERNATZKY.
Minister of Religion, M. KARTASHEFF.
Minister of Public Welfare, M. KISHKIN.
Minister of Trade and Industry, A. I. KONOVALOFF.
State Controller, M. SMYRNOFF.
Minister of Justice, M. MALYANTOVITCH.
Minister of Education, M. SALASKIN.
President of the Ecumenical Council, M. TRETYAKOFF.
Minister of War, General VERKHOVSKY.
Minister of Marine, ADMIRAL VERDERVSKI.
Minister of Ways and Communications, M. LIVEREVSKY.

A. I. Konovaloff, Minister of Trade and Industry, has been appointed Vice President of the Council of Ministers.

Pledges of the Government.

In addition to carrying out an active foreign policy the new Government will issue an official statement declaring that the serious internal difficulty of Russia is due chiefly to the Korniloff rebellion. The new Government pledges that its business acts will be on the basis of agreements between representatives of the bourgeoisie, the tax-paying elements, and the revolutionary democracy. It points out that the success of such a program is possible only if the nation is united. The Government's statement in conclusion says that it has three principal aims:

To raise the fighting power of the army and navy.

To bring order to the country by fighting anarchy.

To call the Constituent Assembly as soon as possible.

The Cabinet is determined to ignore as far as possible the activities of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and centre its efforts in gaining the support of the armies.

Premier Kerensky, the Minister of War, General Verkhovsky; the Foreign Minister, M. Terestchenko, and the Minister of Marine, Admiral Verdervski, have left for the front, where they will spend several days in placing before the soldiers the purposes of the coalition Ministry. M. Terestchenko will also confer with the allied military agents at the front and explain to them Russia's needs and devise schemes of cooperation which he will probably present before the allied war council at Paris. The Premier, it is said, will make a stop for the purpose of visiting General Korniloff, who is reported to be ill.

The Minister of Labor, M. Gvozdeff, has departed from Petrograd and will attempt to settle the strike in the oil fields at Baku. Other officials in the Ministry of Labor are endeavoring to bring the railway difficulties to a speedy termination.

From a Government source the statement is made that preparations for the removal of the Government to Moscow have been stopped, as there is no prospect that such removal will be necessary in the near future. No reason for the abandonment of the evacuation plan is forthcoming, but is generally assumed that the improvement in the political outlook is the cause. Fears for the safety of Petrograd as a result of the capture by the Germans of Riga have subsided.

The new Cabinet seems to have met with the approval of the Petrograd press except that a radical Novala Nishin, which is pro-German. The Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates announces in the Novala Nishin that "we workmen and the garrison of Petrograd give the new Government no support. We are persuaded firmly that the announcement of the new Cabinet will get from all members of the revolutionary democracy one answer: Resign!"

The first session of the preliminary Parliament, which grew out of the Democratic Congress, will be called by the Government probably next week. In the meantime Minister of Public Welfare Kishkin and State Controller Smyrnoff have returned to Moscow to place the Kerensky plan before their followers for approval.

Fighting Forces to Vote.

The Government has published regulations for participation by the army and navy in elections of delegates to the Constituent Assembly. The army will be divided into five electoral divisions: North, including Finland; West, Southwest, Rumanian, and Caucasian. Two supplementary electoral districts provide for the Russian troops in France and the Balkans. The navy is divided into two electoral divisions: The Baltic and the Black Sea.

The military in other parts of Russia will take part in the elections under the same conditions as civilians.

The Diplomatic Corps in Petrograd is more optimistic over the situation than at any time for months past. At present it seems to be considered that the only important political cloud on the horizon is the election of the radical, Leon Trotsky, to succeed N. C. Tcheidze as President of the Central Executive Committee of the Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates. The new committee of this council comprises four Bolsheviks, two Social Revolutionists, and one Minimalist.

The Cabinet today discussed coolly the Bolshevik soldiers' and workmen's ultimatum declining to recognize the authority of the Government, the view being taken that the influence of this element is decreasing.

The new Government is facing some difficult tasks, including the revolt in Turkestan, from which district no communication has been received for three days, and the dissensions in Finland. It is considered in diplomatic circles, however, that the Government has now started upon an earnest effort to solve these problems.

RUSSIANS IN BALTIC WIN BATTLE OF BOATS

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—The official statement from General Headquarters today reads:

Northern Front—In the Skull sector the enemy's heavy artillery bombarded our advanced trenches. In the sector south of Pskov highroad the enemy artillery fire increased, reaching its greatest intensity against our positions southeast of Spitali Farm. Here the enemy discharged about 2,400 projectiles.

In the Gulf of Riga eleven motor boats appeared, but were dispersed by our coast batteries.

Southwestern and Rumanian Fronts—There were fusiliades.

Caucasus Front—Nothing of importance has occurred.

On the Baltic Sea Monday our scouting cruisers encountered in the Irbe Channel ten enemy cutters and trawlers and attacked them. One enemy trawler was set afire. The enemy retired southward.

On Monday fourteen enemy airplanes approached Oerel, (on the island of Oesel.) Some of them fired mines on our transports at Ajtchod. Yesterday eight enemy airplanes attacked without result the batteries at Oerel and the village of Mendo, six miles to the northeast.

On Monday our machines dropped twenty bombs on Rodenrois station and on the Riga station. We brought down an enemy airplane in the Riga region. In the neighborhood of Buczacz French aviators brought down an enemy machine in flames.

GERMANS WIN GROUND NORTHEAST OF VERDUN

Reach Advanced French Lines Near the Bois de Chaume, But Are Held There.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Gain of ground by the Germans, attacking northeast of Verdun, was announced today. The night bulletin of the war office says:

Both artilleries were active on the front north of the Aisne.

On the right bank of the Meuse, after an intense bombardment, the Germans launched a strong attack on our positions north of the Bois le Chaume. During the course of the engagement, which was violently maintained during the whole day, the enemy succeeded at several points in gaining a foothold in the advanced elements of our first line. Our artillery fire prevented him from making any progress.

The day report reads:

North of the Aisne the German artillery was particularly active in the region of Laffaux. We made a successful attack northwest of Colombe Farm.

On the right bank of the Meuse, in the region of the Chaume Wood, there was active artillery fighting, with no infantry engagement.

There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front.

BERLIN, Oct. 10, (via London.)—The day report of the Headquarters Staff reads:

South of the Laon-Soissons high road advancing French companies were repulsed.

DEATH IN OUR ARMY ABROAD.

Sergeant George H. Davis Succumbs to Gunshot Wound.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Oct. 10.—Adjt.-Gen. Henry P. McCain today informed relatives here of the death from gunshot wounds of George H. Davis, a Sergeant with an artillery division of the expeditionary forces under General Pershing in France.

Sergeant Davis, who was the son of C. C. Davis, formerly of Pittsburgh, now of Easton, Md., died Oct. 6. No other details were given. He was a graduate of St. Johns Military School, Annapolis, Md., and was a nephew of Major Albert G. Forse, U. S. A., who was killed in the battle of San Juan Hill in the Spanish-American war.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—General Pershing has advised the War Department of the death of two members of the American expeditionary forces in France. They are Sergeant Patrick Cassidy, Infantry, who died Oct. 1 as the result of a fall from a railway train, and Private William J. Sanders, Medical Department, who died Oct. 6 from natural causes. Cassidy's next of kin is a niece, Miss Margaret Seager, Syracuse, N. Y., and that of Sanders a cousin, Miss Grace Rooks, Shaver, Ark.

CONFEREES ASSURE BRITISH OIL SUPPLY

America to Use Nearly 100 Tankers to Supply the Warships of Our Ally.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—An ample supply of fuel oil for the British Navy was assured today at a conference between British Government representatives, Standard Oil officials, and members of the Shipping Board. Oil reserves in Great Britain had run so low, the conference disclosed, that many British warships had been forced to remain inactive.

To remedy this situation, the Shipping Board will rush construction of fifty-eight oil tankers recently commandeered in shipbuilding yards, and is considering building at fewest forty more. The problem is entirely one of tonnage, as there is an abundance of oil on this side of the Atlantic.

Shipping Board officials made it clear that there was little likelihood of the United States being able to furnish ships to carry oil for merchant craft.

MAYOR DENIES CITY EMPLOYS OUTSIDERS

Says the 15 Men Named by Hylan Have Long Been Residents of New York.

SIX NOW SERVING IN WAR

Mayor Mitchel, answering the attack made upon him and his administration by Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, in Brooklyn, Tuesday night, made public yesterday the history of the fifteen men mentioned by Mr. Hylan as being experts brought by the city from different sections of the country and who, according to Mr. Hylan, are now on the public payroll. According to the Mayor, few if any of these experts come from the places mentioned by Judge Hylan, while at least one is dead and others come under civil service rules. Judge Hylan promised, if elected, to return these men "to their own home town." Of the fifteen persons named by Judge Hylan the Mayor said only six are on the city payroll. Others, he said, are serving the country in France.

The Mayor also took up his opponent's statement that he would abolish a number of committees and thus save the taxpayers a million dollars or more. According to the Mayor four of the committees, or bureaus, named by Judge Hylan are made up of members of the Board of Estimate and do not cost a cent. In his speech Judge Hylan specifically mentioned W. L. Sears, former Superintendent of the Free Employment Bureau, who was brought to this city from Boston at a salary of $3,000 a year, as one he would send "back home" if elected. The Mayor pointed out that Mr. Sears has been dead since Nov. 15, 1915. The Mayor said in his statement:

"Of the 'million dollar patronage bonanza,' Judge Hylan was able to name only fifteen persons. Of these fifteen persons, that he proposes to remove from the city payroll, only six are on the payroll. He cannot very well remove Mr. Sears who is dead, and who, by the way, was appointed Superintendent of the City Employment Bureau because he was No. 1 on the Civil Service eligible list.

"Judge Hylan proposes to remove W. R. Smith, described as a 'supply expert, a foreign subject, a resident of Canada—$5,000 a year.' This proposal drew laughter and applause from his audience, who did not know that there was no such person on the city payroll. W. R. Smith, who prior to his appointment was employed by The New York Tribune, and who for many years has been a resident of New York, at one time held the position of Examiner, Purchase of Supplies, but Mr. Smith left the employment of the city on July 22, 1916, to become head of a large private manufacturing corporation.

"Judge Hylan proposes to remove Fulton Colville from a position of Salary Standard Expert at $2,400 a year. Judge Hylan made his audience laugh by saying that Mr. Colville was an expert from Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Colville is not employed by the City of New York, and has not been an employe since Feb. 27, 1915. He had been a resident of New York for about five years when he was appointed to a temporary position on Jan. 2, 1913.

"Judge Hylan named George B. Ford as a consultant expert from Newark, N. J., at a salary of $5,000 per year. Mr. Ford is not employed by the city, but is serving his country in France. He was not appointed as consultant from Newark, N. J. For about ten years before he was appointed to a temporary position in the city employ, he had been connected with the firm of George B. Post & Sons, architects, in this city.

"Another man marked for slaughter is J. J. Pearson, expert investigator from Lansing, Mich., $2,250 a year. The Judge will be disappointed to find that he cannot remove Mr. Pearson, because he is not a city employe, and was never employed by the city except for a period from Jan. 30, 1915, to Dec. 31, 1915. He was not appointed from Lansing, Mich., but for fifteen years he had had an office at 40 Wall Street, where he practiced as an engineer.

"This leaves only six employes out of the '$1,000,000 Bonanza.' One of these is John F. Sullivan, described by Judge Hylan as Consulting Engineer from Columbia, S. C., at $7,200 a year. Mr. Sullivan was never a resident of Columbia, S. C. His father at one time lived in Brooklyn, N. Y. The first position held by Mr. Sullivan was one in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where he worked for five years. With the exception of eight months' service for the Government in Washington, he has never worked anywhere except in New York or Brooklyn.

"Judge Hylan's best hit with his audience last night was his description of the employment of J. L. Mann as engineer from San Domingo, West Indies, at $2,700 a year. J. L. Mann is not a dark colored native of the West Indies as the Judge led his audience to believe, but was born in Vermont, and has worked in the city of New York for many years. It is true that on account of his special ability he was sent to San Domingo to serve as Director General of Public Works at one time. Mr. Mann is still connected with the city, but is on leave of absence while in war service. No doubt Judge Hylan will take particular delight in having Mr. Mann removed while he is away serving his country.

"The Judge described J. P. Fox as a transit expert from Cambridge, Mass., at a salary of $3,000 a year. Mr. Fox was not brought from Cambridge, Mass., but his first public employment in this city was by the old Rapid Transit Railroad Commission in 1903 and 1900. He had other employment in this city until 1908, when he entered the employment of the Metropolitan Sewage Commission of New York City, a body over which the City Administration had no control. In 1912 he was employed by the Corporation Counsel in the Passaic Valley Sewage case. In 1913 he was employed by the Committee on Hospital Inquiry, and in 1914 he was employed by the Committee on City Plan.

"The Judge's 'million dollar patronage bonanza,' when analyzed, simmers down to six persons on the city pay roll, all performing necessary work which must be done even if the city should be so unfortunate as to have Judge Hylan for Mayor. Of the six employes left out of Judge Hylan's 'million dollar patronage bonanza,' three were employed by the city before I became Mayor."

HILLQUIT AIDS SUFFRAGE.

Socialist Asks Mitchel, Hylan, and Bennett to Join Him.

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, has sent an open letter to the other candidates for the office, John Purroy Mitchel, John F. Hylan, and William M. Bennett, asking each to make a special appeal to his supporters to vote for woman suffrage.

"If each of us will make a special and earnest appeal to his supporters to vote for women suffrage the measure will carry and we shall be instrumental in righting an age-long wrong. Knowing the great importance of the direct and indirect issues involved in the city campaign, I assert that the issue of woman suffrage overshadows them all as a permanent measure of social justice and progress."

HILLQUIT WILL BE COSTLY.

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, admitted in a speech last night at the Central Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association at 55 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, that a Socialist administration might add several millions of dollars to the cost of city government, but he contended that the advantages to the people would be more than worth it.

Mr. Hillquit denied that Kaiserism was an issue in the campaign.

COLER COUNTED OUT, BENNETT CHARGES

INSISTS RUSH WAS ROBBED

District Attorney in Kings to Present Alleged Irregularities to Grand Jury.

Speaking before the Brooklyn Civic Club in Brooklyn yesterday, William M. Bennett, nominee for Mayor at the recent Republican primaries, called upon Judge Hylan, the Tammany candidate, to demand that the Democratic ballot boxes be opened.

He declared that greater frauds were committed at the Democratic primary than at the Republican primary, and that if the Democratic ballots in Kings were recounted it would be found that Bird S. Coler had been nominated instead of Edward Riegelmann, the Democratic organization candidate, and that if the ballot boxes in Manhattan were opened it would be shown that Thomas E. Rush had been defrauded of thousands of votes. After warning the residents of Brooklyn not to let the "Tiger cross the bridge," Mr. Bennett said:

"The overshadowing issue in this campaign is the frauds at the recent primary. If, after a man has voted at the primary or at the election, the Inspectors are to be allowed to tear up the ballot, then you might as well have an autocrat to run the city, for that would mean the end of democracy. The time has now come for Mr. Hylan to demand that the Democratic ballot boxes be opened.

"Greater frauds were committed at the Democratic primary than were committed at the Republican primary. If the Democratic ballot boxes should be opened in Kings it would turn out that Bird S. Coler had been nominated for Borough President instead of Riegelman, and if the Democratic ballot boxes should be opened in Manhattan it would seem appear that Thomas E. Rush had been defrauded of thousands of votes and perhaps have been defrauded of enough to have nominated him.

"I cannot have the Democratic ballot boxes opened. Section 88 of the Election law provides that any candidate whose name is on the ballot can have the boxes opened and the ballots inspected. My name is not on the Democratic ballots, and therefore I cannot make this application. Mr. Hylan's name is on the Democratic ballots in all boroughs. He therefore has the right to demand that the Democratic boxes be opened. I have pledged myself that this shall be the last dishonest primary in New York City. I have done my part in having the Republican boxes opened and the ballots reinspected and in turning over to the respective District Attorneys the data which I have obtained.

"It is now up to Mr. Hylan to do the same for his party and take his stand with me in defense of the principle that every man is entitled to one vote, and is entitled to have that one vote counted."

District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County announced yesterday that his investigation of alleged fraud in the Democratic primary in Brooklyn had already revealed "gross irregularities," and that he would present the facts to the Grand Jury. Surprising gains for Bird S. Coler, who was an independent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Borough President, have been found by Mr. Lewis, and a recount of the entire vote cast for Coler and Edward Riegelmann, the organization designee, may be ordered. On the face of the returns Riegelmann defeated Coler by 1,262 votes.

"In one district," said Mr. Lewis, "according to the official returns, Bird S. Coler is credited with 27 votes and Edward Riegelmann with 84 votes. The votes actually cast were 56 for Coler and 58 for Riegelmann, making a change of 55 votes in this election district. In another election district the official count credited Coler with 50 votes and Riegelmann with 82 votes, when a correct counting of the ballot shows that Coler should have received 66 votes and Riegelmann but 60 votes, a difference of 37 votes.

In these districts and in others where the examination has disclosed facts calling for prosecution, the matters will be submitted presently to the Grand Jury. Mr. Lewis also found some mistakes in the Mitchel-Bennett count in Brooklyn. He declined to say what districts were affected. When Mr. Coler was told of the District Attorney's discoveries he said he did not believe that the irregularities were widespread.

"The District Attorney," he said, "makes references to two election districts, which, I understand, were in an Assembly district where there was an old personal grudge against me, and where foolish men may have allowed that grudge to impel them to a criminal act."

Mr. Coler himself has not given any encouragement to those who would have a recount of the vote. After the primaries he came out in support of Riegelmann.

J. P. Morgan Predicts Loan Will Be a Success

J. P. Morgan, asked yesterday to comment upon the progress of the Liberty Loan campaign, said:

"The Loan is going to be a success. Of course, it means a great deal of hard work—hard work right up until Oct. 27. But if this hard work is done, if the American people understand the size of the task, then there should be no doubt that the Secretary of the Treasury will receive subscriptions to the amount that he is seeking. We are starting with a much better organization than we had three months ago. We have a right to expect a much larger number of subscribers, and that is just as important as the total amount subscribed.

"I understand that there is in some quarters a feeling of pessimism caused by declining security markets. It seems to me that this does not change the duty of every American to do everything possible. After all, what the security market does within the next month or two will not be of much importance one year from now. On the other hand, whether the war is won or lost is a matter of supreme importance. What the American people do in relation to the Liberty Loan may determine this question, and, therefore, the course of the world's history for all time."

Subscriptions to the Second Liberty Loan received in the New York Federal Reserve District up to the close of business last night totaled approximately $300,000,000, according to conservative estimates. The gain for the day was only $15,000,000, and for the three days of the current week about $60,000,000. In other words, the applications reported or filed in three days is less than the daily average of $82,500,000 which the Liberty Loan Committee has set as its goal in an endeavor to obtain a billion and a half dollars of subscriptions in the four weeks' campaign. On this basis, the New York district is $262,500,000 behind at the end of the first nine business days. While the day's increase in subscriptions reported was $15,000,000, the records of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York indicated an increase of about $40,000,000, the final figures showing an aggregate of $214,374,250 of subscriptions on which the 2 per cent. initial payment has been made and which had officially been reported to the Reserve Bank.

The Leading Subscriptions.

Says Bonds Must Be Bought.

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, in an address yesterday at the Maritime Exchange warned the country that conscription of wealth would surely follow if the Liberty Loan were not fully subscribed.

"It is a question of will you now voluntarily subscribe to this prime security of bonds, or will you have your wealth levied upon by the Government in the months that are to come?" Mr. Mitchell said. "The national budget this year calls for $20,000,000,000. You men here, as well as every other citizen of the United States, must come up to the scratch. You must buy these bonds. To do so, you will have to borrow. There is two billion dollars in cash now in the banks of the country. Go to them—get money—take part of the issue now."

Three days of active campaigning among the national army at Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I., has resulted in subscriptions to the amount of $126,150.

It was banner day at the little "Liberty Bank" in Madison Square yesterday. There were $51,550 worth of bonds sold, with one for $75,000, which was taken for Mrs. Isaac L. Rice by her daughter, Miss Marjory Rice. The subscription is in the name of the Isaac L. Rice Home for Convalescents at North Tarrytown. James J. Smith of 2,745 Eighth Avenue took a $3,000 bond, and another man, who did not wish his name given, one for $1,000. Isaac Stoneglass of 2,761 Marion Avenue gave a certified check for a $800 bond. Among the subscribers was an elderly little Irish woman, Miss Theresa Hughes, of 275 West 146th Street, who paid cash for a $100 bond, bringing the money in bills pinned into a neat black petticoat. Many of the subscribers during the day were foreigners. A letter was received yesterday from Miss Helen Taft, daughter of ex-President Taft, offering her services in the bank. She will give as much time as may be desired after the 15th. Miss Taft will be asked to sell bonds. Governor Whitman, Police Commissioner Woods, and James M. Beck have promised to speak at noonday meetings held at the "Liberty Bank."

Navy to Have Loan Day.

Liberty Loan Navy Day has been officially fixed for next Wednesday, Oct. 17. It is planned to make the occasion a demonstration on the part of the men of the navy that they are not only willing to risk their lives in battle, but also to back their government by the purchase of Liberty bonds. Between 3,000 and 4,000 bluejackets and marines will land at the Chelsea Piers and march via Twenty-third Street and Broadway to the U. S. S. Recruit in Union Square. At the Recruit there will be speeches by naval officers and others and a number of special features.

An organization has been formed to promote the sale of Liberty Loan bonds by the co-operative savings and building loan association of New York State and Northern New Jersey. At a recent convention of the United States League of these associations, representatives of twenty-four State leagues being present, a national committee for war service was formed with a Chairman for each of the twelve Federal Reserve districts.

Some of the smaller cities and towns in the New York Federal Reserve District have done exceptionally good work in collecting subscriptions to the loan. The following table gives the quota, based on a total of $1,500,000,000 for the district, the total of applications received in the first nine days of the campaign, and the percentages of receipts to the allotments:

| Town. | Quota. | Subscription. | Per cent. |
| Red Creek, N. Y. | $7,500 | $3,050 | 40 |
| Aurora, N. Y. | 63,000 | 11,250 | 18 |
| Cazenovia, N. Y. | 106,500 | 114,750 | 108 |
| Ogdensburg, N. Y. | 826,500 | 283,500 | 35 |
| Verona, N. Y. | 18,000 | 5,800 | 31 |

Urges "Use of the Knife."

Byron R. Newton, formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and now Collector of the Port of New York, made the following statement regarding the loan:

"This war is a surgical operation. We are cutting out a malignant cancer from civilization. The sooner the operation is performed the sooner the world will be relieved from its suffering. The task must be performed with the knife. There is no use temporizing with lotions or salves. Pay the surgeon's bill now and let civilization get well and healthy. But, unlike most doctors' bills, we will get our money back, with 4 per cent. interest."

Edwin G. Merrill, President of the Union Trust Company, in discussing the loan yesterday, said that he desired to call special attention to one feature which appeared to be misunderstood. "The fact that the 4 per cent. bonds are subject to the surtax," he said, "has already made a good many reluctant to subscribe, in view of the very high rates of surtax fixed by the new law. It is not generally known that the number of people actually affected by this is very limited. Only to those whose incomes are in excess of $30,000 a year will the 4 per cent. bonds be worth less than the 2½s—which were free of all tax—and to those whose incomes are less than $40,000 a year the 4s will be worth materially more than the 3½s."

The Ward Baking Company, which operates in nine cities, and has more than 4,000 employes, announced yesterday that it had agreed to facilitate the purchase of bonds by its employes in every possible way.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York made public yesterday copies of a Treasury Department circular on the subject of special Government deposits made with banks and trust companies which purchase certificates of indebtedness or Liberty Loan bonds. The chief interest in the circular lies in the description of securities available as collateral security for Government deposits. In the main, the provisions are about the same as those which were announced when the first Liberty Loan was floated, but in some particulars they are more liberal. Thus it includes obligations of foreign cities and provinces, while the last regulations excluded them. This change in the rules will permit banks to make use of the bonds of the French cities and of the Canadian provinces as collateral.

COUNTRY AROUSED BY LOAN.

Bonds Are Selling Rapidly and Record Is Being Established.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—While no figures are available showing the total thus far subscribed by the country in the second Liberty Loan drive, reports from all parts of the country indicate that the bonds are selling rapidly and that a real record is being established.

Quickened action among the host of Liberty bond salesmen engaged in the $5,000,000,000 drive is indicated in official reports received today by the Treasury Department. Business interests, particularly in New York, are throwing their best salesmen into the work, that the bonds may be sold and the attention of the country moved on quickly to some other phase of its war needs, while the inexperienced salespeople, men, women, and children, eager to help, are catching the dynamic spirit of those with experience.

Aside from results being obtained from actual salesmanship, the attention that is being attracted to the sale by various "stunts" conceived by local organizations is encouraging. Crowds are showing intense interest in all attractions, from bell-ringing to bonfires, police being required in some cities to keep the throngs moving past Liberty bond headquarters, hence confidence is aroused that the message of the loan is getting home to the people, and sooner or later sales among those thus attracted are bound to result.

In the New York district, where the drive for the biggest single amount is being made, it is pointed out here the sale has settled down to a "steady grind," with high hopes for obtaining the maximum amount.

Postmaster General Burleson announced today in a letter to Secretary McAdoo that a bondholder may receive his interest by merely presenting his coupons or treasury warrants issued in payment of interest on registered bonds to any Postmaster. They will be cashed immediately. Postmasters will be reimbursed from Washington for all coupons and warrants which they cash.

The United States Treasury and Sub-Treasuries and banks also will pay interest when due, as heretofore. Post Offices simply are designated as additional agencies for cashing when due and presented for payment the coupons and interest warrants of Liberty Loan bonds.

The Controller of the Currency suggested today to all national banks that they address a personal communication by letter or postal card to every depositor or rather to those whose deposits amount to $200 or more, calling attention to Liberty bonds and offering to accommodate any purchaser who may need more time to make his payments than may be allowed by the terms of subscription. It is also recommended that the rates of interest charged to purchasers of Liberty bonds shall be made as favorable as possible for the buyer.

GOV. BEECKMAN TAKES $200,000

Largest Subscriber in Rhode Island —New England Total Grows.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 10.—Governor R. Livingston Beeckman came to the fore today, taking $200,000 of Liberty Bonds through the local committee. By this subscription Governor Beeckman stands as the largest individual purchaser of these bonds in Rhode Island.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Additional Liberty Loan subscriptions of $6,540,000 for the twenty-four-hour period ending 9 A. M. today, as reported through the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, brought the New England total since the opening of the campaign to $42,183,000. The total is based on overnight reports from 830 of the 1,073 banks in the district, and takes in all subscriptions up to the close of business yesterday in the territory within a twelve-hour mailing radius of Boston. Under the present plan of issuing only one report each day, the New England General Committee has explained that many subscriptions do not reach here in time to be included in the total, and go over to the next day at noon, at which hour daily figures are announced.

Total subscriptions by States are: Maine, $2,050,000; New Hampshire, $1,201,000; Vermont, $1,290,000; Rhode Island, $6,813,000; Connecticut, $6,142,000 Massachusetts, $24,678,000.

Subscriptions reported by the committee included: United Fruit Company, $1,000,000; Shawmut Steamship Company, $200,000; Dorchester Trust Company, $150,000.

PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 10.—The 319th Infantry of the Eightieth Division, national army, at Camp Lee, has pledged itself to take $500,000 of Liberty bonds. The officers, numbering 100, will take $500 each. Each officer pledges himself to place $500 among personal friends. The enlisted men will take $100,000. It is proposed to place the other $100,000 by granting leaves of absence to two men in each company of the regiment and send them home to place the amount. The regiment is made up of Pittsburgh men, many of whom are wealthy.

SONG FOR LOAN CAMPAIGN.

Will Be Rendered by Boy Scouts in Streets and Theatres.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Oliver Herford has written a Liberty Loan campaign song. It goes to the tune of "Over There" and is to be sung by trained choruses of Boy Scouts in city streets and theatres. The first verse and the chorus go this way:

Help to down the Hun, down the Hun, down the Hun;
Money talks, let money shout!
Turn your pockets inside out!
Hurry, buy a bond, buy a bond, buy a bond;
Help them over yond', over yond', over yond';
Let your gold flow in a stream,
Let them hear the eagle's scream!
CHORUS.
Over here! Give a cheer!
Tell the lads over there not to fear;
That the ranks are swelling, and the scouts are yelling,
And the bonds are selling, over here;
Never fear, never fear,
We are all on the job over here;
Tell the Kaiser he'll be wiser
When he meets the troops were raising for him here.

Beauty and the Beast

FINE furs no longer must be wasted. That the world of Fashion is constantly finding new beauties in the furs of beasts further complicates a difficult situation. With a rapidly diminishing supply, Fur Administration has become almost as necessary as Food Administration. As the foremost fur house in the fur centre of the world—the creators of fashions which are inevitably followed, H. Jaeckel & Sons have set a new standard of Utility and Economy in Furs which they commend to fashionable womankind.

The Charm of Genuine Furs Has Not Suffered by Commercialism

The wilder, more elusive the animal, the more beautiful it is. It is one of the ironies of Nature. But it has to do with the actual value of the fur, which is regulated by cost of production, as all legitimate values are regulated. The Siberian sable is expensive, and growing more so, but its costliness is justified by the difficulty experienced in procuring it not less than by the regal brilliance of the fur.

In the old days the noble knight ventured into the wilderness, suffering hardship and the perils of the hunt, to lay at the feet of his lady fair a collection of beautiful pelts. There was the fragrance of charming romance in the rare furs she wore—rivals of the costliest jewels in their beauty and full of warmth and utility.

That same fragrance of romance—that pride of possession—to-day exists in the highest types of furs, as segregated from the ordinary commercialized kind.

Only a few years ago the silver fox was a glory unto itself in the fur world. The animal was rarely encountered in the forests. Its rich coat was seldom seen in the avenues of fashion.

To-day the sight of what is termed silver fox is not uncommon. What a large portion of the public does not recognize is that there is a vast difference in silver foxes.

One is a highly prized animal—a rare individual, upon whose trail an Alaskan or Siberian trapper has spent many weary weeks. Another was raised on a farm in Canada—one of the "domesticated wild animal" furs.

They are like the genuine and the synthetic ruby—the diamond and the doublet; and the existence of the inferior one is not sufficient reason for discarding the genuine. It merely gives you cause for caution as to where your selections should be made.

And as there are furs of "wild animals" which have been too much domesticated, so there are fur fashions which have been too much commercialized—styles which one may judge to be more or less in vogue, but which in reality are not selected with sufficient knowledge.

Shifting Styles and Changing Silhouettes Need Not Mean Extravagant Outlay

Never before has there been so much fashion—so much attractiveness—put in furs as at the present moment. Utility in fur garments requires that the fashions shall be serviceable as well as the furs.

It is not enough that they be superficially beautiful. If their beauty—their complete adaptability to the fashions of the moment—passes in a season, they are quite as extravagant as if their quality were inferior.

As "America's Leading Furriers," it has been the practice of this house to extend the usefulness of its designs, as well as its furs, over as long a period as practical. Its organization of designers in Paris and New York look upon one season as being merely the forerunner of the next—and this year, in particular, has special stress been laid upon the point.

Throughout these assortments of the world's finest furs—larger than ever before in the history of the house—this standard of Utility runs, emphasizing at every point the prime essentials of economy and prudence:

First, to procure the best furs you can buy.

Second, to get only those fur fashions which you know to be correct.

There is no more certain way to waste than to purchase furs which are of inferior quality, or styles that are copied a season too late.

It may be a fur scarf at $75 or $100, or it may be a handsome wrap of black Eastern mink or sable—a silver fox piece, an opera wrap, or a motor coat of the sturdier furs; the H. Jaeckel & Sons' production represents the quality and correctness which not only give pride of possession, but assure the greatest return for the investment, in actual intrinsic value and service.

LABOR SHORTAGE IN SHIPYARDS SERIOUS

Manufacturers in Other Lines May Be Asked to Lend Workers to Help Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The labor shortage in the great shipbuilding yards has presented another serious problem, and Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board and Admiral Capps, General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, are seeking a solution in order to speed up construction. These officials have found that at Sparrow Point, near Baltimore, the yards are working at not more than 50 per cent. of capacity simply because the workmen cannot be obtained. Similar conditions, it is said, have been reported from other shipyards on the Atlantic Coast.

Recruiting for the army has been responsible to a certain extent, but there are many other reasons which contribute to the present situation, and one of the most important is the fact that the housing facilities at most of the great yards are inadequate. Mr. Hurley conferred with Secretary of War Baker today on this question, and it is understood that action will be taken speedily, in co-operation with the Council of National Defense, of which Secretary Baker is Chairman, to have homes for the workmen provided by the Government.

Efforts will also be made to stop employers in other industries not so essential to the war program as ship construction from endeavoring to woo labor away from the shipyards. If the situation does not adjust itself, drastic action may be proposed. Manufacturers of commodities not directly used for warfare may even be asked to contribute a part of their working force to the Government cause in order to get the merchant fleet on the seas at the earliest moment possible.

DEPRECATES FEARS OF A COAL FAMINE

Bituminous Production 10 Per Cent. Ahead of Last Year, Dr. Garfield Announces.

NO FIGURES ON DEMAND

Anthracite Supply Also Increased—Country's Operators to Confer —Canadian Embargo Lifted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—After many conferences with coal operators, a statement was made public tonight by the Fuel Administration deprecating reports that the country would be faced by an acute coal famine during the coming Winter, which would cripple industry and cause suffering.

Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, asserted that the bituminous coal production for the year would be 10 per cent. greater than last year, despite the reports that mines in some parts of the country had shut down.

"The question of shortage this year," Dr. Garfield said, "will depend then upon whether the American demand has increased by more than the 10 per cent. increase in production. If our industrial development, from the war and other causes, has grown beyond that, then we must go short. We have no figures at hand to tell what that development has been."

The Fuel Administration, it was announced, has lists showing the location of more than 3,000,000 tons of free coal—coal not under contract—and bona fide domestic requirements are being taken care of whenever specific, authentic statements of shortage are furnished. In connection with the Canadan situation, it was said that the embargo had been lifted and that that country was being supplied on a pro rata basis, substantially as if it were a State of the Union.

In connection with the anthracite situation, L. A. Snead of the Fuel Administration announced that the production for the country during the past nine months had been 7,000,000 tons in excess of the tonnage of last year during the same period. It is understood that representatives of the anthracite interests have been summoned to discuss means of obtaining even larger production.

Reports of mines closing and of efforts of operators and distributers to evade the law or create an artificial condition which might work for an increase in the Government's fixed rates do not arouse apprehension. Agents of the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice are keeping in close touch with the situation, and any ulterior effort will be the signal for proceedings against the offender.

The National Coal Association has again given Dr. Garfield assurances that it will co-operate with the Government and will make a determined attempt to see that production is sufficient for the country's needs. To this end a call has been sent out to all operators for a meeting in Pittsburgh on Oct. 23. This announcement is made:

"The National Coal Association deems it imperative that coal producers should meet in a general conference for consideration of the present conditions of the industry. The men in this business must see to it that sufficient coal is mined and shipped to meet the needs of the nation. At the same time, the industry must adjust itself to Government regulation, so as to insure the fullest co-operation between the operators on the one hand and the officials of the Government on the other. These conditions depend the best constructive action which this industry can devise."

Government figures made public by the Fuel Administration today showed that last year the bituminous coal mined was in excess of 502,000,000 tons. The estimate for this year was placed at 532,000,000 tons.

HOUSE SEES WILSON ABOUT PEACE DATA

Staff of Experts to be Organized for Mapping Out Plans Under Many Heads.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Systematic collection of economic, historical, political and other information on European conditions to be used eventually in peace negotiations was discussed today by Colonel E. M. House with President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and other Government officials. Some announcement is expected soon concerning the organization of a staff of experts which Colonel House will gather to assist him, and the various classifications into which the work will be divided.

Walter Lippmann, New York magazine editor, until recently volunteer assistant to Secretary Baker, is one of the assistants Colonel House has chosen and is devoting his time especially to mapping out a preliminary plan for collecting data under well defined heads.

ECONOMY, KEYNOTE OF HYLAN'S SPEECH

Tells Cleveland Democracy There Will Be No Waste in Useless Courthouse Site, if Elected.

Speaking last night at a dinner of the Cleveland Democracy at the Hotel Astor given in honor of the candidates for city offices on the Tammany ticket, Judge Hylan, the Mayoralty nominee, told 1,200 diners what he would do if elected. A large part of the gathering was made up of well-known Tammany men, many of whom had never seen their candidate before, and they applauded when Judge Hylan told how he would send to their "own home town" all the so-called efficiency experts which he said had been brought to this city by the Fusion Administration. Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, sat directly in front of the speakers' table.

Judge Hylan, Mr. Murphy, and Mr. McCooey, just before the dinner, met in the hotel corridor and had a hearty handshake, while a number of the "faithful" crowded around. Throughout his speech, which the Tammany candidate read from manuscript, there was liberal applause.

Judge Hylan dwelt at length upon the accomplishments of Grover Cleveland and then said he stood uncompromisingly upon the platform of his party. He then told what he expected to accomplish, if elected, saying:

"There are some flagrant examples of waste, extravagance, or worse which will go down in history as the scandals of the Mitchel-Prendergast administration. They could never occur under an administration which gave any thought to the interests of rent-payers and taxpayers.

"If I am elected Mayor there will be no 'intimate friend' to unload useless real estate on the city at profits to the extent of millions.

"There will be no repetition of the waste of $12,000,000 in the purchase of a useless Court House site.

"If elected Mayor the railroads of this city had better prepare for an extensive movement beyond our borders of the tax-eating fake experts imported by Mitchel, Prendergast and their colleagues at the dictation of the influences which have dominated their administration. The people got along without these so-called experts before Mr. Mitchel came into office, and they will be glad to get along without them after he goes out of office.

Judge Hylan declared he would banish the Gary system if elected. He promised reform in the Health Department and the Charities Department. He attacked the Administration's handling of the West Side Improvement plan and denounced the establishment of a garbage disposal plant on Staten Island.

MODIFIES BOND TAXATION.

Ruling Excludes Certain Securities Held by Non-Resident Decedents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Internal Revenue Bureau today announced that bonds of domestic corporations owned by non-resident decedents, if physically situated outside the United States, are not returnable as a portion of the gross estate of the decedent. The Revenue act of Sept. 8, 1916, in defining the gross estate, provides that stock in a domestic corporation owned and held by a non-resident decedent shall be deemed property within the United States. It has been held that bonds of a domestic corporation owned and held by a non-resident decedent were likewise property within the United States and taxable as a portion of the gross estate.

REPUBLICAN LEADER INDICTED FOR FRAUD

GAVE MITCHEL ALL VOTES

Paper Filed with Election Board After Recount Demand Carried Correct Figures.

The Grand Jury returned indictments yesterday charging Samuel Krulewitch, a Republican district leader, and his son, Alvin Krulewitch, with inducing Election Inspectors to return a false count on the number of ballots cast in the recent primaries in the Third Election District of the Seventeenth Assembly District, on the east side of Harlem. Krulewitch and his son were arraigned before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions, and both pleaded not guilty. The father was held in $2,500 bail and the son in $1,500.

The evidence upon which Krulewitch and his son were indicted was presented with the aim of showing that both men actively interfered with the correct counting of the ballots. The witnesses were Louis Davis, a Democratic Inspector and Chairman of the Election Board in that district; Moritz Schauer, a Republican Inspector; Philip Cohen, a Democratic Inspector, and Patrolman Timothy Hynes, who was on duty at the polling place.

According to the testimony of these witnesses, Alvin Krulewitch entered the polling place just as the primaries were about to close and demanded that Schauer yield him his place at the table. Krulewitch, the witnesses declared, insisted that Schauer was sick, and could not undertake to count the ballots. Schauer would not leave, and Davis refused to swear Krulewitch in as an Inspector. Krulewitch, according to the evidence, persisted in his attempt to seize control of the ballot boxes, and Davis finally called Policeman Hynes to eject him from the polling place.

A few minutes later Krulewitch returned with his father, who demanded that his son be allowed to count the ballots. Davis still refused to swear Alvin in. The elder Krulewitch then pushed the Democratic Inspector and Chairman aside and exclaimed, according to the testimony: "You mind your own business. You look after your own ballots and we will look after ours."

Alvin Krulewitch then sat down and counted the ballots and recorded forty-eight for Mitchel and none for Bennett. On the Sunday following the primaries, however, when Bennett was calling loudly for a recount, Alvin Krulewitch, according to the evidence before the Grand Jury, called upon Davis, notified him that there had been an error in his return, and presented a corrected memorandum showing thirty-five votes for Mitchel and eight votes for Bennett. This memorandum was subsequently filed with the Board of Elections, and the figures were borne out by the recount.

Twelve of the election Inspectors who were indicted on Tuesday were arraigned before Judge Mulqueen yesterday and released under $1,000 bail each. They were Edward Flynn of 614 Water Street, Leo Lewis of 221 East Broadway, Thomas Fitzpatrick of 607 Water Street, Abraham Lipsky of 50 Pike Street, David Lobel of 224 East 116th Street, Joseph F. Periconi of 241 East 113th Street, Harry Michaelson of 1,777 Madison Avenue, Ike Greenwald of 71 East 116th Street, Nathan Eisenberg of 1,776 Madison Avenue, Ignatz Waldman of 14 East 110th Street, Edmil Mendelsohn of 63 East 108th Street, Aaron Lissberger of 627 Madison Avenue.

Samuel Krlewitch, the indicted Republican leader, lives at 1,604 Madison Avenue, and is employed as cashier in the Manhattan branch of the State Excise Department at 1,451 Broadway. In 1912, when Job Hedges ran for Governor, Krulewitch was the Republican candidate for Secretary of State.

The Republican organization of the Thirteenth Assembly District went on record as unanimously in favor of Mayor Mitchel on the ground of his "ability and fearlessness in office."

RISE OF $26,840,412 IN 1918 CITY BUDGET

Net Increase, Exclusive of a Direct State Tax Levy of $8,463,756, Is $18,376,656.

TAXES TO GO UP 20 POINTS

Large Advance in Personal Service and for Teachers' Retirement System.

Figures for the tentative city budget for 1918 made public yesterday show a big increase over the budget of 1917. The total for the entire city, including provision for the direct State tax, is $227,954,549.57, an increase of $26,840,412.75. The budget of 1917, with no direct State tax, was $211,114,130.82. The direct State tax for 1918 amounts to $8,463,756.38, which gives a net increase over the 1917 budget of $18,376,656.15. Of this amount $5,940,566.13 is for personal service.

The largest increase is for debt service, which in the tentative figures is put at $75,590,460 as against $69,744,568 for 1917. On the other hand the appropriation for tax deficiency shows a new decrease of $1,000,000. The figures for all five Borough Presidents' offices show increases as follows: Manhattan, $208,935; Bronx, $67,000; Brooklyn, $190,627; Queens, $150,855; Richmond, $75,832. The total for New York City, exclusive of the county governments, is $222,206,068.49, against $203,807,819.59 last year and the increase in the personal service account for the city is $5,025,088.88.

The second largest item of increase is for the teachers' retirement system, which accounts for $2,674,839 of the total increase and for the Department of Street Cleaning, $1,411,714. The figures for the Police Department show an increase of $962,804 over 1917, while the Fire Department has an increase of $364,298, and the Water Department an increase of $922,000.

Under a new legislative enactment the tentative budget figures must be published by Oct. 10. After Oct. 20 it will be impossible to increase the amount, but it may be decreased. While some changes will be made it is expected that they will change the total only slightly. The tentative figures would mean an increased tax rate of about twenty points. It was explained that the increases for all city departments was due to the increased cost of material and supplies and the general increase in the cost of living.

The increase for the Charities Department is $963,788, while the Department of Health estimate for the coming years shows an increase of $354,334. The increase for the Department of Correction is $307,200, and the Dock Department has asked for an increase of $446,811. The increase for the Finance Department is $24,155, while the Law Department, which includes the offices of the Corporation Counsel, shows an increase of $34,515.

Public hearings on the tentative budget will be held by the Board of Estimate on Oct. 15 and 16. Taxpayers' hearings on proposed decreases will be held on Oct. 24 and 25. The final budget must be signed by midnight Oct. 31.

To the Mayoralty Candidates

Irrespective of Their Political Affiliations

The term for which the Mayor is elected is four years, sufficiently long enough for him, with able men and women, to effectively put in operation a real constructive program for social preparedness and welfare, so that the City of New York may make itself the greatest in the world, not only as it is now in area, numbers and wealth, but by eliminating poverty, protecting its needy diseased, giving its future citizens—the children—the best of education, physical training and recreation, and affording every man and woman an equally good opportunity—which we maintain is our duty to do, and which was intended by the Constitution of the United States.

We maintain the following, and ask you to answer each and every question with an immediate, straightforward answer—YES or NO.

No. 1. We maintain that our glorious flag has unselfishly, in the noblest spirit of humanitarianism, unfurled its banner to fight and obtain democracy for the whole world, including the German people, and that it is the duty of every one, including the conscientious objector, to solidly support this cause.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 2. We maintain that since we are sending our boys to France it would be criminal not to give them the best possible weapons, and that the quicker we do it the quicker the world will be at peace.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 3. We maintain, as we always have, that every citizen must protect his flag, but that the flag must protect every soldier and sailor and his dependents, both during and after the war, not as a matter of philanthropy or charity, but as a matter of justice. The Soldier Insurance Bill will take care of matters in this direction, but there will be much left for the city to do.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 4. We maintain that a paltry pension is not sufficient recompense or just pay for a man who recognizes his sense of responsibility, or for a mother or wife who is giving her dearest, and we must all work to see to it that future pensions shall be equivalent at least to the cost of living.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 5. We maintain that the best way to effectively carry out the principles of the sincere pacifist is by quickly and unitedly pushing our military plans.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 6. We maintain that no real welfare will ever be accomplished without woman suffrage, and that woman must be allowed to take her permanent place alongside of man and be the governing power in matters educational, in matters relating to sex problems, and in the building of ethical character.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 7. We maintain that we must have speedy and effective supervision of all public utilities and without disrupting the present system work toward municipal ownership of such utilities.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 8. We maintain that it is criminal to take a first offender and throw him into a pen with habitual criminals, and we maintain that if he be proven guilty he should be sent to a corrective institution where he will be given kind discipline minus punishment.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 9. We maintain that all convicts should be put at steady work in order to produce, and to receive a wage therefor, one-third of which shall go to the support of the convict's dependents, who are not responsible for his crime; one-third to be kept by the State for the betterment of the social structure, and the balance to be placed to the credit of the convict until his discharge, so that when he is released he will face the world with some means and not be compelled to go back to a life of crime, the only way now open to him to obtain a living.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 10. We maintain that we must have a National Department of Welfare with a Cabinet Officer, that every State shall have a similar department, and that every municipality shall have a similar department, all the departments to be closely interwoven, with an advisory board of men and women who shall have charge of all matters pertaining to charity, philanthropy, and unemployment—in short, to look after the welfare of all the people and recommend legislation from a non-partisan standpoint, thus doing away entirely with the charity system.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 11. We maintain that no one shall be dependent upon the philanthropic humor of any body, and that this department shall see to it that every needy diseased is cared for, not only from a sentimental standpoint, but also from a selfish standpoint of protection for the healthy ones; that every one who seeks employment and is unable to find it through no fault of his own, shall be given employment with a just wage, and that this department shall recommend sufficient public improvements to accomplish this.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 12. We maintain that every child must be given school room on full time; that every child must be given sufficient playground; that the school playground shall be open all year round, and that the school system shall be enlarged and completed so that every child will receive physical training and grow accustomed to both work and play, if need be, at the expense of culture and science; that it is criminal to attempt to educate children who are ill-fed, and that they shall be provided with good nourishment; that it is criminal to attempt to educate children who are diseased or mentally deficient, and that they shall be cared for; that every schoolhouse shall have a roof garden, where the parents can take their children in warm weather; that each school shall be thrown open in the evening to the citizens of the district and be used as a recreation and social centre so that the parents may grow to know one another.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 13. We maintain that the municipality shall, in addition to the concerts now given in the parks, give at least one concert a week in every public school (and we will undertake to furnish volunteer artists who will donate their services, if need be,) which will develop the aesthetic sense of the people, it will bring the artists before the public and encourage the development of real American music.

DO YOU AGREE?

No. 14. We maintain that a commission of intelligent men and women must be appointed to study and formulate a new taxation system, so that the wage earner will have to pay taxes only in proportion to his ability, and that no one shall be allowed to escape the payment of taxes; and that it shall be made a serious offense to escape the payment of taxes, since by so doing we are robbing the future manhood and womanhood of the country.

DO YOU AGREE?

We realize that these reforms cannot be accomplished in a day, and have no desire to suddenly revolutionize the present structure—but we maintain that military preparedness without social perparedness is a criminal waste of money. That by spending much now to eliminate the root of the evils we will effect great savings later on. By inaugurating this system we shall have less criminals, most crime being due to poverty; we shall have less diseased, most disease being due to poverty; we shall have less drunkenness, most drunkenness being due to poverty and lack of social centres; we shall have less prostitution, for most of it is due to poverty and lack of ethics and character.

REVIVIFIED GIANTS CAPTURE FIRST WORLD'S SERIES GAME ON THE HOME GROUNDS

BENTON BLANKS SOX IN THRILLING GAME

himself for a throw. He ran over to the base line and touched Weaver with the ball himself, while Schalk reached first.

Eddie Cicotte was up, and a dangerous batsman he is. Benton had the ball spinning like a top when it reached Bill Rariden's glove. Cicotte could not meet it at all and he struck out, just as Manager Rowland, coaching on first, sent Schalk down to steal second. Rariden, forced into the game because of Lew McCarty's injury, whipped the ball down to Herzog, and the fleet little White Sox catcher was caught in the jam of a double play.

Giants in Perilous Position.

The White Sox threatened again in the ninth, and this time the situation fairly bristled with possibilities. After John Collins and McMullin had succumbed at first Eddie Collins, by sheer speed, beat out a roller down the first-base line. That in itself doesn't look so alarming, but recollect, folks, General Joe Jackson, the same Shoeless Joe who once made the longest home run ever made on the Polo Grounds, was at the bat. If General Joe took it into his noodle at this moment to poke out a home run it doesn't require any great knowledge of mathematics to perceive that the score would be tied.

And don't you think that Rube Benton didn't realize this just as well as the White Sox. It was a tense moment. Just about this time, and the huge crowd sat up in their seats watching the mighty slugger, with pop eyes, as Benton unraveled his curves.

It was a moment of great concern on the White Sox bench. Here was their only chance. It was a slim one, to be sure, but stranger things have happened in baseball. Kid Gleason, Rowland's right hand on the board of strategy, was dancing up and down at third base, while Rowland, on the first-base coaching line, was telling Eddie Collins to be prepared to travel when Jackson smote the ball.

Benton took his own sweet time and the first ball he sent at Jackson was twisting so fast that when Joe swung hard enough to pole it over into Eighth Avenue the result was a measly foul. Again Jackson set himself for the desperate punch. Again Benton, cool and cautious, shot up a curve which tempted Jackson's most powerful effort. Joe brought his bat far back over his left shoulder and brought the club around viciously. The bat cracked against the ball and it shot high into short left field over near the foul line. Burns romped in for it and Fletcher backed over toward the falling sphere. Fletcher grabbed it close to the line, whirled about quickly, and raced toward the clubhouse with the souvenir. In half a minute the bleacher crowd had flowed out on the field and the players were swallowed up in a maelstrom of excited humanity. Fletcher wormed his way through the mob which was fighting to hammer him on the back, but he arrived safely at the clubhouse, still clutching the ball.

Crowd Is Well Behaved.

The rain on Tuesday and the two defeats the Giants had suffered in Chicago had its effect on the jamming and turmoil which usually marks world's series games here. There was none of the confusion which usually comes when thousands of impatient fans storm the gates. Yesterday the crowd took its time in going to Harlem, and there was no excuse in the world for any one getting his toes walked all over in the throng.

There was excitement, and plenty of it, before the game. The Giants looked livelier when they took their warming-up practice than they did in Chicago. Even Manager McGraw looked different. He showed his old aggressiveness and was all the time talking and advising his players. Shout after shout greeted the Giants as they went through their preliminary practice with their old-time spirit.

The spirit of the crowd was a bit different from the wild-eyed Chicago partisans who spent their whole time at the Chicago games jeering and making life miserable for Heine Zimmerman. When Eddie Cicotte had finished his first inning, the crowd back of the Chicago bench actually applauded him. Can you imagine in your wildest moments a Chicago crowd giving a reception to a Giant pitcher? Not in this generation.

Heinie Zimmerman was in his element. His whole following of ardent admirers from the Bronx, headed by Johnny Cook, took pains to see that their Heinie got half a dozen good cheers for every jeer that he got in Chicago. Heinie acted like a new man, and so did many of the other Giant players. They hopped around as if they were on springs and were never still a moment. They trotted back and forth from the field between innings, which was quite different from the snail pace they affected before the wild stockyard crowds in the Middle West. There was confidence in every move they made, and even when Eddie Cicotte went out to warm up before the game they seemed rather glad that they were going to have a chance to get back at the moundman who humiliated them in the Windy City.

Crowd Generally Fair.

As the game progressed, some of the New York fans couldn't restrain themselves from booing Cicotte, and the little booing which came forth a few times was only a murmur from a small crowd of pent-up baseball fanatics whose idea of good sportsmanship is jeering the loser when he is going down to defeat. For the most part, however, the crowd was fair and the Chicago players, as well as the Giants, were applauded for their good plays.

The band played tons of music and the song boosters earned their days pay by howling popular ditties until they couldn't speak. Before the game Clark Griffith sent several ball players through the crowd and got a big basket full of money for the soldiers' ball and bat fund. Hank Gowdy and Nick Altrock were the most popular collectors. Gowdy, who left the Boston Braves flat in midseason to become a soldier, was called to the plate before the game and was presented with a silk American flag and a wrist watch. Joe Farrell, the head of the Woodland Bards, the White Sox boosting organization, made the opening address, which no one but Joe himself heard. Admirers of Benny Kauff presented Benny with a fine walking stick, which Benny will take out for an airing every time he parades his two dozen suits of clothes on the boulevards.

Mayor Mitchel edged into the game by way of centre field completely surrounded by policemen. The Mayor threw out the first ball, but made a wild pitch. The infield and the territory around the home plate were crowded all the time by ball players and strangers, a custom which does not make much of a hit with Henry Fabian, the groundkeeper at the Polo Grounds. Henry is a landscape architect of no mean renown, and he took special pains to have the diamond dressed up in its Sunday best for this opening game of the world's series here.

Henry coaxed the grass to grow in pretty designs around the home plate and had the whole infield as smooth as a billiard table. He didn't fancy the Woodland Bards of Chicago using it for a doormat, for there was no word "Welcome" on it for them. Anyway, they wear heavy shoes.

Just as soon as Theodore Shonts of the Interborough had taken his seat in a box directly behind the catcher, the game was all ready to start. This was not because Mr. Shonts had entered at this moment, but because it was almost 2 o'clock. Mr. Shonts gazed around at the populace with a look of satisfaction, and why not?—didn't he give everybody a ride up to the Polo Grounds in his nice, comfortable cars? Yes, he did—for a nickel a throw. Gee, what a lot of nickels that man must have.

Loud Greeting for Shano.

When John Collins, Shano they call him in Chicago, came up to the bat in the first inning the Woodland Bards greeted him with a considerable greet. Shano had been one of the White Sox heroes of the opening game in Chicago, and he is quite popular. His popularity got a bad thump, however, before the game was over, because Shano, playing left field, got his feet mixed up with his feet, his hands mixed up with his hands, and his eyes badly mixed up in the sun. Maybe Shano had a lot of pity on Benny Kauff, the Giant centre fielder, who hasn't made a hit in the series yet. Anyway, on two occasions, when Benny lofted the ball out in Collins's front yard in left field, Collins handled the ball as if it was a hot potato. In the first inning Benny hoisted one over his roof and Shano got under it, stretched out his lily white hands and the ball jumped out of them like a grasshopper, while Benny got down as far as second base.

Again there seemed to be collusion between Benny and Shano in the third inning. Benny couldn't hit Cicotte safely, and his effort resulted in another rocket to Shano. This time Collins, the pride of Chicago, again spilled the ball all over Henry Fabian's green turf. If Shano expects to last through the series perhaps he better put a little glue on his glove.

George Burns brought forth a volley of groans from the stands in the second inning when, with two Giants straddling the bases, he fanned. Twice in the first three innings Fletcher had a chance to drive in some runs with a hit, but there wasn't a hit in Fletcher's kit. Nary a hit.

The Fourth Becomes Joyous.

And then came the joyous fourth. Cicotte wasn't afraid of Robertson, and if Robertson was afraid of Eddie in Chicago he wasn't in New York. When two objects face each other in a situation like this and are not afraid of each other, it is the one with the punch that wins. Robertson slapped Eddie's "shine ball" as it went flickering past him, and it was no love slap. He crashed his bat against the ball amidships, and it went tearing through the atmosphere to deep right field.

Jackson looked up, took one peak at it, and started to hot-foot it to the fence. The ball hit the fence in front of the bleachers as Joe came romping up. Joe slipped in the mud as he grabbed for the ball, and by the time he had it back to civilization Robbie, 'ole boy, was on third base, smiling the smile of the just. So that was Cicotte's "shine ball," was it? That was the old knuckle puzzler which the Giants couldn't hit in Chicago, was it? Well, Robbie solved its mysteries and it is now an open book. Umpire Klem looked over several of the balls which Cicotte pitched trying to see if he used any foreign substance on them. He looked over this one, but the only thing he found on it was one flat side, where Robbie had punched it.

Holke Adds a Double.

Next on the waiting list was Holke. His first swing at the "shine ball" was a strike. The next ball he lofted over into short left field, and old butterfingers John Collins hopped in for it, but just missed it by an eyelash. And while he was doing all this missing Robertson had crossed the platter with the Giants' first run, and Holke was talking it over with Eddie Collins at second base. That run set the match to the fuse, and the stands and bleachers let loose. They had something to howl about now, and howl they did. Sedate old men and their quiet looking women companions let convention go to the winds and jumped up and shouted with the others.

Manager McGraw, who was coaching at first base, gave a wig-wag to Bill Rariden as he went up to the bat, and soon after every one knew what the wig-wag meant. Rariden laid down a pretty sacrifice and Holke was on third. Out in deep right field Reb Russell and Danforth were warming up ready to come in to relieve the staggering Cicotte. Eddie glanced around and saw these boys getting ready to grab his job, so he got mad and struck out Rube Benton.

But Cicotte's wrath didn't have any effect on George Burns. George used to live in Utica, and in the big crowd somewhere were several of his old townsfolks who had come down to see George play. George's father was among them and he thought that this would be as good a time as any to show father what he could do. Burns spanked a slow roller to the infield along the third base line. Cicotte hurried over to field it, but he wasn't quick enough, and, anyway, the ball was a tantalizing little thing just out of everybody's reach. On this hit Holke scored with the other Giant run.

With the Giants safely on top Benton improved as he went along. His port side flinging had the White Sox up a tree and they went out with a regularity which brought forth loud exclamations of approval from the happy New York gathering. Most of the Sox couldn't solve Benton at all. Eddie Collins and Buck Weaver got two hits each and Felsch got the other.

With all the confidence which yesterday's victory brought to the Giants' camp, McGraw's men will go after the Sox again today with the firm intent of evening up the series. It is probable that McGraw may start Slim Sallee again, but there is a possibility also that he will send Ferdie Schupp in again, as the Giants' leader has great confidence that left-hand pitching will beat the Sox quicker than right-hand tossing. Reb Russell will probably be Rowland's choice of flingers, with a chance that he may use Faber again. Right after the game the two clubs and their followers will hurry back to Chicago to continue the feverish excitement.

ROYAL WELCOME FOR GIANTS.

Crowd Roars Out Its Confidence Long Before Game Begins.

Apparently every transgression which the Giants committed in Chicago was forgiven and forgotten in the minds of the 33,000 people whose deep throated applause volleyed across Brush stadium in welcoming the team back to the Polo Grounds for the first game of the world's series in this city. It was a crowd that came to be convinced that the idols of only a week ago were not entirely made of clay and every sparkling bit of play was greeted with loud approval which rose to a mighty shout of triumph as Arthur Fletcher, racing over into left field, pulled down Jackson's hit for the final out of the game.

It was a decorous gathering, this crowd that filled the big arena almost to the point of overflowing. Outside the gates the casual observer would hardly have realized during the hour or two before the game that a world's series battle was about to begin within. Only the cordon of police and the automobiles parked anywhere, everywhere along the side streets showed that something more than of ordinary consequence was taking place. The spectators did not come in a horde to storm the turnstiles.

Only about 14,000 seats were sold yesterday and the only rush was in accommodating the gathering of about 9,000 people who, not possessing the coveted pasteboards, came early to be sure of a place. Before long the park began to fill up and thereafter the crowd was steadily augmented by new arrivals until just before play began, when one had to use his eyes sharply to discover a vacant seat. There were a few, and strangely enough they were in the bleachers. This section of the seating space was not by any means crowded, although vacant places did not stand out glaringly.

Speculators Work on Trains.

On the elevated trains the speculators in possession of a fair assortment of rain checks and tickets plied their trade until the grounds were reached and then, retracing their journey, would board a following train. Seats were held at a high premium, but even at that there were ready purchasers. Hardly an elevated train was crowded as it rolled into the 155th Street station and the Eighth Avenue surface cars showed the same lack of congestion.

While there was leisure in the gathering of the crowd, some took matters a bit too unconcernedly and their reward was an outside berth for the game. A few of the most enthusiastic, some 300 or so, stayed outside the grounds during the playing of the contest and listened eagerly to every detail of the struggle that was forthcoming, and even without sight or accurate knowledge of the game matched cheers with those which rose from the stadium, knowing well that the volume of the cheering could mean nothing unless it was a favorable sign for the Giants. The only man who had a chance to see the game without paying was possessed of stilts and carried a sign, and even he was disappointed. Some few succeeded in reaching the roof of the elevated station and managed to catch a partial glimpse of the field. Some other daredevil ones ascended two steel towers, risking life and limb in the exuberance of their desire to see the Giants rehabilitate themselves in the race for the world's championship pennant. Back on Coogan's bluff there was gathered a crowd taking the game by proxy as the din of yelling rose past them.

Music may have charms to soothe the savage breast, but there are times when its influence is lost on a baseball gathering. The supply of this commodity was in excess of the demand, and many of the spectators, fretting because of the wait which they were called upon to face and feeling the craving for food, stormed the sandwich restaurant. The habit proved so satisfying that the section of the stand where Harry Stevens serves the Polo Grounds' guests was a popular centre until the very time that the ball players appeared.

Jim Thorpe First to Appear.

There was never a sign of a ball player until nearly 12 o'clock, and then Jim Thorpe, the renowned Indian athlete, who has worn a Giant uniform on and off for several seasons, made his way across the field. He received the greeting of a lifelong friend. It was not long before other Giants appeared all clad in the white home uniform which they have worn all season. The Giants had a superstition that new uniforms wouldn't be quite the thing.

Nick Altrock gave a bit of his comedy play before the game started while collecting funds for the bat and ball fund which is to supply the implements of baseball to the troops overseas. Hank Gowdy, as a full-fledged member of the regular army, assisted him. Gowdy later on became a more important figure when he was summoned out to be presented with a silk flag which contained some other kind of a present as well. Hank didn't take the fans into his confidence about that, but he looked pleased and smiled for the camera men. Benny Kauff, who has distinguished himself by not getting a hit in three games of the world's series, was presented with a gold-handled cane, but it was understood that a prerequisite to permanent possession was that he must make a hit in the series.

Fifteen minutes before the game started Mayor Mitchel, flanked by a cordon of police, came from the gate under the score board and walked across the field to his seat behind the New York dugout. The appearance of the Mayor was the signal for the first bit of concerted cheering that the crowd had done. He tossed out the first ball, and a second later had it back in his possession after Benton had made one toss across the plate.

It was plain that the crowd had no sympathy for the Sox. It was recalled that Zimmerman had been treated roughly by the Chicago fans, and Cicotte and Eddie Collins were singled out for booing and hooting. It was not quite so pronounced, however, as the game wore on, for the fourth inning gave the crowd visions of such a glorious victory that it was impossible to think of anything else.

Every fan was on tiptoe as Robertson crashed his triple to right field at the opening of New York's half of the fourth inning, and the shout that went up was one of mingled revenge and triumph. When Holke doubled a moment later the real climax of the game was reached for the first run had scored. It was a jubilant crowd thereafter. In the latter half of the eighth inning and at the start of the ninth the spectators began to drift away confident that the Giants with a two-run lead were invincible.

ROBERTSON LEADS ATTACK

Davy Gets Triple, from Which He Scores Giants' First Tally, and Contributes Day's Fielding Gem.

Rube Benton was so supremely confident and exhibited such excellent control during his warming-up exercises that Manager McGraw never gave a second thought to his pitching selection. Manager Rowland elected to play his ace in an endeavor to all but settle the issue, but subsequent events proved that the Giants held the trump and the ace was in the discard.

Bill Klem, the veteran National League umpire, gave the decisions behind the plate; Silk O'Loughlin was at first base; Billy Evans at second base, and Charles Rigler at third. After Mayor Mitchel made an attempt at throwing a ball, the game started with a vengeance.

First Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Benton evidently did not care for the resin or other foreign matter plastered on the ball by Mayor Mitchel, since after the Mayor tossed the ball "somewhere in the infield," Rube got into position and pitched so wide of the plate that John Collins, the first Chicago batter, had to jump back to keep from being decapitated. Umpire Klem then stopped the game and presented the ball to Mayor Mitchel.

With confidence renewed and a new ball in his capacious left hand, Benton offered a wide curve to John Collins, who swung under the ball and fouled it to the backstop. Another wide curve came up, but it was too far away to encourage another swing. Shano hit under the next pitch and lifted it high in the air. It came down eventually and snuggled into William Rariden's welcoming hands. Benton breezed over a strike on McMullin, and had the second going that way, only McMullin foul-tipped it. At the third pitch McMullin tried to golf the ball, which was just above the ground, and was neatly retired on strikes. To the accompaniment of boos, Eddie Collins watched a wide one sail by, refused to offer at one over the plate, fouled off two in succession, waited placidly while Benton twirled two more wide, and, with the count three and two, dropped the next offering in centre field for the first single of the game. With two balls and one strike registered against him, Jackson bounded the ball to the left of Benton, who leaped in the air, clutched the sphere, and carefully tossed to Holke in time to retire Jackson. No runs, one hit, no errors.

GIANTS.—Burns received a hearty welcome from the huge gathering as he took his place at the bat against Cicotte. On the first pitched ball Burns brought the crowd to its feet by sending the ball almost to the left-field bleachers, but it fell foul. Cicotte offered one too low, which Burns ignored. He fouled off the next one, watched one sail by too far away, fouled off another, and then struck in vain at a low, breaking curve which just skimmed over the plate. Charles Herzog was greeted with cheers almost as loud as those for Burns, but could not respond since he heard a strike called, fouled off the ball, and then lifted a lofter to Felsch.

Grim determination was written on Benjamin Michael Kauff's face as he advanced to the plate, amid a scattering of applause. Benny was not up there to wait long, and it was the second ball he saw coming his way that he leaned against and sent flying up amid the clouds. By the time the ball answered the call of gravity and started back toward earth, John Collins, Happy Felsch, and Buck Weaver were crowded around the spot where it would light. John Collins offered to make the catch and the others moved away. John, however, only offered to make that catch, as the ball bounded out of his hands and Benny was safe at second. What a situation for the Great Heinie Zimmerman! His Bronx followers sent up a war cry which would have frightened the Kaiser himself if it did not awaken just a bit of fear in the heart of Cicotte. Zim fouled off the first one, watched a wide one go by, missed a vicious strike at a low offering, then dropped a puny roller along the third-base line, and arrived at first before Cicotte could field the ball. Benny excitedly and happily moved along to third, it being the furthest station he had occupied during the series. It was Zimmerman's first safe hit of the series, after eight failures. Fletcher had a fine opportunity, but his best effort was a foul which fell only inches outside the third-base line, and then he grounded out McMullin to Gandil. No runs, one hit, one error.

Second Inning.

WHITE SOX.—There was just a bit of fear exhibited by the Giants when Home Run Happy Felsch advanced to the plate, but it quickly turned to confidence when the hero of the first game watched a ball and strike pass by and then lifted a foul behind first base, which Holke easily gathered in. Such easy disposal of Felsch brought the fact home to Benton that he had a puzzle which the White Sox were going to have a hard time to unravel, so, when Gandil came along, Rube shoved the ball across the plate and was further convinced when Gandil also lifted a foul to Holke. Rube tested Weaver's eye with a ball wide of the plate, and then tried to sneak one over, but Weaver shot it on a line to the outfield for a single. Benton paid too much attention to keeping Weaver close to first base and threw two pitches wide of the plate, neither of which got even a sign of recognition from Ray Schalk. Benton had to put the next one over, and Weaver was well enough aware of this fact to start on a pilfer of second as Benton raised his arm to pitch. Rariden made a quick return peg to Fletcher, who got the ball in plenty of time to put it against Weaver, but, in doing so, Fletcher dropped the ball and Umpire Evans had to reverse his decision to safe, after calling Weaver out. Benton threw another wide one to Schalk and the little catcher, with the count 3 and 1, leaned against the next one, which went on a line toward left field. It appeared to be a certain hit on which Weaver would score, but George Burns galloped into the picture with his usual grace and caught the ball just as it was about to fall on safe territory. No runs, one hit, one error.

GIANTS.—Davy Robertson, who was the offensive star of the day and the player who broke the heart of Cicotte, waited not for a look of Cicotte's mystery ball, but slashed into the first offering and shoved it past Eddie Collins so fast Eddie hardly had time to say how-do-you-do to it, much less get better acquainted. With Robertson on first through his single, Holke also tried banging the first ball pitched, but was hardly as successful, since his bounder settled into Eddie Collins's hands and Robertson was forced out on the line, but too late for Eddie to try for a double play. Rariden was patient enough to get the count 3 and 1 before he took his bat from his shoulder. The taking was even more effective as he settled against the ball, just as Holke was starting to steal second, and singled to centre. Holke never even hesitated at second, but continued to third rapidly enough to land there easily. Benton lifted the first ball pitched just behind second base, into the hands of Felsch, and Holke only made a bluff to go home, but the bluff was good enough to draw a throw from Felsch and allow Rariden to go to second. With men on second and third and a single needed, Burns decided to wait for one to his liking. He saw two strikes speed over the plate, but outwardly was no more concerned than when the next one was wide. Burns fouled off the fourth pitched ball and waited while another curve broke away from the plate. He decided the next one was the right one, but he was mightily misguessed, since Cicotte threw the ball much too low to be hit and Burns struck in vain. It was his second demise on strikes in succession and two Giants were left roosting a lap or two from home. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Third Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Cicotte tried hard to hit a ball three feet wide of the plate and managed to raise the next one into the air. It came down in Rariden's hands on foul territory for an out. John Collins saw two wide ones drift by and fouled one off, before he lifted another high foul just outside first base. Holke got under the skyscraper, but was attacked with a bad case of butterfingers and dropped the ball, which cost him an error. Holke's error cost nothing, however, since Shano bounded the ball to Zimmerman, and the Great Heinie blithely tossed it to Holke for the putout. McMullin gave the fans a chance to scramble for a ball with a foul and then raised another high foul which Rariden caught. It was the fifth pop-up on foul territory in the first three innings and proved even more conclusively the effectiveness of Benton. No runs, no hits, no errors.

GIANTS.—As Herzog was batting in this inning, the Sox bench warmers became too personal in their remarks anent the Giant Captain, and were warned to desist by his majesty, Willyum Klem. Herzog, too, resented the remarks, especially after he swung frantically at a ball high and close to his chin, and walked back to the bench, Cicotte's third strikeout victim. Encouraged by his two-base error smash of the first inning Benjamin Michael pounced upon the first ball pitched by Cicotte and gave it a long ride toward the left centre field fence. John Collins again essayed to make the catch, after a fifty-yard sprint, but once more the ball bounded out of his hands and Benny was credited with a second two-base error smash. Here it might be mentioned that two world's series records were written indelibly in history. Kauff was the first man who ever got two two-base errors in one game and John Collins was the first outfielder who ever dropped two flies in one contest.

Zimmerman picked out the first offering to send a grounder to Weaver who elected to put out Zimmerman at first and allowed Kauff to again reach third. Benny wanted to cross the plate and looked at Fletcher beseechingly but after Fletcher had failed to make good on an attempted squeeze play, he grounded out, via Eddie Collins and Gandil. No runs, no hits, one error.

Fourth Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Eddie Collins tested the mettle of Heine Zimmerman to start this frame with a slashing roller toward third. Zim stepped into the ball recklessly, stopped it, and picked it up in time to throw out the speedy Chicago Captain at first base. Benton went to work on Jackson with an assortment of wide-breaking curves, the first of which crossed the plate, the second bent to far outside, and the third started across the plate only to be met by Jackson's bat. The ball bounded over Benton's head and appeared to be on a long journey to the outfield, when it suddenly was confronted by Fletcher, who clutched it and threw to Holke ahead of the swift-moving Jackson. Benton experimented with Felsch, offering the Home Run Chicagoan a slow ball, and Benton quickly was sorry he had tried anything out of the ordinary, as the slow ball was converted into a sizzling single into left field by the unfeeling Felsch.

Gandil came within an ace of breaking up the pastime, but Davy Robertson added the fielding gem of the afternoon to his hitting spree to make certain he was to be the hero of the game. Gandil met the first ball offered by Benton and raised it on a looping journey toward the right field grand stand. Robertson ran as he never hustled before, and got to the ball just in time to pick it off the concrete wall, retiring Gandil. Davy bumped into the wall hard enough to knock over anything but reinforced concrete, but he held onto the ball and saved the day. No runs, one hit, no errors.

GIANTS.—Robertson was cheered to the echo as he advanced to the plate and was probably inspired thereby, but he gave no immediate notice of his power when he swung vainly at the first ball Cicotte offered. However, the power was latent since the next Cicotte offering was lifted to the far right field confines of the park and, before Joe Jackson could race that distance, pick up the ball and throw it back to Eddie Collins, Robertson was sitting on third base and 33,000 fans were yelling with supreme delight. Holke foul-tipped a ball, which caused a conference of Manager Rowland, Cicotte, and Schalk. Evidently Cicotte won the argument, since he shot the next one straight for the plate. But this time Holke straightened it out for a line hit to left field, which scored Robertson. John Collins again gave every indication of a man-up-a-tree, trying to field Holke's smash, and it went by him, Holke getting credit for a double. Rariden had orders to bunt, and bunt he did, advancing Holke to third with a sacrifice handled by Cicotte.

Benton had a chance to win his own game, and he tried, but three times he swung and thrice he missed the ball. It was up to Burns to help Holke home and Burns had struck out twice. Cicotte pitched as if relieved. Burns foul-tipped the first offering and promptly asked Umpire Klem to take a look at the ball, evidently suggesting that Cicotte had used his mysterious influence. Klem examined the speroid and found something wrong, since he threw the ball out of the game and tossed a new one to Cicotte. Cicotte then threw three straight balls, and on the next one Burns only tipped it, but it fell along the third-base line in a place impossible to field in time to put out Burns at first. Cicotte fielded the ball and made a foolish and vain effort to get Burns, but the ball went over Gandil's head and Holke scored with the second and last run of the game. Burns got to second on the overthrow, being credited with a hit and Cicotte with an error. Herzog lifted a high foul near the right field wall, which Gandil caught with one outstretched, gloved hand for the third out. Two runs, three hits, one error.

Fifth Inning.

WHITE SOX.—With two runs to work on, Benton speeded up his pitching. He put over two called strikes on Weaver, then two wide ones, and saw Weaver dribble the next to Fletcher for an out to Holke. Schalk had a strike called, swung at one that hit the dirt near the plate, and struck at another low one and had to be thrown out at first. Cicotte watched two strikes speed by and missed the third one, giving Benton two strike-outs for the inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

GIANTS.—The Giants relaxed somewhat under their lead and Kauff had to be satisfied with a high foul to Schalk. Zimmerman stepped into the first ball offered him and sent it on a long, high flight to the remote parts of the outfield, but it did not go far enough for Felsch not to get under it and catch it. Fletcher looked at a wide one, fouled the next into the left field stands for the fans to scramble for, and then foolishly struck at one wide of the plate and another too low to be worth while, which brought Cicotte's strike out victims to five. No runs, no hits, no errors

Sixth Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Benton continued in his glory in this session. John Collins started amid the hoots of the multitude, which evidently was censoring the unfortunate outfielder for his mistakes. He apparently was worried over them himself, since his easy grounder to Fletcher resulted in as easy an out. McMullin fouled off two and watched two wide ones go harmlessly by, before he shot the ball back at Benton with even greater speed than Benton had offered it. However, Benton already had been introduced to the ball, and it was no stranger to him. He picked it up fondly and tossed it to Holke ahead of McMullin. Eddie Collins endeared himself to the left field grand stand fans by fouling the ball into that section before making his exit on a grounder to Holke. Collins and Holke had a race for the bag, but Eddie was a distant second. No runs, no hits, no errors.

GIANTS. — Robertson responded to greater cheers than ever, but this time his meeting of the first pitched ball resulted in a towering fly to Felsch. Holke tried to bunt, fouled off one, and missed connections on his third swing. Rariden called Umpire Klem's attention to a ball slightly discolored and Klem threw that one out of the game. Cicotte handled the new one as well, for Rariden was out on a bounder to Eddie Collins. Cicotte pitched only five balls in this inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Herzog got his first fielding chance of the game on Jackson's bounder in this session and the result was the demise of Jackson via Holke. Felsch worked Benton into a three and two condition only to have Benton hook a wide curve over the plate which left Felsch a strike-out victim. Benton made Gandil jump back from the plate with a wild offering, then Gandil sent a nice little bounder to Zimmerman and Zim and Holke accomplished the downfall of Gandil. It was the third straight inning that not a hit had been made nor a man got to first against Benton. No runs, no hits, no errors.

GIANTS.—Benton did not want any one to get the impression that he was a hitter since he swung at a wild pitch, foul-tipped a second, and threw his bat at a third, which was four feet wide of the plate. Burns waited patiently until Cicotte had thrown three balls and two strikes before George bounded one to Weaver and was tossed out to Gandil. On the first pitched ball to Herzog, the Giant Captain registered his second hit of the series with a looping, puny fly, which dropped just beyond the reach of the infielders. Then came Benny Kauff on his twelfth trip to the plate during the series and still hitless. It was Benny's last chance of the third game and he needed a hit. He watched a wide one go by, fouled one just as wide, and was left despondent and hitless when he lifted a high fly to Felsch. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning.

WHITE SOX.—What appeared to be the only "break" for Chicago came at the start of this inning, when Weaver opened with a short fly ball to deep short field. Fletcher ran out and Burns came in, but Fletcher elected to take the chance. He barely got to the ball, and was unable to hold it. Weaver rounded first and slid into second in time to get credit for a double. Burns could have caught the ball, but he stopped when Fletcher called out. With this opening Schalk pounced on the second ball, but it bounded into Benton's hands and Weaver was caught between second and third. Weaver stood in his tracks and waved for Schalk to hustle for second, but Benton hustled faster and tagged out Weaver before Schalk could more than round first. This broke up Chicago's rally and left it more comfortable for Benton and the Giants. Cicotte managed to get the count 3 and 2, but missed the third strike, and Schalk was doubled trying to steal second, Herzog taking Rariden's perfect throw and tagging his man. No runs, one hit, no errors.

GIANTS. — Zimmerman made a desperate bid for a second safe hit, after missing a strike, with a line drive, but the ball headed directly for Eddie Collins, and Collins held it. John Collins got a chance to prove he could catch a ball when Fletcher sent a liner to left. Most of the crowd expected to see Shano drop the ball, but he held it. Robertson still had a lot of fight left in him and almost took both Cicotte's feet along to the outfield with his drive for his third hit of the game. Cicotte wasted three deliveries pitching out to Holke, expecting Robertson to steal. Then Cicotte put the ball over and Robbie did steal. It availed him nothing, however, as Holke was called out on strikes, Cicotte's eighth victim of the game. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning.

WHITE SOX.—Rariden pounced upon John Collins's roller, which dropped in front of the plate, and threw Shano out at first. With the count 3 and 1 on him, McMullin tried to step into one of Benton's deliveries, but his effort resulted in a snaky grasser to Fletcher, which was converted into an out, via Holke. Eddie Collins refused to acknowledge defeat even at this stage, but dumped the first ball pitched along the first-base line and sprinted fast enough to beat it to first for a single. Joe Jackson looked at the spot in the far right corner of the grand stand where he made his Polo Grounds record drive several years ago, and aimed in that direction, but even at this stage Benton was the master, for Jackson's pop foul fly was gathered in by Fletcher just behind third base and the game was over.

COLUMBIA BEATS M. T. HIGH.

'Varsity Eleven Gets Two Touchdowns in Game with Schoolboys.

The Columbia 'Varsity played a short scrimmage game against the Manual Training High School eleven yesterday, and in some twenty minutes' work put the ball across the goal line twice. On the kick-off Howard Miller, the star quarterback of two seasons ago, rushed the ball back from Columbia's twenty-yard line to Manual's ten-yard mark, knocking off or dodging almost the entire team of high-school boys.

On the first play the visiting boys stopped the Columbia back, who was carrying the ball five yards behind the scrimmage line. But from then on the Morningside players held the whip-hand, Shaw going over for one score, and Canapary, substituted for Shaw, skirted around the Manual flank for a second touchdown.

The line-up:

| Columbia, (10.) | Position. | Manual T., (0.) |
|---|---|---|
| Cochran | R.E. | Seitz |
| Farrell | R.T. | Warren |
| Dormstadter | R.G. | Ward |
| Galvin | C. | Putnam |
| Kindleberger | L.G. | Snyder |
| Farer | L.T. | Logan |
| Kennedy | L.E. | Latimer |
| Miller | Q.B. | Lachy |
| Shaw | L.H. | Kamien |
| Houlihan | R.H. | Leiken |
| Rosen | F.B. | Lang |

Before the 'Varsity-Manual scrimmage the second eleven from the Training School gave the freshmen team a chance to show its defensive. Coach Tom Thorpe supervised the workout of the freshmen and sent many a man out of practice to watch how the other man did it. Considering how few men have shown up for the yearling team Coach Metcalfe is quite discouraged with the present outlook.

Canapary, who scored for the 'Varsity in yesterday's scrimmage, and Memmit, half back of the second team, have been ruled by the Faculty to be ineligible for the 1921 team.

Harte, Forsyth, Korn, De Fronzo, Campbell, and Laskey are expected to recover from the injuries they received and report for practice by the end of this week.

YALE'S FOOTBALL PLANS.

Freshman Eleven Will Play Harvard and Princeton.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 10.—The uncertainty which has hung over Yale football was dispelled today with the definite announcement that freshman games would be arranged with Harvard and Princeton. A joint meeting of the Board of Athletic Control, college and Sheffield School councils and the athletic association, it is announced, has authorized Professor Robert N. Corwin, the Chairman, to arrange for the games, with the restriction that "only men enrolled in military or naval training be allowed to represent Yale."

It was also decided that class elevens should be organized and a series of interclass games played, beginning next Saturday.

RUTGERS HAS BRISK DRILL.

Eleven Worked in Scrimmage Against Scrub of Old Players.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 10.—Seven members of last year's Princeton freshman team, strengthened by two 'Varsity men and three former Rutgers stars, lined up against Foster Sanford's Rutgers team this afternoon for a full forty-minute game. For three periods neither side was able to score, but in the last period Rutgers forced the ball over the line by a series of line bucks and mass formations.

Bob Nash, former All-American tackle, donned a suit for the first time this year and played against his former team-mates. He shared with Robeson, the big Rutgers tackle, the honors of the afternoon. Whitehill, Baker, Kelly, and Gardner started in the back field for Rutgers, but the latter two were replaced by Gargan and Lawes. The scrimmage this afternoon was the best workout the team has had this year and was preparatory to the game with Syracuse on Saturday.

REDS CAPTURE OHIO TITLE.

Win Sixth and Deciding Game of Series from Indians.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—The Cincinnati Nationals won the sixth and deciding game of the series for the Ohio State major league title from the Cleveland Americans here today. The score was 8 to 1.

Jim Bagby made his third attempt to come back in the series, but was knocked out in the third inning, being replaced by Coumbe. Eller, pitching for Cincinnati, was very effective.

Cincinnati scored 4 in the third, 3 in the fourth, and 1 in the seventh. Cleveland's only run was made in the seventh on a triple by Speaker and a single by Smith.

Ban Johnson a Volunteer.

Ban B. Johnson, President of the American League and member of the National Baseball Commission, stated today that he had volunteered for military service in France. He said he had offered his services to the Government, but in what capacity he declined to say, explaining that the offer had not been definitely accepted.

New York City.

Dear Sir:—

While riding in the subway this morning, I overheard one gentleman say to another:

"Pardon me if I ask you a question. I am a stranger in New York and would like to know of a good men's furnishing house." The other answered: "Rogers Peet is very reliable." The first man remarked, "I don't want to get fooled, you know," and the reply was, "You won't; these people are very trustworthy; get out here." It was 33d St. station, but the doors were closing before he could get off, whereat he was told to go to 14th St. station and the 13th St. Store of Rogers Peet.

It seems to me a reputation like this is better than advertising space, and I thought you would like to know about this quite unique incident.

IRVIN COBB SEES EXPECTED FUNEREAL OCCASION DEVELOP INTO A JOYOUS FETE FOR GOTHAM

IRVIN COBB SAYS 'TWAS PSYCHOLOGY

FURNISHES THE VITAL SPARK

Davy Firmly Established as New York's Favorite Son in the Hearts of the Baseball Fans.

By IRVIN S. COBB.

It is very cramping to one's style to go forth all prepared to write a piece about a funeral, only to discover the funeral turning into a combination of a silver wedding, Old Home Week, and Mardi Gras. Those who went to the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon prepared to help screw down the lid came back at eventide organized to open many bottles. If there is any efficacy in having one's health drunk with copiousness by others, Mr. Davy Robertson of Mr. John J. McGraw's team ought to live long enough to tell his great-grandchildren how he spilled the estimable beans for Mr. Comiskey's boys from Chicago and brought home the middlin' meat for the group of sterling young athletes of which he, at the moment of going to press with these lines, is the favorite son.

I figure the sharps, experts, all to their very hair roots, are going to have various explanations to account for the upsetting of proud Chicago's hopes—and prospects—of making a clean sweep of the World's Series. Some, no doubt, will attribute the Giants' sudden endowment with the vital spark to the fact that they were playing in their own ball yard with their own friends and well-wishers to the number of thirty-three thousand or thereabouts behind them and around them, but especially behind them, sending forth waves of moral support warm enough and sincere enough to be felt and almost to be seen. Some perhaps may declare the main contributing factor to have been the prime brand of pitching offered for the consideration of the White Sox by Mr. Rube Benton, whose chief claim to distinction in his own particular field of endeavor up until now has been that once he was let go by Cincinnati, almost certain proof that he had something in him. Others, I opine, will decide that the failure of the stockyards' favorites to make it three straight might conceivably be due to the influence of the local atmosphere upon the beryl and opal tints of Mr. Cicotte's justly famous shine-ball, which appears to thrive best where the air contains much besides just air. These diagnosticians are likely to hail from Chicago, where they like their ozone to be full of foreign suspended matter.

J. Collins as a Juggler.

Others, believers in the occult, may think to discern a benign psychic influence operating in behalf of the Giants, because they laid aside the lacrymose gray housings that they wore in Chicago and came forth today in white uniforms, flecked here and there—as was the casket furnished by the small town undertaker for the burlesque lady's funeral—with flacks of heliotrope. If you don't know the story about the burlesque lady's coffin, ask any veteran traveling man. Yet others will say that the result might have been different and that nightfall descending upon Coogan's Bluff might have seen the two teams fighting out a tie had it not been for the clabbored performances of Mr. J. Collins, left fielder for the pets of the abattoir district. After seeing Mr. J. Collins juggling flies this afternoon many present were at a loss to understand how this gentleman ever succeeded in catching the train for New York. They finally decided that he didn't catch it at all—that Happy Felsch or somebody caught it first, and relayed it to him, and that all he got credit for in the railroad conductor's summary was an assist. In passing, it should be stated that while bearing the same name, Mr. J. Collins is no kin to Mr. E. Collins, also of the White Sox. They may have been related before today, but not any more, except over Mr. E. Collins's dead body. One does not claim relationship with one who has come between one and one's immediate prospect of hauling down a winner's share of all this chunk of money that is being piled up in our two largest cities. One does not call one cousin who has done such a thing to one. One is much more apt to call him things which would not look pretty spelled out in plain print in a family newspaper. Blood may be thicker than water, but it butters no parsnips.

A Psychological Catch.

For all I know to the contrary, each separate expert, while agreeing with his fellows as to the great outstanding point—namely, two to nothing—may offer his own separate explanation for what was either a dire catastrophe or a consummation most devoutly to be wished for, depending on whether one's point of view is that of Broadway and Forty-second, or that of State and Randolph. But, as for me, speaking up in my humble way from my quiet corner in the inglenook, I venture to assert that the principal underlying reason was psychological rather than physical, and, furthermore, that the person directly and individually responsible for the thing was this same young Mr. Robertson, previously referred to.

It was at the end of the fourth inning, when neither side had scored, when Chicago was at bat, with two out and Mr. Chick Gandil was up—yes up, and doing. Mr. Benton put one over and Mr. Gandil fell upon it and knocked it a mile, some observers say two miles. Going away from here it looked like a two-bagger. It looked like a three-bagger, indeed, for the nonce; as Nick Altrock would say, it looked like a home run. At the very last it changed its mind about being a home run, and decided not to go over the grandstand fence after all, but to drop just alongside the breastworks and be a three-bagger. At this point Mr. Robertson intervened. He projected his vivid personality across the soggy greensward at a speed scarce to be appraised by the human eye, and, with one shoulder brushing in its flight the mural concrete, he reached forth his greedy hands and he ——.

Exit Cold Feet.

For three years the world has been wondering what force it was, what mysterious agency, what suddenly summoned influence, which turned the Germans back at the Marne when Paris was almost in their grip. I think I know now. I think Papa Joffre must have done a Davy Robertson—in other words, must have achieved the unachievable. Anyhow, that was what Davy did all by himself, alone out there in right field. He just naturally snatched victory down out of the sky. And then, right on top of that, he came up to bat and slammed out the three-bagger which, with some assistance from Mr. Holke in the nature of a double, drove the retreating enemy clear to the Aisne.

Before that moment the Giants, to my way of thinking, had been nervous and uncertain; had played with the desperation of men already licked but determined to die game rather than with the dash which is fired by confidence. Chilled fingers may have caused some of the fumbling committed by them in the opening stages, but cold feet affected them temperamentally. But from the moment that Robertson caught that ball of Gandil's and then made his long hit his teammates played a different kind of baseball. Psychology did it, and we can prove it!

For once a New York audience showed local pride. Local pride is a fine thing, but there may be too much of a fine thing, just as there may be too little of it. Chicago's sense of local pride may be slightly overdone on occasion, as, for instance, when thirty-odd thousand Chicagoans unite in booing a ball player named Benny Kauff because, through stage fright, he is not playing up to his best form. In New York usually it is overdone to a point where it becomes quite rare. But on this day and date there was a real fervor behind the cheering. It was a real enthusiasm which inspired thousands to ruin their throats and hundreds to hurl their hats in the air with a total disregard for expense every time a Giant did something creditable.

A Fever of Presentations.

Those who foregathered at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon got their money's worth out of the game and more than their money's-worth out the the preliminary scenes and pastimes. Twenty-two newspaper photographers—I took the trouble to count them myself—scurried about like so many red ants on a hot stove, taking snapshots of nearly everybody who was anybody in the Who's Ballyhoo of sportdom and stagedom and societydom. On behalf of parties to deponent unknown, but said to be from Hartford, Conn., a gentleman of impressive mien presented Benny Kauff with a gold-headed cane, and inspired by this a number of persons straightway started a fund to present Mr. Faber of the White Sox with an ivory-headed cane in commemoration of his having on last Sunday stolen third from Buck Weaver, who happened to have it at the time. On top of this Hank Gowdy, late of the Boston Braves, who is wearing the khaki of a high private in the volunteer army, was presented with a wrist watch, making the seventh wrist watch that has been given to him since he enlisted. Hank is now said to wear wrist watches all over his person, so that any time he wakes up he can tell what time it is without turning over, or anything. The presentation ceremonies wound up when a group of Chicago rooters sitting just back of third base and acting in accordance with a quaint tribal custom of Cook County, gave Heinie Zimmerman a box of raspberries.

High Caterer Harry Stevens, who invented food conservation before Hoover ever dreamed of such a thing, had a field day. The celebrated Harry Stevens ham sandwich, which may be eaten by strict Catholic on Friday or by an orthodox Talmudist on any day in the week without violation of the religious principles, sold by its tens of thousands.

Just before the game started, Mayor Mitchel made an inconspicuous entrance by marching clear across the field from the far side to his box accompanied by about as many policemen as the Mayor of Chicago would take with him on an outing of real Americans, or as the Mayor of Philadelphia would take with him to an election booth in a municipal primary.

From the standpoint of a writer who strives to be impartial, but who loves his cozy flat in Harlem, there was but one fly in the ointment. Regardless of what may happen today, the circumstance of the New York team having won yesterday necessitates another trip to Chicago on the part of one who intends to see this series out to its end.

N. Y. U. HAS LONG PRACTICE.

Ex-Captain Bernstein Comes Back to Help in Coaching.

The New York University football team practiced outdoors yesterday for the first time this week, in one of the longest drills of the season. In the early afternoon there was a long period of signal practice, followed by an equally long scrimmage. At first the 'Varsity tried several new plays against the scrubs. Next Coach Wall lined the scrubs against the 'Varsity. The regulars took the ball at the start, but soon lost it on a fumble, that team tendency which showed itself in the R. P. I. game and persisted throughout yesterday's scrimmage. When the regulars recovered the ball in scrub territory Egan undertook a line plunge at the middle of the field and succeeded in threading his way through the scrub tacklers to the 10-yard line. On the next play the ball was carried over the line.

FEATURE RACE WON BY ST. CHARLCOTE

Defeats Cherry Malotte by a Neck in Subscription Handicap at Piping Rock.

Edward M. Weld's St. Charlcote, a chestnut son of St. Savin, became the equine hero of one of the best races ever seen over a long course when he stretched his neck in front of the Greentree Stable's Cherry Malotte and captured the Subscription Handicap, which was the feature of the concluding program of the Piping Rock Association. All through the three miles jockey Smoot had been vainly striving to restrain the impetuosity of his mount, but St. Charlcote was rank and more than willing to make the pace, while the three other starters were rated behind him.

When Cherry Malotte took the lead entering the home stretch the situation looked hopeless for St. Charlcote, but he was game as well as ambitious, and dashing ahead on his courage he resumed the lead after clearing the last fence, and retained his speed until he had passed the judges.

The race was one to warm the blood of the cross-country enthusiasts who braved the chilly wind to cheer their own horses or those of their friends on to victory. The attendance was not up to that of the opening day, but every one present was a sportsman or sportswoman and took the greatest interest in the performances of the few thoroughbreds that provided the afternoon's sport. The woods surrounding the course had assumed full Autumnal garb, and the turf was in such excellent condition that few mishaps occurred at the extremely difficult fences.

Mr. Weld selected St. Charlcote to carry his colors instead of the champion Weldship, and this left Cherry Malotte the top weight. There was only six pounds difference in the allotments for this pair, and both were asked to concede a lot of weight to W. R. Coe's Bet and the Northwood Stable's Northwood. St. Charlcote closed a slight favorite over Cherry Malotte, with Bet the third choice.

Three turns of the course were necessary to complete the three miles, and in the first lap Smoot did his best to hold his mount back. For a quarter of a mile he was strong enough, then St. Charlcote insisted on going to the front and Smoot let him have his way. Cherry Malotte was easier to place, and Powers kept her speed in reserve as he completed the first turn of the course in last place and about eight lengths behind the leader.

St. Charlcote steadied down a little in the next lap and by careful handling Smoot managed to place him before Northwood as they passed the judges for the second time. Cherry Malotte had moved up into third place at this time and was moving freely. The real race commenced soon after passing the club house, and all along the back stretch St. Charlcote was hustling at a pace that kept the others busy to follow. Henderson began his run with Bet approaching the far turn and rushed up into second place.

They were running in this order on coming down the hill leading to the home stretch, and it was here that Vincent Powers made a move with Cherry Malotte that saved ground. He shot on the inside of Bet, and before Smoot was alive to the situation had taken the lead as he skimmed the corner on the jump entering the home stretch.

Powers was riding his hardest and Cherry Malotte responded so that with only two fences to clear she had a lead of a length and a half. Smoot on St. Charlcote was tired from his early efforts, but his mount was undaunted and in the run to the next fence closed gradually on Cherry Malotte so that the crowd was cheering both horses as they rose at the last obstacle with the mare slightly in the lead.

St. Charlcote jumped quicker and further than his rival, and on landing was on even terms. It was a great drive to the finish, but Cherry Malotte was at the end of her spurt, while St. Charlcote was fresh and tireless as he passed the judges a neck to the good. Bet was only three lengths back and was two lengths in front of Northwood. The summaries:

FORDHAM IN WORKOUT.

Players Put Through Hard Grind for Norwich Game.

The Fordham players were sent through a hard workout yesterday for the Norwich game, which will be played on Fordham Field on Saturday. The punting and signal drills were followed by a clash between the 'Varsity and scrub elevens. The first team was put on the offensive all afternoon, although the backs were frequently forced to buck the 'Varsity line when the forwards were interchanged.

The linemen did not display any too much aggressiveness yesterday, and Coach McCaffery was not slow in informing the players of this fact. A long drill on the defense for the forward pass plays was held with all of the backs hurling and the ends and backs receiving the leather. McGrath and Fitzpatrick returned to the lineup and went through the scrimmage, but Erwig and Crowley were unable to do any rough work.

NEW 3-YEAR-OLD RECORD.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 10.—A. H. Cosden's grand filly, the Real Lady, driven by Thomas W. Murphy, today reduced the world's record for three-year-old trotters to 2:08, beating the record of 2:03¼ made by Peter Volo here in 1914 in a trial against time. The Real Lady is the world's champion two-year-old in her class.

The best race of the day was for the Ashland stake, which went to Lu Princeton after five hard heats, the time of 2:05¾ setting a new world's record for a fifth heat.

The 2:15 class pace went to Ardelle after six hard heats. Judge Sall, which won the first heat, was distanced in the third. Neva Sanders, another heat winner, was distanced in the fifth.

Poorman won the pacing division of the Futurity and Ruth Mainsheet the trot for two-year-olds.

Custom-built Broughams
For Immediate Delivery

For several months past two of America's foremost body builders have been developing these cars especially for our metropolitan patronage. It will be the exception if you fail to find one among them which measures up to your ideal in every detail. No two of them are alike. Each has as much individuality as if it were the only one commissioned to be built.

And their interiors are marvels of taste and refinement. Not only do they carry out the color scheme dictated by the body paint but the quality of the fabrics employed insures long and satisfactory wear. In some gunmetal hardware is employed, in others plain or embossed silver. All windows are adjustable. Such essentials as dome lights, step lights, auxiliary folding seats, vanity boxes and phone for directing the driver are, of course, provided.

BERNSTORFF'S AMERICAN ARMY.

Canada was at war with Germany in 1916; the United States was not; yet the two are bracketed together as enemies, to be attacked in essentially the same way, in the orders sent by Berlin to Count VON BERNSTORFF and now made public by Secretary LANSING. BERNSTORFF, nominally an Ambassador from a friendly country, was actually the secret Commander in Chief of Germany's forces in the United States for carrying on war against the country which harbored him and against Canada. "Sabotage in the United States and Canada," his instructions read, though Germany was not nominally at war with us, only with Canada. He was instructed as to the minor differences in his secret war on both countries; in the United States, unlike Canada, embankments and bridges must not be attacked, for instance.

When the President, because Germany was making war upon us as truly as on any of its admitted enemies, asked Congress to recognize the fact and declare that war existed, he said that > it has filled our unsuspecting communities, and even our offices of government, with spies and set criminal intrigues everywhere afoot against our national unity of council, our peace within and without, our industries, and our commerce.

It did more than raise up violence against us; it undertook to direct our politics, to shape our policies. Nothing is clearer from Mr. LANSING'S successive revelations than that the "pacifist" agitations and the pretended agitations for "Irish freedom" were created, organized, and directed from Berlin; that Congress was influenced by this enemy influence, doubtless believing all the time that these agitations were honest and spontaneous. In the Lansing exposure of Sept. 20 there was made public Count VON BERNSTORFF'S request for authorization to pay $50,000 "in order, as on former occasions, to influence Congress through the organization you know of." Yesterday's exposure gives the clue to one of the "former occasions":

> The Embargo Conference, in regard to whose earlier fruitful co-operation Dr. HALE can give information, is just about to enter upon a vigorous campaign to secure a majority in both houses of Congress favorable to Germany and requests further support.

This was sent Sept. 15, 1916. It was on Jan. 22, 1917, that BERNSTORFF wanted to spend another $50,000 "as on former occasions." Yet the message of Sept. 15, 1916, was not the beginning; it refers to the Embargo Conference's "earlier fruitful co-operation" with this secret enemy of its country, and referred Berlin for further particulars to Dr. WILLIAM BAYARD HALE, the Berlin correspondent of The New York American. The Berlin General Staff warns BERNSTORFF that he must keep out of sight his own connection with "Irish pro-German propaganda." The pretended Irish movement and the pretended anti-embargo movement were alike controlled by VON BERNSTORFF, the Commander in Chief of Germany's campaign against "Canada and the United States." Sir ROGER CASEMENT, supposed to be a visionary, an idealist, carried away by love of country, now appears plotting not for Ireland and against England, but for Germany and against America. What conceivable interest had Ireland in making war upon the United States? Yet CASEMENT is found informing the General Staff how it can get information about "persons suitable for carrying on sabotage in the United States," among others, from JEREMIAH O'LEARY.

The time has now definitely come to cease treating these so-called pacifist movements as being misguided but sincere. With each new revelation of their origin by the State Department, are we to pretend that we have neither eyes to see nor brains to reason? Are we, each time, to be horrified at the exposure of the particular knot of pretended pacifists who are dragged to the light as conspirators, and yet give those as yet unexposed a clean bill of health? Is it not certain that if Germany created and organized and financed one gang of conspirators masquerading as pacifists, who have been exposed, she would not hesitate to create and organize and finance the others, who have not yet been exposed?

The time has come, too, to withhold the tolerance that has been accorded to those Senators and Representatives who allow themselves to be wheedled or terrorized by these bought and paid for agitations. A man is presumed to intend the consequences of his acts, and Secretary LANSING'S disclosures have clearly pointed out those consequences. In January, 1916, the month in which the General Staff was sending these orders to BERNSTORFF, Senator GORE was proposing not merely an embargo, but actually a law forbidding American ships from carrying both passengers and munitions. This, doubtless, was one of the fruits of the "earlier fruitful co-operation" between the General Staff and the Embargo Conference; and within a few weeks Congress was forced by the President to a vote on the Gore and McLemore resolutions, which strangled their power for harm, and which, we can now see, was forced by the President for the purpose of baffling the plot which he knew to have been created by BERNSTORFF.

In the light of these revelations we can look back and see plainly enough that GORE was a mere tool for BERNSTORFF, who was in his turn the mere instrument of the crafty and malignant enemy at Berlin, making deadly war upon us in the guise of peace. We trust GORE was an honest tool, merely deceived and duped, but a tool he was. But what is the good of learning that lesson about the past if it teaches us nothing about the present? Let Senator LA FOLLETTE or Senator GRONNA be never so honest, never so deceived, they are as truly the tools of German conspiracy in 1917 as GORE and MCLEMORE were in 1916. If they are honest dupes, if they really mean well by their country, they can show it by realizing, in the face of this staggering revelation, that they are mere pawns in the hands of secret and powerful forces, and retreating from their position at once. For the object of the German conspiracy is nothing less than the defeat of our armies, and it is to this end that it is using these men and all the others like them. So far as that dreadful consequence is concerned, it matters not one whit whether the tools know they are tools and like it or whether they are mere dupes and victims of their own feebleness of understanding and thick darkness of mind.

LIBERTY LOAN PROSPECTS.

Pessimism is the obvious policy of those who will be responsible for the Liberty Loan until it is all taken. If they were to say they were sure it would be oversubscribed, they would lose one of their arguments with slow or reluctant takers. It is necessary to record that there are such, and in places which ought to resent the fact. The Filipinos took more than their pro rata of the first loan, and the Slovaks are now taking more than the proportionate share of those to the manner born. There are even Americans who are not subscribing for the sake of liberty and democracy as well as are the Germans for the support of the submarines. The promoters of the Liberty Loan are quoting to us the figures of French subscriptions to encourage us who are richer to do as well. The sneers of the Germans and the scorn of our allies may yet redden our cheeks unless we mend our ways.

But there are other things which might as well be said for encouragement. Treasury certificates receivable for payment of all Treasury dues, including subscriptions to the loan, have already been oversubscribed to the amount of 40 per cent. of the loan. Including the offering just announced, more than half of the loan will have been spent, and will be represented by these certificates, which can be paid over without the least disturbance of either the money or credit markets. Thus there is removed from the closing days of the subscription two dangers, one that the loan may not be subscribed, and the other that the taking of the loan may produce some disturbance of conditions. The security against that undesirable result is increased by the growing list of adhesions to the Federal Reserve system by local trust companies. Including the three just admitted, the system is strengthened by $1,600,000,000 of banking resources. The Federal system's footings in this district have just passed a billion dollars for a day's business for the first time. With about one-half of the trust company resources in the Federal system, it is only a question of time when the others must follow. There are strong institutions which still hold aloof, and whose policy might be argumentatively sustained in normal times. But times are not normal. Mutual support is necessary in proportion as there may be any necessity that the banks of this district should take any remnant of the Liberty Loan. Everybody knows both that this is undesirable but that it is sure if it is necessary. Nobody thinks that the Liberty Loan will not be taken. There is, however, some idea that the loan may not be taken in the manner most desirable, that is to say, by oversubscription in every Federal district by ten or twenty million takers. There would be 25,000,000 subscribers if foreign precedents were to rule. There is no hope of that. It is an open question whether the merits of the Liberty Loan are appreciated among the millions who must replace the taxed rich. Thus our sense and our patriotism are both on trial. Those who think that Americans are both sensible and patriotic are those who are surest that the loan will all be taken in due season.

REGISTER TONIGHT.

The registration for the first two days of 1917 was only a little more than half of the registration for the first two days of 1913. In the latter year, to be sure, the public mind was profoundly interested in the municipal election. That was the main, almost the sole interest. Now, we are told, the war engrosses men's thoughts. The voters of New York have not yet waked up to the imperious duty that must be done this week. Yet it is a doubly patriotic duty that they are neglecting.

In 1913 a Fusion Administration was but a hope. For nearly four years now it has been an achievement. It has achieved the destruction of organized vice, the recreation of the Police Department, the diminution of crime, the diminution of fire risks, furnished better protection of life against fire, clean streets, better tenement house conditions, civilized management of the parks, restriction to residence use, by the zoning resolution of 1916, of the streets about the little parks, development of port, dock, and terminal facilities, modernization of the water supply, a new subway system nearly completed, honest and strong finance; in short, the advance of public health, safety, convenience, the general welfare, energetic, honest, nonpartisan administration in every department of the municipal government.

There is a far greater reason to vote for Mr. MITCHEL and his colleagues on the Fusion ticket in 1917 than there was in 1913. They have given the city more than they promised, more than was hoped. Do you want that kind of City Government? Are you going to support it? Then register tonight. Don't put it off till a more convenient season. Do it tonight, between 5:30 and 10:30. No registration, no vote. Not your benevolent velleities and good opinion, but your vote will aid good government.

And is it absorption in the war that keeps you away from the registration boards? Not a bit of it. If you are absorbed, if you are even interested in the war, if you want the United States to win, if you want this city with all its enormous power and resources to be at the service of the nation, if you want the city to be free, in war, from every taint of Copperhead suspicion, register tonight so that you may vote to sustain a patriotic City Government and the United States, which can be greatly helped or injured here.

ECUADOR AND ARGENTINA.

Dr. PERL, appointed German Minister to Peru and Ecuador, made himself agreeable to the Government of the latter last Spring by sending his credentials by mail. The Latin-American sense of dignity, of correctness, and good taste was offended by this brusque German proceeding. The Government of Ecuador declined to recognize this presentation by Post Office. The double Envoy then sought to acquire recognition by the dispatch to Quito of a legation employé as Chargé d'Affaires. Of course the Ecuadorian Minister of Foreign Affairs could not recognize the underling of an unrecognizable Minister by mail. Now the great man himself, no longer busy in Lima, is willing to climb to Quito. No, says the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

In the present aspects of the relations or breaking off of relations between the Ibero-American republics and Germany Ecuador's action can hardly be interpreted as an objection to receive a Minister who has justly offended her dignity by his gaucherie. Rather does it seem that Germany is non grata, that Ecuador has taken her place in the alignment of Ibero-America against Germany, the twelfth anti-German Ibero-American State.

If Ecuador is rigid on a minor point of honor, Argentina appears to be surprisingly long-suffering, patient, full of charity, even to the extent of digesting intolerable affronts. Mr. PUEYRREDON, her Minister of Foreign Affairs, is unmoved by the example of Uruguay, or moved in a contrary direction, since territorial controversies exist between the two States. "Relations with Germany," a Buenos Aires dispatch quotes him as saying, "will be "broken if sufficient cause arises, but "as long as Germany recognizes the "Argentine flag and respects the na-"tion and the people there probably "will be no break." These sentiments are likely to breed somewhat impatient comment among the Argentinians, a people of spirit, with no love of swallowing insult. What, then, is "sufficient cause"? Possibly Germany has left unsunk, spurios or otherwise, no vessels in European waters under the Argentine flag. Possibly, the German genius being so different from that of the rest of the world, Germany shows her respect for a nation by sinking its ships, by breaking promises, by making no sign of disapproval when a German Minister tells the German Foreign Office that the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the country to which he is accredited is "a notorious ass," by counseling the murder of sailors and citizens of that country. Mr. PUEYRREDON and President IRIGOYEN are forgiving and tolerant men.

Meanwhile the offending VON LUXBURG is said to be lurking, concealed, in Argentine territory. Doubtless the forbearance of the Government is capable of intelligible explanation in Buenos Aires. Elsewhere it is hard to understand.

TAMMANY AND GERMANY.

The Tammany candidate for President of the Borough of the Bronx is Mr. HENRY BRUCKNER. Who is Mr. HENRY BRUCKNER, and why was he nominated for President of the Bronx? He has been the Representative of the Twenty-second New York District in the Sixty-third, Sixty-fourth, and Sixty-fifth Congresses. His one leap into fame, the one act but for which his service at Washington would now be as faint to the common memory as his service in the New York Legislature sixteen years ago, was done on March 4, 1916.

On that day the resolution which keeps in American minds recollection of the gifted and patriotic Lone Star statesman, the Hon. JEFF: MCLEMORE, came to a vote. That declaration of dishonor brings back vividly a national shame, the attempt to set the United States crawling at the feet of Germany, to give up the clear rights of Americans upon the sea.

Mr. HENRY BRUCKNER voted against the tabling of that resolution. He voted for that cowardly surrender, he, one of the Representatives in Congress of the City of New York. Why have the Tammany mandarins picked out HENRY BRUCKNER as their man for President of the Bronx? Why are they eager to give a vote in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to him who voted against the United States, abased himself, and sought to abase his country before imperial Germany? There is but one answer, the more positive because it fits in with the circumstances of the Hylan nomination. Tammany wanted Mr. BRUCKNER as bait for the pro-German, anti-American, and seditionary vote. Judge HYLAN, reading painfully and obediently the speeches fed to him by his masters, dares not disown that associate on the ticket.

Is the surrender to Germany approved by Mr. BRUCKNER at Washington to be approved by the City of New York? HYLAN, BRUCKNER, Hoch!

THE WAITING DUTCH SHIPS.

One Dutch company has accepted the conditions imposed by our Government concerning the use of its ships. This may indicate that an agreement as to all of the eighty-four Dutch ocean carriers lying idle at our Atlantic ports is near at hand. The Nederland company was told that coal would be withheld from its ships unless it should consent to make a voyage with a cargo exclusively in the interest of this country and Canada for every one in its ordinary trade service with Java. Dispatches from Holland say that it has yielded. Our Government's restraint of the Nieuw Amsterdam, a ten-thousand-ton carrier of the Holland-America Line, should convince owners of the waiting ships that they must unload their cargoes. Although all the foodstuffs on board are consigned to the Belgian Relief Commission, licenses for coal and cargo will be withheld unless the company and the Dutch Government promise to send her back promptly to New York. Our Exports Board must know where the foodstuffs go and insists that the ship shall remain under its jurisdiction. Probably in this case the conditions will be accepted.

There will be no exports of wheat or fodder to the northern European neutrals. And our Government intends to find work for the waiting ships. They are needed in our coastwise trade, from which many of our own vessels have been withdrawn, or will soon be taken, for transatlantic service. They are wanted also on the Pacific. There should be an amicable agreement about the use of them. The alternative will be seizure, which our Government desires to avoid.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Two Views of the Same Encounters. To hasty readers it may seem that an issue of veracity is raised by the differences between the official reports on military operations along the western front, coming from Berlin on the one side and from London and Paris on the other. Really, however, the variance is only that to be expected when armies successful and advancing and those unsuccessful and retreating describe the same happenings. Now, as always, the full story is given out by the victors, while the vanquished do what they can to make the best of a bad case.

As told by the French or the British, a certain attack on the German lines is presented as the attainment of the designed objective, and therefore a brilliant achievement, and calculations of the enemy's losses are added as an essential feature. Of the losses by the assailants little is apt to be said unless they were notably small. The Germans prefer, naturally enough, to speak of such an attack as "repulsed" or "stopped," and that is the truth from the standpoint of those who choose to consider an attack on themselves a success only when it breaks through the whole line of defense. They have a sort of right to tak that view, and it is quite certain that, with the situation reversed, their foes would do the same thing. Indeed, they often did it during their retreat from Mons.

Actual surrender apart, it is only the motion of the respective armies that reveals to those distant from the scene of operations how the tide of war is really going. The maps tell an indubitable story—a story that hardly needs the confirmation, though it profits from the emphasizing, given by such facts as the one with respect to the capture of cannon that received comment in this column last week. The German communiqués are intentionally deceptive, and yet the statements made in them usually have been fairly true of late. They illustrate the legal principle embodied in the form of oath which demands of a witness not only the truth, but the whole truth. The Germans have not yet suffered a conclusive defeat, but they have confessed grudgingly and between the lines of their reports to a long and constant series of defeats that are small only in the sense that they are not final.

They Want All and Too Much. In asking the Public Service Commission to measure gas by thermal rather than by illuminating units the gas companies make a request that might long ago have been granted to the advantage of consumers as well as of producers. Ever since "mantles" came into general use the introduction into gas of the substances that render it available as a direct source of light has been a detriment rather than a merit, from every point of view, and has increased cost with no better result than that of decreasing the power and shortening the "life" of the refractory earths out of which as essential elements the mantles are made.

The mantles give light because they are heated to incandescence, and it is a waste to heat them with a gas which is itself an illuminant as well as a raiser of temperature. Only a few users of gas, nowadays, demand anything from gas except heating capacity, and those few are under no necessity to do so. On the contrary, they all would serve their own interests, when they wanted light from gas, if they got it indirectly instead of directly.

But the gas companies burden their sensible and commendable plea for the adoption of the new standard of measurement with a demand that all of the profit incidental to the change go to themselves. Until they are willing to share that profit with the consumer they are likely to plead in vain, and they should.

A PEACE WITH VICTORY.

The Way to Bring Germany to "'Bout Face."

Advocates of compromise with Germany—those who hark back to President Wilson's phrase, "peace without victory"—forget that peace at this time would be peace with victory—German victory. It is the cheap and profitable wars of the past that have won over the German people to Prussianism. The war against Denmark gave to Prussia the provinces of Schleswig-Holstein and valuable littoral on the Baltic as a basis for naval development. Prussia waited two years and then fell on Austria, wresting from her, in a war which lasted but a few weeks, the hegemony of Germany. She then waited four years and attacked France, losing in that war an insignificant number of men, while securing an enormous money indemnity, unifying Germany, giving great filip to the national spirit and starting the country on a career of marvelous prosperity.

These are facts which we have got to face. Experience of one kind having set Germany's face in one direction, only experience of another kind is likely to cause her to "'bout face" and move in the opposite direction. Will Germany have had that experience if we make peace now while she is in possession of vast enemy territory? Will the military party be discredited unless she is driven out of all conquered territory, and unless, in her defeat, she is made to pay heavy indemnities, including loss of territory? The motive for such a policy would be, not revenge, but the spirit that informs the criminal law—prevention. For only then will the German people realize that Prussianism can bring disaster—awful disaster—as well as profit; only then will they see the folly of the present mad adventure. No such idea as that easy terms of peace will make for future good relations with the enemy should be allowed to interfere with our purpose. At the close of an ordinary war a policy of conciliation might—nay, would—have its advantages. But in the case of an enemy whose conscious policy of aggression is so plainly revealed in history and written in seas of human misery today, an enemy out for plunder and out for blood—our blood—as a means to plunder, such a policy would be childish.

Before Columbus.

As the celebration of Columbus Day approaches, it is well to remember that the first white man known to have actually placed his foot on the North American Continent was the Norseman, Leif Ericsson, who planted his flag on what we call today the shores of New England, about 1000 A. D. It is essential at this great hour in our national history that due recognition should be given to such an important fact.

Without wishing to detract from the achievements, through his many discoveries, of the Italian navigator, our continent was really discovered by the Norse people, and we are Anglo-Saxon and not Latin.

JUSTICE.

New York, Oct. 10, 1917.

Demand for New Coins.

The tobacco trade as one man indorses the plea for a six or a seven cent coin. The retail tobacco trade will become demoralized if the Government doesn't come to its rescue in the matter of coinage.

TO BELGIUM: THREE YEARS CAPTIVE.

("The Black Douglas opened the casket and . . . flung the heart of the Bruce forward into the paynim ranks, shouting: 'Lead, brave heart, as thou wert ever wont to do.' With a mighty cry, his soldiers rallied and surged forward to regain it."—Scottish Legend.)

Not dead, like that great heart of old,
But living, torn from flesh that bleeds,
Unransomed yet, thy captors hold
Thee, victim of their faithless creeds.
With all save hope and honor gone,
Beat on, brave heart, beat on, beat on!

Beat on! The tide of battle turns,
And, midst the Teuton cohorts hurled,
The heart of stolen Belgium burns
To guide the armies of the world.
Where France's oriflamme has gone,
Fight on, great heart, fight on, fight on!

From soldier throats goes up the cry,—
"Lead, like the brave dead heart of Bruce!
Fight on! A people shall not die,
While right is wronged we make no truce,
Till, in the Judgment of the Lord
That lost heart beats, restored, restored!"

VANDERLIP URGES GREATER ECONOMY

MUST HAVE BANKS' AID

Tells Luncheon Guests More Co-ordination Among the Allies May Shorten the Conflict.

Speaking to thirty men, prominent in banking and business circles, at a luncheon tendered to him at India House yesterday, Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, but for the time being detached for service in Washington, strongly urged the need for greater co-ordination among the Allies and the imperative necessity for greater economy in the United States. Mr. Vanderlip said that with the $300,000,000 of Treasury certificates just announced by Secretary McAdoo the Government must get $900,000,000 from the banks this month in anticipation of proceeds from the second Liberty Loan and similar huge advances next month.

F. A. Delano, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, preceded Mr. Vanderlip with a brief speech in which he said that blows which the United States can strike in the next few weeks will be much more effective than heavier assaults later on. "We should pound the enemy as hard and as quick as we can," he said.

Mr. Vanderlip said that his going to Washington was no heroic thing. He said that his mail lately had been filled with offers from bankers and business men holding important positions who were willing to give up their private interests to serve the Government in any way. "It is a red-blooded nation," said Mr. Vanderlip. "I believe that our entrance into the war will eventually prove to have been the deciding factor in bringing victory to the Allies."

"I want to say that in the Treasury Department we have today a machine of wonderful efficiency," said Mr. Vanderlip. "There is real administration of affairs in the Department, a splendid working organization which has not been wrecked by changing Administrations. The Treasury Department faces the most difficult problem the Government ever had to face. The size of the problems is appalling and the task of preparation for war gigantic. Until recently no one had totaled figures of our contemplated expenditures. Congress has appropriated more than $21,000,000,000 for war.

"The best estimate of what will be needed to pay bills and supplying needed loans to our Allies makes the amount $19,000,000,000 to the end of next June. The figures with which we are dealing today are staggering. When you recall that until we entered the war the largest loan ever floated here was one for $500,000,000 for Great Britain and France, you will get a better picture of what it means to raise $900,000,000 to be used before the end of this month.

"We must have marketed $14,000,000,000 in bonds by the end of next June, supposing that we raise $4,000,000,000 more through taxes. We can place these loans if every bank in the country does its share. I think that some of the contemplated expenditures can be reduced, where estimates are made too far ahead. So far, however, no perspective of our financial situation has been attempted. We need a co-ordinated war policy. There has been some co-ordination already among the Allies, but in general each nation is following its own lines as the United States is. It may be that the war will be shortened if all of our efforts are centred on the Italian front or on some other point."

"We are going to discover that our investing power is greater than we suspected, even today," continued Mr. Vanderlip. "But, at the same time, the lesson of economy must be gotten over. We talk economy, but we do not practice it. We must prepare for a great expansion of credits which can take place safely on our present gold base. Our problem is serious, and it must engage the best minds, but it can be solved. You may rest assured that it is in good hands."

ASKS PROTECTION FOR GIRLS

R. B. Fosdick Tells Mayor's Committee of Need of Women Officers.

Women protective officers to look after the welfare of the girls of the city and see that they are not led into danger by their interest in soldiers and uniforms was one of the subjects on which reports were given at the meeting of the Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defense in the Mayor's reception room yesterday afternoon.

The committee has two women doing this work—one in New York and another in Brooklyn. Two more are to be appointed, but the women feel that this is an important work that should be taken over by the city. Commissioner Woods has said that he would favor this if the demand were made by all the social organizations of the city. The work is under the subcommittee for the protection of girls of the Committee of Social Welfare of the Mayor's Committee, of which Mrs. Mary Simkhovitch is Chairman.

The women are to have a hearing, in which they will ask for an appropriation, before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the board's rooms on next Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A statement concerning the need of the women officers from Raymond B. Fosdick, Commissioner on Training Camp Activities, was read.

Mr. Fosdick said that when the women were called policemen and put in uniform with guns and clubs they became little men and were guyed, but when they did their work as women it was of great service.

"New York City is one of the largest cities which have no officially appointed women protective officers," said Mr. Fosdick. "It is not only the centre of a group of large camps, but it is a point through which thousands of troops will be passing en route to other points. For this reason it seems to me that the necessity for protective officers in New York is doubly important, and I hope every step will be taken by local officials to secure an adequate number. There should be at least a dozen."

Mrs. Sara C. Douglass, the Manhattan Protective Officer, said: "Many of the soldiers and sailors have expressed their appreciation of our work when they understood it, and said it was as much for their benefit as for the girls."

LINKS BOLO WITH TURKEY.

Connected with Loan Negotiations in 1913, Says Dutreil.

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 9., (Delayed.)—A deposition taken today from Aviation Captain Maurice Dutreil, member of the Chamber of Deputies, who asked to be heard concerning the Bolo Pacha case, dealt with Bolo's connection with the negotiation of a Turkish loan in 1913, according to an official note issued tonight.

Leon Daudet, who has charged former Minister of the Interior Malvy with having had connections with Germany, appealed to Senator Henry Berenger to testify for him. The Senator's testimony was heard by Captain Bouchardon of the Military Court this afternoon.

Denial that Bolo Pacha posed as the Armenian representative at a congress of delegates of oppressed people held in Paris a month before the war started, was made here yesterday by Arshag Mahdesian, editor of the New Armenian.

A similarity in names, he said, led to the report that Bolo was at the congress. His statement was drawn forth by the assertion made by Daniel Blumenthal, President of the World League for the Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine, that Bolo won his way into the confidence of the delegates, posing as the Armenian representative.

"The Armenian delegate was Boghos Pacha, or Boghos Nubar, as he is more generally known," Mr. Mahdesian said. "He is the son of a former Egyptian Premier and is well known throughout Europe. Any one posing in his place would have been instantly recognized."

PICKS MEN FOR JUDGES.

Citizens Union Reports on Qualifications for Municipal Court.

The Citizens Union made public yesterday its indorsements of candidates for vacancies in the Municipal Court in Manhattan and the Bronx to be filled at the coming election. Candidates are recommended for fourteen of the sixteen vacancies in the two boroughs. The action of the union is based upon the recommendations of its city-wide Committee on Local Candidates. The indorsements are as follows:

Manhattan.

SECOND DISTRICT.

GUSTAV HARTMAN, (Rep.)—Judge Hartman served creditably in the Legislature for two years prior to his entry upon judicial duties. He early developed a public spirit, and has been a useful citizen as well as a good Judge.

FOURTH DISTRICT.
(Two vacancies.)

MICHAEL F. BLAKE, (Dem.)—Judge Blake has been a life-long resident of his district, is referred to by members of the bar as a fair-minded Judge, and deserves re-election.

JOHN N. BOYLE, (Rep.)—Mr. Boyle has had a legal training, which should make him a valuable addition to this particular court.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

FREDERICK SPIEGELBERG, (Rep.)—Judge Spiegelberg has been referred to as the "Dean of the Municipal Court." His decisions show patient research and judicial learning. He is undoubtedly worthy of elevation to a higher court. His re-election should be assured.

WILLIAM YOUNG, (Rep.)—Judge Young did effective work in the Legislature before he became a Judge. He is entitled to re-election on his record in the office he now holds.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

JACOB MARKS, (Dem.)—Judge Marks was a conspicuous member of the State Senate in 1905 and 1906. He displayed independence and ability and was an outspoken opponent of vicious legislation. On the bench he has adhered to the same high principles.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

JOHN R. DAVIES, (Rep.)—Judge Davies attracted public attention as an Alderman some twelve years ago. As Chairman of the board's Finance Committee he was credited with instituting some of the earlier reforms in the handling of the city's finances. His court work has been widely commended.

PHILIP J. SINNOTT, (Rep.)—Judge Sinnott has served with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of litigants. He should be continued in office.

SIDNEY C. CRANE, (Rep.)—Mr. Crane's candidacy appeals to all who know him. He is a man of sound learning and fine instincts. His work in the Legislature and Board of Aldermen has been of the highest quality.

NINTH DISTRICT.

George L. Genung, (Rep.)
William C. Wilson, (Rep.)
Frank J. Coleman, Jr., (Rep.)

Judge Genung was appointed to this court after experience in the city's Law Department and as secretary to Supreme Court Judges. We find him well qualified for the office.

Judge Wilson, in his practice and in his former connection with the State Controller's office, gained a knowledge of financial matters which has helped to make his work in this court of value.

Mr. Coleman is an attorney of ability. He has had experience in the District Attorney's office and as legal secretary to Supreme Court Judges. He is apparently well qualified for the office.

Bronx.

FIRST DISTRICT.

PETER A. SHEIL, (Dem.)—Judge Sheil has served creditably and should be retained in office.

SECOND DISTRICT.

MICHAEL J. SCANLAN, (Dem.)—Judge Scanlan was appointed to this court last year by the Mayor, and the selection was approved by the voters at the ensuing election. He is a fine type of citizen and has filled this office well. His election for a full term is justified.

In submitting its recommendations the committee said:

"The litigation in this court and the decisions arising therefrom directly affect the industrial and commercial life of the city. The incumbency for the next ten years of nearly half the places on this bench will be determined at the coming election. In making our recommendations we have been guided by the principle that a good Judge becomes more valuable to the community with each year of service."

REFUSES TO GIVE UP COCCHI

Italy Bars Extradition of Murderer of Ruth Cruger.

ROME, Tuesday, Oct. 9.—After long consideration the Italian Government has decided not to grant the extradition of Alfredo Cocchi, who killed Ruth Cruger in New York. The Government expresses regret that it is unable to meet the wishes of the American authorities.

Emmanuel Fino, a lawyer, who has been acting as representative of the New York District Attorney, is endeavoring to arrange the sending of Cocchi to the United States under arrest to give testimony in regard to his reported associations with members of the New York Police Department.

Alfredo Cocchi murdered Ruth Cruger, 18 years old, a student at Wadleigh High School, when she went into his bicycle shop last February to have skates sharpened. He buried her body in his cellar, and for six months, until Mrs. Grace Humiston succeeded in having the cellar dug up, the police of New York were baffled as to what had happened to the girl.

Cocchi fled to his old home, Bologna, Italy, where he was arrested last Summer. He confessed the crime, asking only that he be not forced to return here to face the electric chair. The New York police were accused of inefficiency in permitting Cocchi to escape from the country. A Grand Jury investigation was ordered by Governor Whitman to determine if there was any more serious charge to be brought against any one in the department.

Detective Joseph W. Grigg went to Rome to work with the American Embassy in an effort to have the murderer sent back. As was pointed out by Judge Zucconi in Bologna last Summer, however, one of the fundamentals of the Italian penal code is a statute which forbids the extradition of Italian citizens charged with crime committed in other countries.

Cocchi may be tried in Italy and punished under Italian law. In Italy murder is punishable by imprisonment of tyenty years to life.

BOOK PAPER MAKERS YIELD.

Abolish Bureau and Ask Dismissal of Price-Fixing Charges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Twenty-three book paper manufacturers, answering today the Federal Trade Commission's complaint that through their Bureau of Statistics they had enhanced paper prices unduly, announced that the Bureau had been discontinued and asked for a dismissal of charges against them. The Commission will render a decision Oct. 29.

The defendants were cited to appear to show cause why they should not cease alleged unfair practices. They made no admission of charges of concerted action to raise prices and asked dismissal of the complaint solely on the ground that the instrumentality through which the unfair practices were alleged to have been carried out had gone out of existence.

WILSON CRITIC ARRESTED.

St. Louis Man Held for Disparaging Remark About President at Theatre.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 10.—A Federal warrant was issued today for the arrest of Henry B. Krenning, who until recently was President of an automobile manufacturing company, charging him with violation of the espionage act because of remarks he is said to have made last night at a theatre.

Krenning's arrest was caused by George W. See, who said that when President Wilson's picture was thrown on the screen Krenning made a disparaging remark about the Chief Executive.

ECONOMIC POLICY OF WILSON UPHELD

FOR A MERCHANT MARINE

Seek in International Trade Only Such Gains as the Nation is Entitled To After the Conflict.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association, at its eighth annual convention, held at the Biltmore Hotel, yesterday went on record as commending President Wilson's stand against economic leagues after the war, as well as against punitive damages and dismemberment of empires. The association also praised the establishment of a great American merchant marine; asked for a more liberal policy of the National Government toward export trade development; urged the establishment of an international court which would enforce its decrees by bringing about economic pressure on recalcitrant nations, and declared that the exporters of the United States wanted no advantage from America's victory in the war other than those merit entitled them to. It also pledged support to the Liberty Loan.

The sentiment of the convention, attended by 700 representatives of every line of export business, was expressed in the following resolution:

"The export manufacturers of the United States seek in international trade only such gains as this country is economically entitled to, and have neither desire nor design to profit by conditions created by the European conflict. The export manufacturers of the United States do not favor the principle of retaliation at the close of the war on account of the obstacles which may be found in the way of the expansion of our trade during the war."

The association favored an international conference to promote uniform laws and regulations governing international carriers.

H. C. Hoyle, former Minister of Railways for New South Wales and a Commissioner for his Government to the United States, asked that American business men see to it that the United States takes the place formerly occupied by Germany in the Australian trade. He said that Australians would want nothing to do with Germany commercially after the war, and that the United States, which Australia has always looked upon as "a kind of big brother," would be able to get and to hold that trade.

There was no doubt, he said, that America could build bigger ships and speedier ships than Germany. There was cheering when he declared he hoped to see the merchant ships entering Australian ports after the war flying the Stars and Stripes instead of the German flag.

William C. Downs, American Commercial Attaché at Rio de Janeiro, told how the war had resulted in drawing most of the nations of the Western Hemisphere closer together and promoted friendly commercial and political relations.

P. H. W. Ross, President of the National Marine League of the United States, speaking on "Development of the American Merchant Marine," told how before the war it was difficult to interest Congress and the national authorities in a merchant marine proposal.

"Then came the war," he said, "and all the bewailings of the National Marine League were justified, and from that day the country has turned from a condition of maritime lethargy to one of feverish activity."

He declared that it was up to the exporters of America to decide whether the great American merchant marine would transport their goods or the goods of exporters of other countries.

Officers elected were: President, George E. Smith, President of the Royal Typewriter Company; First Vice President, H. C. Lewis, Treasurer of the National Paper and Twine Company; Second Vice President, Frank L. Brown, President of Ransome Concrete Machinery Company; Third Vice President, H. L. Demarest of Green, Tweed & Co.; Treasurer, F. D. Waterman, President of L. E. Waterman & Co.; Secretary, E. V. Douglass. Directors: James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, and W. W. Nickols, both for three years, and E. C. Lufkin for two years.

The urgent need for the commandeering of all American shipping by the United States Government, as will be done on Oct. 15, was told last night by Andre Tardieu, French High Commissioner to this country, in a speech before the association at the Hotel Biltmore, in which he said that France now had 1,000,000 tons of munitions on American piers and no ships to transport the supplies to Europe. He asked the business men of America to do all in their power to aid in the transportation of supplies to France, not only for the support of the French and British, but of our own troops there. He paid a high compliment to the American producers and exporters for the way in which they had rallied to the war needs of the Allies.

JEWISH REFUGEES ARRIVE.

Party of Ninety-one Brings Tales of Want in Palestine.

After traveling for six months by sea and land and encountering many hardships, ninety-one Jewish refugees arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port from Palestine to join their relatives in this country. The party consisted of ten old men, forty women, and forty-one children. The majority of them had nothing but the clothing they were wearing. A few of the women had managed to save a small part of their possessions when they were driven from their homes in Jaffa and Jerusalem.

Jacob S. Davidson, who was accompanied by his wife and daughter, said that when they left Jaffa in April on the United States cruiser Des Moines there were about 40,000 Jews in Palestine. Letters they had received in Switzerland from friends stated that no food could be obtained now in Palestine, and if relief was not sent before Winter the people would starve to death. There was a prospect for food supplies to get into Jerusalem through the British capture of the city, because they would open the ports of Jaffa and Haifa.

About 300 refugees were expected to arrive later, Mr. Davidson said. He is going to his brother, who lives at 130 Cannon Street, New York.

The women and children who have incorrect addresses will be cared for at the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society's home, 225 East Broadway, until their relatives are found. Other New York families in the party were Mrs. Yudis Davis and two children, going to join her husband, K. C. Davis, at 115 East 112th Street; Motcha Cohen, 183 Varet Street, Brooklyn, and Mrs. H. Winograd and her child, who came to her husband, of 317 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn.

BARON FAIRFAX IN LORDS.

Elected by Scottish Peers to Sit in Upper Chamber.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 10.—Baron Fairfax of Cameron, who formerly lived in New York, the Earl of Lindsay, and Lord Forbes were today elected by the Scottish Peers to sit and vote in the House of Lords.

Lord Fairfax was formerly Albert Kirby Fairfax, member of the firm of William P. Bonbright & Co. of London and New York. His mother was the daughter of Colonel Edmund Kirby of the United States. He was born in Virginia in 1871.

In November, 1908, he relinquished his American citizenship, and before the Committee on Privileges of the House of Lords established his claim to "assume the title, honor, and dignity of the Twelfth Baron of Cameron." The title per se, however, did not give him a seat in the House of Lords.

A Scottish peer may have a seat in the House of Lords by hereditary right, by creation of the Sovereign, or by virtue of office, but others are elected by their peers to their seats. The same is true of some Irish peers. By the Act of Union between England and Scotland the Scottish peers send sixteen representatives to the House of Lords, who sit until Parliament is dissolved.

PIERRE DU PONT UPHELD IN DISPUTE

RESULT ANNOUNCED TODAY

Over 300,000 of Eligible Total Stock Known to be for "Defendant" Group.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 10.—A vote representing approximately two-thirds of all the stock not disqualified from voting was cast at the special stockholders meeting E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., held here today, against a proposal to acquire for the company the stock formerly owned by General T. Coleman du Pont. The ownership of the stock, which has been the subject of litigation for two years or more, is now vested in Pierre S. du Pont, President of the company, and a syndicate composed of men associated with him in its management, who acquired it from General du Pont by purchase.

When the polls closed at 6 o'clock this evening 300,108 shares out of a total of 473,132 eligible to vote had been voted to sustain Pierre S. du Pont and those associated with him in their ownership of the former T. Coleman du Pont holdings, including 14,539 shares of preferred stock of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company and 126,628 shares of common stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. The minority vote is not known as the ballots will not be counted until tomorrow.

The meeting was held under an order issued by Judge J. Whitaker Thompson in the United States District Court, and was the culmination of sensational and bitter litigation which ended with a decision against Pierre S. du Pont and his associates. There is no likelihood, however, that the vote today will end the fight, for the minority has already filed a protest with ex-Judge Daniel O. Hastings, special master. The protest reads in part:

"In preservation of our rights under the exception allowed by the Court, and in order to prevent any future misunderstanding, we notify the special master that we maintain and will insist upon our objections to the submission to the stockholders of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. of the question submitted to them at this meeting, and that all participation in this meeting by our clients, either by voting or otherwise, is subject to the foregoing objections and without prejudice to our rights to maintain them. Very truly yours,

"W. A. GLASGOW, Jr.,
"FRANK P. PRICHARD,
"HENRY P. BROWN,
"ROBERT PENNINGTON,
"Counsel."

Met in Directors' Room.

Iron-clad rules had been established by the Court for the meeting today. The form of the resolution on which the stockholders were to vote, the form of proxies and of the ballot itself, all had been decreed by Special Master Hastings under court supervision. The meeting was held in the Directors' room in the du Pont Building. Most of the voting was by proxy. The majority stock was voted by H. M. Barksdale, Chairman of the Committee on Proxies of the Pierre du Pont group. Robert Pennington performed the same function for the minority. Fewer than half a hundred men were in attendance.

Members of the du Pont family, who in financial and family feuds had been arrayed on opposite sides for years, found themselves under the same roof for the first time in years and exchanged polite smiles, but did not speak except in the conventional phrases of greeting.

One conspicuous absentee was Alfred I. du Pont, biggest stockholder in the "plaintiff" group, and regarded as the man who furnished the inspiration for the bitter fight.

"Do the stockholders now desire to acquire for the company the 63,314 shares of the common stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company formerly held by T. Coleman du Pont, with the right to require the defendants to turn over to the company the 126,628 shares of the common stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.; and, further, to require the defendants to account for the cash which they have received in excess of the amount paid by them, with interest, as the purchase price for the said 63,314 shares of the common stock and 14,539 shares of the preferred stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, and further to require the defendants to account for the Anglo-French bonds received by them as dividends and which have not been converted into cash?

"For the information of the stockholders it is proper to state that from the statements filed in this cause by the defendants it appears that if the stockholders desire to exercise the right to acquire said stocks and to require the defendants to account for the excess in cash and the Anglo-French bonds not converted into cash received by them as aforesaid, it will not be necessary for the company to pay anything to the defendants, for they have been repaid in cash more than the amount paid by them, with interest for said stocks purchased from T. Coleman du Pont."

Before the balloting began H. M. Barksdale, Chairman of the Committee on Proxies for the Majority, announced that he had proxies for 2,000 or more stockholders and more than 300,000 shares, and asked whether they should be cast en bloc or individually.

"It seems to me after consultation with counsel for both sides," said Mr. Hastings, "that it will be wise to receive all the ballots and postpone the examination of the ballots until these are counted after the polls close."

Voting of Excluded Shares.

Mr. Barksdale also announced that he held proxies for the du Pont Securities Company. This was organized by Pierre S. du Pont and his associates as a holding company for the T. Coleman du Pont stock. The court had already ruled that all the T. Coleman du Pont stock should be excluded from voting at the special meeting. The holdings of the Securities Company aggregated 56,782 shares.

"We propose to vote that stock," said Mr. Barksdale, "realizing, of course, that the court has held it cannot be counted."

W. A. Glasgow, Jr., chief counsel for the minority group, submitted the foregoing protest and some other protests signed by several of the plaintiffs in the court proceedings. One of these was against the voting of any shares held by members of the defendant group. Another was against the voting of any stock given as bonus to employes of the company. A third was against the voting of stock held in trust by any of the defendants in the court proceedings. A fourth and broader protest read as follows:

"We, the undersigned, holders of stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., do protest against the receipt and counting at this meeting of votes cast upon shares of stock owned by or held for present employes of the company or of any person related to or under the influence or control of the defendants, Pierre S. du Pont, Irene E. du Pont, Lamont du Pont, A. Felix du Pont, John J. Raskob, Robert Rulith, Morgan Carpenter, Harry G. Haskell, Harry F. Brown, William Coyne, John P. Laffey, and the du Pont Securities Company, or any of them, and we request that opportunity be later given to us to show to the master or the court the position and relation of such voters."

All the protests were signed by Alfred I. du Pont, Ernest du Pont, and Francis I. du Pont. Philip F. du Pont, original plaintiff in the court proceedings, was absent, nor did his signature appear on the formal protests which are to pave the way for future litigation.

When the voting began the Special Master received the ballots with proxies attached as they were produced from bags and dress suit cases and carried forward in big stacks by the lawyers. Three women stockholders attended the meeting. They were Mrs. Charles Copeland, who is a sister of Pierre S. du Pont; Mrs. Rogers Wilson, and Miss Emily P. Bissell. Mrs. Copeland held individually or as Trustee 3,020 shares. These were voted for the dominant "defendant" group.

Brothers' Votes Split.

Another stockholder who appeared in person to vote was William P. Gest, President of the Fidelity Trust Company of Philadelphia. He is Trustee for 19,000 shares belonging to the Alexis I. du Pont estate and held for Eugene and Philip F. du Pont. Philip F. du Pont started the court proceedings and Eugene, his brother, is on the other side of the fight. Mr. Gest voted 3,000 shares for the minority for Philip du Pont, 3,000 for the majority on behalf of Eugene, and the remaining 13,000 in a block for the majority.

After the meeting an analysis of the vote cast for the "defendant" group was made public. It read in part:

"The vote cast for the present management shows that out of the holdings of the disinterested stockholders amounting to 213,378 shares, 201,070 were cast against the plaintiffs in the case. The management of the company was supported by every officer and Director of the company, and by sixty of the sixty-five members of the du Pont family, excluding the plaintiffs. The latter are owners of 91,636 shares against 96,171 owned by the defendants, leaving 285,925 in the hands of non-interested stockholders. Of these 316,990, or 76 per cent., were voted for the defendants. These stockholders numbered 2,084, or 88 per cent., of the total of 2,293."

Special Master Hastings announced that while the ballots are being examined and counted tomorrow, he would listen to protests from both sides against votes cast today. He is not authorized to rule finally on any of these protests, but must report to the court, which will rule finally on the validity of these.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE OPENS.

Hopkins's New House in 45th Street Begins with 'A Successful Calamity.'

The Plymouth Theatre, Arthur Hopkins's contribution to New York's rapidly growing list of playhouses, opened its doors last night with Clare Kummer's comedy, "A Successful Calamity," as its attraction. The new house is immediately west of the Booth, in Forty-fifth Street, being of the group which includes the Booth, the Broadhurst, and the Shubert. Its completion makes this section one of the city's most important theatrical centres, with eight playhouses within a radius of a few hundred feet.

The new theatre was built by the Shuberts, and has been leased for a number of years by Mr. Hopkins. It follows the prevailing mode in theatre building in that it is simple in design, and is finished in brown, blue, and gold. The seating capacity is about 1,000, there being only one balcony.

Miss Kummer's polite comedy is acted for the most part by the same cast which appeared in it during its great success at the Booth in the Spring. William Gillette, of course, continues in the leading rôle, and among those who remain are Estelle Winwood, Ruth Findlay, Richard Sterling, William Devereux, Manart Kippen, and Charles Lane. Roland Young and Richard Barbee, who have been promoted to Miss Kummer's newer comedy, "The Rescuing Angel," are replaced quite satisfactorily by Robert Rendell and Norman Keedwell.

Benefit for Italian Red Cross.

Maresi, Miss Lina Yorr, Mrs. Paola Berizzi, Mrs. May Molossi, Miss Margherita Bucci, Miss Marie Frugone, Miss Adele Bucci, Mrs. S. Shaw, Mrs. Frank Brunella, Mrs. F. A. Zunino, Mrs. L. Weygandt, Signor Christofaro Gambolati, Signor Vincenzo de Santo, and Signor Vittario Diana.

Musicians sang and played, and Signor de Santo told of Italy's part in the war. There were also athletic exhibitions by members of the Piemonte Athletic Club and the Sportiva Club.

WAR WORK SEEN AT ELECTRIC SHOW

Displays by Departments to Illustrate the Important Factors in Modern Fighting.

EXHIBIT BY RED CROSS

Food Administration Demonstrates How Eatables May Be Economically Prepared.

Electricity's part in the war is illustrated in many ways at the 1917 Electrical Exposition, which opened at the Grand Central Palace last night. In addition to the industrial exhibits, with the war note in many of them, there are special displays by the War Department, Navy Department, Red Cross Society, United States Food Administration, and New York City Food Aid Committee. In each of these electricity is shown as an important factor in war work. Each of the exhibits by the Government and patriotic organizations aims to present some important side of its work, which it is deemed needful that the public better understand and appreciate. In this respect the Electrical Exposition surpasses all its predecessors in interest an[...]

The Navy Exhibit's special aim is to put before the people a concrete idea of the tools which the navy is using in this war. Every fighting type in the U. S. service is illustrated by a model in the display, U-boats, destroyers, cruisers, scouts, pre-dreadnoughts, and super-dreadnoughts. Interior mechanisms are shown to illustrate how the ammunition is fed to the guns. There are two models of the latest submarines, which cost $6,000 apiece. Real mines, real torpedoes, without the explosives, are there to show with what weapons the men of the navy fight the war at sea. Bluejackets, back from the war zone, explain how the weapons are used, how the automatics squirt lead as out of a hose, how the destroyers shoot shells at the submarines, how fast the torpedoes travel through the water, and how long the submarine can stay under the water. The ship models illustrate the evolution of the navy from the small frigate of 1812 to the ponderous battleship of today.

In the army exhibit are presented late appliances for carrying on the war in Europe. One is a new trench telephone set for use by our troops in Europe. There is a portable radio equipment made to be carried on the backs of mules in mountain regions. The Signal Corps of the army has on exhibition a wireless apparatus designed to be drawn by a four-horse team, with a capacity for sending messages 100 miles. A unique feature of this equipment is that the electrical energy is generated by two men turning a wheel.

The entire third floor of the Grand Central Palace is given over to the Red Cross exhibit, the largest single display of the show, which is under the auspices of the New York County Chapter. The aim is to give the public a comprehensive presentation of Red Cross work. One department is a surgical dressing room, where all the new surgical dressings are demonstrated. For the first time a public demonstration is given of a new electrically operated device which cuts bandages by a revolving circular knife which may be shoved over a table like an iron, cutting true to the line of the pattern marked. There is also a booth where knitting is taught. In another department garments for refugees are being made. A workroom is given over to teaching new applicants how to make surgical dressings. Field activities of the nurses are shown, how patients are transferred from the operating tent to the base hospital. Another model shows the work of handling the wounded from the trenches.

The United States Food Administration and the New York City Food Aid Committee have each a demonstration kitchen to show how food may be economically prepared and also how substitutes may be used for staples, especially war bread with a reduced amount of flour. By substituting potatoes or oatmeal it is shown that the amount of flour can be reduced from one-third to one-half and the palatable quality of the food preserved. One of the recipes given out is known as "Edison war bread." There is also war cake. During the show the Food Administration will ask women to sign pledges not to waste food and to use less costly substitutes liberally. The United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Chemistry, has a large home economics exhibit to aid in this work. A canning kitchen shows the most scientific method of canning fruits, vegetables, and meats.

Other Government exhibits are the Department of Commerce, Lighthouse Service, Weather Bureau, Bureau of Public Roads, Forest Service, and the Census Bureau.

The Jovian League, composed of executive and department heads in the electrical companies in New York, yesterday made plans to sell $1,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds. Each member undertook to dispose of $10,000 worth.

"Anthony in Wonderland" Oct. 23.

Henry Miller in "Anthony in Wonderland," a comedy by Monckton Hoffe, will open at the Criterion Theatre on Tuesday night, Oct. 23. It was originally planned that this play should be used to open the new Henry Miller Theatre, now in course of construction in Forty-third Street, but that theatre will not be ready until the new year. The Robert Hilliard play, "The Scrap of Paper," will end its engagement at the Criterion a week from Saturday night.

VIENNESE OPERETTA HAS PREMIERE HERE

"The House of Three Girlies," with Schubert Classics, Sung at Irving Place Theatre.

"Das Dreimaederlhaus," which its local producers call "The House of the Three Girlies," a modern Viennese "singspiel," with immortal classics of Schubert sung by two tenors and others of the cast, was given for the first time in this country at the Irving Place Theatre last evening. It was a musical première of an unusual sort, and not only attracted one of the largest audiences of German-speaking theatregoers in some years, but is already scheduled for several weeks' stay in place of the usual repertory.

The three-act musical play, by Willner and Reichert, from the novel of Rudolf Hans Bartsch, was a novelty in the Austrian Capital just before the war, when it ran for 700 nights, and had even been accepted for production in English here. The familiar lyrics arranged for the stage by Heinrich Berte, the dances added by Heinz Lingen, and a general gayety in the performance itself, resulted in curtain calls for the singers, for Otto Schreiner, who conducted, and for Director Rudolf Christians.

Franz Schubert plays a Miles Standish rôle in the triple love story, with the Baron Schober as a John Alden of old Vienna in the sweet-and-twenties of the last century. These two tenor parts were taken by Angelo Lippich and Ludwig Eybisch, and the second act especially pleased a musical assembly with its echoes of the "Erl-King," the Schubert "Serenade," the "Ungeduld" that he called his "bride song," and the "Unfinished Symphony," in which the orchestra suggested that music, after all, was the composer's bride.

As the three daughters of the house of Tschoell, there were Viola Graham, Lottie Engel, and Flora Arndt, completing many a neat trio, and, with the stage lovers, an occasional sextet. Giuditta Grisi was acted with spirit by Aranka Eben. John Feistel was the famous painter, von Schwind. Otto Meyer, Ernst Robert and others handled their Vienna dialect with ease. Bertha Walden was a comic housekeeper, and Christian Rub got more laughs in three minutes than some stars in as many hours on Broadway.

It was a gala night for the theatre, its versatile company, and its patrons, who received with delight and instant recognition all the songs of the greatest of melodists, and the only one who died younger than Mozart. Herr Lippich had a line that was appreciated when he said of one of the most applauded tunes, "That's not mine, but Mozart's." His makeup after the portraits of the composer was excellent and he contrived to hold the sympathy of the house for the unloved hero, against all the three heroines and their loverlike train.

KEEP $2.50 TICKET PRICE.

Klaw & Erlanger's Orchestra Scale Is to be Inclusive of War Tax.

The action of the Globe and Century Theatres in raising the price of orchestra seats to $3 yesterday brought forth a statement from Klaw & Erlanger, who announced that they not only did not contemplate a similar action but that the price of $2.50, now being charged by them for orchestra seats for "The Riviera Girl," would be inclusive of the 10 per cent. war tax after Nov. 1. Tickets sold at $2 or under, they declared, would carry with them the obligation of paying the tax. The announced $3 rate at the Globe and Century will be exclusive of the tax.

Marc Klaw, in discussing the tax situation later, said that the probable method of collection to be adopted would be patterned after the system found to be successful in Canada. This consists in the selling of stamps, but the stamps are dropped into a receptacle as the patron enters the theatre and are not affixed to the theatre tickets. They would be purchasable from the Government in rolls, made up similarly to the present rolls of motion picture tickets.

Ligon Johnson, counsel for the United Managers' Protective Association, is now in Washington to confer with officials of the Treasury Department on the tax. The use of sworn statements, originally suggested, has been practically abandoned because of the great expense of this system, and the sale of stamps to be affixed to the tickets is now frowned upon because of the confusion which would result in the event of refunds or exchanges.

$15,000 FOR INTRODUCTION.

Broker Sues Promoter for Presenting Him to Senator Reynolds.

A valuation of $15,000 is put upon an introduction to ex-Senator William H. Reynolds in a suit brought by James T. Blake, a broker, of 15 Broad Street, against James S. Rear, an Arizona mine promoter, who lives at the Hotel Plaza. Blake has sued Rear to recover the sum stated for introducing Rear to C. Palmer Woodbury, St. John Smith, and Senator Reynolds, as the result of which Woodbury bought for himself, Smith, and Reynolds the control of the Lavell Gold Mining Company. Blake contends that his introduction brought about the deal.

Blake has also sued Rear for $10,000 damages for slander, alleging that Rear accused him of making public the information concerning the dinner to Senator Reynolds attended by Mayor Mitchel, and called him a "conspirator," "traitor," and "news monger." Blake contends that he had nothing to do with the publicity concerning the Reynolds dinner. Rear sold the copper claim bought by Reynolds and his associates and which Reynolds and his party went to Arizona to inspect just before the dinner in question.

Rear denies that he has made accusations against Blake, and insists that nothing is due him.

HEARD MURDER PREDICTION.

Woman Says Deutsch Expected Philadelphia Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—A recital on the witness stand by Mrs. Clara Freeman of a conversation she said she overheard between Isaac Deutsch and Police Lieutenant David Bennett in an Atlantic City apartment house last August, in which the witness said Deutsch told Lieutenant Bennett, "There will be murder yet in the Fifth Ward," was the feature in the hearing today of Mayor Smith and eight others on charges of conspiracy to murder in connection with the killing of a policeman on Primary Election Day.

Bennett, according to Mrs. Freeman, said, "We will arrest the whole bunch of them on Primary Day," meaning, the prosecution contended, the political followers of James A. Carey, who defeated Deutsch for Councilmanic nomination in the ward.

At the conclusion of today's hearing the prosecution announced that it would call no more witnesses and that counsel tomorrow would sum up the testimony. Judge Brown will be asked to hold all of the defendants, including the Mayor, in substantial bail for trial.

FREE 8-LESSON SPANISH COURSE
ALSO FREE EIGHT-LESSON FRENCH COURSE

On next Monday, October 15th, there will commence in beautiful Gordon-Detwiler Auditorium, Tribune Building, 154 Nassau Street, just opposite City Hall Park, a wonderful free eight-lesson Spanish Course, and also a similar free eight-lesson French Course. Both of these classes will be identical in every way to the recent normously successful French Classes to which free tickets were distributed by The New York Evening Globe. Both classes will be taught by the new direct conversational method of the Gordon-Detwiler Institute which eliminates most all syntax and dry rules of grammar. During either of these courses you should master the fundamental rules of the language you study; also you should acquire a vocabulary of three hundred words and at least three hundred idioms in everyday use.

The entire eight-lesson course costs you nothing. Your only expense will be for a Gordon-Detwiler 200 page Instructor, which sells regularly for $1.50, but which will be sold to you at the reduced price of $1.00.

Both classes will meet for lessons three times weekly, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday The various lessons are repeated numerous times on each class day. For SPANISH you may attend at 11.15 A. M., or 4.15, or 5.15, or 7.15, or 8.15 P. M., and for FRENCH you may attend class at 12.15, or 3.15, or 6.15 P. M., as best suits your convenience

The tickets will not last long. Call at Gordon-Detwiler Institute at once and get yours, or write for one enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Gordon-Detwiler Institute, Tribune Building, New York, and the next day will bring your ticket to you.

The Safest Investment In the World

A Liberty Bond is a Government Bond, guaranteed by the United States of America. That means that all the limitless resources and incalculable wealth of the greatest and richest country in the world are pledged as security for the bond.

A Liberty Bond can be a poor investment if the Germans win the war and come over here and make a second Belgium of our country. But in that case you would lose all your possessions, including your liberty and possibly your life. You would no longer be interested in bonds or in anything else.

Buying Liberty Bonds is Loaning to Our Government

A Liberty Bond is a loan to the Government, and not a gift. It pays 4% interest. It teaches you to save and helps you to save. It is as good as money. You can sell it any time you wish.

A Liberty Bond is sold to you to get money to pay the cost of the war. If the bonds are not bought, the Government will tax us, and tax us heavily, to get the money. And the money you pay in taxes is gone forever.

A Liberty Bond supplies the money to feed, clothe, and arm our soldiers, save precious lives, shorten the war, win the war and lift the curse of German oppression and brutality from helpless, stricken, suffering people across the sea.

How many will you buy? Consult any bank or bond house. You can buy on easy partial payments.

Stocks Have a Bad Break on a Fresh Wave of Selling—Peace Rumors.

The unexpected announcement that the People's Gas Light Company of Chicago, until recent months regarded as one of the conservative dividend payers in the industrial list, had decided against making the usual quarterly disbursement, undoubtedly played a part yesterday in stimulating a decline that made more headway than the bear movement has been showing lately, but other factors of a wider significance have been operating for lower levels. The gas industry is subject to its own difficulties, in no way bearing upon the business of many other industrial lines, and while the loss in People's Gas was exceptionally large, there were declines in other issues of greater importance.

The Directors of People's Gas explained the passing of the dividend on the ground that it was necessary to conserve the cash resources rather than go to the banks for loans under prevailing conditions, but traders saw in the omission a confession of the inability of many of the public utilities to hold up net income while rates remain stationary and costs are advancing. People's Gas sold down to 44, though it rallied to 45½, and its net decline of 6⅝ points brought the week's loss in this issue up to 20 points. Consolidated Gas sold at 93, ending the day 2 points higher with a loss of 3⅞; Ohio Cities Gas dropped to 31⅞, closing off 3¼, while Laclede Gas declined 2⅛.

Nearly all of the industrials were found lacking in support when attempts were made to liquidate lines of stock, the margins of which have been depleted by the long period of weakness. Steel was very active, contributing nearly one-third to the day's turnover of more than one million shares, and ranged from 106 down to 101¼, closing near the bottom with a net decline of 2⅛. Bethlehem lost 6 and the B shares 6⅞. Continental Can dropped 7 points on a single sale. United States Industrial Alcohol lost 4 points, United States Smelting and Refining 3, Underwood Typewriter 4, Pittsburg Coal 4¼, Crucible 2⅜, Brooklyn Union Gas 4⅜, American Locomotive 2½, American Smelting 3¼, and Beet Sugar 4½.

For a time the railroads were overlooked, and with the exception of Lehigh Valley held their previous levels, but before the close of the day the wave of liquidation engulfed them and caused some heavy recessions. Lehigh lost 1¼, Louisville & Nashville 2⅛, Nashville & Chattanooga 3½, New York Central 1⅝, Reading 3⅛, Northern Pacific 1¼, and Norfolk & Western 1½. All through the list there were indications of weakened accounts being thrown overboard.

The decline in the stock market at the height of the campaign to sell the new Liberty Loan is as unexpected as it is unwelcome, but the new revenue measure seems to have destroyed for the time being what investment buying the decline has brought out. In many quarters in the financial district it is believed that peace is coming into sight, and traders are trying to guess the effect of the war's end upon the steel industry, now turning out its products at a rate far above the maximum demand shown before the war sets new standards of consumption.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Good Business in War Loans, Consols, and Brazilian Bonds.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—All sections of the stock market had a cheerful tone today. Despite a good demand for the new war bonds there was quite a good business in war loans, consols, Brazilian bonds and other first class securities at firm prices. Mining shares were more active and rubber and industrial stocks received attention.

Money was in moderate supply and discount rates were steady. Exchequer returns show a reduction in the sales of Treasury bills last week and also in the total amount outstanding.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 61 francs 35 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 45 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Getting to Work.

Without any flourishes of trumpets the Chartering Committee of the U. S. Shipping Board has been engaged for some days in gathering up the reins and, unless all indications fail, next Monday, the day when the Government requisition of all American steam tonnage above 1,500 tons dead weight capacity goes into effect, will find it ready to go ahead without lost time or motion. Shipping men are still to be found wearing that worried, distrustful look, but they are losing it gradually, and the idea is beginning to percolate that Monday may not be a day of dread after all, and that the Government does not really intend to put them all out of business.

The Chartering Policy.

The Chartering Committee, it is becoming evident in the preliminary steps they are taking, has the free hand and full confidence and backing from Washington which was recognized, when the creation of the committee was announced, as indispensable to its success. It is already passing upon and approving charters submitted to them, and as it is working in complete harmony with the Inter-Allied Conference in London, its approval is now all an American shipping man needs. the committee has undertaken this work gradually but has already gotten its work so well in hand that it is able to promise any ship operator who lays a case before it that it will be promptly disposed of. Consequently the shipping industry seems in a fair way to find out what for months it has wanted to know—where it stands.

No Disruption of Business.

The one thing the Chartering Committee and the Shipping Board apparently want most, just now, to impress upon the shipping industry, is that they are going to interfere with business just as little as possible and that whatever regulative measures prove necessary are going to be introduced gradually, with due warning to everybody and the minimum possible amount of confusion or delay. For the present, charters are being approved on a most liberal basis, with only one or two simple, but essential, conditions. These condnitions will very likely increase in number and grow more stringent, but every new condition will be aimed straight at one thing—more efficient disposition of American merchant tonnage for war service—and will be introduced, if possible, so gradually as to tread on no one's toes.

General Motors Big Earnings.

The General Motors Corporation's statement for September was of the sort to lessen the force of bearish sentiment toward motor stocks. The official figures showed net sales amounting to $16,850,000, an increase of $5,292,939 over the same month last year, while undivided profits of $3,225,000 were $1,024,890 larger. The corporation reported that on Oct. 8 cash in bank and sight drafts with documents attached amounted to $22,043,500. Output during the month totaled 16,923 pleasure automobiles and trucks, a gain of 3,043 over September, 1916. General Motors common stock reflected the statement by a half-point advance in yesterday's generally weak market.

Missouri Pacific Earnings.

The Reorganization Committee of the Missouri Pacific have had no reason to regret their labors in lifting the road out of its troubles. The August gross earnings of $6,894,000 surpassed by more than $1,750,000 the mark which the management set last June as the desirable total for a good month's business. The new company began operations on June 1, and in the three months ended Aug. 31, a surplus above charges of $3,250,000 was earned, which was equivalent to an annual rate of about 10 per cent. on the junior stock issue after preferred dividends were paid. Earnings so substantial as these indicate both heavy traffic and a satisfactory relation between gross revenues and operating costs. The future of Missouri Pacific under the stress, increasing costs of materials, fuel, &c., will be watched carefully in quarters where pessimism over the general railway situation holds sway.

Jersey Central Stock Drops Sharply.

Central Railroad of New Jersey stock took a precipitate step downward yesterday in process of readjusting its front in accordance with the downward progress of other standard rails. The sale of 100 shares brought a decline of 53½ points from the last previous transaction, which was made last February. In computing the extent of the recession it was necessary to allow for three dividends of 2 per cent. each, which were paid between the sales. Yesterday's price of 240 displayed a drop of exactly 100 points from the bid price on Aug. 1. Jersey Central shares for years have been inactive, due to the fact, principally, that about $14,500,000 of the outstanding $27,436,000 stock is locked up in the Reading Company's treasury and the bulk of the balance above the Reading's holdings is held by estates and wealthy investors.

Liberty Bond Interim Certificates.

New York being the principal security market of the country, persons in all parts of the United States who, for one reason or another, have had occasion to sell their 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan bonds have forwarded their interim certificates to New York banks or brokerage houses. In order to make these certificates available in exchange for definitive bonds in New York, certificates issued in districts outside of this one must be exchanged for certificates issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. It was learned yesterday that the local Reserve Bank has to date handled 67,157 certificates, totaling $90,824,850, which had been presented for the purposes of exchange. In all, the transactions have numbered 3,500.

What Cotton Prices Mean.

A concrete example of what the present prices cotton commands mean is afforded by the August report of the Department of Commerce on exports, compared with the figures for 1916. The exports by bales for 1917 were 459,667, and in 1916 were 425,346—an increase of only 34,321 bales. But the value of the 1916 exports was $30,394,521—that of the 1917 exports was $63,524,102, more than double. And cotton prices in 1916 were not considered, at the time, to be low, by any means—in fact, it was the high price commanded by the 1916 cotton crop that is supposed to have put the South on Easy Street.

Lackawanna Steel Profits Double.

The report of earnings of the Lackawanna Steel Company for the third quarter of 1917 and for the nine months of hte year ended Sept. 30 show that its net profits have been virtually doubled over those of 1916, partly due to increased earnings, and partly due to reductions in fixed charges. The company showed for the quarter net profits of $6,096,317, against $3,060,701 for the same period in 1916, and for the nine-month period, $18,294,532, against $8,379,043. The figures for the nine-month period are equivalent to earnings of $52.12 a share on the common stock, more than twice the earnings for 1916.

—protect your home with a Liberty Bond

The boys in khaki are going "over there" to fight so that you may stay here in peace.

They march away smiling, leaving tears behind them. You stay at home tearfully with smiles to greet you.

They're giving all they have so that you may keep what you have.

They're stamping out tyranny and oppression so that liberty and justice may endure.

Some will never return. You are needed as much as they to win this war. You have a part to play at home, as they have a duty to do abroad.

Then buy a Liberty Bond. It's a protection for your home that no power can penetrate.

Buy a bond because it's your patriotic duty. Buy a bond because you want the war won in the right way—and the quickest. Buy a bond because it's the safest, soundest investment in the world.

The United States Government is not taking your money to keep. Every cent you invest will be returned with 4% interest yearly.

You CAN afford it!

Don't say you cannot. As little as $1 a week pays for a bond. Any bank, trust company or investment banker will buy it for you without charge. See about it today. Liberty Bonds are tax exempt except for the inheritance tax and the income tax where incomes are over $5,000 annually.

"the more gold the less blood"

—is a current saying among the French

Three years of war have taught them its truth. Only the most efficient and costly equipment has enabled France to conserve that flesh and blood barrier standing between her and the most cruel enemy in history. Only the best and most abundant war material will return to France the men who are now her bulwark.

And how do the French assist their armies? The people buy their Government's bonds. Newsboys, school children, peasants, workmen, widows, wives, nurses, merchants, bankers, Cabinet officers—all help the soldiers by buying bonds.

And now the sons, brothers and fathers of America are about to face the same enemy. American women will minister to them and share their perils. They go to protect you and all that makes life sweet for you.

There must be vessels to supply them, warships to guard them, food and clothing to keep them, also motors, aeroplanes, locomotives and innumerable other necessities. The most efficient protection from the enemy and the strongest assurances of victory for our troops are unlimited supplies of the best rifles, artillery and ammunition that genius, labor and money can produce.

—will America Protect Her Protectors? Say "Yes" and buy a Liberty Bond as your answer.

One dollar or more will commence the payment. Your bank or employer will tell you how. Your money will be repaid with interest by the United States Government.

SHARP BREAK HITS THE STOCK MARKET

General List Falls from 3 to 7 Points Under Heavy Selling of Gas Shares.

INDUSTRIAL ISSUES FOLLOW

Impaired Margins Account for Half of Total Sales—Turnover Exceeds a Million Shares.

The stock market experienced yesterday the sharpest break which has occurred since the downward movement began two months ago. Under the influence of heavy selling of gas company stocks on the Stock Exchange, including Peoples Gas, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, and Ohio Cities Gas, the general price list receded from 3 to more than 7 points during the morning and recovered only slightly in later dealings.

The decline was precipitated at the start of business by news of the passing of the Peoples Gas dividend, and as new low ground on the current movement was reached by numerous stocks much forced liquidation of margined accounts occurred. In brokerage circles it was said that impaired margins accounted for half of the day's sales, while speculative operations on the short side was believed to have played a prominent part in the drop. Consolidated Gas at 93 sold at a lower price than at any time since the 1907 panic, and United States Steel common moved down to 101½ at one time, a new low record for the present swing of the market.

Traders in steel watched the ticker closely for indications of banking support, but none could be detected. Inquiries among the banks indicated that the uncertainties of the war tax law's effect on corporation earnings and on individual incomes were checking purchases of stocks. The downward surge of public utility issues was explained in brokerage offices by the increasing cost of fuel, oil, and other materials, but reasons for the retreat of steel and other industrial issues could not so easily be found. The combined effect of forced selling, liquidation of investment accounts, and short sales was a turnover in excess of 1,000,000 shares, the most active market in more than a month.

In this table the gross and net declines of some of the leading issues are set forth, with price comparisons:

*Ex dividend.

The Standard Oil shares melted down rapidly in the market which was at times almost bare of bids. Declines running from 20 to 40 points occurred on the curb among these high-priced issues, including Standard of New Jersey, Standard of Ohio, Atlantic Refining and Ohio Oil.

The retreat of security prices had reflection in high-grade bonds as well as in stocks. A puzzling factor of the day's development was that prices sold off so rapidly in the face of some favorable announcements of corporation earnings. The Lackawanna Steel Company reported profits in the nine months ended Sept. 30 which were more than twice as large as in the same period last year. The General Motors Corporation reported a big increase in business during September, with a corresponding expansion of profits in contrast with the record of September last year.

Stock Exchange to Close Saturday.

Governors of the Stock Exchange voted yesterday to keep the Exchange closed on Saturday. The recess will extend from the close of business this afternoon until Monday morning. The Cotton Exchange will also have the double holiday. The banks will be closed on Columbus Day, but will reopen on Saturday morning.

BIG SLUMP IN COTTON

After climbing very close to and in some instances attaining the high levels of last Summer's big bull market, the local cotton market somersaulted again yesterday, and lost the greater part of its gain of the two earlier days of the week. No particular reason for the drop, which was as sudden and spectacular as Monday's rise, was in evidence, indicating that it was only the natural reaction from the swift advance which had preceded it. In fact, reports of frost damage early in the session were as bullish as those which had started the market kiting on Monday, but had little effect. December cotton broke to 25.80, 130 points below Tuesday's high level, and closed at the bottom price of the day. The general list closed barely steady, 78 to 104 points off.

The market was nervous and unsettled from the start. October opened 47 points higher, selling at 27.80, making a new high price for the season. Other months were 5 points higher to 5 points lower, and prices showed net losses of about 30 points. A quick rally preceded the publication of the weekly report from the Weather Bureau, but the market soon turned easier, as the report proved less alarming than expected. The disposition to even up long contracts was doubtless increased by the proximity of the three-day adjournment, while increased Southern selling was accompanied by reports of an easier spot basis. Wall Street and Western interests were particularly heavy sellers late in the afternoon, and the market closed within a few points of the lowest on all positions, with March showing a decline of practically 150 points from the high level of Tuesday.

The only report to reach the trade placing anything like a definite figure on frost damage came from the Boston office of a Southwestern firm, and estimated the reduction in crop prospects at not less than 400,000 bales. The weather map made a more favorable showing with a very few points reporting additional frosts, and with generally rising temperatures. The Southern selling here was more active than for some time, which tended to color the talk of an easier spot basis. The bulk of the pressure, however, was attributed to realizing or liquidation for over the holidays in view of the easier technical position, and the possibility that crop damage may prove less serious than anticipated. Exports for the day were 18,427 bales, making 979,481 so far this season, against 1,169,939 last year. Southern spot markets as officially reported were 75 points lower to 25 points higher.

WHEAT.

Reports regarding the extent of Fall seeding of wheat continue most encouraging. The Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin said that plowing and seeding are proceeding under favorable conditions, except in a few places, where it is too dry, and that the grain is germinating and growing well. According to the Price Current, the Winter wheat acreage promises to be a record one, with an increase of at least 10 per cent., compared with the area seeded last Fall. Rye—Market steady; No. 2 Western, $1.90, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

The corn market experienced a break of 4⅛c to 5⅜c under one of the most aggressive selling movements which has occurred for months. The pressure seemed to come from all directions, and revealed a larger outstanding long interest than was generally supposed to exist. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.08, and No. 2 mixed, $2.00. A cargo of Argentine corn arrived in New York yesterday, consisting of about one-quarter of a million bushels, and there was said to have been another sale of about 180,000 bushels to arrive prompt shipment at $1.70, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

| May | 1.14 | 1.08⅝ | 1.08⅝ | 1.14⅝ | .78⅝ |

OATS.

The sharp break in corn had a bearish influence on the oats market, which closed weak, with net losses of 1⅜c to 1⅝c. Some of the same factors which influenced corn affected oats, and there was a noticeable hesitation about taking an aggressive stand on the buying side. Exporters were again in evidence, taking about 500,000 bushels, and this added a certain amount of support. The local cash market was weak; standard quoted at 65½c; No. 2 white, 65½c; No. 3 white, 65c; No. 4 white, 64c to 64½c; fancy clipped white, 66c to 68c; ordinary clipped white, 64½c to 66c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was weak under heavy selling, owing to a feeling of insecurity on the long side as a result of the prevailing belief that it will only be a question of a short time until the Government takes entire control of the market. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 15,000, estimated for Thursday, 11,000; Kansas City received 7,000, and Omaha 3,500.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The rules established in the local cottonseed oil trade on Tuesday were modified somewhat by the committee yesterday, permitting 100-point fluctuations in one day throughout the entire list. The market was heavy under liquidations of outstanding long accounts and at the close showed net losses of 40 to 100 points. Total sales were 26,900 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was irregular yesterday. The opening was unchanged to 3 points higher on scattered buying, which some attributed to covering and others thought might reflect interest created by the more optimistic view of peace prospects or the steadiness of Brazil. There was further near-month liquidation, however, and also a little trade selling of later months as a result of which prices eased, with the market closing 3 points lower to 1 point higher. The business included exchanges of December for March at 23 points; for May at 42 and 44 points, for July at 60 points, and for September at 75 points. The spot market was unchanged on the basis of 8⅝c for Rio 7s and 9⅝ for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The sugar market was without feature, with no sales of raw sugar reported. Holders were not open making offers and there were no buyers in the market. Arbuckle continues closed down, but is offering his small balance of refined sugar at 8.60c. The American's Brooklyn plant has been closed, and Warner and the Federal are withdrawn. The American and Howell's are only accepting very limited business at 8.35c. It is the general belief that stocks of refined sugar held at the refineries are very low and that, unless raw sugar is quickly obtainable, other plants will close down. In the meantime the local demand continues quite active. Spot raw prices follow: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5⅝c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 15,276 boxes. The supply of high grades of fresh creamery were a little short and, with fair buying interest, the market advanced ¼c, with a firm tone at the close. Storage goods are sympathizing to some extent. The cold weather encouraged a little freer buying. Renovated steady, but quiet. Ladies are firmer and packing stock has no demand at late prices. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb., 44½@45½c; extras, (92 score,) 44½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 43@44½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 41½@42½c; thirds, 40½@41c; creamery, unsalted higher than extras, 46@46½c; extras, 45@45½c; firsts, 44@44½c; seconds, 43@43½c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 44@44½c; good to prime, 42@43½c; common to fair, 38@41½c; renovated, extras, 43c; firsts, 42@42½c; lower grades, 39@41½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 40½@41c; firsts, 39½@40c; second, 38½@39c; lower grades, 37@38c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 38½@39c; No. 2, 38c; lower grades, 36@37½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday 10,165 cases. There has been some increase in the demand and the market for desirable qualities of fresh gathered stock is showing a firmer tone, although there are still liberal accumulations of medium and undergrade stock which holders are anxious to sell. Prices are still irregular and showing a wide range, but lots containing a fair to large proportion of new eggs tend in sellers' favor. Storage eggs are having a little more inquiry, and the feeling is perhaps a shade steadier, though still unsettled and irregular. Fancy nearby white eggs of uniformly newlaid quality are very scarce and bring extreme prices; mixed and lower grades still range widely with a slow demand. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 45@46c; extra firsts, 42@44c; firsts, 39½@41½c; seconds, 37½@39c; thirds and poorer, 35@37c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 36c@36½c; No. 2 and poorer, 30c@35½c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, [illegible]; under grades, [illegible]; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, [illegible]; firsts, storage and insurance paid, [illegible]; seconds, storage and insurance paid, [illegible]; lower grades, storage and insurance paid, [illegible]; refrigerator, State, whites, [illegible]; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, [illegible]; ordinary to good, [illegible]; gathered whites, good to fine, [illegible]; Western and Southern, gathered whites, [illegible]; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns [illegible]; gathered brown and mixed colors, [illegible].

—25 Years After

Ten, twenty, twenty-five years hence, when your children are grown up, this war will be the vivid remembrance of a nightmare of terror and sorrow!

Your son will probably be married and you may have a grandson as old as your son is now! The same school fees will have to be paid, clothes will be outgrown with just the same rapidity. This is the time in the boy's life when those few hundreds of dollars that you put by for him are going to be so useful.

This is thinking on ahead! But do not just think—ACT NOW—BUY A LIBERTY BOND today and prepare that nest-egg for yourself or your son or daughter twenty-five years from now. It is not only a common-sense insurance for the future—it is the best possible way of convincing yourself that you are a real American.

You can buy a bond for a dollar down today, or pay outright if you wish. Every cent you subscribe to the Second Liberty Loan of 1917 is guaranteed by the whole of the resources of the United States of America. Every single bond is safe, gilt-edged security that will return its principal back to you, plus 4% interest every year, in twenty-five years from now.

September Decline Reflects Situation Caused by Price Negotiations.

TONNAGE TOTAL 9,833,477

Manufacturers, Sure of Plenty of Business, Have Not Been Active in Getting New Orders.

Unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation declined 573,572 tons during September, according to official figures issued yesterday, the total on hand when the month ended being 9,833,477 tons. This was the first monthly report since that of last October, which recorded advance orders on the books under the 10,000,000-ton mark. Last April the corporation reported contracts for 12,183,083 tons, which was the high record since the big organization was formed in 1901.

The decline of more than a half-million tons in September reflected the situation brought about by the negotiations between Government officials and steelmakers in regard to prices. In August, when the effect of price-fixing talk was also in evidence, the orders declined more than 400,000 tons. Consumers have been holding back their orders for several months, hoping for favorable prices under Government rulings. The corporation, like the other steel companies, has the certainty of plenty of business for a long period, and has not been active in getting in new orders. The decline was not unexpected in the trade, in view of the deadlock between buyers and sellers.

Commenting on the general market situation, The Iron Age says:

"New buying in steel is still negligible. With the announcements from time to time of fresh and enlarged Government building programs, the trade is coming to accept the attitude of mills in refusing further commitments for the time being, for, in addition to the direct Government needs, it is recognized that the effect passes through the ramifications of the industry to the provisions of plant extensions and the building of machinery and apparatus. Our pig iron production statistics have shown how difficult it is, with fuel and labor shortage, to increase the basic output.

"Thus it is that cancellations of contracts have not occurred; consumers cannot discover other sources of supply. Efforts to secure readjustments of contract prices have not, however, been forsaken. Many of these expire this year, but deliveries will be spread over several months into 1918. Beyond that the orders on mill books are for definite business not subject to cancellation in the ordinary acceptance of the term.

"Little sympathy for price reductions is shown where the contracts cover manufactured articles already sold and against which the contracts are a protection. But concern is felt over the distance from steel mill products which the pricing program bids fair to cover. The answer of the steel producers is that in times of heavy demand prices do not fall."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Much importance consequently is being given to further conferences now being held at Washington between the general iron and steel committees and War Industries Board. In the meantime the industry is making such adjustments to the new price level as definite conditions will permit. In finished steel buyers find it practically impossible to obtain material at fixed schedules. Several producers, particularly in plates, continue to sell in the open market without regard to the agreed maximum, claiming their semi-finished costs compel them to do so."

The property of FELLSMERE FARMS COMPANY is about to be sold under foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure an outstanding issue of $330,000 of the above bonds, all of which have been deposited under said agreement of July 14, 1913. The Plan contemplates the purchase of the property of Fellsmere Farms Company at the foreclosure sale, and the organization of a New Company for that purpose, with a working capital of $100,000. To secure the working capital the New Company will make an issue of Five Year 7% Unsecured Gold Notes, bearing interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum, payable semi-annually. By said Plan the registered holders of the above Certificates of Deposit are permitted to subscribe to the Notes of the New Company to the extent, and upon the terms and conditions therein specified, by subscribing therefor on or before October 25, 1917, and paying therefor as follows:

10% November 15, 1917
10% December 15, 1917
10% January 15, 1918
20% February 15, 1918

The balance on or after February 15, 1918, at intervals of not less than thirty days, in amounts not exceeding 20% on any one call, and in each case upon thirty days' notice, but no call shall be made on account of subscriptions after December 31, 1918.

Under the terms of the Plan each Subscriber to Notes of the New Company of the par value of $100 will receive stock of the New Company of the par value of $1,500. All payments must be made promptly at the office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York in the City of New York, and temporary receipts will be issued for payments pending the delivery of the permanent securities.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization and forms of Subscriptions can be had on application to the Depositary, or to the Secretary of the Committee.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Heavy liquidation carried prices on the Consolidated Stock Exchange to the lowest levels for the present movement, Steel common selling at 101⅝ and Bethlehem Steel B at 76⅝, with the carriers, the other industrials and the coppers all lower. The session was a highly nervous one, the market being unsettled from the very opening. The break was ushered in at the beginning of the trading by the public utilities. By the end of the first hour the selling movement had taken in the steels and coppers, and around midday the losses were extended to the rails.

STANDARD OIL RAISES WAGES

Fifth Rise in Two Years Will Benefit 12,000 Employes.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey yesterday announced another increase—the fifth since July 31, 1915—in the wages of its refinery employes, by 10 per cent., the increase to become effective on Oct. 15. The increase was made, it was announced by Vice President F. F. Weller, because of the continued increase in the cost of living. The number of men affected is about 12,000, including the employes in the plants at Bayonne, Bayway, and Jersey City, N. J., Parkersburgh, W. Va., Baltimore, Md., and Baton Rouge, La.

In addition to these five increases, the company's action in September, 1915, in putting its employes on an eight-hour day is estimated as equivalent to a 19.57 per cent. increase in pay for the same amount of work. Altogether, since July 31, 1915, the company estimates its total increase in wages have amounted to 94 per cent. of the total payroll at that time.

Pullman Co. Earns $47,464,303.

The annual report of the Pullman Company for the year ended July 31 last shows that it earned from cars in operation a total of $47,464,304, and from manufacturing, rentals, &c., $1,720,255, giving a total revenue of $49,184,559. Operating expenses, repairs, taxes, &c., amounting to $29,196,668, and $6,170,584 was written off for depreciation. Dividends amounting to $9,599,784 were paid during the year, leaving $4,032,627 to be added to the surplus account.

PRICES AT HIGH RECORD.

Index Number Has Risen More Than 80 Per Cent. Since August, 1914.

Dun's Index Number of commodity prices for Oct. 1, published in the current number of Dun's Review, shows that on that date the average price of staple commodities was again the highest in history, the index number standing at $219,679, against $215,010 on Sept. 1 last, and $152.355 on Oct. 1, 1916. The index number has risen more than 80 per cent. since Aug. 1, 1914, and a study of individual prices shows that except for Government regulations, the average would probably have risen still higher, as the commodities whose prices have been fixed are the only ones not to show increases, and consequently hold the average down.

Using Heavy Satin for Hats.

A new tendency in Fall millinery, according to the bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America, is the use of heavy satin for street and semi-dress hats. These hats are all satin, satin combined with velvet, or satin combined with fur. Black, brown, and taupe are the principal colors. Other things that are "good" here at present are hatters' plush hats in large and small shapes and ready-to-wear hats of panne velvet. In the trimmings, the best sellers are circular fur bands, fur bands combined with flowers, metallized flowers, steel and antique laces, ostrich fancies and bands, and various burnt effects.

Big Silk Demand Predicted.

Predictions are freely made by many in the local silk trade these days that the coming Winter and Spring will see the biggest demand for silks the industry has ever experienced. The high prices of all-wool fabrics are expected to result in a wider and more general use of silk in women's clothing than has ever prevailed heretofore. "The impetus thus given to silk," said one authority in the trade, "will carry them I believe, well through the next couple of years, even should woolen goods come down. Their admirable adaptability for the purpose and their smart appearance make them highly attractive to women of taste, and I do not believe their more general use will be unwelcomed."

The War Is Helping Them.

According to comment heard in the local dry goods trade, the war is doing lots of good to retailers located in the Southern towns near which are cantonments and training camps. Not only is a larger demand reported from these places for the kind of merchandise that is particularly useful to soldiers, especially the officers, but there is a marked increase in the call for things that are generally considered necessities in civilian life. The latter demand is attributed to the number of "women folks" of the men in khaki who have taken up temporary residence in the places in question. In some cases the extra business got in this way has been large enough to make it worth while for the dealers to come to this market a second time this season.

Drug Sales Were Limited.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that transactions in these trades have been more or less restricted in the last week by advances in price and a lack of supplies. Morphine is higher, and the increase in the tax on distilled spirits caused an advance in alcohol. Owing to inflated prices on numerous commodities, buyers are not inclined to replenish stocks except to meet daily requirements. Freer offerings resulted in lower prices on mercury, phenolphthalein and insoluble saccharin.

Black Undergarments Popular.

Local manufacturers of underwear for women report a growing demand for black crêpe de chine and georgette chemises. Satin, also in black, for bloomers and underskirts is likewise widely sought. The tendency toward black in preference to pink, white, or flesh color, is one of the outstanding features of the season for which manufacturers do not seem to be able to offer an explanation. Simple effects are said to most popular, though some novelties and fancy merchandise are receiving fair attention. Pajamas, it is said, are gaining more acceptance by women generally, satin and crêpe de chine proving the most favored fabrics.

Cotton Relapse Hits Gray Goods.

The break in cotton yesterday put a definite check on buying in the local gray goods market, though prices were firm at the levels reached in the recent advance. Sateens and twills were among the most active sellers of the day, and they were sold at prices that were not far below comparative bases of other cloths. Sheetings were not over-active, while the movement of printcloths was hardly more than fair. Among the sales of the latter were 38½-inch 64-60s at 10⅝ cents for shipment in November, December, and January; 38½-inch 60-52s at 9⅛ cents for shipment through the remainder of this year, and 60-48s in the same width at 9 cents for similar delivery. Closing spot prices follow:

Wool Coming from Australia.

The Textile Alliance, Inc. is officially informed that 4,000 bales of wool have been shipped to this country from Australia, on account of the 45,000 bales promised by the British authorities to be sold at auction for civilian use. It is further stated that 40,912 bales are being loaded on fast steamers, and are expected to leave shortly.

Supply and Demand Will Do It.

"The high prices prevailing for all-wool fabrics," said a local manufacturer of coats and suits for women, "will do more toward compelling a more extensive use of manipulated fabrics so urgently sought by Washington than any 'suggestion' short of actual legislation can hope to accomplish. Thus, it seems to me that any drastic action forbidding altogether the use of all-wool fabrics, besides being undesirable in its effect, is totally unnecessary. The old, and well-known law of supply and demand is accomplishing the necessary conservation while they are still talking down in Washington about what to do."

Want to be "Knights of the Grip."

A well-known local firm manufacturing dresses, which on Sunday last advertised to women who want to become "knights of the grip," yesterday reported a very satisfactory response. The replies came from women who are now employed in retail cloak and suit departments, from women who have been in business for themselves, and from others who have never worked at all. The firm in question already has one woman "salesman" on the road, and as her work has been satisfactory, it was decided to carry the idea further. It is now planned to send out six when trips for the new wholesale season are in order. Quite a few of the eighteen men who are now traveling for the firm are of the draft age, and as they are called their places will be filled by women. Those who are not drafted, however, will be retained.

Furs for Auction Are on Show.

Prominent dealers from various parts of Canada and the United States, including Alaska, were in this city yesterday for a preliminary examination of the $2,000,000 worth of furs that will be put up at public auction in the Masonic Hall on Monday next and the four following days. The pelts to be sold were on view at the warehouse of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and the dealers were busy looking them over until nearly midnight. The assortment includes practically every kind of fur from common house cats to the richest Russian sables. In view of the present sold-up condition of the most popular skins, trade opinion was that the prices obtained at the sale would be high.

WOOL MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Fleeces a Feature—Preference for Government Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"The wool market continued strong and active during the week with more or less of an advance. Fleeces have been a feature with quarter-blood and three-eighths-blood grades particularly in demand. Low scoured wools were sold in fair sized lines. Fine scoured wools sold also fairly freely, particularly snow white baled capes.

"The woolen goods market is firm and greater strength probably will develop. Precedence is being given to Government order.

"That the cotton goods market has advanced during the week is an inevitable development through the prices for raw material, and the prospects of still higher wage scales. There is a much less tendency to place orders for delivery during the coming Spring which shows extreme conservatism on the part of the buyers. With the increase in prices, however, the buying has not broadened greatly."

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—The third day of the Funston fur auction saw some sensational advances in prices. The attendance again was large and there were many new arrivals. The bidding was brisk and competition keen. The total realized at the sale thus far has almost reached the $2,000,000 mark.

Patagonian kitt fox skins advanced 10 per cent. over the price realized last April. A 10 per cent. advance on gray foxes also was noted. Marmots went up 20 per cent. and lynx skins advanced 40 per cent.

Moles advanced 25 per cent. over the April prices, and black bear, brown bear, and grizzly bear skins went up 20 per cent. Polar bear skins brought 40 per cent. more than they did in April, and the largest gains were in wolf skins, which sold at a price 60 per cent. over those last April.

TO HELP CONSERVE WOOL.

At a meeting held yesterday in the Waldorf-Astoria attended by 300 men representing the woolen industry of the United States, resolutions were unanimously adopted ratifying the program for wool conservation suggested by the Committee on Supplies and the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense.

The meeting was addressed by Charles Eiseman of the Committee on Supplies, and by L. W. Shaw, Chairman of the Commercial Economy Board, both of whom are said to have asserted the need of conserving the country's wool supply in order to assure the fulfilling of Government requirements to clothe the army and navy. Reporters were not admitted to the meeting, but typewritten statements of the action taken were subsequently furnished them.

Herbert E. Peabody, President of the American Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers' Association, presided, and in introducing Mr. Shaw of the Commercial Economy Board, pointed out that he was necessarily in close touch with national affairs concerning the war. "He has been given a duty to perform," explained Mr. Peabody, "and those of us who have been thrown into contact with him can unreservedly testify to his sincerity of purpose and persistency toward such ends as his information and war experience lead him to believe are necessary." Mr. Peabody further pointed out that Mr. Shaw did not come as a dictator, and that he expected the woolen industry would demonstrate its patriotism beyond doubt by a complete response to the country's needs.

Mr. Shaw said that he conceived it to be his mission in addressing the woolen and worsted manufacturers to bring to them an atmosphere of war, to impress upon them that the country is at war, and that the seriousness of that fact could not be exaggerated. He indicated that in meeting the requirements of the Government and the needs of civilians, it would be necessary for woolen and worsted manufacturers to seriously alter their usual methods, and to do that most difficult thing, depart from long standing habits. He was most emphatic in indicating that the conservation of raw material was the first and cardinal duty, and everything that could possibly be done toward that end, should be done.

Mr. Eisenman said that arrangements had very recently been concluded whereby Great Britain has agreed to release to the United States for military purposes, approximately seventy million pounds of Australian wool. He urged that the significance of this be not exaggerated, that it would take a very short time for the machinery of this country to consume that wool, and a very long time to get it here. He emphasized the fact that the coming of this wool should in no way interfere with the present steps looking toward the increased use of wool substitutes or to hold back future steps looking toward a continuous growth of the use of substitutes and the conservation of wool during the existence of the war.

Resolved, that for the purpose of meeting the earnest recommendation of the Committee on Supplies, and the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, that the wool supply for the United States Army and Navy requirements be immediately conserved by the use of wool substitutes in fabrics for civilian wear, we, wool manufacturers of the United States agree:

1. To place upon the market for the Fall season of 1918, and for subsequent seasons, so far as may seem necessary, as many lines as our respective equipments will permit, of fabrics containing a material percentage of other stocks than virgin wool.

2. To discourage the use of wool for purposes other than are essential for the comfort and health of the civilian population.

We request the Government to co-operate with the manufacturers to enlighten the American people as to the need of conserving the wool supply of this country for their own welfare, and for the comfort and health of the men of the army and navy.

We authorize the present Manufacturers' Committee on Wool Conservation, representing the entire wool manufacturing industry, to take all necessary action to put into effect the foregoing plan.

Long Coat and Fur Trim Liked.

The bustle effect in suits, being the most outstanding development of the Fall styles, is played up by the local shops, both in their displays and in their advertising. But the big sellers of the season are those suits with long coats, according to members of the trade. Fur trimming is continuing strong in popular favor, and is being used with great success on dresses as well as coats and suits. It is said further that the tendency which developed earlier in the season toward higher priced merchandise is continuing with no signs of letting up. "Apparently there are no poor people any more except me," said one manufacturer.

Using Heavy Satin for Hats.

A new tendency in Fall millinery, according to the bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America, is the use of heavy satin for street and semi-dress hats. These hats are all satin, satin combined with velvet, or satin combined with fur. Black, brown, and taupe are the principal colors. Other things that are "good" here at present are hatters' plush hats in large and small shapes and ready-to-wear hats of panne velvet. In the trimmings, the best sellers are circular fur bands, fur bands combined with flowers, metallized flowers, steel and antique laces, ostrich fancies and bands, and various burnt effects.

Big Silk Demand Predicted.

Predictions are freely made by many in the local silk trade these days that the coming Winter and Spring will see the biggest demand for silks the industry has ever experienced. The high prices of all-wool fabrics are expected to result in a wider and more general use of silk in women's clothing than has ever prevailed heretofore. "The impetus thus given to silk," said one authority in the trade, "will carry them I believe, well through the next couple of years, even should woolen goods come down. Their admirable adaptability for the purpose and their smart appearance make them highly attractive to women of taste, and I do not believe their more general use will be unwelcomed."

The War Is Helping Them.

According to comment heard in the local dry goods trade, the war is doing lots of good to retailers located in the Southern towns near which are cantonments and training camps. Not only is a larger demand reported from these places for the kind of merchandise that is particularly useful to soldiers, especially the officers, but there is a marked increase in the call for things that are generally considered necessities in civilian life. The latter demand is attributed to the number of "women folks" of the men in khaki who have taken up temporary residence in the places in question. In some cases the extra business got in this way has been large enough to make it worth while for the dealers to come to this market a second time this season.

Drug Sales Were Limited.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that transactions in these trades have been more or less restricted in the last week by advances in price and a lack of supplies. Morphine is higher, and the increase in the tax on distilled spirits caused an advance in alcohol. Owing to inflated prices on numerous commodities, buyers are not inclined to replenish stocks except to meet daily requirements. Freer offerings resulted in lower prices on mercury, phenolphthalein and insoluble saccharin.

Black Undergarments Popular.

Local manufacturers of underwear for women report a growing demand for black crêpe de chine and georgette chemises. Satin, also in black, for bloomers and underskirts is likewise widely sought. The tendency toward black in preference to pink, white, or flesh color, is one of the outstanding features of the season for which manufacturers do not seem to be able to offer an explanation. Simple effects are said to most popular, though some novelties and fancy merchandise are receiving fair attention. Pajamas, it is said, are gaining more acceptance by women generally, satin and crêpe de chine proving the most favored fabrics.

Cotton Relapse Hits Gray Goods.

The break in cotton yesterday put a definite check on buying in the local gray goods market, though prices were firm at the levels reached in the recent advance. Sateens and twills were among the most active sellers of the day, and they were sold at prices that were not far below comparative bases of other cloths. Sheetings were not over-active, while the movement of printcloths was hardly more than fair. Among the sales of the latter were 38½-inch 64-60s at 10⅝ cents for shipment in November, December, and January; 38½-inch 60-52s at 9½ cents for shipment through the remainder of this year, and 60-48s in the same width at 9 cents for similar delivery. Closing spot prices follow:

Wool Coming from Australia.

The Textile Alliance, Inc. is officially informed that 4,000 bales of wool have been shipped to this country from Australia, on account of the 45,000 bales promised by the British authorities to be sold at auction for civilian use. It is further stated that 40,912 bales are being loaded on fast steamers, and are expected to leave shortly.

Supply and Demand Will Do It.

"The high prices prevailing for all-wool fabrics," said a local manufacturer of coats and suits for women, "will do more toward compelling a more extensive use of manipulated fabrics so urgently sought by Washington than any 'suggestion' short of actual legislation can hope to accomplish. Thus, it seems to me that any drastic action forbidding altogether the use of all-wool fabrics, besides being undesirable in its effect, is totally unnecessary. The old, and well-known law of supply and demand is accomplishing the necessary conservation while they are still talking down in Washington about what to do."

A well-known local firm manufacturing dresses, which on Sunday last advertised to women who want to become "knights of the grip," yesterday reported a very satisfactory response. The replies came from women who are now employed in retail cloak and suit departments, from women who have been in business for themselves, and from others who have never worked at all. The firm in question already has one woman "salesman" on the road, and as her work has been satisfactory, it was decided to carry the idea further. It is now planned to send out six when trips for the new wholesale season are in order. Quite a few of the eighteen men who are now traveling for the firm are of the draft age, and as they are called their places will be filled by women. Those who are not drafted, however, will be retained.

Furs for Auction Are on Show.

Prominent dealers from various parts of Canada and the United States, including Alaska, were in this city yesterday for a preliminary examination of the $2,000,000 worth of furs that will be put up at public auction in the Masonic Hall on Monday next and the four following days. The pelts to be sold were on view at the warehouse of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and the dealers were busy looking them over until nearly midnight. The assortment includes practically every kind of fur from common house cats to the richest Russian sables. In view of the present sold-up condition of the most popular skins, trade opinion was that the prices obtained at the sale would be high.

Fleeces a Feature—Preference for Government Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"The wool market continued strong and active during the week with more or less of an advance. Fleeces have been a feature with quarter-blood and three-eighths-blood grades particularly in demand. Low scoured wools were sold in fair sized lines. Fine scoured wools sold also fairly freely, particularly snow white baled capes.

"The woolen goods market is firm and greater strength probably will develop. Precedence is being given to Government order.

"That the cotton goods market has advanced during the week is an inevitable development through the prices for raw material, and the prospects of still higher wage scales. There is a much less tendency to place orders for delivery during the coming Spring which shows extreme conservatism on the part of the buyers. With the increase in prices, however, the buying has not broadened greatly."

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—The third day of the Funston fur auction saw some sensational advances in prices. The attendance again was large and there were many new arrivals. The bidding was brisk and competition keen. The total realized at the sale thus far has almost reached the $2,000,000 mark.

Patagonian kitt fox skins advanced 10 per cent. over the price realized last April. A 10 per cent. advance on gray foxes also was noted. Marmots went up 20 per cent. and lynx skins advanced 10 per cent.

Moles advanced 25 per cent. over the April prices, and black bear, brown bear, and grizzly bear skins went up 20 per cent. Polar bear skins brought 40 per cent. more than they did in April, and the largest gains were in wolf skins, which sold at a price 60 per cent. over those last April.

TO HELP CONSERVE WOOL.

At a meeting held yesterday in the Waldorf-Astoria attended by 300 men representing the woolen industry of the United States, resolutions were unanimously adopted ratifying the program for wool conservation suggested by the Committee on Supplies and the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense.

The meeting was addressed by Charles Eiseman of the Committee on Supplies, and by L. W. Shaw, Chairman of the Commercial Economy Board, both of whom are said to have asserted the need of conserving the country's wool supply in order to assure the fulfilling of Government requirements to clothe the army and navy. Reporters were not admitted to the meeting, but typewritten statements of the action taken were subsequently furnished them.

Herbert E. Peabody, President of the American Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers' Association, presided, and in introducing Mr. Shaw of the Commercial Economy Board, pointed out that he was necessarily in close touch with national affairs concerning the war. "He has been given a duty to perform," explained Mr. Peabody, "and those of us who have been thrown into contact with him can unreservedly testify to his sincerity of purpose and persistency toward such ends as his information and war experience lead him to believe are necessary." Mr. Peabody further pointed out that Mr. Shaw did not come as a dictator, and that he expected the woolen industry would demonstrate its patriotism beyond doubt by a complete response to the country's needs.

Mr. Shaw said that he conceived it to be his mission in addressing the woolen and worsted manufacturers to bring to them an atmosphere of war, to impress upon them that the country is at war, and that the seriousness of that fact could not be exaggerated. He indicated that in meeting the requirements of the Government and the needs of civilians, it would be necessary for woolen and worsted manufacturers to seriously alter their usual methods, and to do that most difficult thing, depart from long standing habits. He was most emphatic in indicating that the conservation of raw material was the first and cardinal duty, and everything that could possibly be done toward that end, should be done.

Mr. Eisenman said that arrangements had very recently been concluded whereby Great Britain has agreed to release to the United States for military purposes, approximately seventy million pounds of Australian wool. He urged that the significance of this be not exaggerated, that it would take a very short time for the machinery of this country to consume that wool, and a very long time to get it here. He emphasized the fact that the coming of this wool should in no way interfere with the present steps looking toward the increased use of wool substitutes or to hold back future steps looking toward a continuous growth of the use of substitutes and the conservation of wool during the existence of the war.

Resolved, that for the purpose of meeting the earnest recommendation of the Committee on Supplies, and the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, that the wool supply for the United States Army and Navy requirements be immediately conserved by the use of wool substitutes in fabrics for civilian wear, we, wool manufacturers of the United States agree:

1. To place upon the market for the Fall season of 1918, and for subsequent seasons, so far as may seem necessary, as many lines as our respective equipments will permit, of fabrics containing a material percentage of other stocks than virgin wool.

2. To discourage the use of wool for purposes other than are essential for the comfort and health of the civilian population.

We request the Government to co-operate with the manufacturers to enlighten the American people as to the need of conserving the wool supply of this country for their own welfare, and for the comfort and health of the men of the army and navy.

We authorize the present Manufacturers' Committee on Wool Conservation, representing the entire wool manufacturing industry, to take all necessary action to put into effect the foregoing plan.

Long Coat and Fur Trim Liked.

The bustle effect in suits, being the most outstanding development of the Fall styles, is played up by the local shops, both in their displays and in their advertising. But the big sellers of the season are those suits with long coats, according to members of the trade. Fur trimming is continuing strong in popular favor, and is being used with great success on dresses as well as coats and suits. It is said further that the tendency which developed earlier in the season toward higher priced merchandise is continuing with no signs of letting up. "Apparently there are no poor people any more except me," said one manufacturer.

The property has a frontage of 164 feet by 92 deep. The new owners are preparing to improve the site with a garage. The sale was made by Edward A. Morrison, Trustee of the estate of Samuel D. Phillips, which has owned the property for many years. It was sold a short time ago to the Kings Farm Realty Company for $133,000, but the estate was obliged to foreclose last July. The present consideration was about $100,000.

Queens Borough Sales.

Lease by Japan Firm.

George R. Read & Co. have leased for the Columbia Trust Company a portion of the twentieth floor at 60 Broadway to the Nippon Menkwa Kabushiki Kaisha of Yokohama, Japan.

Realty Notes.

A meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association has been called for this evening, at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street.

An encouraging feature in the building trade is that the September total of value is a shade larger than that of August, and when all returns are in, according to Bradstreet's, it is probable that the grand total for the month may show a gain. Every month since March had shown a progressive decrease.

The Union League Club has renewed the lease of its home on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street for twenty-one years from May 1, 1917, and will pay George Freifeld and others. Trustees of the property $60,000 a year rental, with an option of renewing the lease for another twenty-one years. The property fronts 54.7 feet on Fifth Avenue and 153 feet on Thirty-ninth Street.

COMMITTEE OF NINE FOR COLUMBIA PEACE

STUDENT BODY TO MEET

Will Ask That Professor Beard Be Asked to Withdraw His Resignation.

A "memorandum" covering twenty-four typewritten pages and offering suggestions for meeting the problems at Columbia University that led to the expulsion of Professors Cattrell and Dana and the resignation of Professor Charles A. Beard was said yesterday to have been agreed upon tentatively by the Committee of Nine of the University Council. The Committee of Nine was appointed months ago from the membership of the University Council to consider means for bringing about closer co-operation between the trustees and the Faculties.

Members of the committee who have since been studying conditions at the university and the complaint that the trustees were limiting freedom of expression discussed the situation informally at luncheon yesterday at the Faculty Club and decided, it was said, to submit the "memorandum" to President Nicholas Murray Butler today and to the University Council on next Tuesday.

The "memorandum," it was learned, not only makes a survey of the origin of the controversy between Professors an dTrustees, but also contains many "exhibits" such as Professor Cattell's circular letter on the war sent to members of the faculties and letters written by Professor Seligman protesting against this action.

Caution also marked a meeting in Professor Seligman's office attended by many members of the Political Science Faculty, to which Professor Beard formerly belonged. It was explained later by Professor Seligman that the gathering was "not a meeting of the Faculty of Political Science, but merely a conference of Professor Beard's friends to consider his resignation."

It was reported that the purpose was to draw resolutions asking Professor Beard to withdraw his resignation, but Professor Seligman said after the meeting that "nothing had been done." When the second letter sent to the newspapers by Professor Cattell was shown to him he remarked: "Let him mouth all he wants to. I have nothing further to say."

Whatever the purpose of the meeting at Professor Seligman's office, not all who attended were in sympathy with Professor Beard's views, one of those present being Professor Ellery C. Stowell, who on last Tuesday sent a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES taking issue with Professor Beard's view that "Freedom of Discussion" was the issue at stake.

It was formally announced by representatives of the students yesterday that a resolution would be submitted to a mass meeting of students in the gymnasium at noon tomorrow, requesting the withdrawal of Professor Beard's resignation. President Butler conveyed the impression in a brief statement yesterday that Professor Beard had eliminated himself from the situation, for when he was asked if any formal action by the Trustees would be necessary to accept Professor Beard's resignation, his reply was: "Prof. Beard's resignation went into effect on Oct. 9. I have no statement to make."

When Professor Beard was asked what his reply would be to a request that he withdraw his resignation, he answered: "We will cross that bridge when we come to it."

There were rumors that Professor Beard was not entirely without prospects when he decided to quit the university, and that he has been invited by President Wilson to make addresses in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war at meetings in the West and Middle West, but he refused to comment on the report. It was pointed out that such a commission would not be out of keeping with Professor Beard's views on the war.

On Tuesday night the American Union Against Militarism sent Professor Beard a congratulatory telegram, which seemed to some to be an effort to enroll him in the ranks of the pacifists. When asked to dispel his impression, he merely replied: "My letter of resignation explains my position on the war. Beyond that I have nothing to say."

Professor Beard said he had received many congratulatory telegrams and letters, some from persons of prominence, but refused to disclose the names of the senders. When asked to comment on the charges brought against Professor Seligman by Professor Cattell, Professor Beard said: "You can say at least that I have not indulged in personalities."

The decision of the students to hold a mass meeting at noon tomorrow in Professor Beard's behalf was reached soon after some radical youngsters "cut" their 11 o'clock classes to attend a demonstration on the library steps. This demonstration was promoted by some journalism students, who distributed handbills asking all students to cut their classes at 11 o'clock as a protest against the resignation of Professor Beard and the "autocratic" methods of the Trustees.

About 500 students, many merely curious, responded, but they were dispersed more or less roughly by a small but vigorous group of patriotic students led by Jack Hyde, Robert W. Scott, who is a naval reserve; "Dal" Cochran, Captain of the football team; Clifford Hollander, President of the senior class, and others. Leon Samson, an ex-student, tried to make a speech, but student patriots sounded three cheers for Columbia and the Faculty and gave the radicals what is known among students as the "bum's rush."

Professor Hayes, who has frequently expressed sympathy with Professor Beard, was conducting his class in history while this demonstration was going on. Suddenly rising up, he said:

"I am afraid I shall not be able to continue this class this afternoon. Professor Beard has been my friend, and I feel so keenly about what has happened that I will have to be excused. The class is dismissed for this afternoon."

The students waited until Professor Hayes had left the room and then elected C. P. Ivins, Vice President of the Senior Class, to arrange for the mass meeting. Mr. Ivins later announced this committee on arrangements: R. C. Latour, a senior; Walter Scott Robinson, a senior; Horace Friess, junior; H. W. Haldenstein, a sophomore; and F. P. Benedict, a sophomore, who was Treasurer of the Freshman Class last year.

The letter sent to the newspapers yesterday by Professor Cattell charged Professor Seligman with being friendly to the Trustees, while posing as the friend of academic freedom.

CAMP UPTON NEAR 70% OF CAPACITY

Fresh Quotas Leave for Yaphank Today and Tomorrow—Few Exemptions Allowed.

When tomorrow's quota of selective draft men report for duty at Camp Upton, the soldier city at Yaphank, L. I., will house 70 per cent. of the total number for which it was built. Yesterday 2,108 selected men from New York left for the camp, and today 2,136 more will leave. One hundred men failed to report at the last roll call before entraining yesterday. A number of the supposed delinquents reported voluntarily at the camp, having missed the trains they were ordered to take.

Of today's quota of 2,136, the 670 men from local boards one to eight, inclusive, and 165 to 170, inclusive, will entrain at the Pennsylvania Station at 11:00 o'clock this morning. The 842 men from local boards 154 to 164, inclusive, will leave at 10:30 A. M. from Long Island City by way of the East Thirty-fourth Street Ferry. In addition to this number, 201 men from local boards 174 to 177, inclusive, in Queens, will also take train at Long Island City.

The Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn, yards of the Long Island Railroad will be the scene today of the departure of 723 selective draft men from Boards 64 to 77, inclusive. This contingent leaves at 10 o'clock.

Henry E. Bricker, a divinity student, of 801 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn, who received his red card ordering him to leave for Yaphank today, will not go, because the District Board, of which Charles E. Hughes is Chairman, granted him exemption from military service. Bricker was passed by Local Board 80 and claimed exemption on the ground that he was a divinity student.

A. S. Lovett, who was passed as fit by Local Board 62, claimed exemption as a conscientious objector. The claim was refused, and he will have to go to Camp Upton. Bovett, in his affidavit, said he was a member of the "Fellowship of Reconciliation," of which the Rev. Norman Thomas is head. The District Board held that the "Fellowship of Reconciliation" does not come under the regulations which provide that a man must be a member of a well recognized sect before he can claim exemption on religious grounds.

Exemption was denied Dr. Adam Eberle, who is in charge of 730 patients in the Kingston Avenue Hospital for Contagious Diseases, in Brooklyn. He asked to be exempted on the ground that his place could not be filled by another man. An affidavit to this effect, sworn to by Dr. Haven Emerson, Commissioner of Health, was appended to the claim, but the district board was unable to exempt him.

Alligandrow Matinong and Villacaufa Clementine, who say they are natives of Manila, claimed exemption. According to the affidavits of the men, they shipped as seamen on the French steamship Royal Prince at Manilla, intending to visit New York and then return on the same vessel to their homes. The Royal Prince did not return to Manila after touching New York, but went on to England. The Filipinos refused to go to England and were discharged, they say, without pay. They registered with Local Board 24. The district board ruled that under the Provost Marshal's rulings Filipinos are not amenable to draft. They were not exempted yesterday, but their cases were sent back to the local board for verification as to their nativity and if it is found they are undoubtedly Filipinos they will be allowed to go.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 10.—Twenty thousand recruits signed Government pay vouchers today for the month of September. Nearly $150,000 was turned over to the men, those who reported with the first increment receiving $20 apiece. With the Government outfitting and feeding the men, their $30 a month pay will be clear profit, with the exception of two or three dollars' incidental expenses, and many find that they are able to save for the first time in their lives.

REGISTER TODAY.

Only three days left for registration. Today and Friday the polls will be open from 5:30 P. M. until 10:30 P. M. On Saturday the polls will be open from 7 A. M. until 10:30 P. M. If you do not register you cannot vote.

REPEATS IT IN THE EIGHTH

SCHUPP IN SUPERB FORM

The realizaton of a life's ambition blossomed in radiant glory over little Benny Kauff of the Giants at the Polo Ground yesterday when McGraw's self-reliant young centre fielder crashed out two home runs which marked the hysterical climax of the fourth game of the world's series, in which the Chicago White Sox tumbled to their second shutout defeat by a score of 5 to 0.

The shrinking violet—that is what they call Benny in jest, because he has more brazen assurance than a banty rooster—before this series boasted that he would do something to make the name of Benjamin Michael Kauff go ringing down the corridors of baseball fame. And there was something to Benjamin's lofty opinion of himself besides idle conceit. He did yesterday, in evening up the diamond classic for the Giants, the very thing which is every baseball player's dream. Only twice over the long stretch of world's series games has this feat ever been equaled. Pat Dougherty did it for the Boston Red Sox in 1903, and Harry Hooper cracked out two homers against the Phillies in 1915.

Just thirteen times Benny Kauff had walked boldly up to the bat in this series only to be turned back without making a hit. When he faced Red Faber in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with two Giants out it was his fourteenth trip to the plate. The superstition of that thirteenth obstacle was over, and Kauff, brushing his bat across the plate in one terrific swing, cudgeled the ball high over Happy Felsch's head in centre field. The ball rolled through the clump of hollyhock which adorns the centre field terrace and disappeared from view under a roll of canvas at the center field fence. When Felsch had dug the ball from its hiding place Kauff was over the plate and the crowd was bubbling in an eruption of blatant joy.

Then Benny Hit It Again.

Under that one primitive blow the White Sox cracked and Faber, who had been pitching masterful ball, lost his grip, and when Benny came up to bat in the eighth, with Herzog perched on first base, he again smote the ball a mighty belt which sent it on a giddy flight among the fans in the lower right field stand. No day in Benny's life will ever be so eventful as that crisp Autumn afternoon. It was a day which will be handed down from generation to generation of Kauffs whenever in future years the world's series is mentioned. The hosts of fans which are to come will point back to the day Oct. 11, 1917, when Peewee Benny, only half as big as a full-grown ball player, laced out the two home runs which struck fear into the very hearts of the fighting clan from the city by the lake. One of the old-time Chicago fans recalled that it was the forty-sixth anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

In the tumult and the shouting which followed Kauff's brace of bangs New York fans did not overlook the skillful pitching feat of Ferdie Schupp. The Louisville lad, smashed from the box last Sunday in Chicago, was McGraw's choice against the White Sox yesterday. The New York leader still had faith in the kid member of his southpaw flinging corps. He knew that it was the feverish, raucous hostility of the Chicago fans which had brought about Schupp's downfall at Comiskey Park. On the field where he has achieved his greatest pitching performances and before a friendly applauding crowd Schupp was master of the game. It wasn't until the ninth inning that a Sox player got as far as third base. Then Eddie Collins, who had received the only free ticket issued by Ferdie, stole third because the Giants didn't try to stop him. Let him steal third base; who cared? Let him take the base itself back with him to Chicago! He got as far as the third station through mere charitable spirit, but he couldn't have squeezed his way home with a dark lantern and a kit of burglar's tools.

Held Sox Scoreless 22 Innings.

The remarkable recuperation of the Giants in these two games at the Polo Grounds has been the baseball sensation of the year. No one can deny now that McGraw's team has a wonderful drive, irrepressible aggressiveness and courage. It is no ordinary baseball club that can suffer the shock of two depressing defeats and rise from the blows and hold a club as powerful as these American League champions scoreless for twenty-two innings.

The effect of those two trimmings in Chicago did the Giants a world of good. It kicked the overconfidence out of them. When they came East on their mournful trip last Monday they realized that the worst had happened. Nothing that happened could be more humiliating, and this very feeling broke the high nervous strain under which they had been playing in Chicago. With this strain gone, the players became their normal selves again, and once they began to get back to their natural game the old fight and dash returned, and the Sox are now paying the penalty of sweeping the McGraw clan off their feet at the outset of the series.

Von Luxburg Is Arrested and on Way to Detention Camp

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11.—Count Karl von Luxburg, the former German Minister, who was arrested in the southern part of Buenos Aires Province, was brought here today under guard on the way to the detention camp on the island of Martin Garcia.

Count von Luxburg had been reported at liberty in various places, and it was rumored recently that he had attempted to escape in a Spanish vessel. A British warship was reported to have stopped a steamer on suspicion of his presence aboard.

This dispatch gives the first intimation that he has been arrested by the Argentine authorities.

THREAT TO TIE UP ALL HARBOR CRAFT

ASK 66 DAYS OFF YEARLY

Owners Say Terms Would Mean Bankruptcy for Some and Federal Intervention.

A threat to tie up every tugboat, barge, ferryboat, and lighter in the harbor is behind a letter received yesterday by harbor craft owners from the officers of the newly organized Marine Workers Affiliation of the Port of New York. The unions in the affiliation have served notice that unless the workers obtain a substantial increase in wages by Nov. 1 all members will "resign" on that day. The workers also demand recognition of their union, overtime payments, allowances for food and sixty-six days off each year with pay, demands which one of the large towboat owners said yesterday if granted would mean bankruptcy for some of the concerns engaged in harbor transportation.

The Marine Workers Affiliation is made up of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association 35, the Harbor Boatmen's Union, the United Harbor No. 1, American Association of Master Mates and Pilots, and the Tidewater Boatmen's Union, and its membership takes in not only the Captains of the more pretentious harbor craft, but also the cooks and deck hands on the smallest. The unions are also affiliated with the International Longshoremen and Transport Workers' Union. The threat to quit work on the first of next month means, if carried out, it is said, that not a vessel engaged in the transportation of goods about the harbor, not a ferryboat nor a tugboat will be able to move after the morning change of watches on Nov. 1. It means, also, one of the shipping men said, that unless the Government steps in, not a towboat owner will want to move his vessel, unless he is under contract, and pay what the owners say is an exorbitant wage scale.

Demands of the Union.

These are the demands that have been served by the men:

DECK DEPARTMENT WAGE SCALE.
Captains, $150 per month and board; licensed Mates or Pilots, $120 per month and board; a decision on ferryboats, $100 per month and board; licensed deck Mates, not engaged in the handling or navigation of boats, $100 per month and board.
Where maintenance or sustenance is not furnished, 60 cents per day, or $18 per month, shall be allowed in lieu thereof.
MARINE ENGINEERS' WAGE SCALE.
Chief Engineer, $140 per month, with board; assistant engineer, $130 per month, with board.
When night engineer is in charge and doing the same work as required of day man, compensation to be the same as the day Chief Engineer, $140 per month, with board.
Chief Engineer on single screw boat, $140 per month, with board.
Where maintenance and sustenance is not furnished, 60 cents per day, or $18 per month, shall be paid in lieu thereof.
HARBOR BOATMEN'S WAGE SCALE.
First deckhand, $65 per month, with board; oiler, $65 per month, with board; deckhands, $60 per month, with board; firemen, (where only one is employed,) $65 per month, with board; firemen, (where two or more are employed,) $60 per month, with board; floatmen, $60 per month, with board; cooks, $60 per month, with board.
Where the boat does not provide maintenance or sustenance, 60 cents per day, or $18 per month, shall be allowed in lieu thereof.
TIDEWATER BOATMEN'S UNION SCALE.
Shall be $70 per month, minimum rate, (no board.) One day in week off with pay, shall be granted to all employes. Two weeks' vacation, with pay, shall be granted to all Captains and engineers who are in the employ for one year or more.
Captains and engineers to receive $1 per hour or fraction thereof; deckhands, firemen, floatmen, and cooks, 50 cents per hour or fraction thereof; carfare to be paid by the employers when boats are to change crews at other than a designated point. All barges, boats, and scows, shifting or loading at night, the men employed on said boats to be paid $2 per night. All schedules as above shall be minimum rates, and nothing therein contained shall be construed so as to increase the hours of labor, or decrease the pay, and allowances now in force.
These wage schedules and rules are to take effect at 6 A. M. Nov. 1, 1917, or at the change of watches, and are to remain in force for one year from that date, or until Nov. 1, 1918.

Roughly estimated and grouped, there are about 400 tugs in and about the harbor carrying an average crew of seven men; 150 steam lighters, with about the same number in the crews, and 800 barges, whose crews average two men. The Captains and Mates and engineers hold Federal licenses, and for that reason, shipping men say, the demands carry with them no threat of a strike, but instead it is threatened that on the first of next month the men will resign. As there are no others to take their places the order to resign would be the equivalent of going on strike.

"The men have had two rises in pay, equal to $10 a month to each man, since June, and I do not see how we can pay any more," said W. F. Dalzell, head of the Dalzell Towing Company. "We have on our boats a very fine class of men, and they have been satisfied up to this time, for they have been well treated, but I do not see how we can

WILL PROTECT ALL ROADS

War Plants and Manufacturers of Necessities Also to be Favored.

MAKERS OF LUXURIES LAST

General Coal Shortage Admitted and Is Traced to Nation's Unprecedented Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Fuel Administration today issued an order directing the 700 coal mines which are served by the Pennsylvania Railroad to supply that company on a pro rata basis with the fuel needed for its operation. The order came in the form of a demand and not a request, and it was stated that others would follow, affecting the various transportation lines, using either bituminous or anthracite coal.

It was announced further that a second series of priority orders which would give definite directions for the distribution of all coal output to the Government and private interests would follow within a short time. Operators were warned to withhold coal shipments to firms needing fuel the least, and it was stated that industries engaged in production for war needs and the necessities of life would receive preference.

This was accepted as definite evidence here that the Fuel Administration and the Priority Board were determined that the Government war plans should not be hindered by lack of fuel, and that if any suffered because of a shortage, firms manufacturing "luxuries" and nonwar commodities would have to bear the brunt of the new conditions.

In this connection the War Industries Board has been at work on a comprehensive survey of the situation throughout the country, showing just what industries are most essential to the country's welfare in the present crisis. It is understood that the officials in charge of the coal distribution are ready to enforce regulations which might call for a readjustment of some industries not absolutely essential to the war, if conditions seemed to warrant such action.

The order made public today was the first flat declaration by the Government that the coal operators must obey directions, and it carried with it the intimation that the officials charged with the responsibility of supplying American war industries with fuel were prepared to use all of the powers conferred upon them by the Food Control bill and the priority legislation should the occasion present itself. It was, in a sense, a commandeer of a part of the output of the coal mines in behalf of the Government program.

Keep War Industries Going.

It can be stated that, as a result of conferences with coal operators, the officials of the Fuel Administration are confident that with a wise use of their present powers the war industries can be kept going on full time and the essential needs in other quarters supplied.

The statement follows in part:

"The first of a series of orders to distribute coal on a priority basis and regulate the movement of coal cars, issued by Fuel Administrator Garfield, provides that the Pennsylvania Railroad, which serves about 700 mines, shall have its needs properly taken care of. Other railroads will be served through similar orders soon to follow, which will comprise the first series.

"Commercial coal will be distributed by the second series, giving preference in order to the Government, domestic users, public utilities, and all commercial organizations using coal. The present order was adopted after conferences extending over the past two weeks.

"Representations were made some time ago by mine operators on the Pennsylvania system that their coal was being confiscated by the railroad, whose right to do this is unquestioned. This diverted a good deal of commercial coal already contracted for, which displeased dealers to whom it had been consigned. It resulted also in confiscation of cars that would otherwise have been available for commercial loading. Often the railroad was obliged to keep coal on the cars longer than is necessary in the regular course of business.

"All producers of bituminous along the Pennsylvania lines will contribute pro rata to the fuel needed for its operation. Operators who have already agreed to supply the road with the amount that would be deemed their contributory percentage will continue their contracts and remain unaffected by the new order.

"Other mines must contribute the amount declared to be equitable by the Fuel Administration at the Government's price. The amounts will, in some instances, interfere with delivery of full consignments called for by their contracts with customers. But the railroads must be kept running. The Fuel Administration suggests that operators withhold coal from persons or corporations needing it least, and that they attend particularly to the supply of other railroads than the Pennsylvania.

"It is deemed particularly essential that coal needed by the United States Government be not interfered with. The Fuel Administration may make a special priority order in special cases, and intends to care fully for domestic users. Munitions plants and firms manufacturing necessities of life would come into the priority order class. The plan is expected to show immediate results in an increased supply of coal cars and a steady, equitable flow of fuel to the railroads."

Increased Prices in South.

An increase in prices for bituminous coal at the mine in a few districts classed as "exceptional" were granted today, subject to readjustment. The counties of McCreary, Pulaski, Rock Castle,

WARNS THE NATION TO SPEED UP LOAN

$325,465,000 NOW IN HAND

This Represents Amount Actually Filed with Federal Reserve Banks and Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Accompanied by a warning that there is the hardest kind of work ahead for the country, the Treasury Department at 10 o'clock tonight issued its first formal statement regarding the status of the second Liberty Loan campaign.

Up to the close of business yesterday, Oct. 10, the total of the subscriptions actually filed with the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department aggregated $325,465,000. This would be a fraction over one-tenth of the minimum of $3,000,000,000 obtained during a fraction over one-third of the time allotted for the drive for $5,000,000,000. Of the total of $325,000,000 actually subscribed in officially recorded applications the Federal Reserve Bank District of New York has furnished $228,527,000, or about two-thirds of the amount thus far recorded.

Twenty-four business days, from Oct. 1 to Oct. 27, have been allotted to the campaign. To obtain $5,000,000,000 it would be necessary to subscribe at the rate of $208,000,000 a day. So far, however, the officially recorded subscriptions have been $36,000,000 a day. But this does not begin to represent what has been done, as many banks and trust companies have not yet reported, and, as in the First Liberty Loan campaign, many persons are holding back for the home stretch. At this stage of the first campaign, Secretary McAdoo made his famous New Orleans announcement, in which he indicated that expectations were not being reached. Then the country got busy with the result that the first issue was largely oversubscribed.

Army Subscribes $2,000,000.

The campaign in the army alone has resulted in subscriptions for more than $2,000,000 which have not been officially recorded with the Treasury Department. The Department of the East has subscribed $204,700 and leads the other five army departments. Camp Funston, at Fort Riley, Kan., leads the national army camps with a total of $248,650. Camp Upton, at Yaphank, being second with $98,150, and Camp Meade, in Maryland, being next with $80,550. Camp Shelby, at Hattiesburg, Miss., leads the national guard camps with subscriptions aggregating $266,200. Camp Kearny, in California, is second with $191,000 and Camp Bowie, at Fort Worth, is third with $70,450. This amount from Camp Kearny represents 2,248 subscriptions or a pro rata of $26.35 a man.

"The total subscriptions for the Second Liberty Loan actually filed with the several Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department up to the close of business, Oct. 10 amounted to $325,465,000," the Treasury Department statement says. "While a very large number of incorporated banks and trust companies throughout the country have not yet reported any subscriptions to the Federal Reserve Banks, and while the Liberty Loan Committees have unofficially reported a number of large subscriptions which have not yet been formally filed, even making due allowance for these unreported amounts, the subscriptions thus far received indicate the necessity for the hardest kind of work on the part of the whole country for the balance of the campaign.

"The Secretary of the Treasury has requested subscriptions to an amount of $5,000,000,000 in order that allotments might be made up to $4,000,000,000 in accordance with the terms of Treasury Department Circular No. 90. There are twenty-four business days during the campaign period, and in order to obtain subscriptions of $5,000,000,000, the average daily subscriptions must amount to over $208,000,000, whereas up to date the average has been only about $36,000,000.

Seek 10,000,000 Subscribers.

"It is particularly important to impress upon the people of the country that this vast undertaking must not be left to the people of great wealth, as no such sum can be subscribed except by the earnest co-operation of all the people of the country. It is estimated that in the first campaign there were about 5,000,000 subscribers, and with the better organization now available and the large amount of educational work which has been done, the country should be

BRITAIN SHUTS OFF ALL TRADE CABLES TO NETHERLANDS

Insists the Dutch Must Stop the Transit of German War Materials

GOING BY DUTCH WATERWAYS

Semi-Official Paper Hints People Will Submit to "Reprisals" Rather Than Yield.

DUTCH OUTLOOK SERIOUS

British Action and Our Stoppage of Coal Shows Them the Allies Mean Business.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 11.—The cessation of all commercial cable communication has caused considerable apprehension in Holland. This restriction is due to the Dutch Government's failure to comply with the wishes of the British Government to stop all German traffic by Dutch waterways in certain materials of war.

The semi-official Nieuwe Courant at the end of a long article declares that these reprisals of the British Government show a lack of confidence in Holland's neutrality. It argues that, since the traffic in question is guaranteed to be non-military, the British Government may rest assured that, except for a few Amsterdam papers and speculators, everybody in Holland will prefer to submit to these reprisals rather than abandon the course once chosen.

The pro-German Vaderland expresses the hope that the Dutch Government will still be able to convince the British Government of the injustice of this interpretation of international law or to decide the point by arbitration.

The news of the British action, coming on top of news from America of the refusal to Dutch vessels of bunker coal in American ports, has served to show that the Allies mean business.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—Great Britain has stopped all commercial cable communication with Holland until such time as the Netherlands Government places an absolute restriction on the transit of sand, gravel, and scrap metal through Holland from Germany to Belgium.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 11.—The Foreign Office today issued a communication announcing that, according to a dispatch received from the Netherlands Minister at Washington, the American Government had decided to refuse coal-bunkering facilities to vessels bound for countries bordering on Germany. The communication adds that unless the Washington Government especially sanctions shipments to Holland sea traffic between Holland and her colonies will become impossible, inasmuch as bunker coal also is unobtainable to South Africa.

ENGLAND USING PRESSURE.

Washington Will Back Efforts to Stop Neutral Aid to Foe.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Advices from Amsterdam saying that England had halted cable communication with Holland are generally accepted here as proof that Great Britain is prepared to back up the United States to the limit in its endeavor to prevent Germany from getting aid from the northern neutral nations of Europe, no matter how indirectly.

The situation, so far as regards Holland at least, is an extremely delicate one, which may at any time bring developments of a far reaching character.

From the scanty information at hand tonight, some expressed the belief that Germany was endeavoring to slip through Holland large quantities of sand, gravel, and scrap metal, as specified in the dispatch, in order to reinforce their trenches and fortifications against the allied drive in Belgium. If Holland was permitting a traffic through her territory for such a purpose it was felt that serious diplomatic questions might be involved. It was generally felt, (although officials refused to discuss the situation,) that the United States would back Great Britain to the end in the course adopted.

It has been hoped here within the last few days that some solution might be found that would end the difficulties which have appeared in regard to negotiations which have been carried on by the United States and Holland in regard to the latter's tonnage which is now being held up in Atlantic seaports loaded with wheat and fooders consigned to the Netherlands. The Exports Administrative Board has refused to recede an inch from its original assertion that it would not let those cargoes go until assurance was given that the Dutch agreement to send 75 per cent. of fats into Germany would not be continued. Holland has not broken this agreement.

While some advices have indicated that Great Britain has not refused to permit all shipments to enter Holland and other northern neutrals, it is known that all American cargoes, even those consigned to the Allies, are traced to their final destination. The United States urged Great Britain to place all its exports to the northern neutrals under severe restrictions, and will consistently stand by the decision that no shipment from this country shall find its way to any of these nations without this Government's consent.

A situation is developing, in the opinion of some, where America will take the stand that Holland and the southern neutrals must stop exports absolutely to all countries involved in the war if they would obtain foodstuffs from this country, and will urge the Allies to adopt a similar course.

BRITAIN WILL FIGHT TO RESTORE ALSACE, NO MATTER HOW LONG, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE; ASQUITH RIDICULES KUEHLMANN'S SPEECH

Over 100 Punished for German Naval Mutiny; Discontent Began at Start of New U-Boat War

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—According to reports here, the discontent in the German Navy began eight months ago, and the men of the fleet had reached such a nervous state, owing to the prolonged high tension, that only a spark was needed to cause an explosion.

On board the warships involved it is said large numbers of pamphlets were found dealing with the cause of the war and asking why Germany became the most hated nation in the world. Others dilated on the influence of Junkerdom and the big manufacturing interests and purported to give the truth about "the men behind the war."

Fairly reliable accounts put the number of men condemned to penal servitude at thirty, whose sentences range from five to fifteen years, while 80 to 100 were given lighter sentences.

The Vorwärts in its report of the Reichstag debate quotes Herr Haase, Socialist leader, as saying that the condemned sailors were accused of distributing pamphlets, given them by Deputy Dittman, which were lawful pamphlets which had been passed by the censor.

The eight months' period mentioned in the dispatch would put the beginning of the discontent in the German Navy early in February, on the first of which month the unrestricted submarine war began. Just at that time there was inevitably a great increase in the strain on the submarine crews. The new campaign also necessitated larger drafts from other ships in the navy to make up those crews and replace losses.

Michaelis Used Navy Mutiny to Score a Political Coup

Averted Threatened Vote of Censure by Springing Plot Charge on Socialists, Thus Splitting Coalition—Rebound Likely if Charges Are Not Proved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 11.—Chancellor Michaelis has won, for the time, at least, his struggle with the Reichstag majority. His dramatic disclosure of the naval mutiny at Wilhelmshaven not only broke up the combination against Vice Chancellor Helfferich and the Government, but also enabled him once again to evade the threatening crisis over the question of official annexationist propaganda in the army.

The Wilhelmshaven revelation is a classic example of the political red herring, the Reichstag Opposition being completely thrown off the original scent. The actual crisis depended on two simple factors—first, the Reichstag heartily dislikes Helfferich, and, as Georg Bernhard said in the Vossische Zeitung, believes him to have muddled every State undertaking with which he has been intrusted. Helfferich is kept in power, his opponents assert, solely by the enormous Berlin banking influence, whose representative he is. The second factor was the official character of the support for the annexationist Fatherland Party, which has been gaining strength even in quarters where hitherto the majority party has been paramount. This was largely achieved by an assumption of nonpartisan character.

These were the main factors on which at the end of last week a solid Reichstag majority had determined to unseat Michaelis and his Cabinet, if it was possible to do so. Both independent and majority Socialist organs emphasize today statements that the mutiny story had absolutely nothing to do with confidence in Helfferich or the Chancellor. According to Michaelis's own statement, the only partly involved in any way in the mutiny was the Independent Socialist, which notoriously votes against the Government on all occasions.

Nevertheless, the majority backbone was so weak that this revelation was enough to destroy its fighting unity. The complete overturning of parties is considered a strong indication that some sections of the majority were only waiting for a sufficient excuse to change front. Until the question was brought out in the Reichstag not one word regarding the naval mutiny had leaked out.

The Vossische Zeitung and the Tageblatt both describe the von Capelle disclosures as incautious, untimely, and ineffective. The former says that the Chancellor was alone responsible for the "regrettable coup following all too closely on the insolent action of Helferich." Even the Annexationist Cologne Volkszeitung states today that the crisis is still acute.

Vorwärts roundly asserts that Michaelis has played his last trump badly and lost the game. His retirement, the paper says, is imminent.

If newspaper statements correctly represent the feeling in the Reichstag, it would appear that the majority may yet hold together sufficiently to unseat Michaelis and his Cabinet. As usual, the attitude of the Centrists is not clear, though the Centrist Volkszeitung refers to the possibility that von Kühlmann or von Bülow may soon succeed Michaelis. Von Kühlmann undoubtedly has acquired a repute as a strong man, but it is possibly significant that the press and the Reichstag during the debates have been busily discussing the merits and demerits of von Bülow's policy.

Michaelis's Control Now Complete.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Wednesday, Oct. 10, (via London, Oct. 11.)—The serious political crisis which sprang up in Germany at the week end, and to all appearances fizzled out badly on Monday, had a highly sensational sequel yesterday which split the Democratic bloc and left the Government decidedly the master of the field.

Chancellor Michaelis and his colleagues can congratulate themselves on the success of what the Pan Germans will certainly regard as strong and decisive leading. The net result of the few days' proceedings is that he has established himself more firmly than ever in the Government saddle, has secured the confirmation in office of his ultra Pan German colleague, Dr. Helfferich, and has dealt a severe and telling blow at the forces which have been rising against him.

Two points are remarkable in this affair. The first is the astounding admission by Vice Admiral von Capelle of the effect of the Russian revolution on the men of the German fleet. It is highly unlikely that he would admit more than he was absolutely forced to admit, and it is most probable that the naval authorities had to deal with an extremely serious condition.

The second point is the curious respect which the authorities have shown for the immunity of Reichstag Deputies, all the more curious when the Liebknecht case is recalled. Persons deemed guilty, who were said to have met with a "deserved fate" were dealt with without the three Deputies who are accused of having aided and abetted the treasonable proceedings being examined or proceeded against in any way, although it was obvious that the most ordinary conception of justice demanded they should have been heard in their own interest and on behalf of the men in the navy who have been accused and condemned.

Under the cover of this revelation the Government managed to dispose of the Independent Socialist vote of censure, two of the majority parties siding with the reactionaries and leaving the two Socialist parties in a hopeless minority regarding a matter which would have had the support of all the democratic parties had they possessed backbone or political skill. Though the motion of the Independent Socialists represented the feeling which the majority parties have been expressing during the last few days—that the Government reply to the interpellation on the Pan German agitation in the army and official world was inadequate and completely unsatisfactory—the Progressive and Centre parties went over to the Junkers and left the Government in full control of the situation.

The revelations are certain to introduce a great additional degree of bitterness into the party struggle, and that may have some effect on the situation, but the instability of the majority bloc leaves little hope for anything but continued complete command by the Pan Germans.

SOCIALISTS REUNITED AGAINST CHANCELLOR

German Observers Predict Reaction Which May Cost Michaelis His Post.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 11.—Regarding the attempt of Chancellor Michaelis, Vice Chancellor Helfferich and Minister of the Navy von Capelle to use the plot in the German navy as a political weapon against the party of the Extreme Left in the Reichstag, it is not improbable, German political observers say, that the Chancellor, in an hour of apparent success, sowed the seeds of his own downfall.

Results are not to be expected immediately, as the Reichstag adjourned today until Dec. 5, but the new conditoins of German political life, it is contended, will undoubtedly from now on work against von Bethmann Hollweg's successor. The immediate results of the disclosures of Chancellor Michaelis and Vice Admiral von Capelle have been that the Government Socialists have been driven into alignment with the Radical Socialists, that the followers of Philip Scheidemann have delivered a formal declaration of war against the Government until Chancellor Michaelis has been removed from office, and that the Radicals, the members of the Centre, and even the National Liberals, have criticised and condemned the Michaelis-Capelle move as one which ought not to have been made unless the Government had full, adequate proof of the complicity of the three Radical Socialists named in an actual conspiracy to mutiny—proof which, they evidently believe, the Government will be unable to produce.

Stripped of its embellishments, the Government statement reduced itself to the charge that agitation to enroll members for the Radical Socialist Party had been carried on in the navy, that leaflets had been distributed, and that two of the sailors shot for mutiny had visited Deputies Haase, Vogtherr, and Dittman.

The three Socialists made a great play of the fact that the Government had made no attempt to bring them to trial before or after the court-martial at

"Faith, Hope, and Charity" Required to Accept Peace Terms, Ex-Premier Asserts.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Premier Lloyd George, addressing a delegation of insurance committees, which called today to urge a readjustment of health insurance and the establishment of a Ministry of Health, said that all the nation's thoughts and energies were taken up by the terrible demands made in defense of liberty. He wished he could see the end, but the task which the nation had taken in hand must be accomplished.

The Premier said he could not think of any statement more calculated to prolong the war than the assertion of the German Foreign Secretary, von Kühlmann, that Germany would never contemplate the making of concessions to France respecting Alsace-Lorraine.

However long the war lasted, said Mr. Lloyd George, England intended to stand by her gallant ally, France, until she redeemed her oppressed children from the degradation of a foreign yoke. This meant that the country must husband its resources, and, when demands were put forward for improvements here and there, his answer was: "Concentrate upon victory."

For the moment every claim upon the exchequer must be considered in the light of the terrible possibilities of the war, and when the war was over, in a freer, happier atmosphere the country could begin to reconstruct and regenerate.

Asquith Asks Pointed Questions.

Addressing a war aims meeting at Liverpool tonight, H. H. Asquith, former Premier, referred to recent declarations by German statesmen and writers. He said that his previously expressed skepticism regarding the Reichstag's peace resolution was justified by events, for the German parties had been squabbling ever since with infinite acrimony concerning its orthodox interpretation, and confusion had become worse confounded with the publication of the Chancellor's reply to the Papal note.

Doubtless, said Mr. Asquith, in both Germany and Austria there was a widespread and genuine desire for peace, and in the Reichstag itself, slender as were its powers and divided its councils, there were indications of a growing spirit of revolt against the Government methods.

"But," continued Mr. Asquith, "the dominant fact with which we have to deal is neither German public opinion nor the German Parliament, but the German Government. Does that Government mean business? Is its desire for peace sincere?

"Depend upon it, the world will never find the way to peace through a morass of equivocations and ambiguities. Plain questions and concrete cases are studiously avoided. We are left in the dimness of a rhetorical twilight and we are asked to lay down our arms without other safeguard than that we shall be offering a unique exhibition of the three virtues, faith, hope, and charity."

"Allies Must Be Resolute."

Admitting that nobody pretends that it would be right for either side to formulate an ultimatum, detailed and exhaustive, which must be accepted chapter and verse as an indispensable condition of peace, and that many things must be left for accommodation and adjustment by negotiation, Mr. Asquith said that at the same time the Allies must be resolute and definite in their assertion of the means by which peace must be attained.

He referred to the speech of von Kühlmann respecting Alsace-Lorraine and said:

"German diplomacy is not celebrated for deftness, but even in its annals it will be difficult to find a more clumsy or more transparent manoeuvre than this maladroit attempt to sow discord between ourselves and our French allies. Von Kühlmann relegates the Belgian question to a secondary position.

"I have formally asked whether Germany was ready to restore Belgium in the only real sense acceptable to the Allies, but I have received no answer, and von Kühlmann, who can be boisterously definite and precise concerning Alsace-Lorraine, preserves regarding Belgium an unbroken, but significant, silence."

No Danger of Starving Britain.

Concluding with an allusion to the general situation, Mr. Asquith said:

"If it is to be a contest of endurance, we have no reason to lose heart or hope. During the last fortnight our unconquerable troops have [illegible] things, both in Flanders and Mesopotamia. There is still need of economy and good organization in the consumption of necessary commodities, but not the slightest danger of our being starved into submission.

"Take the Allies as a whole, including America, whose contribution to the common stock becomes every month a growing factor; survey the relative power of endurance of the two sides, measure them by any standard, naval, military, or economic, and, after you have made allowance for every dubious or hazardous contingency, even for the temporary paralysis of Russia as an aggressive force, can there be doubt that the material, no less than the moral, preponderance rests manifestly and increasingly with our cause?"

FORECASTS REICHSTAG ACTION ON ALSACE

May Be Made a State with Democratic Guarantees, Berlin Paper Says.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The Reichstag probably will take a decisive step forward in regard to the question of Alsace-Lorraine within a few days, the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says.

The Reichstag majority supports the idea of the formation of a monarchical federal State with democratic and parliamentary guarantees. The newspaper believes that this plan is favored by the Imperial Government, which has abandoned the scheme of dividing Alsace-Lorraine between Prussia and Bavaria.

In the debate in the Reichstag yesterday, Deputy Conrad Haussmann said that the declaration of Dr. von Kühlmann, the Foreign Secretary—that apart from Alsace-Lorraine there was no absolute bar to peace—was tantamount to a definite undertaking that Belgium should be given up.

"That should be heralded forth to all the nations," the Deputy added.

Gustav Stresemann, Natonal Liberal, said he would not oppose a reduction of armaments, but he thought that disarmament hardly was practical politics.

Count von Westarp, Conservative, said that Germany's answer to the Pope ought to have made it clear that Germany would not undertake to disarm. He hoped that von Kühlmann had not tied himself to yielding Belgium.

Georg Ledebour, Social Democrat leader, dwelt on the damage done to the German cause by the revelations concerning von Luxburg, German Minister to Argentina. He also urged that the populations of occupied territory should be permitted to decide their own fate.

Announcement of Visit Follows That of von Kuehlmann's Trip.

LONDON, Oct 11.—The German Emperor has arrived at Sofia, according to a Central News dispatch from that city.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—Extensive preparations have been made in Sofia to entertain the German Emperor during his visit there.

It is the Emperor's first visit to Sofia, and the Burgomaster has issued a proclamation inviting the population to join in the reception.

A dispatch from Amsterdam Wednesday said that German Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann would proceed at an early date to Vienna, Sofia, and Constantinople. It was said that his mission had important political and peace significance. There have been no reports within the last few days that the German Emperor was to go to Sofia, he having returned from Rumania only ten days ago.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The Reichstag has adopted a bill providing for the rebuilding of the German merchant fleet, according to a dispatch received here from Berlin.

RUSSIANS FORCED BACK ON THE RIGA FRONT

PETROGRAD, Oct. 11.—German troops attacked the Russian lines south of the Pskov Road on the Riga front yesterday and succeeded in pressing back some of the Russian detachments, the War Office announced today. The statement reports renewal of German attempts to fraternize with the Russian forces on the northern front. The text of the statement reads:

Northern Front—In the Riga region the enemy artillery bombarded intensively our advanced posts north of the Pskov highroad. In the Timermani sector, south of this road, the Germans, under cover of strong artillery fire, consisting principally of chemical shells, attacked and pressed back some of our companies. Measures have been taken to restore the position.

In the Liewenhof sector, southeast of Jacobstadt, enemy attempts to renew fraternizations and meetings with our soldiers have been observed.

Western, Southwestern, and Rumanian Fronts—There have been fusillades and scouting.

Caucasus Front—In the Dizaoromar region we captured recently the villages of Marufa and Tchal, ninety-four miles west of Urmia. Two hundred and fifty Kurds were made prisoners, and booty was captured. Two hundred captive Syrians were released. The enemy fled to the right bank of the Great Zab.

Eastern War Theatre—The lively, disturbing fire at many points on the front increased at times on the Rumanian plain and near Braila, which was bombarded by the Russians. In reprisal our batteries fired on Galatz, causing conflagrations.

RUSSIAN CABINET TO STAND BY ALLIES

Makes Known Its Purpose in Declaration to the Country of Its Policy.

PETROGRAD, Wednesday, Oct. 10.—The new Russian Government in a declaration today regarding its participation in the forthcoming allied conference says that while discussing questions connected with the common war the Russian representatives will seek to reach an understanding with the Allies on the basis of the principles proclaimed by the revolutionary Government at its inception.

"The Government," it adds, "will extend its whole strength in support of the common cause of the Allies, to defend the country, to oppose every attempt at the conquest of territory of other nations, and every attempt to impose the will of others on Russia."

In restoring the fighting power of the Russian Army, it is declared, the Government will follow the democratic principles already promulgated by the War Minister. The declaration says:

"The rigorous selection for high command of men whose technical capacity is equal to all the demands of modern warfare, and who at the same time are devoted to the republic as well as the close collaboration of the high command with the naval and military organizations both at the front and in the rear, will constitute the basis of the reorganization of the army."

French Repulse an Attack Near Draelbank—German Guns Active Against British Positions.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Major Gen. Frederick B. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, in his weekly talk today with The Associated Press, after an optimistic review of the last week's work on the British front in Flanders, said:

"We have every right to be confident when we see what our men have done. But the fighting is hard and we do not think that the present series of battles in Flanders is going to end the war. There is a great deal more hard fighting before us. I would say that the importance of getting the American troops here as quickly as possible and in the greatest numbers has not been diminished.

"The word 'steam-roller,' which was so often used in the early days of the war in connection with the Russian army, is exactly the right word to characterize the British advance in Flanders. It is an advance, not rapid, but insistent, irresistible. It goes up hill very slowly, but now it is going down hill and battles are following each other more and more rapidly.

"I want to say a word about the work which has been done behind our lines in preparing for these battles. I don't wish to minimize the U-boat threat, but I can truthfully say that nothing the U-boats have done has delayed for a single hour our work in France. It has not delayed a single round of ammunition or a ration for the soldiers. The British army was never better fed or supplied than today.

"The daily imports of British war material into France last January averaged 11.4 tons per hour; in September they had increased to 24.5. The number of broad-gauge trains run daily in the war zone with British war material numbered 179 in March, 259 in September. The weekly tonnage of narrow-gauge lines in March was 25,000, in September 173,000. The weekly average of war material on the canals in the British war zone was 24,000 tons in March, 62,000 tons in September."

Commenting on the German report that the British had lost 500,000 men in the present series of battles, General Maurice said:

"The figures are grotesque. We have not had that many men engaged. As I have already told you, our casualties have been very light and the German casualties are known to have been 75 per cent greater than ours."

French Repulse Flanders Attack.

In the Ypres sector the German artillery last night bombarded the British positions west of Passchendaele.

Rain fell heavily during the night.

Following is the text of this afternoon's official report:

There was a heavy rain again last night. The enemy's artillery showed considerable activity during the night west of Passchendaele. Otherwise there was nothing of special interest to report.

BERLIN, Oct. 11, (via London.)—Intense artillery fire has been in progress on the Flanders front, where a French attack near Draelbank was unsuccessfully launched. There was no attack by the British. In an air battle in which some eighty machines took part, three Entente airplanes were shot down, according to the official statement, which reads:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In the Flanders coastal sector and between Blankart Lake and Poelcapelle the artillery duel increased in the afternoon to great intensity. Near Draelbank the French again attacked without any success.

On the battlefield east of Ypres the firing was of varying intensity. The British did not attack.

An aerial battle developed in the evening over Zonnebeke and Zandvoorde, in which about eighty airplanes participated. Three enemy aviators were shot down.

MUD THE CHIEF ENEMY AS BRITISH ADVANCED

Latest Flanders Victory Was a Great Triumph Over the Forces of Nature.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN BELGIUM, Wednesday, Oct. 10, (delayed.)—In my message yesterday I described the appalling condition of the ground and of the weather through which the British floundered in their assault toward Houlthulst Forest and Passchendaele. That is the theme of all the men who have been through the swamps and fire of this battle, and it is a marvel that any success could have been gained.

Where the British succeeded—and they took a great deal of ground and many prisoners—it was due to the sheer courage of the men who refused to be beaten by even the most desperate conditions of exhaustion and difficulty; and where they failed, or at least did not succeed in making full progress or holding all the first gains, it was because courage itself was of no avail against the powers or nature, which were in league that night with the enemy's guns.

The brunt of the fighting fell yesterday in the centre upon the troops of the North Country, the hard, tough men of Lancashire and Yorkshire, and it was the Lancashires' day especially, because of these third line Territorial battalions of Manchesters and East Lancashires and the Lancashire Fusiliers, with other Lancashire comrades. There were some among them who went over the bags, as they call it, for the first time, and who fought in one of the hardest battles that has ever been faced by British troops.

Marched for Eleven Hours.

The night march of some of these men who went up to attack at dawn seems to me, who have written many records of brave acts during three years of war, one of the most heroic episodes in all this time. It was a march which in dry, fine weather would have been done easily enough in less than three hours by men as good as these, but it took eleven hours for these Lancashire men to get up their support line; and then, worn out by fatigue that was physical pain, wet to the skin, cold as death, hungry and all clotted about with mud, they lay in the water of the shell-holes for a little while until their officers said: "Turn out, boys!" And they went forward through heavy fire and over the same kind of ground and fought the enemy with his machine guns and beat him—until they lay outside their last objective and kept off counterattacks by the few machine guns that still remained unclogged and the rifles that somehow they had kept dry. Nothing better than that has been done, and Lancashire should thrill to the tale of it, because her sons were its heroes.

At night the lightly wounded men who tried to get back had a desperate time trying to find their way. Some of them walked away to the German lines and were up to the barbed wire before they found out their mistake. It was difficult to get any sense of direction in the darkness, but the German flares helped them. They rose with a very bright light flooding the swamps of "No Man's Land" with a white glare and revealing the tragedy of the battlefield, where many bodies lay still in the bogs, for many Germans had been killed.

Before the darkness the German airplanes came over, as it were, in dense flocks. One Lancashire boy declared that he counted thirty-seven as he lay looking up to the sky from a shell-hole, and they flew low to see where the British had made their line.

Keeping Their Rifles Dry.

Even in the water beyond their belts the men tried to clean their rifles and their bolts from the mud which fouled them, knowing that later on their lives might depend on this. It is a wonderful thing that some counterattacks were actually repulsed by rifle fire and by machine guns, which jam if any speck of dirt gets in the mechanism. That was on the left when the Guards and some old country regiments of England and a little body of Newfoundlanders had fought forward a long way with rapid success. The losses of the Guards in going over were not heavy. The Irish Guards had hardly a casualty on their way to the first objective. They preceded the attack by a tremendous trench mortar bombardment, which so frightened the enemy and caused such loss among them that before the infantry advanced many of them came rushing over to the lines to surrender.

On the second objective there was heavy fighting at a strong place called Strode House, which was surrounded with uncut wire and defended by heavy machine gun fire. The Guards after being checked rushed it from all sides and captured it with all its garrison.

There was more fighting of the same kind further south, at ruins close to Houthulst Forest, on the edge of swamps, which seem to be "No Man's Land" because the ground is too wet for the Germans to live there. Very quickly after the attack the Germans countered heavily on the Guards' left, but the Guards held firm and beat them off.

Further south the English troops and the Newfoundlanders went straight through to their objective, as far as Cinq Chemins Farm, and they had to resist a series of counterattacks, starting before 8:30 A. M. The first of these was shattered by rifle fire and the second by artillery fire, but afterward, owing, no doubt, to heavy shelling, the British line withdrew a little in front of the Poelcapelle Road.

Floods Halted One Attack.

On the left centre of the British attack the progress was not maintained. The ground here was deplorable, as the two streams of Letterhokkerbeek and Stroombeek had been cut through by shellfire, so that their boundaries were lost in broad floods. Mortal men could not pass through them quickly enough to keep up with the barrage, and after desperate struggles the British were forced to withdraw from their forward positions beyond Adler Farm and Burns House.

Around the village of Poelcapelle, now no more than a heap of ruins, there was fierce fighting, and the enemy held out in a brewery, from which he swept the ground with machine-gun bullets, so that all approach was deadly. Some Yorkshiremen here made repeated rushes, but without much success.

It seems that meanwhile, on the extreme right of the attack, some very grim and desperate work was being done by the English troops of the famous old regiments round about Reutel and Polderhoek. At Polderhoek the enemy had a nest of dugouts and machine-gun emplacements behind the château, and, in spite of the British assaults, held them by unceasing fire.

Complete Success at Reutel.

On the north of Polderhoek the British success was complete in an attack on Reutel, although the village was defended by machine guns posted in a cemetery beyond Reutel, and by several blockhouses. These were attacked and taken by some Territorial troops, and the British line of objectives was made good beyond Reutel and Judge Copse, which had been thorns in the side of Haig's troops—spearheads, rather.

For many days splendid and chivalrous work has been done on this part of the ground by the stretcher-bearers. Out of 250 laboring in these fields over 100 were hit, and all of them took the utmost risk to rescue their fallen comrades in the fighting lines. The sappers and pioneers, the transport men and gunners, fought not against an enemy from Germany, but against one more difficult to defeat, and that was the mud, which made all their work misery and hampered them over every yard of ground; but for many hours, in light and darkness, they worked their way forward, making new tracks, struggling up with wagons and mules, keeping communications open with the front line and the troops in support.

The victory is not to be counted so much in numbers of prisoners or in yards of slime as in the spirit of the humble men who worked with all their heart to the last beat against great obstacles and in very foul and cruel conditions. They won through, and that was the great victory.

NEW FRENCH POSITIONS IN BELGIUM A MORASS

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN BELGIUM, Wednesday, Oct. 10, (Delayed.)—The temerity of yesterday's allied offensive has been well justified by the event, but it leaves one a little breathless. To attack persistently, even in weather that multiplies the disadvantages of the ground, or to lose advantage of the enemy's present disorganization and alarm? Commanders must make such difficult choices, and this time it has turned out well. The men at the extreme front, glued to their machine guns on the edge of flooded shell holes, or struggling to establish earthworks, roads, and provisional shelters, are sustained by the feeling that against unheard-of difficulties they have won out so far, and must not lose what has been gained.

There does not, indeed, seem any prospect of such a thing on this front. A few patrol actions have taken place since yesterday afternoon, and a few light attacks—all quite fruitless to the enemy. On the French left the positions have been somewhat improved by the capture of Pategoet Farm, which lies three-quarters of a mile east of Draelbank. On their short but important front the French had perhaps the worst of the weather conditions. The British were largely placed on higher ground, and on the coast the sea winds carry over much of the rain clouds here beyond the Yser. The ground won yesterday is a step toward better conditions, but in itself it is little, if at all, better than that which is left behind. The forest of Houthulst, before which the new front stands, is only forty or fifty feet above sea level, and only thirty feet above the canal. Scientific drainage is of course out of the question, and the war has greatly interfered with the natural drainage of the country. The best hope is that the Allies may get further east before the Winter begins.

For immediate purposes an equal evil is the difficulty of air scouting amid the low-lying clouds, varied with squalls and heavy falls of rain. For the greater part of the time of preparatory bombardment, aerial correction of the guns was simply impossible. The counter-battery work was perfectly accomplished, but inevitably many of the enemy's blockhouses escaped destruction and had to be reduced one by one, as the assault went on. On the left three successive lines of trenches had to be carried. On the right, where the ground rises very slightly, to the hamlet of Veldhoek, the German defenses consisted mainly of ruined farm buildings and concrete machine gun posts. Some bold French aviators followed the infantry advance and helped by their fire to break up enemy groups.

This morning the sky was black again, and the airmen thought themselves lucky to be able to get out for an hour between showers.

GERMANS LOSE VERDUN GAINS.

Break Into French Positions, but Are Promptly Driven Out.

PARIS, Oct 11.—The French yesterday successfully withstood a German attack on the Verdun front. The Germans broke into advanced positions, but were repulsed after a spirited engagement, the War Office reports. Following is the official afternoon announcement:

In Belgium during the night we broke up a German attack delivered east of Draelbank against our positions between Victoire Farm and Pategoet Farm.

On the Aisne front an enemy patrol which was seeking to approach our lines in the region of Cerny was dispersed by our fire.

On the right bank of the Meuse, (Verdun front,) in the region north of Hill 344, the Germans made an attack which enabled them to gain a footing momentarily in portions of one of our advanced trenches. After a spirited engagement, we repulsed the adversary and remained masters of our positions.

During the day the two artilleries were active at various points along the front, particularly in the region of the Chevregny Ridge, south of the Butte du Mesnil, where our fire arrested enemy groups who attempted to reach our small posts, and on the right bank of the Meuse. There were no infantry actions.

BERLIN, Oct. 11, (via London.)—Important ground in Chaume Wood, north of Verdun, was captured by German troops from the French yesterday and held against strong counterattacks, Army Headquarters announced today. Other inroads were made upon the French lines in the Verdun region.

Front of the German Crown Prince—On the east bank of the Meuse, Lower Rhenish and Westphalian battalions, after effective artillery preparation, wrested important ground in Chaume Wood from the French by a powerful assault. The enemy launched four counterattacks, all of which were repulsed, with sanguinary losses. More than 100 prisoners were taken and some machine guns fell into our hands. Southwest of Beaumont, and near Bézenvaux also, some advances into the French lines were entirely successful.

PERSHING FELICITATES HAIG ON HIS VICTORIES

British Commander Expresses Hope That Americans Will Soon Join in Battle.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 11.—The recent operations in Flanders have brought many congratulatory messages to the British troops. Field Marshal Haig has issued a norder of the day containing a number of dispatches received on Oct. 5 and the replies sent to them. General John J. Pershing, Commander of the American Expeditionary Force in France, telegraphed:

"Permit me to extend sincere congratulations to you and your magnificent army upon the recent important gains in front of Ypres. They give a striking answer to the weak-kneed peace propaganda."

Field Marshal Haig sent this answer:

"I wish to thank you very heartily in behalf of the British army under my command for your most kind telegram. We look forward to the day when the American armies join us on the western front, and we are quite confident that the Allies, so reinforced, will fight the war to an early and decisive issue."

SOCIALISTS REUNITED AGAINST MICHAELIS

Wilhelmshaven on Aug. 30, and they argued that the crown prospector would not have missed such an opportunity if he had any evidence upon which to convict them. This argument evidently appealed to all but the Conservatives, and it has dictated the attitude of a large share of the press which, despite dislike for the Radical Socialists, takes the view that Chancellor Michaelis misused the affair for political capital.

The newspapers intimate that toward the close of the Reichstag session, Deputy Haase and his Radical Socialist colleagues appeared rather in the rôle of accusers than of the accused. They print in large type Deputy Ledebour's ironical interjection as Chancellor Michaelis rose to reply: "The prisoner will now take the stand."

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The Cologne Gazette expresses surprise that the Government "when it had such strong proofs of guilt against three persons suspected of treason did not ask the consent of the Reichstag to take legal measures. No Reichstag would have been able to refuse consent." The newspaper complains that the treatment of the affair in the Reichstag will be explained abroad to the disadvantage of Germany.

CHARGED AGITATION TO WEAKEN THE ARMY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Monday, Oct. 8, (via London, Oct. 11.)—The general opinion among politicians after the Chancellor's speech in the Reichstag today is that a crisis has been passed without leaving any hard feelings behind, except in the Socialist ranks, and that Dr. Helfferich will be installed as Vice Chancellor with all honor and the pecuniary compensation due his new office. As far as Helfferich's position is concerned, it may be mentioned that, although the party leaders and a majority of the members of the Centrists, Progressives, and Liberals seem to have accepted him for the sake of harmony, their party organs leave no doubt that it must have been a bitter pill for them to swallow.

The Reichstag Assembly Hall and lobbies were crowded early in the morning with an eager public that wanted to hear the Chancellor's last word on the propaganda which the Fatherland Party has conducted at the front. Nearly all the State Secretaries, accompanied by members of their staffs, were lined up to the right of President Kaempf's cathedra, behind which army and navy officers of high rank crowded like a solid wall.

When the Chancellor took the floor he attacked, with more temperament than he had displayed previously, the remarks of the preceding Socialist speaker, whom he accused of having placed himself and his party outside the pale of patriotic parties and of having conducted an agitation in the army and navy that would have hurt the German cause if those elements had not refused to be affected by it. These remarks caused a storm of indignation in the Independent Socialist ranks and applause in nearly every other part of the House.

Then the Chancellor proceeded to outline the "enlightening campaign" conducted officially at the front. The soldiers themselves, he said, were grateful for this work of enlightening them. They were instructed as to the reasons for certain political manifestations in enemy countries, were told of economic conditions that would confront Germany after the war, and were also made conversant with the idea that the enemy, after giving up the battle of arms as futile, would seek other means of depriving Germany of the fruits of victory. Much of this work, the Chancellor said, consisted in making clear why certain sacrifices were demanded both of those at the front and at home.

The Chancellor especially emphasized that Field Marshal von Hindenburg insisted that party politics should be excluded from the "enlightening campaign." His voice grew considerably in volume as, in conclusion, he emphasized in unmistakable terms that he still stood on the platform of the Reichstag's peace resolution, but as long as the enemy desired German territory nothing could be done toward bringing peace. When he closed there was tremendous applause all over the House except at the extreme right and extreme left.

SAYS MICHAELIS MUST GO.

Vorwaerts Calls Him an "Incapable Statesman."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The Vorwärts, which, in common with other German newspapers, arrived here after eighteen hours' delay, contains a scathing attack on Chancellor Michaelis. Referring to the Michaelis-von Capelle hints of the existence of a conspiracy in the navy, with wide ramifications, and that certain Deputies participated in the revolt, it says:

"Enemy countries will rejoice and will not believe that this is a ridiculous exaggeration invented by an incapable statesman, unable to find other means to justify himself. It was not a revolutionary conspiracy, but a case of military revolt, such as, in view of the protracted war, has doubtless occurred in other countries, and no shadow of proof has been adduced to show that Deputies were concerned in it."

Declaring that, unless the Deputies were arraigned, the statements of Chancellor Michaelis and Admiral von Capelle, would be branded as frivolous, it says:

"Dr. Michaelis and Admiral von Capelle have offered a toast to foreign countries of the prospective triumph of Bolshevikism in Germany. With clumsy fists they have pushed the independent Socialists into the limelight. Michaelis must go. A falsely understood sense of duty has induced this man to assume a post for which he is in nowise fitted.

"When Deputy Neumann mentioned von Bethmann Hollweg's name the Reichstag gave the ex-Chancellor an ovation. We who have combated von Bethmann Hollweg must say that compared with the present Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg was a giant.

"When Dr. Michaelis ended his second speech his words sank into a grave of silence. Even the Conservatives seem to have lost interest in this Chancellor. Germany cannot win her defensive war while her fate is directed by threadbare bureaucratic zeal and a narrowminded police spirit. Let an end be made to this tragedy!"

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung, in dealing with the situation, says:

"In attacking the Independent Socialists the Chancellor seems to have failed to understand that he was attacking not only certain members of the Reichstag but thousands of loyal soldiers, munition workers, and agriculturists. Does the Chancellor believe his expression of indignation will suffice to turn these men from the party to which they belong?"

Herr Simon, a Deputy in the Reichstag, has left the majority Socialist Party to join the Independent Socialists, says the International Korrespondenz. Four other Deputies, it adds, are expected to take similar action. Three of the four are Ewald, [illegible], and Hugel of Baireuth.

Those guilty of complicity in the [illegible] to paralyze the German Navy through mutinies should be handled with iron severity, says the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette of Essen. It adds:

"They are liable to the death penalty. Liebknecht (the German Socialist leader now in prison) was properly dealt with, and in the present case there can only be similar action."

POSEN URGES PEACE MOVE.

Wants Russia to Take Lead on Basis of No Annexations.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

PETROGRAD, Tuesday, Oct. 9, (via London, Oct. 11.)—The Novaya Zhizn publishes today a letter on peace from Baron Rosen, former Russian Ambassador at Washington and Tokio. The juxtaposition of Rosen with the Novaya Zhizn is incongruous, but he says other papers refused to print his letter.

The substance of his long communication is that the time has come to conclude peace on the principle of no annexations and no indemnities, and that the Allies should take the initiative in making proposals. Rosen dwells on the fact that in the Reichstag peace resolution this principle was formally admitted and that allusion was made to the Reichstag resolution in the German Government's reply to the Pope. He insists that the demand of the Allied press that Germany should come forward with concrete terms of peace is unjustifiable.

"To any one who has ever had anything to do with negotiations," he continued, "it is clear that the action of the German Government is dictated by a realization of the impossibility of securing what is customarily described as a 'German peace.' Our coalition, on the other hand, with the entry of the United States on our side, has acquired a material power and moral authority which is entirely sufficient, despite the weakening of our front, to permit us, if we really desire it, to cause the German Government and the German governing caste on which it relies, to submit now to the will of all mankind, expressed in the clear form of a proposal having the character of an ultimatum and based on the principles of right and justice for all."

Baron Rosen concludes by severely criticising the Russian Foreign Office for its failure to open negotiations with the Allies, with the object of securing peace on the principle of no annexations or indemnities.

CHARGES A PLOT TO BALK HOME RULE

SINN FEINERS LENDING AID?

Their Propaganda in Ulster Said to Work Harm to the Constitutional Cause.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The Sinn Feiners have been devoting special attention to their propaganda in Ulster, where several meetings have been addressed by the leaders of the movement. The effect, as reflected in the press, is to harden Ulster Unionists' opposition to any form of home rule by strengthening their conviction that it must mean separation.

The supporters of the Irish Party regard the Sinn Fein Ulster campaign as likely to hand over Ulster seats to the Unionist party. At present Ulster returns a majority of members pledged to home rule, but in some cases the majority by which the seat is held is very small, and if there were a general election the result of the Sinn Fein dissension might be the loss of seats and the establishment of a Unionist majority in Ulster.

Richard McGhee, a member of the Irish Party and M. P. for Mid-Tyrone, in a speech in that constituency charged that there existed a conspiracy to weaken the constitutional movement for home rule. He said that "soon after the Parnell Commission a society was formed in Canada and New York among the supporters of the Orange Party in Ulster to carry on the work that had been carried on by the British Home Office under the Tory Government." That society, he said, had carried on the work of the secret service in finding agents of the Le Caron type and paying them through the Clan-na-Gael. The society had been more than usually active since the Home Rule bill came into discussion about four years ago, and he was told in New York that it was its agents who supplied the funds to pay for the useless arms that were landed at Howth, which the British or Dublin Castle people knew all about before they had been dispatched from New York.

"In the County of Tyrone," he said, "there has been one of the active agents of this spy factory working for years past, and the sole purpose was first to ensnare the people and then betray them, just as was done in the days of Parnell by Jim MacDermott, whom Davitt exposed."

The Sinn Feiners continue to talk of securing Irish interests at the Peace Conference, but they no longer place the same reliance on the aid of America. The Freeman's Journal, the organ of the Irish Party, commenting on this, says:

"It is not possible at the present moment to carry on a policy of hampering America in the prosecution of the war, the policy upon which the American Sinn Feiners have embarked, and to preserve at the same time the good-will of the American Government and the American people. That good-will has evidently been put out of their reckoning by the Sinn Fein party, a fact of which the Irish people, unless they have lost all their intelligence, will be able to understand the significance.

"The interested intrigues of Germany is a poor exchange for American good-will, for it must be obvious that in any peace conference the Germano-Austrian policy will be to belittle as far as possible the rights of small nationalities. The measure of German support for Ireland's claim must be the measure of liberty that Austria is prepared to concede to her own nationals. There could not be a more fatuous policy than to place the national cause of Ireland at the disposal of powers whose self interest it is to limit the political and commercial rights of the small nations so far as they can limit those rights."

Meanwhile the result of the Irish Convention will be announced long before there is any question of a peace conference, and if the result is a good scheme of home rule the general opinion is that it will reunite the country. According to current gossip as to its proceedings, the plans of home rule debated are on very broad lines, going beyond the provisions of the Home Rule act, now suspended on the statute book. Every effort is being made to meet the difficulty of Northeast Ulster without partitioning Ireland, and, once that difficulty is overcome, good judges say that an entirely new face will be put on Irish politics.

The effect of the Sinn Fein propaganda on Ulster feeling is regarded from two different points of view. One set of critics say that the Sinn Fein doctrine of absolute separation is alarming Ulster Unionists and making an arrangement with them hopeless. Another set of critics contend that the action of the extremists facilitates the co-operation of all Irishmen of moderate views, and that the Ulstermen will join the constitutional movement toward home rule the more readily when they see that by so doing they will be assisting the general body of Irish Nationalists to reduce to insignificance the revolutionary movement.

ITALIANS CAPTURE AUSTRIAN DESTROYER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Italian Navy Department has announced the capture of an Austrian destroyer in the Adriatic, according to semi-official advices from Rome today. The Austrian ship surrendered without firing a shot.

The Italian newspaper Idea Nazionale says this episode recalls the conduct of the crew of the Italian destroyer Turbite, which, having been surrounded by enemy destroyers, fought to the last shot and then was sunk by its own men rather than surrender. The newspaper contrasted the two incidents and declared they illustrated the difference in the morale of the Austrian and the Italian navies.

The military court at Rome has convicted three men of high treason for having attempted to blow up the military and naval defenses of the harbor of Genoa and for having actually destroyed the dynamite factory at Cencio. A dispatch from the Italian capital received here today said that the three criminals were sentenced to be shot, and two other persons, who were cognizant of the plots but failed to notify the authorities, thus becoming accomplices under the Italian law, were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

ROME, Oct. 11.—Today's War Office statement on military operations reads:

"On the whole front there were no important events."

SOLDIERS MOURN PAPA.

General Killed by Sniper Buried on Day They Were to Honor Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 9.—Italy has lost another General fighting at the front. He was the hero of the conquest of the mountain "Five Hilltops," a description of which was cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES on Oct. 2. General Achille Papa was one of those beings born to command, and an ardent patriot. He shared all the fatigues and discomforts of this terrible campaign with his soldiers, who reciprocated his solicitude for them with blind devotion, going gladly to death if it was the wish of their commander.

General Papa planned and executed the capture of Five Hilltops on the Bainsizza Plateau, and then withstood terrible Austrian counterattacks. He remained four days and four nights among his soldiers, participating in their danger. The enemy had been already routed when, as he was making his usual inspection of the newly erected defenses, an enemy sniper shot at him at such close range that the ball passed through the shoulder of a Major near Papa and penetrated the latter's lungs. A few hours later he died.

His funeral today was a touching spectacle, for his soldiers, who had selected this very day to present him with a sword of honor, showed their emotion freely. Toscanini, formerly conductor of the Metropolitan Orchestra in New York, conducted the music at the ceremony.

D'ANNUNZIO LED AIR RAID.

Poet, Now a Major, Also Planned Recent Attack on Cattaro.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Oct. 9.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, who was lately promoted to be a Major, organized and directed the recent raid over Cattaro, which, after Pola, is the greatest Austrian stronghold in the Adriatic. No dangerous raid has occurred since the beginning of the war in which d'Annunzio has not participated. This time he planned one of the most daring expeditions undertaken, both because of the distance to be covered and the formidable defenses protecting Cattaro.

Before his departure d'Annunzio had supper with his companion aviators and harangued them. He reminded them that they were starting on the day of St. Francis, "the most Italian among the saints and the most saintly among the Italians," who has been the patron of sea passengers since he left Ancona to go to the Holy Land and marked across the waters the sea belonging to Italian influence.

AIRMAN SILENCES GUNS.

British Naval Flier Worsts a German Anti-Aircraft Battery.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—An official statement on British naval aerial operations issued today says:

"On Tuesday and Wednesday naval air patrols attacked enemy trenches by machine gun fire. One pilot, being heavily shelled by anti-aircraft guns, descended and attacked the gun crews, scattering them and silencing the guns.

"Early on Wednesday naval raids were made on the Thourout & Lichtervelde Railway junctions and trains. Large quantities of explosives were dropped. All our machines returned."

BREAK WITH BERLIN EXPLAINED BY PERU

Official Statement of Her Attitude in War Is Made to Washington.

GERMAN ACTS INTOLERABLE

Southern Republic Strongly in Favor of Joint Action by All Nations of This Hemisphere.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A complete and gratifying official statement of the attitude of the Peruvian Government reached Washington today in a telegram from Francisco Tudela, the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Peru, to Secretary Lansing, formally acquainting this Government with the successive steps that led to the rupture between Germany and Peru. The note reads:

"From the beginning of the great war in which the most powerful peoples of the world are involved, the Peruvian Government has strictly performed the duties imposed upon it by international law and has loyally maintained the neutrality of the republic, trusting that its neutral rights would in turn be respected by the belligerents, but when the conflagration spread to the American continent—notwithstanding the efforts exerted for nearly three years by the United States Government to keep that great people out of the conflict—Peru was confronted by new duties springing from its passionate desire for the continental solidarity that has ever been the goal of its foreign policy, and by the necessity of defending its rights from the new form of maritime warfare set up by Germany.

"That was the reason why, on receiving notice of the belligerency of the United States caused by the proceedings of the Berlin Government in violation of international law, the Peruvian Government, far from declaring itself neutral, recognized the justice of the stand taken by the Washington Government. And for the same reason the President of Peru, in his message to Congress, and the Minister for Foreign Affairs, in the Chamber of Deputies with the express approval of the Parliament, solemnly affirmed the adhesion of our country to the principles of international justice proclaimed by President Wilson.

"It was the Peruvian Government's wish that the policy of the whole continent be a concerted ratification of the attitude of the Washington Government, which took up the defense of neutral interests and insisted on the observance of international law. But the course of events did not result in joint action; each country shaped its course in defense of its own invaded rights as it was individually prompted in its adherence to the principles declared by the United States. Peru, for its part, while endeavoring to give prevalence to a uniform continental policy, mantained with the utmost firmness the integrity of its rights as a sovereign nation in the face of Germany's disregard of the principles of naval warfare.

"It was the defense of those rights which led it to sever its diplomatic relations with the Imperial Government as the result of an outrage for which it duly but vainly claimed appropriate reparation—the sinking of the vessel Lorton by a German submarine on the coast of Spain while the ship was plying between neutral ports engaged in a lawful trade without infringing even the German rules respecting closed zone unknown to international law.

"The reluctance of the Imperial Government to meet our just demands according to the general principles of international law; the very arbitrary rules laid down by that Government, and the unsuccessful presentation of a precedent in an analogous claim favorably entered by it—these are the facts in which Peru reads the complete lack of justice that marks the course of the German Government's policy and the sound foundation there is for effort to check that policy so as to establish in the world a juridical standard that will forever cause justice to prevail in international relations.

"The contents of this message and the documents which I shall forward to your excellency will enable your Government to acquaint itself with the fundamental grounds upon which our attitude rests, and also with the negotiations with Germany above referred to, which the Government has now brought to an end by recalling the Minister of the Republic at Berlin and delivering his passports to the representative of Germany at this capital, with the express approval of the Parliament.

"I avail myself of this opportunity to tender to your excellency the assurances of my high and distinguished consideration."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The Uruguayan Chargé d'Affaires in Berlin has notified the German Foreign Office that relations between Uruguay and Germany have been severed, according to a dispatch received from Berlin. The dispatch adds that the Chargé also requested his passports.

Queen Receives Minister Garrett.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—John W. Garrett, American Minister to the Netherlands, presented his credentials this morning to the Queen. Mr. Garrett succeeds the Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke.

WIDEN ASKED TO FORM NEW SWEDISH CABINET

Lindman Meanwhile Dickers with Germany for Supply of Grain and Potatoes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 10.—The King today intrusted Johan Widen, Governor of the Province of Jemtland and Speaker in the Second Chamber, to form a Government. Widen is a Liberal, but does not formally belong to the Liberal Party, which he left in 1914 when he was appointed Speaker.

I am informed that Widen will try to form a coalition Government, in which the Liberals and Socialists will be in the majority. The basis of such a Government would be strict neutrality in foreign affairs and constitutional reform at home on lines laid down in the Liberal reply to the King's recent appeal.

An official communiqué issued last night announces that negotiations have been opened between the Swedish and German Governments regarding the import of large quantities of corn and potatoes from Germany into Sweden. Commenting upon this news Mr. Branting's organ, the Social Demokraten, says:

"While the Government crisis is still on, Mr. Lindman, the Foreign Minister, is making arrangements with Germany. The immediate gains are obvious, but what is yet more obvious is that it will react on our chances of getting anything in from the other side. Thus a Government which only remains in power pending its discharge is binding our whole commercial policy for the future.

"Need it be added that these decisions, which will probably prove decisive to the whole position of Sweden in the world, have been made in secret committee, without any conference with representatives of the Parliamentary majority. The Conservatives go on governing as though no election ever had taken place. One has the impression of a governing clique determined to act for its own part to the last. If this goes on a real danger to our people may rise."

FIVE FRENCH SHIPS SUNK.

Italians Lost Four Vessels Last Week and Norwegians None.

PARIS, Wednesday, Oct. 10.—Three French steamers of more than 1,600 tons were sunk by mines or submarines during the week ended Oct. 7. Two vessels of less than 1,600 tons were lost and eight ships were attacked without success. Six fishing boats were sunk.

ROME, Wednesday, Oct. 10.—In all seas last week two Italian steamers of more than 1,500 tons and two of less than 1,500 tons were sunk by mines or submarines. One sailing vessel of more than 100 tons also was lost. One steamer and one sailing vessel were attacked without success.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Not one Norwegian ship was sunk last week by German submarines, for the first time in more than a year, according to a dispatch to The Morning Post from Christiania. The Tidens Tegn of Christiania prints a diagram purporting to show that Norwegian sinkings have decreased as the efficiency of the Allies in dealing with submarines has increased.

NIP PLOT TO SUPPLY METAL TO GERMANY

NEEDED FOR SUBMARINES

New Ship Bomb Plot Indictment Reveals Romantic Story of Carl Schimmel's Spy Work.

Waldemar Adams, Robert Collin, and Fritz Oerundahl were arrested yesterday, charged with conspiracy to smuggle tungsten out of the United States into Scandinavia. Tungsten, which is an essential in the manufacture of certain kinds of high-grade steel, is one of the things most needed by the Germans in the production of submarine and airplane parts. The arrests followed an all-night search of the Scandinavian-American liner United States in Hoboken by Customs Inspectors Emmet J. Kyte, Michael J. Collins, and Elmer J. Lewis, who acted on information gathered by James F. McConnichie, a special agent of the Treasury Department.

For three nights the Customs Inspectors watched the liner before they decided to make the search. They noted that Oerundahl, a Dane, frequently left the ship and that he generally seemed to be in a hurry, especially when he returned. On Wednesday night, when he came back after one of his trips, the customs men seized him and found in his pocket a check for a package left in the Grand Central Terminal. One of the Inspectors went to the Grand Central and redeemed the package, which proved to be a suitcase containing eight wrapped packages, each containing five pounds of tungsten.

It was then decided to search the vessel. It was 4 o'clock yesterday morning when the customs men began their ransacking of the liner, which lasted for hours. The Scandinavian sailors were ordered to get up, so that their bunks could be examined, and when the search of their quarters had ended the inspectors began an inspection of the state rooms. While going through one of the first-class state rooms, one of the officers felt something hard under his foot. It proved to be the head of a wire nail, and its presence showed that the floor had been tampered with. The floor was ripped up, and under it the officers found thirty-two packages of tungsten.

The arrests followed, and the prisoners were taken to the Federal Building and arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock, charged with violation of that section of the Espionage act which forbids the export from this country of materials needed by the enemy. Adams and Collin are proprietors of a Swedish bookstore at 516 Third Avenue, while Oerundahl is a member of the crew of the United States. Adams and Collin were held in $2,500 and Oerundahl in $3,500 bail to await the action of the Federal Grand Jury.

The Federal Grand Jury handed down an indictment yesterday charging seventeen Germans with plotting, during practically the entire period of the war, to blow up steamships plying between New York and ports of the Allies in Europe.

Among the seventeen is Franz von Papen, once Military Attaché of the German Embassy, who was ordered to quit the country by Secretary Lansing in December, 1915.

Another named in the indictment is Carl Schimmel, a German spy, who was caught through the Rintelen revelations, but was able to convince the Government agents that he was "just a hard working German," whose only desire, as he once expressed it, was "to make an honest living in the United States."

Schimmel had a desk in an office at 51 Chambers Street, and posed as a man on the verge of absolute poverty. His clothes were old and soiled, his shoes always need repairs, and he never appeared in a hat less than two years out of date. He held up his boarding house hosts for weeks and in other ways created the impression that he was almost destitute. One day he was missed from his usual haunts, and six weeks later he was reported safe in Germany. Instead of being all but a pauper he was well to do and one of the keenest spies in the Kaiser's employ.

Eugene Reister, Walter Uhde, and Joseph Zeffert, the three men arrested as principals in the ship bomb plot on Wednesday night, are also named in the indictment, as is Bonford Boniface, who was arrested yesterday.

Boniface is said to be the man who acted as spy, kept track of ships in New York Harbor, and reported to Schimmel and the others plotters the names of all vessels arriving and the places where they docked. Boniface is an American citizen. He was arrested by members of the Bomb Squad, under Captain Tunney, and when asked why he had engaged in the plot, replied: "Well, this country was not then at war, and I thought all was fair in love and war."

Before the prisoners were taken from Police Headquarters to the Federal Building Captain Tunney questioned Martin Ilsen, who was called to Headquarters as a witness. Ilsen, who is employed on the New Yorker Herold, said he was in Schimmel's office in Chambers Street shortly after the Lusitania was sunk, and that Schimmel told him that if the Lusitania had escaped the German torpedo which sent her to the bottom, with the loss of more than 1,400 lives, the liner would have been destroyed before she reached her home port by nine bombs which Schimmel had placed in vital parts of the ship just before she sailed from New York.

The indictment also specifies that on a certain day Schimmel went about New York with three packages in his possession, each containing several bombs of the most destructive type. Schimmel, together with Dr. Walter T. Scheele and Otto Wolpert, the latter a former German steamship pier Superintendent, directed the placing of bombs on the ships which the head spies designated for destruction. Dr. Scheele, who was a Brooklyn druggist, and by his neighbors looked upon as a peaceful, law-abiding citizen, escaped the Secret Service net more than a year ago and was last reported in Brazil.

The others named in the indictment are Carl Schmidt, now serving a two-year term in Atlanta for his plotting; Georg Pradel, Wilhelm Parades, Eno Bode, Ernst Becker, Friedrich Karbade, Wilhelm Klein, Charles von Kleist, and Gustav Steinberg.

Jesus Martinez, the Mexican Vice Consul, who was arrested on Monday, charged with failure to comply with the selective draft law, was before Commissioner Shields yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied to court by Juan T. Burns, the Mexican Consul General, whose instructions he followed in refusing to appear for examination before District Board 145. Burns acted on the supposition that Martinez was a diplomat and not amenable to the laws of the United States. He denounced the board for calling Martinez and referred to the members of it as men on a par "with the savage hordes of Villa." Under the law all aliens are exempted as soon as they appear for examination and submit the proper affidavits to prove they are not American citizens. This Martinez refused to do. The hearing which began yesterday will be resumed some day next week.

GERMANS PLOTTING IN 1909.

Propagandists Opposed British-American Peace Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Germany financed Irish-American propaganda organization in the United States as early as 1909, to combat the movement for celebration of one hundred years of peace between America and Great Britain, President Wilson has learned from leaders in the centenary celebration.

John A. Stewart of New York, Chairman of the American branch of the Centenary Committee, who recently called at the White House with H. S. Perris of London, a leader in the British phase of the movement, brought evidence that within five weeks after announcement of the centenary plans, early in 1909, German and Irish-American interests in the United States formed a number of associations and leagues to foster interest in German affairs.

Most of these organizations, Mr. Stewart informed the President, soon became merged with the American Truth Society, of which Jeremiah O'Leary is President. The British-American peace centenary movement was combated by the German propagandists in a multitude of ways, extending even to lobbying against bills in State Legislatures to promote success of the celebration.

Friends of Irish Freedom Declare They Are Persecuted.

The "Friends of Irish Freedom" made public yesterday a resolution declaring their faith in the loyalty of Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and John Devoy, editor of The Gaelic American, who have been involved in the cablegrams between von Bernstorff and the German Foreign Office, made public by Secretary Lansing.

Here is the resolution:

"We, the members of the John P. Holland Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, declare our unquestionable confidence in the loyalty of Judge Cohalan and John Devoy, whom we believe to be the objects of English hatreds and plotting. We condemn the attempt to assassinate their character and standing in our community by the contemptible methods of the New York press, using, without investigating, the so-called revelations of the Creel committee.

"We further pledge our unanimous support and sympathy to every effort that the aforesaid Hon. Daniel Cohalan and John Devoy shall make, to expose these and all similar and sinister attacks, and we congratulate them for the manly and straightforward answers to the false charges. We further express ourselves as willing to believe the simple word of our patriotic friends, to the questionable oaths of these and all other detractors and British agents."

ASK BISHOP TO RESIGN.

Salt Lake Churchmen Censure His Alleged Unpatriotic Attitude.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 11.—The Right Rev. Paul Jones, Bishop of Salt Lake Diocese of the Episcopal Church, has been asked to resign his position. The demand was made by the Council of Advice, the Vestrymen of St. Paul's Church, and the Dean, Wardens, and Vestrymen of St. Mark's Cathedral parish last night.

In their conviction that Bishop Jones had forfeited his right to be leader of the diocese by his alleged unpatriotic attitude and his membership in associations not in sympathy with the national struggle for human rights and democracy, the Vestrymen at two meetings went on record unanimously condemning him for the stand he has taken toward the Government of the United States.

CONNERS SEEKS POST.

Wants to be Director General of Our Dock Service in France.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—"Fingy" Conners of Buffalo, who once mixed with the longshoremen of the Lake Erie water front on equal terms, became wealthy and, entering politics, was for a time Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New York, appeared in Washington today and applied at the War Department for a job as Director General of Docks.

Conners came because he had heard that three regiments of stevedores were being organized for service on the docks in France. It was stated that they were needed because ships carrying supplies for American troops were frequently held up many days for lack of ability to unload.

"That's the kind of a job I'm fitted for," Conners told a friend here today. 'I'm too old for a private, and I don't know enough to be an officer. But I can unload ships. I can unload ships, no matter how big they are, or how the cargo is stowed, within twenty-four hours."

Conners does not care whether he has military rank or he wears a uniform. His one desire is to get into the thick of the war activities as far as his age and ability will permit. He is willing to sleep on the docks or in a tent or shack.

He is willing to guarantee that there will not be any strikes, and that a week after he takes hold every man will be working for his country first, and "Fingy" Conners second, in a way that will bring results.

TRACED BOLO CALLS TO HALE RESIDENCE

Phone Records Caused Writer to be Questioned About the Frenchman's Activities.

DENIES EVER SEEING HIM

Federal Authorities Locate the Man Who Acted as von Bernstorff's Paymaster.

The investigation of the activities of Paul Bolo Pacha, the French traitor, who was in New York from Feb. 22 to March 17, 1916, signed a contract with von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, to debauch "French public opinion" by buying up various newspapers in France, has not been concluded. The investigation by Attorney General Lewis is still going on, and several witnesses, among them Dr. William Bayard Hale, have been questioned since last Friday. Dr. Hale was subpoenaed at 9:30 o'clock last Saturday night and immediately appeared before Deputy Attorney General Becker at the Murray Hill Hotel. Dr. Hale denied all knowledge of the Bolo affair and stated that he had never even heard the name of Bolo Pacha until he saw it in the newspapers about ten days ago.

The subpoena, which was issued in the name of Governor Whitman, ordered Dr. Hale to bring with him all papers and other data which he might have which had a bearing on the Bolo Pacha case. When Dr. Hale appeared he was asked if he had brought the Bolo data with him, and replied that he had not for the reason that he possessed no such documents, and furthermore that he had never been possessed of any papers of any kind having to do with the affairs or activities of Bolo Pacha. It was then that Dr. Hale informed Mr. Becker that he had never heard of Bolo Pacha until he read the stories of the man's treachery ten days ago.

Traced by Telephone Calls.

Dr. Hale was subpoenaed as a result of the discovery of certain evidence which proved that Bolo Pacha during the three weeks he lived at the Plaza had telephoned several times to the Bonavista apartment house where Hale lives. The State has also come into possession of evidence that Bolo communicated with some "mysterious person" then living in the Bonavista through the employment of private messengers. The messenger slips which record the calling of the messenger boys, as well as the Plaza telephone sheet which record the outgoing calls from Bolo's apartment to the Bonavista are also in the possession of the State, it is said.

When these messenger slips and the Plaza telephone sheets for March and February of last year came into the hands of Attorney General Lewis the manager of the Bonavista was called upon for a list of the families resident in the Bonavista at the time when Bolo was in New York. Dr. Hale was among the tenants, still in the house, who were there in March of last year. Whether any of the others in addition to Dr. Hale were called has not been stated.

Dr. Hale was asked if he knew anything concerning the telephone calls or the communications which Bolo had with the Bonavista by messenger. His answer was an emphatic "No," and a reiteration of his previous statement that he had never heard of Bolo until he saw the accounts of the Frenchman's treachery in the newspapers.

Last night Dr. Hale said that it was true that he had been subpoenaed by the Attorney General in connection with the Bolo case.

"All that I care to say tonight," said Dr. Hale, "is that Mr. Becker was most courteous and candid, and no official could have performed his duty in a more gentlemanly manner."

The man who was named by Hugo Schmidt, the Deutsche Bank agent, as one of the persons to whom he had made a payment on orders from von Bernstorff, has been located by the Federal authorities, and is now the subject of a rigid investigation. The man, who is an American citizen, a wealthy manufacturer in a neighboring city, is said to have been the paymaster in one of the spy plots backed by von Bernstorff and directed by von Papen. The particular plot had to do with the employment of Americans who, as a secret agent expressed it last night, were of the kind "who are for sale, even to the enemies of their country." Several of the men employed in this particular plot are now in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

Schmidt, when testifying in the Bolo case, said he gave this man more than $5,000, adding that he did not remember the exact sum. The Federal agents say that Schmidt made several such payments to the plot paymaster.

Calls Hale German Employe.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11.—The Providence Journal will say tomorrow morning:

"William Bayard Hale's denial of his connection with the American Embargo Conference fails to include any denial of The Journal's charges that he was for a long period in the direct employ of the German Embassy and received a large monthly salary for propaganda work in behalf of Germany. Dr. Hale is also silent on The Journal's declaration that for a long period he occupied the offices of the German Press Bureau in the Hamburg-American Building in New York and sent out his propaganda material from that place.

"It is a remarkable fact that, in spite of Dr. Hale's denial of anybody's authority to use his name on the letterheads of the American Embargo Conference as the Chairman of its National Board, he never attempted to publicly disclaim his connection with that organization until yesterday, and he continued to provide material, prepared by himself, which was sent out in hundreds of thousands of leaflets by the American Embargo Conference."

DISCLOSURES SHOCK HEROLD.

German Paper Convinced Now That Bernstorff Was a Plotter.

Under the heading, "The New Revelations," the New Yorker Herold said editorially:

"It is no disgrace to admit an error. We frankly admit that in former days, when Bernstorff was still in Washington as Ambassador, we often regarded him as an unnecessarily and unjustly persecuted man who didn't have anything to do with the alleged plots against American munition factories. The secret dispatches of the German Government and Bernstorff just made public by Secretary Lansing, however, again furnish, after months, the proof of the correctness of those assertions.

"As American citizens in whose veins German blood flows it was hard for us to believe that the representative of the German people was receiving and carrying out commissions that we, precisely because we are American citizens, must condemn. We had a certain sentimental interest in imagining the Ambassador of the nation with which we of German blood are related to be a man doing his manifest, honest work of representation.

"As we have said, we made a mistake. The dispatches just made public show that the German Government actually used the Ambassador and his aids for the purpose of weaving conspiracies in the United States.

"But the documents exposed to the light of publicity contain more than this evidence. They show at the same time that German-Americanism was not involved in these plots; at least there is nothing in the dispatches that could indicate that American citizens of German origin had anything to do with these things."

The New Yorker Volkszeitung, the organ of the German-speaking Socialists in the United States, printed the following editorial paragraph yesterday morning:

"The latest Washington revelations of the immense stupidity of German diplomacy—we can no longer get excited over the sabotage activities of the German supporters of the present system—at all events demonstrate one thing, i. e., that the Socialist Party cannot be careful and critical enough in its estimate of the birds that are now flying to it. At all events, care should be taken that the new arrivals remain modestly in the background and do not dance in the first line. And the 'bigger' their names the more this applies."

Reports Karolyi in Peace Plot.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch received today from Switzerland contained the allegation that one of the principals in the pro-German plot in which Paul Bolo Pacha tried to set up a pacifist movement in France was Count Michael Karolyi, a Hungarian political leader. The Az Ugsag of Budapest asserts that Karolyi made a secret journey to Switzerland seven weeks ago and while there met M. Caillaux and discussed with him the possibility of a separate peace between France and the Central powers.

POISON TO KILL 1,000 IN AIRMAN'S TRUNK

S. O. Livingood, Student at Princeton, Faces Court-Martial on Governors Island.

GERMAN PLOT SUSPECTED

Prisoner Said to Have Declared That He Intended to Kill Himself—Friends Doubt His Sanity.

Samuel O. Livingood of Zanesville, Ohio, who, until a few days ago, was a student at the aviation training school at Princeton University, is a prisoner on Governors Island, charged with violating the Ninety-sixth Article of War, which, among other things, forbids soldiers of the United States to have deadly poisons in their possession. His arrest at Princeton followed the alleged discovery that he had in his possession enough cyanide of potassium to kill a thousand men.

Livingood will be placed on trial before a Military Court next Monday morning. Lieut. Col. Hudson Patten will be the President of the Court and Major W. E. Ogden will be the Judge Advocate. It will be the first court-martial in the Eastern Department involving a serious war time offense since the United States entered the war.

Other student aviators at Princeton are said to be of the opinion that Livingood is not in his right mind and they do not believe that the youthful prisoner was concerned in any plot for the poisoning of American aviators. It was Livingood's peculiar actions that led to a search of his room by the military authorities at Princeton and the alleged discovery in his trunk of ten ounces of cyanide of potassium, in addition to about six ounces of chloral hydrate.

When questioned by the army officers, Livingood is said to have been unable to explain why he had so great a quantity of the most deadly poisons known in his possession. One of the several explanations he is alleged to have given was that he had contemplated suicide.

The poison was found wrapped in a paper, the package being hidden, according to the charge, in the bottom of the accused student's trunk. It is reported that Livingood secured the potassium cyanide in Trenton and Secret Service agents are looking into that feature of the case. In the event this proves to be the case the seller of the poison will have a chance to explain why he made such a sale to the student.

While the Government authorities are careful to point out that Livingood does not stand accused of having plotted the lives of his comrades of the Aviation Corps, this phase of the case is the subject of a rigid investigation by the Secret Service and the military authorities. That a plot calling for the poisoning of aviation students and officers might be hatched by German spies and plotters in the United States is a fact which is recognized by the Government agents, and one of the investigations now under way is to determine whether or not the wholesale murder of aviators and other soldiers has been plotted by agents and spies of the Kaiser.

A German was recently dismissed from the army and ordered interned as an alien enemy. This man was detected through the interception of a letter he wrote to a friend in Germany. Another soldier, also a German, was court-martialed in Hawaii as a result of his intense German sympathies. He is now serving a sentence in a military prison on the Pacific Coast. About twenty-five other soldiers of known pro-German views have been dropped from the rolls of the army since the declaration of war.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 11.—Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University, tonight confirmed the report that poison had been found in Livingood's room. "Not two pounds, as at first reported," Dr. Hibben said, "but less than one pound." It was discovered, he said, wrapped in paper in the bottom of Livingood's trunk and was "sufficient to poison 3,000 or 4,000 persons." Dr. Hibben said that "although Livingood was regarded as having a strong mind, it was also considered an erratic one. His erratic demeanor, apart from school hours, had led him to be regarded with suspicion." Further than this, Dr. Hibben would not discuss the matter.

Now Being Formed at Spartanburg Camp for Work Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 11.—Coincident with the beginning of the transfer of enlisted men from second to first line units an elaborate military secret service is being formed for work abroad. The men to be assigned to this work are to be picked for daring, alertness, and mentality.

Though headquarters refused to discuss the new service, it was learned that the object of the new branch was to combat efforts such as those of German propagandists who have tried in this country to intimidate soldiers through the circulation of falsehoods. The organization for the Twenty-seventh Division has been placed in charge of Major Edward Olmsted, and an officer has been appointed for each regiment. Five enlisted men from each unit will make up the personnel of spy catchers.

As much of the work will be performed between the battle lines, the work will be rated an honor service, because of the hazards. For quick communication, twenty motor cyclists will be recruited.

A FRENCH NIGHT IN ENGLISH.

Alliance Honors America at Meeting for Andre Tardieu.

For the first time in its history, the French Alliance of New York held a meeting last night at which, with one exception, all the addresses were delivered in English. The exception was the speech of Andre Tardieu, head of the French Commission, in whose honor the meeting was held. Ex-Ambassador Henry van Dyke, President John G. Hibben of Princeton, and State Commissioner of Education Finley were the other speakers.

"There is a special reason why, for the first time in the history of the alliance, a majority of the speeches will be delivered in English," said Charles A. Downer, President of the alliance, in opening the meeting at the Waldorf. "The reason is that, after all, we are an American society and we wish to emphasize our Americanism. It is true that the French Alliance is devoted to spreading the French language in this city, and to the study of what is noblest in French literature, but since France is in danger and America has taken up the sword at her side, we are more concerned with the defense of our country than we are in her literature."

Dr. van Dyke assailed the Germans bitterly in his address, and President Hibben characterized the German hope of world domination as a "damnable idea."

"Let us beware of assuming an air of condescension in going to the aid of France in this war," said Dr. van Dyke. "We must recognize that it is the courage of France that makes victory in the war possible."

Commissioner Tardieu told of the aims of the commission in the United States, of the great strides made by France in producing munitions, and of its determination to continue the fight until Germany was ready to accept a peace that would make another war impossible."

EX-CZAR AT A MONASTERY.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 11.—Nicholas Romanoff, the former Emperor of Russia, and his family have been transferred from Tobolsk, Siberia, to the Abolak Monastery, fourteen miles from Tobolsk. The transfer was made at the request of the former Emperor. He complained that his Tobolsk prison had no garden in which he could exercise and also that he and his family were annoyed by the curious crowds which surrounded the house all day long.

PERSHING'S GUNNERS TRAIN WITH HEAVIES

PRAISE FOR PLATTSBURGERS

Their French Instructors Say They Will Make Splendid Artillery Officers.

By The Associated Press.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Oct. 10, (Delayed.)—Not far behind the American field artillery, which has been in training in a rugged section of France for the last two months, have come the men of the "heavies." They are veteran gunners, many of whom are familiar with the big guns at home, and they greeted almost as comrades the monster French weapons which they are now grooming for eventual use against the Germans.

Some of the guns with which the American artillerymen are training are wonderful and ponderous examples of the French gunmakers' skill and daring. They range from the modest but marvelously effective "155" up to the staggering "400" that hurls a high explosive missile weighing just short of a ton. The 400's are more potent than the Big Berthas ever were in their days of great destructiveness.

In calibre the guns range from the short, squat mortars, which sit upon their haunches like giant frogs, up through the various members of the howitzer family to the truly sinister naval rifles with their long, tapering barrels.

The Americans are delighted with their French weapons, and are busy studying every detail and adapting themselves to the use of French material. Most of the heavy gunners are men of long experience, and do not need much actual firing practice before taking their place in line against the enemy. They have been a little surprised to find that with the big land guns used here speed is not a great factor. These heavy weapons are used for destructive purposes, and there is no special need for haste when dealing with conrete dugouts and other enemy defenses that cannot run away. Accuracy is the great goal of all heavy gunners.

Asked if his men would not find it difficult to shoot without direct observation, the General commanding the heavy artillery contingent replied:

"We will have direct observation here. The only difference will be that the observer, instead of standing beside the gun, will be sitting aloft in an airplane You can depend upon it that each shot we fire at the enemy will be watched and recorded."

The wireless branch of the heavy artillery service is one of great importance. At schools already established radio pupils are being specially trained in communication with airplanes and observation balloons.

Scores of reserve officers from Plattsburg and other training camps are completing their technical education in the artillery schools here. These officers, individually selected for the artillery service because of thir education in higher mathematics and engineering, are proving a great joy to their commanders and instructors. It is predicted that all will make splendid officers in active service.

The American gunners have been much interested in the big 240s, which are hauled by caterpillar tractors, but the real pets with the gunners from overseas are those aristocrats among the heavies which command special railroad cars. Some of these rulers of the cannon world are so important and so valuable that an entire artillery train is devoted to them. These trains are strange-looking affairs in their fantastic war paint, resembling at a distance a mammoth rattlesnake. Even the engines are included in the camouflage and may resemble anything from a brick house to a giant hedgehog.

The French sense of humor cannot be suppressed by three years and more of war. French officers have named one of the largest guns turned over to the Americans "Moustique," which means mosquito.

"It is a compliment to any of your artillerymen who may have come from New Jersey," said the French Commandant who said he had spent ten years on the Eastern coast of the United States.

The French guns, although large and apparently unwieldy, are balanced easily, one man being able to elevate and deflect a weapon weighing fifty tons or more.

pay more money. They now get thirty-three days a year off with pay, but their present demands mean double that time. In addition to their wages they get the equivalent of $18 a month in board, and we provide a place for them to sleep. They also get the 60-cent food allowance when the boats are laid up. The railroads have a system by which the men draw $15 a month for food and they have to provide their own.

"The one great question at issue seems to be the recognition of the union, and under such a clause we could not take on even extra deck hands without employing union men. A great part of harbor work just now is Government work. I should judge that fully 50 per cent. had to do with the shifting of vessels for the Government or in the carrying of Government freight or freight destined for some of the Governments abroad. What will happen, I believe, is that the owners will find the business unprofitable and will tie up their boats. If this is done then the Government may be called in to keep harbor traffic moving."

GARFIELD PROTECTS P. R. R. COAL SUPPLY

Jackson, Lee, Wolfe, Morgan, Lawrence, Johnson, Martin, Whitley, Laurel, Clay, Owsley, Knox, Bell; Breathitt, Perry, Leslie, Harlan, Magoffin, Boyd, Carter, Pike, and all of the Floyd, Knott, and Letcher counties, excepting coal produced from the thick vein Elkhorn district in these three counties, in Kentucky received an increase from $1.95 to $2.40.

Scott, Campbell, Anderson, and Morgan Counties, Tennessee, were jumped from $2.30 to $2.40. Mines operated near St. Charles, Lee County, Virginia, by the Darby Coal Mining Company, Black Mountain Mining Company, Virgina Lee Company, Old Virginia Coal Company, United Collieries Company, Inc., and Benedict Coal Corporation in Virginia got an increase of from $2 to $2.40.

Existence of a general coal shortage was admitted tonight by the Geological Survey, which attributes the situation not to the failure of producers to do their best, but to the unprecedented demand for fuel.

"The tremendous increase in manufacturing and transportation activity this year," said a statement, "has created a demand for soft coal in excess of any in the past, an increase in demand that is difficult to measure in terms of tons, but that is certainly more than the 10 per cent. by which the production has increased. To meet this demand the operators have been mining coal at a rate never before equaled.

"The shortage is not due to the failure of the soft coal mines to produce more coal than in the past, for the country, on Sept. 1, was about a month ahead of last year in output and is expected to finish the year with an increase of 10 per cent. over 1916, the banner year, and 25 per cent. over 1915.

"In the second week of July, 1917, the average daily production was more than 1,900,000 tons, the highest point yet attained. In the middle of August the lowest rate for the Summer, 1,638,880 tons, was recorded, and in the last of September the daily rate was 1,823,000 tons."

|---|---|
| Boston | $41,800,000 |
| New York | 228,527,000 |
| Philadelphia | 13,583,000 |
| Cleveland | 1,895,000 |
| Richmond | 12,229,000 |
| Atlanta | 1,703,000 |
| Chicago | 4,816,000 |
| St. Louis | 1,729,000 |
| Minneapolis | No report |
| Kansas City | 1,237,000 |
| Dallas | 1,899,000 |
| San Francisco | 16,047,000 |

"Unofficial reports today from the West and Central West and Southwest, particularly through the Lakes, Pacific Coast, and Missouri regions, gave high hopes of strong support of the loan among the farmers and small-town residents. Scores of telegrams were received indicating a determination not to let the East carry away honors for subscriptions and make a city, financiers', and bank sale.

"Chicago reports indicate that the official figures represent a far smaller amount than has actually been subscribed. San Francisco's unofficial total at noon today had reached $30,000,000. New England's estimated total early today was $48,000,000; Massachusetts giving $29,000,000; Rhode Island, $7,000,000; Connecticut almost that amount, and the rest was scattering. St. Louis reported that its subscriptions were above $17,000,000, and New York's was known to be far in excess of the official figures. Cleveland district subscription may run as high as twenty-five times the official, messages from local committeemen declared. Within fifteen minutes after the sale opened in Omaha, unofficial reports said, the city had subscribed more than $7,000,000, or about five times the amount reported to the Kansas City bank.

Sentiment Strong Here.

"Sentiment for the loan is strong in New York, although buying has been slow, and committeemen insist they will make their maximum quota. Interest in Chicago is quickening, small banks asking for installment plan payment details, and decision has been reached to make the Grand Prix Automobile Race prizes next Saturday Liberty bonds instead of cash. Business organizations are taking the sale in hand in Philadelphia.

"Among the large sales reported were Bell Telephone Company, St. Louis, $5,000,000; Crocker National Bank, San Francisco, $3,000,000; Western Pacific Railway Company, $1,077,000; Studebaker Corporation, Chicago, $1,000,000; United Fruit and United Worsted Companies, Boston, $1,000,000 each."

Thousands of Government employes gathered before the State, War, and Navy Building today in a Liberty Loan demonstration and enthusiastically cheered speeches by Secretaries Baker and Daniels and Assistant Secretary Phillips of the State Department.

Secretary Baker gave as a slogan, "Write a letter to the Kaiser on a Liberty Loan subscription blank." He said in this way every American could express his opinion of the German Emperor.

YESTERDAY'S SALES HERE ARE $20,000,000

$5,000,000 to St. Paul, $3,500,000 to Chicago and Northwestern—Lord Reading to Aid.

There was a gain yesterday of about $20,000,000 in subscriptions to the Liberty Loan reported in the New York Federal Reserve District. This lifted the total for the first ten business days of the four-week campaign up to $320,000,000, which is slightly more than half of the $625,000,000 which should have been raised if the daily average of $62,500,000, based on total subscriptions of $1,500,000,000 for the district, had been sustained. The shortage of $305,000,000, it is confidently expected, will be made up in the closing days of the campaign.

At the close of business last night the Federal Reserve Bank had on its books subscriptions totaling $330,403,150. The difference between the estimated total of $320,000,000 and this figure represents subscriptions which have been made but which have not been received by the Reserve Bank from the 1,275 banks in this district, many of which have been slow in sending in the bond applications filed with them.

Among subscriptions to the Liberty bonds yesterday was one from Gimbel Brothers for $1,000,000. The subscription was made through the National City Bank and is for the New York store of the firm, which has department stores also in Philadelphia and Milwaukee.

The following subscriptions were announced yesterday:

Carnegie Hall Meeting Arranged.

Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, who represents the British War Mission in this country, will be the principal speaker at a Liberty Loan meeting to be held in Carnegie Hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 18. The Chief Justice headed the Anglo-French Mission which arranged for the first foreign Government loan floated in the United States after the outbreak of the European war. Addresses will also be delivered by Secretary Lane, Captain R. Hugh Knyvept of the Fifteenth Brigade, Australian; George Wharton Pepper, the Philadelphia lawyer, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University.

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, in a statement prepared for the Publicity Department of the Liberty Loan Committee, said yesterday that there could be no question of the success of the loan, that there was enough wealth in this country to take up the bonds overwhelmingly; and that after the conclusion of the second loan there would be sufficient money left to take up all succeeding loans.

"At the present time," he said, "subscriptions are not coming in at the rate which will bring in the vast sum required. It has always been true in great campaigns of this sort that the bulk of the money comes in during the last week. The fact should be emphasized, however, that it would be much better if the subscriptions were more evenly distributed over the entire period of the campaign in order to avoid the tremendous strain which fell on the workers and the public during the last few days of the first Liberty Loan campaign.

"In my opinion, the American public has not yet come to the full realization of the sacrifices which must be made in order to win this war. In France it is a common thing to find a family which has sacrificed three-quarters of its income; the same is true in England. Up to this time in the United States, however, there has been little real sacrifice. We have been fighting the war on our surplus stored up previous to the war. We can only win the war on savings.

"We have got to realize that our existence as a nation is at stake. If we lose this war our lives, our property, our happiness are valueless and non-existent. There can be no sacrifice too great if it brings us through the next few years to an ultimate victory.

"Must Fight as a Nation."

"From the point of view of the greatest good of the United States at the present time, I believe there is nothing which can bring us to our desired goal with less bitterness and less strain than the discipline involved in universal thrift and economy. Every dollar saved for the use of the Government is a definite act of war. Americans do not need to be told that we are not waging this war by compelling a small proportion of our young men to go to the front in order that those at home may be saved from any sacrifice. This is a war which the United States as a nation must fight. We are all in it. We must all win it."

Every man and woman in this city who has an account with a bank or trust company will be canvassed in the interest of the Liberty Loan, and, what is more, they will be advised how they can finance the purchase of bonds. The following suggestions have been issued to the institutions:

Make adequate provision for carrying bonds on a basis of partial payment, either the official partial payment plan adopted by the department, or at the option of the subscriber, a partial payment plan based on the payment of $1 a week. The banks should also see that so far as possible the bonds are carried on partial payment plans at an interest rate not in excess of the interest rate borne by the bonds.

Each bank should arrange to canvass its own employes for subscriptions, and so far as possible endeavor to have a 100 per cent. record in this respect.

Each bank should supply adequate facilities through the use of sufficient windows and information bureaus to accommodate inquirers.

Each institution should delegate a sufficient number of its officers and head clerks who normally come in contact with the public, such as assistant cashiers and tellers, to canvass personally all of the depositors of the institution with a view of obtaining a subscription commensurate with the depositor's means.

Police Commissioner Arthur Woods was one of the speakers at the women's "Liberty Bank" in Madison Square yesterday. The subscriptions were a little less than $3,000, which was the limit for the day. A number of larger subscriptitons were promised. The best subscription getter was Louis Hurwitz of 1,841 Marmione Avenue, a traveling salesman. Mr. Hurwitz visited the bank to propose a method of work the day before.

"I bought a bond in the first Liberty Loan sale," he said, "but I didn't know what it would mean to me until I had it in my hand. Then, I tell you, I felt good."

He told the women they must show the people the bonds and tell them how much more the bond meant than a fifty-dollar bill. Yesterday he went out into the crowd with his own fifty-dollar bond and gave a practical illustration. He interested many persons. A chorus of 500 public school children sang patriotic songs before the "bank" yesterday.

Students of the College of the City of New York, members of the Faculty, and guests to the number of 3,000 attended a patriotic assembly in the Great Hall of the college yesterday in the interest of the Liberty Loan. It is planned to purchase Liberty bonds for the Alumni Literary Fund, and every one of the students is asked to contribute at least one dollar.

Towns Complete Quotas.

Reports received yesterday at the Liberty Loan headquarters indicated that Clifton and Cranford, N. J., had completed the quotas assigned to them. The following figures show the results of the first eight days' work in nine New Jersey and Connecticut towns:

| Town. | Quota. | Subscriptions. | Per Cent. |
| Johnson City, N. Y. | $321,000 | $250,000 | 77 |
| Canajoharie, N. Y. | 376,500 | 173,800 | 46 |
| Islip, N. Y. | 64,500 | 35,050 | 54 |
| Clifton, N. J. | 75,000 | 54,400 | 72 |
| Rahway, N. J. | 363,000 | 117,350 | 32 |
| Ramsey, N. J. | 144,000 | 70,000 | 49 |
| Spring Lake, N. J. | 129,000 | 79,900 | 61 |
| Danbury, Conn. | 765,000 | 208,300 | 27 |
| New Canaan, Conn. | 82,500 | 39,000 | 47 |

The reports of the various trade committees show that the hide and leather trade has produced subscriptions amounting to $2,000,000, and the lumber trade has pledges and subscriptions totaling $2,500,000. The brewers have subscribed for $1,000,000.

Speaking of the Liberty Loan yesterday, Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, said:

"If the American people were brought to realize the difficulties of the military situation; if they were brought to realize the inability of the Allies to win the war without our support; if they were brought to realize the great difficulty that confronts the Allies, even now, they would respond so readily to the Liberty Loan that this issue would be doubly oversubscribed."

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Delphos, a village in Allen County, composed almost entirely of German-Americans, has subscribed $100,000 to the second Liberty Loan, it was announced today in a telegram to the Northwestern Ohio Committee, located here. The amount was subscribed at the first meeting called.

BIG REGISTRATION NEEDED BY MITCHEL

Larger the Enrolled Vote the Less Chance Tammany Has of Victory.

METHODS OF THE TIGER

Observer Says the Organization Can Depend Upon 100 Votes in Each Election District.

A great increase in registration today and Saturday is necessary in order to insure the election of Mayor Mitchel, according to an analysis of pre-election conditions by a prominent anti-Tammany Democrat, who held a Commissionership under Mayor Gaynor. He concludes his study of registry indications in this city as follows:

"Some of those who have studied the registry in New York district for many years have reached these conclusions which they declare have withstood every test:

"The larger the vote registered in a Mayoralty election the less chance Tammany Hall has for the election of its candidates; the smaller the vote registered the better chance Tammany has of winning.

"The falling off of the vote below the registry is at a lesser percentage when the registration is large than when it is small. A very big registry shows an indicated falling off of 5 per cent. in the vote; a small registry indicates a falling off of perhaps 10 per cent."

The anti-Tammany forces have so far failed to organize efficiently, according to this observer. His analysis of the meaning of the registration figures to date is as follows:

"There are 2,000 election districts in New York City and the average number of voters in each is 350. There exists, in every one of these election districts, an all-the-year-round Tammany or Democratic organization which includes an election district captain, from four to ten members of the local district committee, the four Democratic election officers, and, usually, from eight to ten 'office holders' (men holding positions in various city departments) through the influence of the organization of which the captain is a member. There are, therefore, on the average, twenty-five organization Democrats in every election district in New York City, and due to the efforts of these twenty-five, or some of them, there are in every election district as many, on the average, as 100 organization Democrats, the total number bearing about the proportion of three men inactive in politics to one who is active.

"The method of Tammany in the Democratic organization in getting out the registry is the same as in getting the vote at the polls, and, so far as the registry is concerned, the routine is as follows: The election district captain has a book in which is recorded alphabetically the name of every voter in the election district who is known to be, or believed to be, a reliable organization man. Where newcomers enter the district information is sought as to their political antecedents, and, if 'tried and true' organization men, their names are added.

"On the first day of registration, when the books are open for enrollment, the Tammany captain installs in the polling place what is known as a 'checker,' who is furnished with the book of names and whose duty it is to check off the regulars, as they are called, as they appear for registration. Whenever he leaves the polling place he has a substitute, who is designated by the captain, and who takes the book and continues the checking off. After each day of registration the checker turns over his book to the captain with those enrolled and stricken off until he becomes the duty of the captain and whatever aids he has to endeavor to 'round up' as many of the unregistered regulars as possible. In most districts the checkers are volunteers; in others they are paid by the organization. After the registration is finished each night and the number of unregistered regulars is steadily diminished, of course, a special round-up is made on the last day so that, so far as possible, every known organization man, who is in any way available or amenable, can be got to the polls, the process being known as 'getting in the registry.'

"The perfection of this system, which has been in use for many years and has been altered only as the exigencies of changes in the election law require, was shown pretty clearly in the last municipal contest in which Mr. Mitchel was the Fusion and Judge McCall the organization candidate. These are the figures of Judge McCall's vote in the Manhattan Assembly Districts following, averaging, as will be seen, almost exactly 100 votes in each:

| | Election districts. | Total registration. |
| 16th District | 18 | 1,850 |
| 17th District | 29 | 2,948 |
| 21st District | 84 | 8,413 |
| 26th District | 23 | 2,370 |
| 27th District | 23 | 2,330 |
| 29th District | 28 | 2,801 |

"These figures represent the bedrock organization vote, which is almost evenly distributed throughout the city, but there are, in addition, of course, a number of election districts, strongly Democratic, in which the vote exceeds 200 or even 300.

"The number of organization Democrats in every election district is about 100, and the number of organization Republicans in every election district throughout Greater New York is about 50, but while the Republican system is patterned on Tammany's, it is by no means as effective for reasons which it is beyond the power of the Republicans to control. The Republican vote in New York is very unevenly distributed. In some election districts the total vote of the party may be as high as 300; in other sections of the city it may average less than 50 or 60.

"In many of the election districts there is no resident Republican captain, and in many of them, too, either there is no 'checker' or the man employed may be either a Democrat or a volunteer from some other neighborhood who does not know the voters who present themselves and who, through lack of organization, is compelled to use the city's compilation of voters, taking those registered as Republicans as a guide to the party strength, though it may be that many of these voters are only Republicans on occasion such as a national election, for instance.

"Last year the Republicans enjoyed many advantages in New York City, and Mr. Whitman, their candidate for Governor, had the practically unanimous support of the whole Republican organization. But in several sections of town the inadequacy of the party support was shown. Thus in the First Election District of the Fourth Assembly District, the polling place of which is 81 Montgomery Street, he received but 25 votes out of a total registered of 288. In the Eighth Election District of the Third Assembly, the polling place of which is 140 Mott Street, he received 26 votes out of 188 registered. In the Tenth Election District of the Thirteenth Assembly, the polling place of which is 408 West Fifty-fifth Street, he received 29 votes out of 182, and in the Fourth Election District of the Twenty-sixth Assembly, the polling place of which is 1,512 Lexington Avenue, he received 36 out of 194. These were the votes cast for Governor under the Republican emblem, and the apparent full measure of the strength of the Republican organization in these districts, which are not altogether exceptional and not limited to Manhattan.

"There are, in every election district in New York, about 100 enrolled Democrats who are not connected with the Tammany organization and are not upon the books of the 'checkers.' There are in about one-half of the election districts of Greater New York in such sections as the Riverside district of Manhattan, the Park Slope and Flatbush districts of Brooklyn, the Riverdale district of the Bronx, and the Richmond Hill district of Queens from 50 to 100 enrolled Republicans who usually vote the ticket of that party, but have no acquaintance or association with the Republican 'organization,' as it is called, or its captains. The number of such independent Republicans bears the relation of about one to three to the number of independent Democrats, for the reason that the Republicans are limited to a relatively few districts, whereas the independent Democrats or anti-organization Democrats are distributed throughout the whole city pretty evenly.

"There has usually been in New York a 'citizens' organization' to combat the Democratic organization as effective (sometimes more effective) than that of Tammany Hall. This was the case in Manhattan and Bronx when the County Democracy was recognized in the State as the regular organization, and it had, in turn, a number of successors, the State Democracy, the Greater New York Democracy, the Democratic Union, and, in the Bronx four years ago, the Jeffersonian Union, the members of which now constitute, for the most part, the City Democracy in that borough. In 1912 the National Progressive Party took over, or got in, most of the former Independents, both Democrats and Republicans. It established an election district organization throughout the whole city, and in the last Mayoralty contest Mr. Mitchel received, under the emblem of the National Progressive Party, 96,249 votes in the greater city—a formidable total for an outside party, only made possible, in the opinion of politicians, by the maintenance of an election district organization in every part of town.

"This year the Progressive Party, having failed to poll last year the required vote to maintain its separate identity, has practically disbanded, and it has not been replaced, or at least was not up to the first day of registry, by any organization designed to cope with the difficult registration problem, which the old organizations understand so well.

"It is in consequence of these conditions, in the opinion of most political observers, that the registration this year has practically 'fallen down' compared with previous elections of like character. The Tammany organization is in good working order, as it has been for many years, and the returns from the various districts have shown that practically all the vote it can control, about 200,000 in the greater city, is fully registered, or at least as fully registered as the energy and efforts of its election district workers can bring about.

"The relation of the Republican Party to the registration is more mixed than it has been for many years. Mr. Mitchel has the support of the organization in some of the districts; Mr. Bennett has it in others. In the districts which are favorable to Mr. Mitchel, an active effort has been made by the Republican organization to bring its voters to the polls, but in the districts in which Mr. Bennett is favored by the Republican organization no financial resources exist to bring out the Republican vote, and, as a consequence, in these districts, there being no organized Republican support for Mr. Mitchel and a handicapped Republican support for Mr. Bennett, a large number of normal Republicans have not been appealed to by either."

MITCHEL ANSWERS HUMANITARIAN CULT

Declares He Has Favored Woman Suffrage for Many Years.

Mayor Mitchel replied yesterday to fourteen questions concerning his administration and his stand upon the war asked him by Misha Appelbaum, founder of the Humanitarian Cult, and published as an advertisement in THE TIMES yesterday. In the course of his reply, the Mayor declared he was for woman suffrage and had favored it for many years past. Regarding his attitude toward the war, the Mayor said:

"My position with respect to the vigorous conduct of this war by the United States and the support of Government by all of our citizens is too well known to require emphasis. My attitude toward the support of soldiers and sailors, evidenced by the action of the city in paying all municipal employes enlisted the difference between the city salary and the Federal pay, is also well known to every one. I supported the soldiers' insurance bill when it was before Congress by direct appeal to our Congressmen, and am in favor of living pensions.

"The pacifist will never realize his ideals until democracy has been made safe—permanently safe—through the triumphant victory of America and her allies, and through the annihilation of all military autocracy."

The Mayor said in answer to other questions that his whole course in public office evidenced his belief in "strict supervision and control of public utilities and a progressive municipalization thereof." The work of the Department of Correction and his position regarding the treatment of delinquents, particularly first offenders, attested his belief, he said, in prison reform.

"No administration has ever undertaken such radical improvements in the administration of public charitable relief as has mine," he said. "We have not only endeavored to make happy, through good care, good food, good clothes, sanitary conditions, healthful recreation, and useful employment, the lives of unfortunates, particularly little children, in public and private institutions, but we have endeavered to go deeper and cope with the causes that produce poverty and dependency. For a considerable time I have advocated a department of public welfare for the City of New York which would include the Department of Charities."

The Mayor said he believed in the activity of government for the relief of unemployed, and as for his school program, he said:

"My belief is that the children of all the people in the public schools should enjoy the same educational advantages and opportunities which have hitherto been confined to the children of the well-to-do in expensive private schools." He asserted he strongly advocated the policy of a community use of school buildings, and approved of the plan for public concerts in school buildings, conducted by volunteer musical talent. Regarding taxation, the Mayor said:

"That our present system of taxation is unbalanced and unjust, especially to real estate, no one will dispute. I have already attempted to secure ameliorative legislation, but without success. That the base should be broadened, that no one should escape the payment of taxes, and that the tax should be proportioned to the ability to pay are principles which we all accept."

MAYOR CHALLENGES HYLAN TO DEBATE

HINTS NOT MADE SPECIFIC

Willing to Meet His Opponent in Tammany Hall or Elsewhere.

Mayor Mitchel, in the Broadway Casino, Brooklyn, last night challenged his Tammany opponent, Judge John F. Hylan, to a public debate on the issues of the campaign. The Mayor declared that he was ready to meet Judge Hylan in "an open meeting on the platform of Tammany Hall, in the Brooklyn Academy of Music, in Cooper Union, or the river front." He suggested next Saturday night for the debate.

"I demand from Judge Hylan," he said, "the right every American has to meet his slanderer in the open and stand or fall upon the justice of his cause. If Judge Hylan can substantiate any charge of wrongdoing, the people are entitled to know it, and I am not fit to be their Mayor. If, after making these charges and innuendos, Judge Hylan cannot substantiate them, he is unfit to be either candidate or Mayor."

"For want of real argument Judge Hylan has resorted in every speech to generalities of the most flagrant kind," the Mayor said. "He has vaguely hinted at charges that he did not dare to make specific. In his first speech he declared 'that rottenness and wrongdoing must not seek to hide behind the flag.' He referred in general terms to my administration as 'a corrupt administration,' and as a 'scandalous administration.' Speaking of me, he has said 'he wants the people to forget that he has turned the control of the education of their children over to the Rockefeller interests.'

"He has said that I was fighting 'to obscure from the people's vision the Dreamland scandal and the Rockaway scandal,' and 'to prevent the exposure of further scandals of which the people know nothing.' He has hinted again and again at wrongdoing, personal and official. He has not dared to specify.

"Argument against such general declarations is useless. I have already shown that through my action, and through my action alone, the award made by the Supreme Court of this State in the Dreamland matter was reduced a half million dollars, and that not a cent has thus far been paid to the men who owned this property. I have shown that I had nothing whatever to do, directly or indirectly, with the price paid for Rockaway Park. I have shown that the Gary, or Work, Study and Play System, is an effort to assist the children of this city and no one else.

"I have thus far met abuse with facts. But, gentlemen, there is a limit to the misrepresentation to which a public official should be subject. For ten years I have stood out in the open, first as Commissioner of Accounts, then as President of the Board of Aldermen, and finally as Mayor, and there is not one public act of mine of which I need be ashamed. I have fought and labored for ten years to make my city a better city, and no man shall now attempt to blacken my record by attacking my good name. I have had enough, the public has had enough of generalities and innuendos. I now demand that Judge Hylan either retract these generalities or come forward with specific accusations which can be met with facts.

"If Judge Hylan knows of anything wrong with me or my administration it is his plain duty to stand out in the open and speak to the point. Here on this public platform I now challenge Judge Hylan to meet me in open meeting before the public, in any place that Judge Hylan may prefer, to discuss, in the presence of the public and of the press, any phase or any detail of my administration which Judge Hylan considers scandalous or corrupt.

"I will meet Judge Hylan on the platform of Tammany Hall or I will meet him in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. I will meet him in Cooper Union, or I will meet him on the river front. I demand from Judge Hylan the right that every American has, to meet his slanderer in the open and stand or fall upon the justice of his cause.

"If Judge Hylan can substantiate any charge of wrongdoing the people are entitled to know it, and I am not fit to be their Mayor. If, after making these charges and innuendos, Judge Hylan cannot substantiate them he is unfit to be either candidate or Mayor.

"This is a time in the affairs of the nation when Americans are offering up their lives and their blood to prove the sincerity of their beliefs. This is a time when the faker and the hypocrite must seek shelter from an aroused public opinion. If Judge Hylan is not a faker, if he is not a hypocrite, if he really believes what he says, I challenge him to come forward and meet the issue face to face. To make it entirely specific, I challenge him to meet me on Saturday night at any place he names.

"Justice Hylan announced last night that he was a disciple of Grover Cleveland. I now call upon Judge Hylan to abandon his campaign of canned slander, to fight in the open as Cleveland always fought, and to follow Cleveland's admonition to 'tell the truth.' This is my challenge. I call upon Judge Hylan to take it up."

The Mayor also spoke at three other meetings in Brooklyn.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB INDORSES MITCHEL

Calls on All Republicans to Vote for Nonpartisanship in City Affairs.

At one of the largest meetings it has held in many years the Union League Club went strongly on record last night as indorsing the candidacy of Mayor Mitchel and his running mates on the Fusion ticket. A resolution urging all Republicans "in loyalty to their declared principles of nonpartisanship in municipal affairs," to work and vote for Mayor Mitchel was unanimously adopted. Charles E. Hughes, President of the club, presided. Practically every prominent Republican in the city was present.

The resolution stated that the issue was not only the question of continuing good government in the city, but the co-operation of the city government with the Federal Administration in the conduct of the war and "the suppression of sedition, in contrast with insidious efforts to make political capital with slackers and obstructionists." There were no Bennett supporters at the meeting, and every reference to Mayor Mitchel was loudly cheered. The resolution was offered by Reuben Leslie Maynard, Chairman of the Committee on Political Reform of the club. It read:

Whereas, The Union League Club on Feb. 8, 1917, declared for the continuation of nonpartisan city government such as New York at present enjoys, and urged the Republican organization to assist in electing an anti-Tammany Fusion ticket at the coming election; and

Whereas, In the candidacy of John Purroy Mitchel for Mayor there is presented not only the square issue of honest, intelligent, nonpartisan administration against the demands of partisanship and spoilsmanship, but also the square issue of unwavering and energetic co-operation of the city government with the Federal Administration in the conduct of the war and the suppression of sedition, in contrast with insidious efforts to make political capital with slackers and obstructionists; and

Whereas, The Republican Party is committed to the principle of municipal nonpartisanship, has embodied that principle in the State Constitution, and by statute has absolved loyal partisans from all obligation to vote party tickets in municipal elections; and

Whereas, Non-partisan candidates for city offices are usually nominated under the party name and emblem only because established machinery for campaigning and the complications of the election law make this convenient; and

Whereas, The fact that a primary attended by only a small minority of the Republican voters resulted in a separate partisan candidacy, which can have no hope of success and can only serve the the foes of honest City Government and patriotic national service, in no wise changes the duty of all good citizens to co-operate for the success of the Fusion movement;

Resolved, That the Union League Club indorses the candidacy of John Purroy Mitchel and his associates on the Fusion ticket, and urge all Republicans, in loyalty to their declared principles of non-partisanship in municipal affairs, to work and to vote for Mr. Mitchel and his fellow-candidates to the end that New York may continue to have honest and expert attention given to its administrative problems, and that the open and secret enemies of our country may learn that New York City stands unquestionably loyal to the Federal Government in the prosecution of the war.

The resolution was seconded by William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee. It was said that the club may appoint a committee later to take up the question of performing active work in the campaign.

CORRIGAN STARTS ATTACK ON SWANN

Charges District Attorney's Office Is Run According to Murphy's Orders.

ASSAILS RANSOM ALSO

Says Fusion Candidate Was Put on the Ticket to Please Gov. Whitman.

City Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, independent candidate for District Attorney, opened his speaking campaign at Cooper Union last night before an audience that crowded the hall and frequently interrupted him with cheers. The candidate made a bitter attack upon District Attorney Swann, his Tammany opponent, accusing him of being under the domination of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. He accused Mr. Swann of "sitting nightly at Boss Murphy's feet to take his orders," and said that even if an indictment is pending "Murphy's pleasure must be learned regarding it," while if one is to be quashed "Murphy must give the word."

Magistrate Corrigan declared that before the campaign was over he would tell things about the District Attorney's office that would cause his audience "to stand aghast." He said if he were elected, by the afternoon of Jan. 1 the District Attorney's office would "look as if a cyclone struck it." He said he would appoint only the best assistants that he could get for the money appropriated. He said no honest man would be convicted to "fatten my batting average," and that no boss would control him. Mr. Corrigan said that if William L. Ransom, the Fusion candidate, was elected, 95 per cent. of his appointments would be made by the Republican machine. He asserted Mr. Ransom was put on the ticket at the behest of Governor Whitman, who, he said, has aspirations to go from Albany to Washington."

Magistrate Corrigan referred to William Harmon Black, one of Mr. Swann's assistants, as having earned his appointment "in the usual way, by obedient service to Murphy." He assailed the other assistants, particularly Mr. Dooling.

He declared the failure to run down and apprehend the murderer of Ruth Cruger lay, not at the door of the police, but at the door of the District Attorney's office. He continued:

"The rottenness of conditions in the office is almost beyond belief. And yet it is only what might be expected in an office prostituted to the ends of a boss, feeling no sort of obligation of service to the people, no sense of duty. Of course, men like Roesch and Black and McClelland and Dooling do as the boss orders; they owe all they have to the boss; it was he who put them on Swann's pay roll. Is it any wonder that the office smells to Heaven? That it is about the last place in all the county to which a man would go for justice, expecting to get it?

"If any of you are so fond of Murphy that you want to keep on paying for his golf balls and his automobiles you had better vote for Swann, for if I am elected Murphy will lose his job. He is talking of resigning now. Perhaps he sees the handwriting on the wall. I am opposed to the Murphy type of politics. I am opposed to turning what ought to be the greatest Democratic organization in this country into a cash register. Those of you who are Democrats and who are Tammanyo Hall men know what the situation is. If you like the Murphy type of politics, vote for Swann. I am asking for Democratic votes and Republican votes. I believe that there are enough men in this town who have brains to see that it is to their own interest to have an honest and efficient administration in the District Attorney's office to elect me. You can only judge the future by the past. For eleven years you have known me, and you are able to decide how I did my work in court."

The Magistrate said the reason Governor Whitman was so much interested in the District Attorney's office was because the "Governor is ambitious."

"He has already moved from New York to Albany," declared Mr. Corrigan. "He sees himself moving from Albany to Washington. Now, if you want to make a journey, you use a machine, and if you want to make a political journey, you need a political machine. Machines are expensive, whether they are the ordinary machines in which you and I travel, or the more exalted and intricate machines in which our statesmen move around. The Governor needs a machine and it is expensive. How much better to let the good citizens of this county pay for its upkeep than to have to pay for it himself.

"I tell you now that the reason Ransom was put on that ticket for District Attorney of New York County was so that he could build up and oil and keep in running order the political machine that Whitman wants to use for his journey from Albany to Washington two years from now. With that machine in control of New York City the Governor can go to Albany next Fall for two years more and then when the next Presidential election comes around he will be in a position, he hopes, to start on his triumphant journey to the capital of his country."

RANSOM TO MEET CORRIGAN.

Magistrate Takes Swann's Place in Free Synagogue Forum Debate.

William L. Ransom, Fusion candidate for District Attorney, made public yesterday a letter he had sent to Walter S. Heilborn, Secretary of the Free Synagogue Forum, relative to his appearance before the Forum on Sunday night. District Attorney Swann was invited to speak, too, but declined. Joseph E. Corrigan, also a candidate for District Attorney, after Mr. Swann's declination suggested that he take the District Attorney's place, and Secretary Heilborn sent a copy of the letter to Mr. Ransom.

"I do not intend to let Mr. Corrigan divert attention from the misdoings of the Swann-Dooling administration of the District Attorney's office," wrote Mr. Ransom in reply. "I am fully aware that Mr. Corrigan's attacks, in behalf of the Tammany he has always tried to serve, are directed against me and not against Mr. Swann. However, I have not the slightest objection to bringing the Tammany candidates within the scope of my remarks on Sunday evening, and if either of them cares to come and undertake to reply for himself or for both of them, I shall be glad.

"I shall speak for thirty minutes in presentation of reasons why no member of Tammany hall should be elected District Attorney, and if either Mr. Swann or Mr. Corrigan concludes to accept your invitation and occupy forty minutes from the point of view of their Tammany membership, I shall ask your indulgence for a few minutes—not to exceed ten—in reply."

STRAUS PRAISES RANSOM.

Declares Fusion Candidate Would Elevate Prosecutor's Office.

Louis Marshall, Chairman of the Nonpartisan Committee which is conducting the campaign to elect William L. Ransom as District Attorney, made public last night a letter from Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, regarding Mr. Ransom's qualifications for the office.

"If every voter in New York County could know Judge Ransom, his character, his fine ability, his remarkable record of real public service as I do, there would be no doubt of his election," wrote Mr. Straus. "Judge Ransom will go to the District Attorney's office splendidly equipped by experience, character, and abilities, and I know that he will give just the same kind of energetic, open-minded public service there as here, and put that office on a high plane of independence, humanity, and aloofness from politics. He has also the kind of vision and broad-mindedness which the office needs; he will emphasize its constructive and remedial functions, and make it genuinely devoted to the defense of human rights."

HYLAN REPLIES TO WILLCOX.

Reiterates Charge That Rockefeller Interests Control Schools.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, sent a letter yesterday to William G. Willcox, President of the Board of Education, in reply to a letter from Mr. Willcox in which the latter demanded evidence of the Tammany candidate's charge that the Rockefeller interests control the public school system of the city. Judge Hylan said he pointed to Mr. Willcox's own election as President of the Education Board as "indisputable proof" of such Rockefeller control. He also submitted a copy of a letter signed by Abraham Flexner, now Secretary of the Rockefeller General Education Board, as further proof.

"The letter of Dr. Flexner referred to a secret conference of a selected group of members of the Board of Education at which plans were discussed and a program outlined to bring about your election as President of the Board of Education. This letter you must admit establishes beyond a doubt that Dr. Flexner, the Rockefeller agent, was the 'boss' and the director general of that faction which was holding these secret meetings to bring about your election and control the policies of the Board of Education. As you know, Dr. Flexner was Assistant Secretary of the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation when he was appointed a member of the Board of Education. The Raymond Fosdick to whom he refers in the letter which I am inclosing, and who was admittedly his lieutenant in his boss-ship of the Board of Education, was also in the employ of one of the Rockefeller agencies.

"Since your letter of Oct. 8 you agree that the control of our schools by the Rockefeller interests is an attack 'upon the good name of our public school system' I suggest that you show your good faith and help to clear the 'good name of the public school system' by resigning from the Board of Education at once. The people of this city have found every indication of this Rockefeller control. They see its influence in the schools and in the education of their children. They distrust it and resent it. They will not have it."

PARTY ISSUES ONLY IN TALKS AT CAMP

Major Gen. Bell Bars Political Speakers Whose Platforms Include Treasonable Doctrines.

NEW WEEK-END SERVICE

Annoyances and Delays of Sunday Visitors and Returning Soldiers May Be Eliminated.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 11.—Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell outlined in a memorandum issued today the conditions under which political meetings may be held at Camp Upton. "No permits will be granted," reads General Bell's memorandum, "to political parties whose platforms include doctrines of a treasonable nature or tendency, or subversive to military discipline. Permission to hold meetings will be granted only on application to headquarters by responsible officials representing recognized parties or by representatives of independent candidates, and by officials of organizations representing well recognized political causes to be voted on at this election.

"All meetings must be of an educational nature relating to the issues involved in the campaign. Discussion of irrelevant matters, especially those which merely serve to arouse feeling and nothing else, must be avoided. The above privileges will not be extended to persons, however well meaning, who desire to enter into general or speculative discussion of abstract political questions. Each party or committee will be allowed to hold three meetings, in as many places simultaneously as desired, not to exceed three hours each in length, and the meetings must terminate not later than 10 P. M. All requests for such permission must be submitted to this office not later than Oct. 18. No meetings will be allowed to interfere with the schedule of training adopted for this command."

That the congestion of last Saturday and Sunday, where soldiers on leave were up all night on trains, may not be repeated the Long Island Railroad has arranged a new week-end train schedule for Camp Upton. Thirteen trains will leave the camp at frequent intervals Saturday and nine on Sunday. From the Pennsylvania and Flatbush Avenue Stations five trains will leave for Camp Upton Saturday and seventeen Sunday. Colonel John Howard, Provost Marshal, will detail an officer and men at the stations to maintain order and prevent trains from being overloaded.

Recruits of the fourth increment from local draft boards arriving at Camp Upton in the last few days have passed through a lane of uniformed men waiting for outgoing trains to take them to other cantonments.

Fifth Contingent of Selective Draft Soldiers Will Entrain Today.

The fifth and last contingent of selective draft soldiers, called to the colors last week, will leave for Camp Upton this morning and tonight there will be between 25,000 and 26,000 men in camp under command of General Bell. Orders for the mobilization of the final 30 per cent. of New York City's quota will be issued to the Board Chairmen today or tomorrow.

The men from Board 161, who were among those who reported for duty yesterday, marched to the Pennsylvania Station carrying a banner on which was inscribed "You buy a Liberty Bond and we will do the rest."

The members of the 189 New York City Draft Boards will celebrate the completion of their work with a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of Oct. 20. Charles E. Hughes, Chairman of the New York Board of Appeals, will preside, and the speakers will include Provost Marshal General Crowder, Colonel Hugh S. Johnson, Adjutant General Sherrill, and probably Governor Whitman and Mayor Mitchel.
